EMPLOYES HELD FOR ROBBERIES AT DAIRY PLANTS

Youth's Display of Money Leads to His Arrest With Four Men for Holdups Totaling $8000.

$800 RECOVERED, TWO AUTOS SEIZED

Confessions Disclose How Man in Pevely Co. Office Notified Gang of Available Cash.

Five men, two of them employes of the Pevely Dairy Co., are under arrest at the Deer Street Station charged with three recent robberies of dairy branches that netted approximately $8000. They have confessed, police say.

The display of a large amount of money by a 19-year-old youth last Friday and the subsequent deductions of Detective-Sergeant Joseph Wren brought about the arrests, Friday and yesterday, of the men.

Joe Potts of 1134 Talmage avenue, took bills from a big roll of currency several times the day following the holdup of the St. Louis Union Dairy Co. branch office at 1316 North Kingshighway. Detective Sergeant Wren, investigating the robbery, heard about the youth's actions and apparent prosperity.

Youth Friend of Dairy Driver.

Wren looked up Potts's record and found the youth had been paroled, in a stolen automobile case, to Otto Johns, 29 years old, a driver for the Pevely Dairy Co., at its branch at 5211 Margaretta avenue. Wren recalled that that branch of the Pevely Dairy had been robbed of $2000 Aug. 30.

He learned that Potts, in addition to having a large amount of money, had been seen in a car with a Kansas City license tag. A car involved in the St. Louis Union Dairy Co. robbery last Thursday had borne a Kansas City license tag.

Men Arrested, Two Autos Seized.

Wren arrested Potts at the Talmage avenue address and at the same time arrested Johns, the Pevely driver, who also lives there.

The other men arrested are Ray Aubuchon, an office employe at the Margaretta branch of the Pevely Dairy Co.; Thomas Fleming of 5094 Easton avenue, formerly a driver for the St. Louis Union Dairy Co., and now engaged in the automobile battery business, and William J. Little of 3653 Koeln avenue.

Police also seized two automobiles, purchased, they say, with proceeds of a dairy robbery in August, and a third car they declare was stolen. They also recovered $800.

The police say Aubuchon acted as "inside man" at the Pevely Margaretta avenue branch, and informed the others when "big money" was to be had. The tips they had on the St. Louis Union Dairy were less accurate, and as a result, in mid-September, an attempted robbery fell through. They made up for it, however, last Thursday when they got away with $3294, after herding seven employes back of the counter.

Acting on Aubuchon's advice, the police declare, the gang got $3000 at the Pevely branch Aug. 28, and three weeks later, at the Pevely branch at 7198 Forsythe boulevard, got away with approximately $1500.

The escape procedure of the gang, according to the confessions, was the most elaborate part of the robbery. Potts and Little, the police were told, committed the actual holdup then ran outside to a stolen car operated by Johns. Half a block from the scene of the robbery, a truck driven by Fleming passed and the loot was transferred to it.

Separated After Escape.

At the first corner, Potts and Little fled from the car, each going to automobiles, parked at the curb and Johns kept on with the stolen car, sometimes hiding it in a garage, sometimes abandoning it. Thus the three men engaged in the holdup became three individuals, each driving a car. Meanwhile, Aubuchon, in the Pevely office, was talking to fellow clerks about the increasing daring of robbers.

Four of the gang were arrested in St. Louis but Wren had to go to Hillsboro, Mo., to arrest Little, who was visiting at the home of relatives. The five of the men, according to Wren, are related either by blood or by marriage.

Tractor Kills 2-Year-Old Girl.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 8.—Edna Collier, 2-year-old daughter of Columbus Collier, farmer of near Commerce, was killed late yesterday when a tractor her uncle, Freeman Collier, was driving ran over her in backing the machine.

George Bernard Shaw Reviews Tunney Fight

Champion "Had His Wits About Him" in Seventh Round, Says Writer, After Seeing Battle on Screen.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A round-by-round account of the Dempsey-Tunney fight as George Bernard Shaw saw it—in the movies—will be published tomorrow in the Weekly Dispatch. The distinguished sporting authority does not believe Tunney needed the long count to win and his version of the seventh round is this:

"Stuff and nonsense. Of course if there is a count of 13 the downed man will take 12 on the floor. Why shouldn't he? You must remember, though, that the time is as restful to the man who is up as to the man who is down. Tunney is quite able to get up. He is watching the referee closely. He has got his wits about him. He isn't out. See, now he is on his feet. Dempsey is unable to follow up his success. What a wonderful dancer Tunney is!"

His version of the other rounds follows:

Round one: "Dempsey was trained much too fine when he met Tunney before He is about right now. Dempsey beat Carpentier in the first 10 seconds by hammering his spine when the Frenchman walked straight into a clinch instead of outfighting him. Observe that Tunney knows that game and when he cannot get away, simply holds Dempsey's wrists with his elbows. That usedn't to be allowed, but nowadays you do just what you can and wait for the referee to save the situation."

Round two: "Gene has locked his arm again. Before when they met Dempsey was like a schoolboy fooling with an instructor. But it will not be so easy for Tunney this time."

Round three: "Dempsey is so careful of his jaw he always keeps his chin tucked into his chest and never gets a square look at his man. It ties him up a bit. Tunney keeps loose and free and when necessary pillows his rosy cheek on Dempsey's neck."

Rounds five and six: "In a decision on points the verdict—other things being equal—will go to the man with more initiative and Tunney wastes no time—he never loses a chance to lead."

Round eight: "Dempsey doesn't rabbit punch intentionally. He rabbit punches by reflex action; he can't help it. And a reflex punch doesn't hurt. Tunney has found that out and is not bothered about it now."

Round ten: "Poor Dempsey. He is out. No, the gong has saved him. Was that the last round? I am glad. Dempsey can march out with the honors of war."

The showing over, the writer dramatist commented: "What mugs people were who paid high prices to see the fight when they could witness it with more comfort for a shilling on the film."

RIVERA HOPES TO SETTLE TANGIER ROW WITH FRANCE

Spanish Premier Looks for Satisfactory Arrangement with Britain as Mediator.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 8. — The Times prints an interview with Primo de Rivera, at Madrid, in which the Spanish Premier indicates that Spain may withdraw from North Africa, and, with Great Britain acting as mediator, might arrive at "some very satisfactory arrangement" with France on the Tangier question.

His recent conference with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, was an "arranged conference," the Premier said, and had an important bearing on the relations of Spain with other countries, but the discussions must necessarily remain secret.

40 PERSONS KILLED IN FIRE IN INDIA; 1000 HOMES BURN

Conflagration at Peshawar, in Punjab Reported to Have Lasted 24 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Forty persons perished in a fire at Peshawar, Punjab, British India, says a dispatch to the Sunday Express from Allahabad. The fire started yesterday morning and continued throughout the day and the night until this morning, when firemen, police and soldiers brought it under control.

A thousand houses and many shops and other buildings in the most crowded kuarter of the city were destroyed. The fire started in the house of a Hindu, from an undetermined cause.

EARTHQUAKE CAUSES DAMAGE IN VIENNA

Crowds Flee From Theaters in Fright and Casualties Result—Chimneys Topple.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 8.—Severe earth shocks lasting 10 seconds shook Vienna at 8:48 tonight.

Telegraph, telephone and tramway services were paralyzed. The population was panic-stricken.

Buildings shook violently. Glassware, pictures and other objects in houses crashed to the floor.

The shocks were the worst that Austria has experienced in 50 years. Their greatest intensity was in Styria, lower Austria, about 110 miles south of Vienna.

The earth shocks occurred when all the Vienna theaters were crowded with the huge Saturday night audiences. The lights failed, and the people fled in fright in the darkness, with some minor casualties.

A touch of humor was added to the otherwise grim happenings when Pataky, the Hungarian tenor, was making his debut at the opera house. He believed that the precipitate flight of the audience was due to disgust over his singing, and he retired behind the curtain, only to learn there had been an earthquake.

The first shock was so violent that it threw both the horizontal and vertical hands of the seismograph of the Vienna Central Meteorological Observatory out of the grooves, making it impossible to determine even the approximate point of origin of the earthquake. The director of the observatory believed that the epicenter of the quake was not far from Vienna.

At Sankt-Poelten, 35 miles west of Vienna, 23 distinct shocks were felt, sending factory chimneys crashing to the ground, crippling electric power stations and paralyzing communications.

POLICEMAN SHOOTS YOUTH FLEEING FROM AUTOMOBILE

Had Commanded Victim to Halt After He and Two Companions Had Extinguished Lights

A youth who fled with two companions from an unlighted automobile in an alley near Tenth street and Cass avenue at 10:50 o'clock last night was shot and dangerously wounded by one of two policemen who had ordered them to halt.

At City Hospital, where physicians found he had been shot in the back below the right shoulder blade, the prisoner said he was Frank Chrostowski, 19 years old, of 1458 Madison street. One of his companions, who was arrested with him, said he was Walter Magewski, 17, of 1406 North Twelfth street. The third youth escaped.

Patrolmen Charles Daniels and Albert Hartmann, who fired on the youths, said that the lights of the machine in which they were riding were extinguished as the car entered the alley. The three fled on the command to halt.

YANKEES WIN FOURTH GAME AND WORLD TITLE

Triumph, 4 to 3, When Pirate Pitcher, Miljus, Makes Wild Pitch With Bases Filled in Ninth.

PLAYERS DIVIDE $399,440, A RECORD

Relief Twirler's Miscue Comes After He Strikes Out Gehrig and Meusel —Ruth Gets Home Run.

By the Associated Press.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The last stand of a dazed and battered crew of Pittsburg Pirates came to an inglorious end today, when a wild pitch by Miljus in the ninth inning, with two out and the bases full, gave the New York Yankees the winning run and the world's championship, with a record-equalling streak of four successive triumphs.

Miljus made a gift of the fourth and final game to the American League champions, spoiling a courageous comeback by the Buccaneers and wrecking an otherwise sensational relief pitching performance. The score was 4 to 3.

Relieving Carmen Hill, after the Yankee defense had cracked to help the Pirates tie the score and offset the lead provided by Babe Ruth's second home run, Miljus had curved his way two-thirds of the distance to heroic heights when he weakened, heaving a wild one past Johnny Gooch that enabled Earle Combs to race across the plate with the winning run.

Fanned Two Hard Hitters.

It was an anticlimax to an otherwise thrilling stand, for Miljus, with the bases filled and none out, fanned two of the heaviest Yankee sluggers, Lou Gehrig and Bob Meusel.

The crowd of close to 60,000 wildly cheering spectators, knowing that the outcome of a world's series hinged on every pitch, was nervously excited as Tony Lazzeri strodt to the plate.

There was a feeling that Miljus would get out of the hole he had dug for himself by passing Combs, permitting a hit by Koenig, advancing both with a wild pitch and then purposely walking Ruth. With Lazzeri at bat, there arose in the minds of onlookers a parallel situation in the final game of the series a year ago, when Tony was fanned by Grover Alexander of the St. Louis Cardinals, with the bases full.

Pitches Wide of Plate.

This time, as a year ago, Lazzeri cut a wicked drive that went foul in the left-field stands. Then a ball, but the next pitch, getting out of control, flew wide of the plate. Gooch made a lunge for it, but it only flicked his glove and bounced back to the stands as Combs sped in, standing up, with the winning run.

That single pitch broke up the last, lingering hopes of the Pirates, badly outclassed at nearly every turn of the series, and sending them down to the most decisive defeat any National League team has ever suffered in world series competition.

The players on the two teams will divide $399,440.67. This total exceeds by more than $27,000 the players' share of the 1926 series. Figured on a basis of 25 men to a team, each Yankee player will receive $5592.17 and each Pirate $3728.11.

This was the first time a world series had been literally tossed away but it recalled, and took its place alongside the famous wild pitch of Jack Chesbro in 1904 that cost the Yankees the deciding game of a pennant race and enabled the Red Sox to top the American League. It was therefore a bit of poetic, if also tragic, justice today for the New York team, 23 years later, to win baseball's premier title by the same method they once lost a pennant.

Equals Boston Braves' Record.

In winning four straight victories the Yankees equaled the record of the Boston Braves, who scored the only other series clean sweep in four games when they trounced the Athletics in 1914.

Wiley Moore, the big Oklahoma farmer, pitching his first world series game, received credit for the deciding Yankee victory.

FREE LEGAL ADVICE FOR OWNERS OF PROPERTY WRECKED BY TORNADO

WARNINGS to owners of property, wrecked by the tornado, not to lose any part of their insurance claims through lack of proper legal advice, were given in dodgers distributed in the storm area yesterday. Free legal advice is given at Red Cross headquarters, by lawyers assigned by the St. Louis Bar Association.

The lawyers are also warning against the payment of any part of insurance money for adjustment of claims, and against assigning insurance money or Red Cross awards. The dodgers read:

"If you own your own home and owe nothing on it, then bring your tornado insurance policy to the Red Cross headquarters, 3323 Lindell cutoff, as early as possible. We will help you get your money.

"If you own your own home, but have a mortgage on it, come down at once and bring full information as to how much you owe, when it is due and the amount of tornado insurance you have."

BRITISH EDUCATOR BARRED UNDER U.S. IMMIGRATION LAW

State Department Upholds Exclusion From Non-Quota Group—Employed by Michigan U.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Government red tape and strict interpretation of the American immigration laws have caused the University of Michigan to lose the services of an eminent British university professor who has been denied admission to the United States on a minor technicality.

Last summer President Clarence Little of the University of Michigan engaged Prof. F. M. Jack, former lecturer of rhetoric at the University of Aberdeen, to head the Michigan rhetoric department. For the last two years Prof. Jack had devoted himself to research work at the University of Cambridge.

When Jack sought a visa to come to the United States in the non-quota group as a college professor, the American Consul at Glasgow refused to give his approval, holding that Jack had not followed his profession of teaching for the two years previous, a provision required for a nonquota visa under the immigration laws.

Protest to Labor Department.

President Little protested to the Labor Department, which appeared to be favorable to the plea that the British professor should be allowed to enter this country. The Labor Department officials explained, however, that the case came under the jurisdiction of the State Department, which has control of passports.

At the request of President Little, the State Department asked for a special report from the Glasgow consul. The report has just been received and President Little has been advised by the department that the action of the consul must be upheld.

The section of the immigration law applicable to the case provides for the entry of professional men, such as lawyers, doctors and educators, as non-quota immigrants, who may come into the United States without restriction for the purpose of practicing their profession. The only provision is that they must have continuously followed their vocation for a period of two years immediately preceding application for entry.

President Little pointed out to the State Department that Jack had been a professor at the University of Aberdeen for five years and had spent two years at Cambridge, the better to prepare himself for his calling. The State Department, however, held that the law must be strictly interpreted and that Jack must be excluded from the nonquota group. State Department officials stated that there was no secret reason why the British professor should be excluded, as he was clearly barred by the immigration law.

Apparently No Loophole.

When the departmental officials were asked today whether Jack could be given a student visa, they pointed out that he would not be eligible for admission in this group, as it would be necessary for him to show that he had been duly accepted as a student by one of the accredited American universities.

The officials explained that the student nonquota group was not a convenient loophole for immigrants who merely wished to use this classification as a blind.

The British quota is now exhausted and Jack cannot come to this country as an ordinary immigrant.

NEWTON DECIDES NOT TO RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Republican Support Which He Would Have Received to Go to Former Judge Henry S. Caulfield.

TENSE POLITICAL SITUATION SOLVED

Democrats Are Relieved by Announcement, Which Is Expected to Increase Number of Candidates.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

The one absorbing question in the Missouri political situation, both Republican and Democratic, was solved with the announcement yesterday afternoon by Cleveland A. Newton, former Congressman, that he had decided not to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor.

The organization support which Newton would have received will go to Henry S. Caulfield, former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, unless unforeseen circumstances should cause a change of plans which have been maturing for several days and awaiting the consummation of which, seemingly, the Newton announcement was delayed until yesterday.

Caulfield refused to state definitely that he would seek the nomination. All he cared to say at present was that he "was considering the matter."

Clements Friendly to Caulfield.

From other sources information bearing every evidence of authenticity comes that there is no question of Caulfield's candidacy and that efforts will be made to line up the State, as well as the city organization for him. Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican National Committeeman, and the real head of the Republican organization in the State, is said to be friendly to him.

Newton's declination was placed solely on the ground that the condition of his health made it inadvisable for him to undertake a strenuous campaign. In a brief announcement of his decision, he said:

During the past four months I have had under consideration an appeal, which continues to come from over the State, urging that I become a candidate for Governor. I am deeply sensible to the honor which such an appeal confers and have felt a genuine desire to respond. However, after eight years of public service I retired from Congress last March, tired and worn, and I feel that under the circumstances I must not undertake so strenuous a race for the governorship would impose. Grateful as I am to those who would honor me, I must decline to become a candidate.

Appeals From All Over State.

It was an unusual situation which faced Newton and others who were seriously considering becoming candidates for the governorship following his retirement from Congress. There developed seemingly spontaneously over the State a Newton-for-Governor movement. He was urged to enter the race by party leaders in personal interviews, by thousands of letters and telegrams and in petitions signed by many thousands.

The Republican organization, recognizing its handicap in the next campaign by the record of the Baker administration in Jefferson City, and realizing that it must have a candidate who could hold the Republican majority in St. Louis to its highest peak, picked Newton.

He was free of any entanglemen's with Gov. Baker and those of the Governor's appointees who have assisted in discrediting the state administration. He was popular in St. Louis and he could be expected to hold the party vote out in the State.

Several other Republicans marked time until Newton should decide, frankly admitting they could not hope to defeat him in the primary.

Concern Among Democrats.

There was almost as much concern among Democrats, there being a tendency on that side to believe that Newton's nomination would make it extremely doubtful that a Democrat could win the governorship, and they did not care for an empty nomination. His decision probably will enlarge the field of candidates on both sides considerably.

During the summer Newton remained in the Ozarks slowly regaining his health. He returned to St. Louis a month ago vastly improved and several times was on

CENTRAL FIGURES IN NEW TURN IN G. O. P. STATE POLITICS

TWO GUNMEN, WHO BLACKMAILED LIQUOR MEN, SHOT

Police of Cleveland, O., Say Jack Brownstein and E. J. Yorkell Were Members of Philadelphia Gang.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 8.—Jack Brownstein and Ernest J. Yorkell, both of Philadelphia, found shot to death here today, are believed by Inspector of Detectives Cody to have been members of a band of gunmen that traveled from city to city forcing bootleggers and speakeasies to pay them tribute.

Inspector Cody declared tonight Brownstein and Yorkell came here last Friday from Buffalo and were collecting data on the operations of Cleveland bootleggers and speakeasies with a view to forcing them to pay tribute. If this was refused, Cody said, reprisals were to follow.

Operations of the band, Cody said, are centered on gaming resorts and speak-easies where the men are able to "clean up" quickly and without serious danger of police reports being made.

Cody said he believed Cleveland liquor runners had been told that the men were in the city and they were killed as a warning to outside gangs to stay away from Cleveland.

The men were found in a fashionable park by a milk man making his early morning rounds. They had been shot several times. Their arms and legs were tied with sash cords. Cody said he believed the men had been killed at some distant spot and their bodies taken to the park and thrown from an automobile.

Police were without clews as to the killers.

LAMONT GIVES JAPAN ADVICE

Says Nation Must Adopt More Modern Industrial Methods.

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—Thomas W. Lamont, visiting here with Jeremiah Smith Jr., financial expert, today spoke at a dinner of the American-Japan Society, discussing the problem of Japanese loans.

Lamont said that Japan, if she wished to raise money in America, must adopt modern and more effective industrial methods to improve her industries and offer attractive securities.

RUSSELL SCOTT, MURDERER, HANGS SELF WITH BELT IN CHICAGO JAIL

Seven Times Sentenced to Die on Gallows for Killing Drug Clerk in Holdup in 1924.

ONCE WAS SENT TO INSANE ASYLUM

Later Found Sane by Jury, He Was Awaiting Another Order for Execution This Month.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—Russell Scott, once a millionaire, seven times sentenced to death for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, in a holdup here in 1924, hanged himself with his belt in Cook County jail tonight.

His lifeless body was found in his cell in tier 2 of the county jail by the jailer.

The jailer said that he had passed Scott's cell at 9:45 p. m., and Scott was all right then, but when he passed again an hour later, he noticed the body.

Scott's wife visited him at the jail tonight and the guards said when she left he seemed to be in his usual spirit. He left no note that might have explained his act.

At 10:45 p. m. an assistant jailer, F. G. Harkins, passed the Scott cell and noted nothing wrong, but a few minutes later the body was found by another jailer hanging from a belt which had been fastened to an upright bar.

The jailers said Scott had been suffering from a slight attack of bronchitis but it had not seemed to affect his spirits.

In hanging himself he fastened one end of the belt to the bar, settled the loop around his neck and stepped off his cot. Prisoners in nearby cells were unable to see into Scott's cell, but said they had heard no commotion there.

Awaited Eighth Death Sentence

Scott was returned to jail here several months ago after his discharge as cured from Chester, Ill., penitentiary for the criminal insane. A jury had also declared him sane. He was awaiting the eighth setting of the date of his execution. He had a hearing in September but his case was put over until this month.

Immediately upon pleading guilty to a charge of having shot Maurer to death, Scott was sentenced to death. His lawyer, in tears, knelt before the judge's dais and pleaded for a chance to change the plea and fight for Scott's life before a jury. The plea was granted, but it led merely to Scott's conviction and a second sentence of death.

Long Legal Fight.

Through all the legal maneuvers possible under Illinois law, Scott has been kept alive despite four additional sentences of death.

Once it seemed he might be safe from the noose when a midnight court session decided that he should not go to the gallows next day because he had become insane since he was convicted. He was sent to the State Prison for the Criminal Insane at Chester, Ill. Institution officials, after long observation, concluded Scott was not insane and other alienists substantiated their finding. Scott was returned to the jurisdiction of Cook County and was declared sane by a jury.

A Millionaire at 30.

Scott was an actor at 20, and ten years later a millionaire in his own right. Then he headed a Canadian firm organized to construct a $20,000,000 bridge over the Detroit River. Associates disagreed with him over his business method and forced him out, and his personal fortune of $2,000,000 vanished in settling his affairs. He became a drifter, and little was known of his affairs until April 2, 1924, he was arrested for the murder of Maurer.

With Russell at the time, but not found until many months later, was his brother, Robert, now serving a life sentence in the Illinois penitentiary on his plea of guilty to participation in Maurer's murder. He denied, however, that he fired the fatal shot.

The fugitive Robert figured indirectly in one of the reprieves granted Russell. Just a few hours before Russell was to have been hanged July 17, 1926, Gov. Len Small granted a week's reprieve after receiving a telegram signed with Robert's name, accepting re-

NO MORE MONEY TO BE SOUGHT FOR TORNADO RELIEF

With $790,000 in Fund and $800,000 Expected by Tomorrow, Red Cross Will End Solicitation.

LAST REFUGEES TO BE MOVED TODAY

Some Emergency Stations Closed, but Work of Rehabilitation Will Go On for Months.

The Red Cross tornado relief and rehabilitation fund, raised in St. Louis without outside solicitation, yesterday reached $790,000. It is expected to pass $800,000 tomorrow, and the Red Cross officials do not intend to make further solicitation.

Moving of families out of the tornado area is expected to be completed today. With the moving out of the way, the work of rehabilitation can be taken up. This will be the work of months, and will be carried on by a trained personnel of social service workers, under supervision of the St. Louis Red Cross Chapter. These workers, as has been told, are paid by the regular funds of organizations, most of them supported by the Community Fund. All the money given for relief and rehabilitation will go directly for those purposes.

Emergency Dormitory Closed.

With the problem of shelter largely solved, the emergency dormitory at St. Louis University gymnasium was closed yesterday. Because of difficulty in finding new homes for Negro families, some Negroes are still sheltered in Poro College and in churches.

The food supply depot at Moolah Temple is still in operation. Food prepared there is sent to Poro College and other relief centers. The moving service station at Page boulevard and Whittier street has been closed.

The work of sorting clothing will be transferred from the receiving depot at 913 Pine street to the depot at Broadway and Franklin avenue. Clothing will be received only at the Pine street place hereafter. There is a demand for overcoats. On other garments, a surplus may remain, which will be sent by the Red Cross to flood sufferers in the South.

Legal Department Busy.

Recording and classifying of cases, by families, continued yesterday at the Red Cross offices at Lindell cutoff. The work of the legal department, which furnishes free advice on legal problems arising from storm losses, is increasing rapidly. Gertrude M. Bradley, an attorney, is in charge of this bureau, with a volunteer staff of attorneys furnished by the St. Louis Bar Association.

Some of the problems raised relate to installment buying complications. Some Negroes, who were buying furniture on installments, have complained that it was taken away after the tornado. These complaints will be investigated before any action will be undertaken.

Owners of wrecked automobiles, who are unable to meet further payments due on the machines, have appealed for advice. Most of them did not carry tornado insurance on their cars, though agents usually urge car owners to take such insurance.

30 DAYS FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER

Earl Farrell, Also Fined $25, Files Notice of Appeal.

Earl Farrell of 1404 Walton avenue yesterday was fined $25 and sentenced to the workhouse for 30 days by Police Judge Beck, on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Police testified that, Friday evening, Farrell drove his machine into an automobile parked at the curb in the 4000 block on Delmar boulevard. Farrell filed a notice of appeal.

KOENNECKE AT BENDER ABBAS

German Flyer Makes 800-Mile Hop from Bagdad.

KARACHI, British India, Oct. 8.—Lieut. Otto Koennecke, flying to the United States by way of the Orient, arrived at Bender Abbas, Persia, this morning in his plane, Germania, say advices received here.

He arrived at Bagdad, Irak, on Sept. 28. He took off from there for Bender Abbas on Sept. 30, but crashed a few minutes later. Since then he has been at Bagdad making repairs. Bender Abbas is about 800 miles from Bagdad.

NAT GOLDSTEIN LEAVES PRISON ON PAROLE

He Served One-Third of Two-Year Sentence for Jack Daniel Whisky Plot.

Nat Goldstein, former Circuit Clerk of St. Louis and Nineteenth Ward Republican boss, was released under parole early today from the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., where he has served eight months of a two-year sentence for violation of the Volstead act in the conspiracy which led to the theft of 30,000 gallons of whisky from the Jack Daniel Distillery warehouse in St. Louis for bootleg purposes.

He left the prison a few minutes after midnight under authority of a Department of Justice telegram received earlier in the evening by Warden T. B. White which authorized him to release Goldstein in advance of receipt of the parole certificate from Washington.

Met by Wife and Friends.

At the gate to receive him were Mrs. Goldstein, Harry C. Meyers, one of Goldstein's supporters and proteges in the Nineteenth Ward, and Mrs. Meyers, who had driven there in an automobile from St. Louis. Not expecting Goldstein's release before Monday, they had planned to spend the night in Kansas City, but when they learned that he was to be given his freedom just after midnight, they went at once to Leavenworth.

It is understood they will begin the homeward journey today, arriving in St. Louis tonight. Goldstein, who had attempted to avoid imprisonment on the grounds of illness, yesterday appeared somewhat improved by the hospital diet upon which he fared in the penitentiary, and apparently was in better health than when he was lodged in the prison hospital for treatment for a heart ailment.

It was Goldstein who made the success of the conspiracy possible, according to Government officials, who charged that he influenced Arnold Hellmich, Collector of Internal Revenue in 1923, when the distillery was milked, to place a friendly gauger in the warehouse and otherwise keep off interference with the robbery.

Hellmich also was given two years, and later was paroled, as was the "friendly gauger," William J. Kinney, brother of State Senator Kinney and Deputy of Hellmich.

Other St. Louisans in Prison.

Four other St. Louisans still remain in prison, but are eligible for parole. They are Michael Whalen, Democratic City Committeeman; Morris Multin, whisky dealer; Harry Levin, former Deputy Constable, and Daniel A. O'Neil, former Deputy Constable. All got two years and $5000 fines, except O'Neil, whose sentence was 15 months and fine $500.

George Remus, wealthy Cincinnati bootlegger, who killed his wife in Cincinnati Thursday, promoted the conspiracy and testified as star witness for the Government that he interested Goldstein in the conspiracy and through Goldstein met Jack Kratz, now dead, who "handled" Hellmich. Remus was not paid his share of profits from the sale of the whisky, and this circumstances, together with the fact that he was in danger of going to the penitentiary in this case, turned him against the St. Louis crowd.

NEWTON DECIDES NOT TO MAKE RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

the point of agreeing to run. His final decision, however, was that the demands of the campaign and the first year in office with all its patronage troubles probably would be too great a strain on him. He feared that physically he would be back where he was last spring. Hence his decision.

It appeared for a time that if Newton did not run former Supreme Judge Robert W. Otto of Jefferson City would loom up as a very formidable candidate, a situation which was looked upon with considerable dismay by the leaders in the organization because Otto has been the closest confident of the Governor, with the exception of Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, whose record as chairman of the State Prison Board was condemned by an investigating committee of the State Senate and who resigned from the board a month ago as a direct result of the Senate investigation.

Dilemma of Leaders.

Thoughful party leaders did not care to enter a campaign of apology for the Governor with the Governor's right-hand man as its candidate at the head of the ticket. Believing the candidate should be from St. Louis a large number of names were canvassed and Judge Caulfield was selected as their choice.

Caulfield formerly was a member of Congress, representing the Eleventh St. Louis District. He was Excise Commissioner during a part of the administration of Gov. Hadley. He served for a time as City Counselor and was Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, being appointed by Gov. Hadley and then being elected to fill the unexpired portion of the term of his predecessor. He is 54 years old.

As he has not the acquaintance Newton has throughout the State, it is not probable that the full Newton support can be taken to Caulfield, though it is anticipated that the effort will be made to carry it there, probably through some sort of public statement by Newton indorsing him.

Other Probable Candidates.

Granting that Caulfield will be a candidate, the others in the race on the Republican side will be William R. Schneider of St. Louis, Speaker pro-tem of the Legislature, and Sam D. Hodgdon, who have definitely announced their candidacies and are actively campaigning, and probably Otto and Lieutenant-Governor Phil A. Bennett of Springfield.

Schneider is making his campaign on a pledge to establish a budget system in state government, and to correct the wasteful methods of the present and previous administrations. It does not appear that he can hope for organization support.

Otto, if he runs, will have such support as the Governor and those of his job holders he can control can give him. An outgoing Governor, however, seldom has much influence, the job holders rarely hesitating to desert a sinking ship. The allegiance to the Governor who gave them the jobs is quickly transferable to the one they think will win in the next election.

Bennett can muster considerable strength probably, in some of the Ozark counties, but at this stage would not appear to be a very strong contender.

334 Births, 220 Deaths Last Week.

There were 334 births and 220 deaths reported in St. Louis last week. Forty persons died of organic heart trouble, 17 of cancer, 14 of Bright's disease, 12 of tuberculosis, 9 of pneumonia, 9 of diseases of the arteries and 5 of appendicitis. There were 7 suicides, 2 homicides and 7 accidental deaths.

$400,000 BANK LOOTER BET $100 A HOLE ON GOLF

J. L. Essler, 38, of Aurora, Ill., Made $1000 Wagers on Dice and Took Flyers in Stocks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Golf at $100 a hole, casts of the dice at $1000 a roll, poker at the stiffest stakes played in Aurora, Ill., flyers in speculative stocks, entertainments lavish and frequent—these were the means by which John L. Esser frittered away the many thousands he admits he stole from the Aurora Trust & Savings Bank, of which he was the president. This was disclosed in today's investigation.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson and the directors estimate Esser's thefts at $400,000 at least.

Depositors who came to the bank's doors with bank books in hand gazed wistfully through its barred windows, but they were reassured by all officials, including Nelson, that there was not a doubt in the world they would receive 100 cents on the dollar.

I. C. Copley, wealthiest man in the Fox River valley, with an estimated fortune of $10,000,000, assured depositors they would be paid in full, although he is not connected with the bank.

Stockholders Only Will Lose.

Negotiations are under way to absorb the looted institution into the Aurora National Bank. The plan is to have all assets of the former bank valued, and to have all its deposits and other liabilities totaled. If anything is left, it will be given the stockholders, and all the business will then be taken over by the Aurora National, according to the plan. It is considered probable, however, that it will be necessary for the stockholders to pay an assessment to cover much of Esser's peculations. This they have pledged themselves to do.

Plans to reorganize Esser's bank, which were announced Friday, were practically given up when Attorney B. P. Alschuler, new president of the bank, and Nelson learned the extent of the losses, and the chaotic condition of the bank's books. Just what assets are held by Esser, which may help to shrink the deficit, has not been learned as yet, although the bank president, still in his cell at the County jail at Geneva, expressed a desire to make restitution to the limit of his ability. There is in his name in Aurora real estate appraised at $100,000. He is also under a surety bond of $100,000.

Stories of Hidden Loot.

The officials heard rumors that Esser, when he saw the crash impending withdrew $100,000 from the bank and placed it in a safe deposit box in Chicago. He denied this, but admitted he had considered such a move.

Esser's wife, who was an Aurora woman, Kittie Berringer, and the three children, Leon, 17 years old; Mary Jane, 11, and John Lambert, 7, remain in the closest seclusion, seeing no one but family friends. They did not visit Esser at the jail.

It is planned to conduct a hearing early next week at which Esser will be required to give an account of his assets, from the witness stand.

How Esser Stole the Money.

The manner in which Esser was able to take thousands of dollars from his bank without detection was explained by Nelson.

"Nine years ago the bank went on the rocks," Nelson said, "and Esser, at that time cashier, took charge and put the institution on a firm footing. Almost immediately, according to his confession, he began to withdraw cash from the bank.

"He had no accomplices. I am convinced none of the other employes of the bank knew of his actions. When an audit of the bank's books was to be made, either by the State examiners or by his own bookkeepers, Esser would cover his thefts by removing whole pages from the deposit ledgers, which were loose-leaf volumes. When the audit had been completed he would restore these sheets. The amount of the deposits entered on the sheets he removed temporarily would be sufficient to cover what he had stolen."

Luke Lea Named to Bank Position.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 8.—Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, has been elected Class B director of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank in the special election held by member banks of Group No. 3, it was announced late today by Oscar Newton, chairman of the board.

4 DEAD, 12 HURT, WHEN EXPLOSION WRECKS BUILDING

Four-Story Tenement in West 35th Street, New York, Utterly Shattered by Blast.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Four persons were killed and 12 injured today in an explosion that wrecked a four-story tenement building in West 35th street.

Police and building inspectors after a preliminary examination, expressed the opinion that the explosion had been caused by a bomb or by dynamite, explaining that the demolition was so complete that it was impossible to tell definitely what had caused the blast.

The densely congested West Side tenement district in which the explosion occurred, was thrown into a panic by the explosion. A large force of police reserves was required to restore order.

The first body recovered is that of Mrs. Anna Katsilis, 62 years old, which was found soon after police and firemen began to search the ruins. After digging more than four hours in the mass of broken masonry, twisted steel and splintered wood the searchers came upon the body of Mrs. Conchetta Bicco, 62. The next body found is that of Tessie Katsilis, 7, granddaughter of Anna Katsilis. The fourth body is that of an unidentified man.

Miss Anna Katsilis, daughter of one of the women killed suffered a fractured leg.

Several of the injured are children who had been playing near the building when the walls collapsed and were struck by falling wreckage. These suffered cuts and bruises.

Andrew Coviello, owner of the building, whose wife and child were injured told police he had received threatening letters. He described two young men, former tenants, whose actions he said had seemed suspicious.

CITIZENSHIP PAPERS DENIED AFTER TESTIMONY OF WOMAN

Mrs. Theresa Routzahn Tells Story of Husband's Association With Mrs. Adele Aabling.

Mrs. Theresa Routzahn, wife of a disabled war veteran, who three years ago instituted deportation proceedings against Mrs. Adele Aabling, 7314 Manchester avenue, charging that she had alienated the affections of her husband, appeared unexpectedly in Federal Judge Davis' court Friday to oppose the granting of naturalization papers to Mrs. Aabling.

After repeating to Judge Davis the story of the association of her husband and Mrs. Aabling, which was found by immigration authorities to be insufficient to deport the latter, Mrs. Routzahn left the courtroom. Yesterday Judge Davis denied Mrs. Aabling's application.

Mrs. Aabling first came into notice when, as a servant in the home of Mrs. Lillian Stuart, she was a witness for the latter's husband, Frank Stuart, electrical manufacturer, in defense of his wife's divorce action. Later Mrs. Stuart caused her arrest and was interested largely in the deportation proceedings. Oscar Buder, who was Mrs. Aabling's attorney in her various troubles, appeared before Judge Davis as a witness for her in the naturalization proceedings.

NEGRO EX-CONVICT CAUGHT HOLDING UP SALOON MAN

Fires Shot When Proprietor Is Slow in Emptying Cash Register and Attracts Detectives.

Two negro detectives who heard a shot as they passed the saloon of Robert Peksovich at 3044 Franklin avenue at 2 o'clock last night, entered the place in time to arrest James Johnson, Negro ex-convict, in the act of holding up the proprietor. He explained that he had fired the shot when he became angered at Peksovich's slowness in emptying the cash register.

Johnson said he had served penitentiary terms for burglary at Jefferson City and Nashville, Tenn.

BODY OF MAN DEAD 3 DAYS FOUND HANGING IN FOREST PARK

Suspended 25 Feet Above Ground in Tree; Identified as That of Missing Houseman.

The body of Thomas Carlin, 51 years old, a gardener, of 378 North Taylor avenue, was discovered yesterday afternoon hanging 25 feet above the ground in a large tree near the bridle path in Forest Park, 100 yards east of the Art Museum.

City Hospital physicians said Carlin probably had been dead three days. The body was discovered by two pedestrians who notified the Mounted District. Policemen were obliged to climb the tree and cut a short length of heavy wire from which the body was suspended in the midst of heavy foliage.

Mrs. Emily B. Barclay, a sister of Carlin, identified the body. She said her brother was employed as a houseman by a family living in Kirkwood and was last seen alive Wednesday. He had become despondent, she said, because of ill-health.

Girl, Stung By Yellow Jacket, Dies

By the Associated Press.

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Oct. 8—Stung on the finger by a yellow jacket when playing near her home, Lena Gross, 4-year-old daughter of Bynum Gross of Watauga county, died today.

The little girl was stung on the right forefinger and immediately became violently ill. An injection of adrenalin failed to revive her and she died 45 minutes after the sting had been inflicted.

sponsibility for the slaying. Later it was found that the telegram had been sent by a Detroit telegraph operator.

Russell Scott's defense was marked by the intercession of the mayor and business men of Windsor, Ont., with President Coolidge, the raising of a defense fund by Detroit clubwomen and the exhaustion of the Scott family's resources. Once, Mrs. Scott, the mother of three children, publicly starved herself in Detroit in an effort to raise funds.

During his imprisonment Scott wrote almost a dozen books.

CHURCH JUDGES FIND PASTOR GUILTY OF GIRL'S CHARGES

Wife Collapses When Verdict Is Given Against the Rev. Mr. Warren of Durand, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—A verdict of guilty was returned tonight against the Rev. John A. Logan Warren, suspended pastor of the Durand, Ill., Methodist church, who was tried by a committee of 15 clergymen on a charge of improper conduct with Hazel Lamb, 19 years old, at one time employed as a maid in the Warren home.

The trial was a part of the eighty-eighth annual session of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The defense of the pastor was that the charges were concocted against him by a faction in his congregation.

Mrs. Warren, when informed of the verdict, collapsed. She had stood by her husband throughout the trial.

The conference will vote Monday to decide whether pastor Warren shall be required to retire from the ministry. The Rev. Mr. Warren can appeal the decision to the general conference of the church next May at Kansas City, Mo. He has a libel suit pending against certain members of his church, growing out of the charges.

CASE OF $5 FIXER DEVELOPS ATTACK UPON JUDGE BECK

Counsel for Accused Bondsman Question Magistrate About Police Court Irregularities.

TRIAL TO BE OCT. 20, DEPOSITIONS TAKEN

President of State Bar Association and Chairman of City G. O. P. Defending Louis Rusznak.

A political fight in which Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and Ernest Green, president of the Missouri Bar Association, are defending Louis Rusznak, a professional bondsman in an effort to lay bare conditions in the court of Police Judge Beck, an appointee of Mayor Miller, will come to a climax, Oct. 20 when Rusznak is scheduled to go on trial before a jury in Judge Butler's division of the Court of Criminal Correction. He is charged with embezzlement by bailee of $5.

Judge Beck declared, when his deposition was taken Friday afternoon in Remmers' office before a commissioner appointed by the Court, that there were more than 100 "fixers" operating in his court. His point was, however, that these "fixers" had no influence with him and if they got money for "fixing" cases they obtained it under false pretenses.

Judge Beck cites Rusznak as an example. It is alleged by the state that Rusznak took $5 from a Police Court defendant to "fix" a traffic case and never "fixed" it.

Testimony Against Rusznak.

State's witnesses in their depositions gave damaging testimony against Rusznak. To offset this, Remmers sought to show that Albert Munday, Negro porter in Judge Beck's court, had collected money from "fixers."

"Isn't it true, Judge," Remmers asked, "that you have had reports that your Negro porter has been taking money to 'fix' cases in your court? Haven't reports come to you that professional bondsmen must see Munday first before they can sign bonds in your court?"

"These reports were just set afoot by Sam Arky's gang of crooks," Judge Beck replied. "I pay no attention to wild reports from crooks."

"Isn't it true, Judge, that cases were struck from your docket without your knowledge?" Remmers persisted. "Isn't it true that cases where summonses were issued have never appeared on your docket? Doesn't your Negro porter make entries on the docket for you?"

The Judge's answer was that his porter occasionally made entries on the docket at his direction, but that to his knowledge no cases ever were "fixed" by being left off the docket.

Kratky Associates Mentioned.

Remmers and Green then drew from the Judge the admission that Attorneys William Voorhees and William Van Dyke, law associates of Robert Kratky, Miller campaign manager, had "talked to him" about Rusznak. Beck admitted these lawyers had interceded in Rusznak's behalf in an attempt to get continuances of bond forfeitures, but he declared that these requests did not influence him.

There was a dispute as to how many reports of "fixing" had come to Judge Beck and how many "fixers" operated in his court. The Judge first said "several hundred fixers" hung about his courtroom and then reduced his estimate to "more than a hundred."

"There used to be as many as five reports of fixing come to me a day," Judge Beck testified, 'but that number has been greatly reduced. Since Sam Arky was barred from signing bonds there haven't been so many "fixers." But there are still a lot in Arky's chain gang."

"Has the end of the chain been reached?" Remmers queried.

'Not yet," said Pudge Beck, amid laughter.

Remmers endeavored to learn why Judge Beck had not investigated the reports of "fixing." The Judge insisted that he had investigated all reports which "looked as if they were genuine and not aired by crooks." Remmers then demanded why Judge Beck had not investigated his Negro porter.

"There wasn't anything to those reports," Judge Beck replied. "They were spread by Arky's gang."

The questioning veered to Albert Munday's actions in court.

"Isn't it true, Judge, that your porter stands at your elbow on the bench and makes suggestions to you as the cases are called?" asked Remmers.

"He is my messenger," the Judge retorted, "and I need him at my elbow. But he never makes suggestions. Sometimes he tells me of the tricks of Sam Arky and his gang that I have overlooked."

When the inquiry turned on Bondsman Rusznak there was a little divergence of opinion among the State's witnesses as to his guilt.

"Rusznak was more active than any of the others," Judge Beck testified. "He was always milling

TRIAL TO BE OCT. 20, DEPOSITIONS TAKEN

President of State Bar Association and Chairman of City G. O. P. Defending Louis Rusznak.

A political fight in which Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and Ernest Green, president of the Missouri Bar Association, are defending Louis Rusznak, a professional bondsman in an effort to lay bare conditions in the court of Police Judge Beck, an appointee of Mayor Miller, will come to a climax, Oct. 20 when Rusznak is scheduled to go on trial before a jury in Judge Butler's division of the Court of Criminal Correction. He is charged with embezzlement by bailee of $5.

Judge Beck declared, when his deposition was taken Friday afternoon in Remmers' office before a commissioner appointed by the Court, that there were more than 100 "fixers" operating in his court. His point was, however, that these "fixers" had no influence with him and if they got money for "fixing" cases they obtained it under false pretenses.

Judge Beck cites Rusznak as an example. It is alleged by the state that Rusznak took $5 from a Police Court defendant to "fix" a traffic case and never "fixed" it.

Testimony Against Rusznak.

State's witnesses in their depositions gave damaging testimony against Rusznak. To offset this, Remmers sought to show that Albert Munday, Negro porter in Judge Beck's court, had collected money from "fixers."

"Isn't it true, Judge," Remmers asked, "that you have had reports that your Negro porter has been taking money to 'fix' cases in your court? Haven't reports come to you that professional bondsmen must see Munday first before they can sign bonds in your court?"

"These reports were just set afoot by Sam Arky's gang of crooks," Judge Beck replied. "I pay no attention to wild reports from crooks."

"Isn't it true, Judge, that cases were struck from your docket without your knowledge?" Remmers persisted. "Isn't it true that cases where summonses were issued have never appeared on your docket? Doesn't your Negro porter make entries on the docket for you?"

The Judge's answer was that his porter occasionally made entries on the docket at his direction, but that to his knowledge no cases ever were "fixed" by being left off the docket.

Kratky Associates Mentioned.

Remmers and Green then drew from the Judge the admission that Attorneys William Voorhees and William Van Dyke, law associates of Robert Kratky, Miller campaign manager, had "talked to him" about Rusznak. Beck admitted these lawyers had interceded in Rusznak's behalf in an attempt to get continuances of bond forfeitures, but he declared that these requests did not influence him.

There was a dispute as to how many reports of "fixing" had come to Judge Beck and how many "fixers" operated in his court. The Judge first said "several hundred fixers" hung about his courtroom and then reduced his estimate to "more than a hundred."

"There used to be as many as five reports of fixing come to me a day," Judge Beck testified, "but that number has been greatly reduced. Since Sam Arky was barred from signing bonds there haven't been so many "fixers." But there are still a lot in Arky's chain gang."

"Has the end of the chain been reached?" Remmers queried.

"Not yet," said Pudge Beck, amid laughter.

Remmers endeavored to learn why Judge Beck had not investigated the reports of "fixing." The Judge insisted that he had investigated all reports which "looked as if they were genuine and not aired by crooks." Remmers then demanded why Judge Beck had not investigated his Negro porter.

"There wasn't anything to those reports," Judge Beck replied. "They were spread by Arky's gang."

The questioning veered to Albert Munday's actions in court.

"Isn't it true, Judge, that your porter stands at your elbow on the bench and makes suggestions to you as the cases are called?" asked Remmers.

"He is my messenger," the Judge retorted, "and I need him at my elbow. But he never makes suggestions. Sometimes he tells me of the tricks of Sam Arky and his gang that I have overlooked."

When the inquiry turned on Bondsman Rusznak there was a little divergence of opinion among the State's witnesses as to his guilt.

"Rusznak was more active than any of the others," Judge Beck testified. "He was always milling about. He would whisper to men and get them to go outside. He hung about the door. Several times I warned him to be less active."

In brief the charge against Rusznak is that he took $5 from William Morgan, a soldier at Jefferson Barracks, to "fix" a traffic case in Judge Beck's Court and did not do it.

Witnesses Accuse Rusznak.

Judge Beck had a firm conviction that Rusznak was the guilty man and no amount of questioning by Remmers could shake him on the point. He said he had fined Morgan $10 by default Aug. 16 and three weeks later Morgan had showed up to explain why he had not appeared. The young man had told him of paying "a bondsman" $5 to "fix" the case and had described the bondsman, so the Judge concluded it was Rusznak.

Morgan, himself, was the next witness. He came in, grinning, in a soldier's uniform.

"I was an ice man before I joined the army," he related. "I was arrested last July for driving a car with no city license. I turned up in Police Court with my boss, John Hales of the Commercial Ice & Fuel Co. This man Rusznak was standing by the door of City Court No. 2. He said, 'What's your trouble?' I told him I had got pinched for having no city license.

"He said, 'I'll fix it for $5. You needn't worry. Go on back to work!' He gave me his card. So I gave him $5 and went on back to work. Later, I joined the army. I heard Mr. Thompson of the City Marshal's office was looking for me so I dropped in to see him. He took me to Judge Beck and I told Judge Beck about paying to get the case 'fixed'."

Had Heard It Could Be Done.

Remmers and Green looked incredulously at Morgan.

"Do you mean to say," Remmers inquired, "that you gave $5 to a stranger just because he told you he could 'fix' your case?"

"Sure," Morgan grinned. "I'd heard it could be done. So I thought he could do it for me, too. I had his card. It said bondsman on it, so I thought it was all right."

There was general laughter at this in which Rusznak joined heartily.

Remmers tried to make Morgan say that his fine had been stayed on parole as a consideration for his testifying against Rusznak. He denied there had been any such arrangement. There was considerable cross-fire from Rusznak's counsel, but Morgan stuck to his story. Assistant Circuit Attorney Graves interposed a few mild objections during the session.

Trial to Be Before Jury.

Recently, when the State asked for a jury trial for Rusznak, the defense objected, being willing to let Judge Butler decide the case. After consulting authorities Judge Butler decided a jury was allowed in such a case.

In a statement last night, Green said he had "accepted employment in this case after his term as president of the St. Louis Bar Association had expired, and before he was elected president of the State Bar Association."

He also declared that even if he had held both positions mentioned at the time employment was offered to him in the Rusznak case, and knowing the facts appertaining to it, "that there would have been no impropriety whatever in his accepting such employment, particularly in view of the fact that the Constitution of the United States, and of this State, guarantee to every man charged with a crime, and particularly those absolutely innocent, the right to counsel, and the presumption of innocence until proved guilty."

RED CROSS CHIEF SAYS ST. LOUIS SET RECORD IN RAISING TORNADO FUND

Henry M. Baker, National Disaster Director, Tells of Rapidity With Which Relief Has Been Handled.

St. Louis has set new records for raising money and handling relief in the emergency growing out of the tornado. This is the conclusion of Henry M. Baker, national disaster relief director of the American Red Cross, after more than a week of observation and surveys in the storm area.

Baker, a former St. Louisan, came here from Washington to place his expert knowledge of disaster relief at the command of the St. Louis Chapter, which has had full charge of the relief work. Since he left here 10 years ago, he has handled 157 disasters for the Red Cross, including the Lorain (O.) disaster in 1924, the mid-Western tornado in 1925, the Florida hurricane in 1926 and the recent Mississippi Valley flood.

"I can safely say that no city in the United States that I have worked in came together so rapidly and effectively to meet an emergency as St. Louis has done in this instance," Baker told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night.

Raised $100,000 a Day.

"St. Louis has established a record by raising a disaster relief fund at the rate of $100,000 a day. It is far ahead in its emergency relief work. On the fourth day, the relief work in St. Louis was as far advanced as it was in many previous disasters of a similar nature on the tenth day.

"To make the showing all the more impressive, St. Louis handled its emergency itself. This is the first disaster of any size that a local Red Cross chapter has handled without aid. It has suggested to me what other metropolitan chapters might do. I am planning a series of disaster institutes in various cities, with lectures based on the experiences of the St. Louis chapter in the present emergency.

"Furthermore, St. Louis has raised its money at home without calling on the outside world for aid. It is the first of the large disasters within my experience where this has been done.

Other Disasters Compared.

"The St. Louis tornado was comparable in size to the Mid-Western tornado, the Florida hurricane and the flood, for it affected about 20,000 persons or 5000 families. The striking feature of the St. Louis disaster, comparing it with the others, was that so few lost their lives relative to the terrific property damage. The relatively small death list can be attributed to only one thing—the time of day it occurred. Had the tornado struck at night, the death toll would have been fearful."

Baker recalled the following comparative death lists and property damages estimates in previous major disasters Lorain tornado, 70 killed and $10,000,000 loss; mid-western tornado, 700 killed and $25,000,000, chiefly in Murphysboro and West Frankfort, Ill.; Florida hurricane, 370 killed and $25,000,000 loss.

The St. Louis death toll was 70 with estimates of property damages varying from $10,000,000 upwards.

Six Months' Task.

"It will take the Red Cross fully six months of careful work to complete its job here," Baker continued. "It took a year to finish the job at Murphysboro and six months in Florida. We are still working on the flood.

"The relief work here is in transition from the emergency to the rehabilitation phase. The permanent relief program demands patience. Cases must be investigated carefully before the Red Cross can make its awards. If the people's leaders will acquaint themselves with the Red Cross methods, many complications arising out of these emergencies will be avoided.

"In its rehabilitation work, the Red Cross gives relief on the basis of need and not loss. We try to restore to pre-disaster standards of living. We allow families to select their own merchants to purchase from and we don't allow anyone to buy luxuries with Red Cross awards. We seldom give cash direct to disaster sufferers.

1830 Dwellings Damaged.

"I made a personal survey of the St. Louis storm area and found 992 single houses damaged and 60 single houses destroyed. I counted 691 double or multiple houses damaged and 51 totally destroyed. In addition I counted 147 single stores over which or behind which families had been living. This made a total of 1830 dwellings damaged and 111 totally destroyed, not counting hotels, apartments, industrial plants, small shops, garages and the like.

"Now the Red Cross will have to rebuild or repair some of these houses. We do not know how many as yet. We rebuild or repair only for needy individuals, not for corporations or owners financially able to stand the loss.

"Many of the houses destroyed here were substantial brick dwellings in the heart of the city. The damage to these homes indicates that a wind of the same force would have swept everything if they had been frame houses. Some will have to be torn down and new buildings constructed to replace them in compliance with the requirements of the city.

Many Carried Insurance.

But the alleviating factors of the local problem is that many people carried insurance, a considerable number of the houses damaged or destroyed in the storm zone were owned by real estate firms or individuals able to restore them without aid of the Red Cross and that many of the occupants were transients.

Thus, while the rehabilitation costs will be more than in the country or small towns, fewer houses to rebuild will lighten the burden of the Red Cross in St. Louis.

"The relief problem, however, is complicated by the fact that many families affected by the tornado were buying on the installment plan and now owe for things they have not got. The result is the Red Cross will have to arrange many conferences with creditors.

"On the basis of past experience, we estimate between 60 and 80 per cent of the families registered by the Red Cross will receive aid in some degree. The registration of the St. Louis tornado disaster so far is nearly 4500.

Business Not Disrupted.

The percentage needing aid here may be smaller than in previous disasters for some employers have offered to underwrite the losses of their employes and friends have come to the aid of sufferers in large number. The fact that the public and business life of the city was not disrupted was the important favorable feature of this disaster. There has been no appreciable loss of employment.

"The relief situation here is peculiar in that several types of families are affected, from the poorest to the well-to-do. This makes the relief problem more difficult and longer to work out because the program cannot be standardized.

"Another complicating factor is that so much of the property in the storm area was mortgaged with the tornado insurance assigned to the mortgage holder. The result may be that many families will not get the benefit of their insurance.

Mental Shock Is Severe.

"The mental shock, severe in disasters like this, probably will not subside for six months and for children it may continue as long as five years. St. Louis must be careful on the anniversary of an event like this. Somebody is always starting rumors of another tornado and causing a panic among people with vivid memories of a previous disaster. St. Louis also should learn to be prepared by carrying all the insurance convenient to its resources."

Baker will remain in St. Louis indefinitely as consultant of the local chapter. He was persuaded to enter Red Cross work 10 years ago, he said, by Alfred Fairbank, head of disaster relief in the local chapter, now devoting his energies to the approaching Community Fund campaign.

BANK ROBBER SHOOTS 2, JAILED

Michigan Man Captured After Holdup at Amboy, Ind.

By the Associated Press.

AMBOY, Ind., Oct. 8.—Ray Arson, 28 years old, of Detroit, Mich., was in the Miami County jail at Peru, Ind., tonight, after shooting two men in an attempt to rob the Amboy State Bank this afternoon.

Arson entered the bank and asked to borrow $100. Drawing the cashier, Paul Norris, to one side, he shot him, the bullet shattering a bone in Norris' right knee. Then Arson scooped up about $2000 in currency and silver, and tied up Miss Kathryne Lindley, assistant cashier.

A crowd attracted by the shot barred Arson's way at the front of the bank, and he shot through the door, wounding Clispon Small, police officer from Kokomo. Small returned the fire. Then, holding Miss Lindley before him as a shield from further bullets, Arson made his way from the bank to an undertaking establishment around the corner, where he was captured. The loot was recovered.

SIGHTS WRECKAGE OF PLANE

Steamer Captain Thinks It May Be That of Redfern's Machine.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 8.—Capt. G. A. Patterson of the Nelson Line Steamer Buffalo Bridge, reported to the Hydrographic office here today that Oct. 2 he passed wreckage, apparently that of an airplane, about 48 miles east, southeast of Guantanamo, Cuba. He thought it might have been that of the plane in which Paul Redfern attempted to fly from Brunswick, Ga., to Brazil.

The fate of Redfern is still unknown.

FLYING CLUB SECRETARY, ROBERT A. CUSHMAN, TO WED

The engagement of Miss Betty Meigs of Lowell, Mass., to Robert Allerton Cushman of St. Louis was announced yesterday by Miss Meigs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Return Jonathan Meigs of that city. The date for the wedding has not yet been set.

Cushman, who departed for Lowell this morning, to be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Meigs for several days, until recently was a vice president of the St. Louis Aircraft Corporation and is secretary of the Flying Club. He is a son of Mrs. Ames Cushman of 6333 Ellenwood avenue.

Miss Meigs is a graduate of the Bennett School of Millbrook, N. Y., and of European schools. Cushman graduated from Morristown School, at Morristown, N. J., and Washington University.

DOG, ALIVE IN STORM RUINS 9 DAYS, SAVED

Searchers for Body of Man at 4201 Maryland Avenue Find Animal.

A police dag, looking even more hungry and gaunt than others of his kind, climbed meekly out of the ruins of a tornado-wrecked house at 4201 Maryland avenue yesterday afternoon, after having been imprisoned there nine days.

City firemen, using a borrowed crane, were searching in the ruins, following reports that Everett Vernon, a hotel chef, had been buried in the wreckage. Relatives of Vernon in Muncie, Ind., inquiring about him by telegraph, gave the Maryland avenue address as his.

Mrs. Belle Fisher was killed in the wreckage there. Her sister, Mrs. Josie Clinard, who lived there, and who is now with friends in South St. Louis, had said that everyone else at the house was accounted for, and that she did not know any such person as Vernon. However, the search went on, and about 2 p. m. the dog was found.

He had been in a basement compartment at the time of the storm, and the beams and pipes had fallen in such a way as to protect him from being crushed. He had been without food, though some water was probably within his reach at first. The family supposed that he had been killed.

The dog was taken to the home of the Jackson Johnson Jr. post of the American Legion, 4160 Lindell boulevard, and later was claimed by a son of Mrs. Clinard. His name is Mitch, the Clinards said. He ate ravenously, and is expected to recover within a few days. Just now he is meek as a lamb, with not a bark left in him.

Search for the missing man was continued.

ROBBERS HOLD UP THREE MEN IN SHOE STORE; TAKE $720

Mike Gillman, Owner, Says Intruder Knew Hiding Place of Money in Shoe Box.

Mike Gillman last night reported that he, his manager, Edward Mrazek, and a Negro porter, were held up at 8 o'clock in Gillman's shoe store at 7115 South Broadway by a man who locked them in a rear room and fled with $720.

Gillman said most of the money, the receipts of Friday and Saturday, had been secreted in a shoe box, the location of which the holdup man appeared to know in advance.

HEIRESS TO $1,000,000 TO WED ON WEDNESDAY

Miss Josephine Brinckworth to Become Bride of J. Reynolds Medart.

Miss Josephine Brinckwirth of 3742 West Pine boulevard, who recently came into inheritances totaling more than $1,000,000, is to be married next Wednesday to J. Reynolds Medart of 5406 Delmar boulevard.

The ceremony, at 11 a. m., will be at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Lindell and Grand boulevards, with the Rev. Father Tucker officiating.

Miss Brinckwirth, who is 21 years old, is the daughter of the late Louis Brinckwirth, brewer, who left more than $475,000 in securities and personal property to each of his three children. Brinckwirth's widow died two months after her husband's death, willing $105,000 to benevolences and the rest of her estate equally to her children.

In 1925 one of the children, Louis H. Brinckwirth, then 26, died and his estate was divided between his sister and a brother, Henry T. Brinckwirth. The estates of the children were augmented by real estate not listed in the securities inventory of the late brewer.

Miss Brinckwirth is a graduate of Maryville College of the Sacred Heart, St. Louis, having completed her course in 1926. Mr. Medart is the son of Walter R. Medart, president of the Medart Co., manufacturers of machinery, and is associated with his father. He is 26 years old and a graduate of Natre Dame University.

Miss Adelaide Grone, the bride's cousin, will be maid of honor, and she will be given away by her brother. Paul Fusz Ring will attend the bridegroom. After the ceremony a small reception, for the families and close friends, will be held at the Brinckwirth home. The bridal pair will depart immediately after the reception for a European journey of perhaps two or three months, visiting France, Spain and Italy.

Sculptor Engelmann's Bust of Col. Lindbergh

MGR. BRENNAN'S WILL MAKES SPECIFIC BEQUESTS OF $4300

Priest-Astronomer's Sister, Mrs. Bridget Sheehan, Receives All the Residue.

The will of Mgr. Martin S. Brennan, astronomer-priest, who died Oct. 3, was filed yesterday in Probate Court. Specific bequests totaling $4300 are made, after which the residue is left to Mgr. Brennan's sister, Mrs. Bridget Sheehan. Her son, John Sheehan Jr., is named as executor. No estimate has been made of the value of the estate.

Specific bequests follow: To the president of the St. Louis Roman Catholic Theological Seminary $1000 for masses; $1000 each to a brother, Patrick Brennan, and Archbishop Glennon, the latter bequest being for the benefit of SS. Mary and Joseph Parish, of which Mgr. Brennan was pastor; $200 each to Mgr. Dempsey's Hotel, Mount St. Rose Sanitarium, 9101 South Broadway; the Catholic Orphan Asylum, Academy of the Sisters of St. Joseph, 6400 Minnesota avenue; Fontbonne College in St. Louis County, and the Mullanphy Hospital; $100 to the Little Sisters of the Poor. Mgr. Brennan bequeathed his desk, drop lamp and telescopes to his assistant, the Rev. George Keating, and his library goes to C. Oscar Lanny, a nephew.

In the will, which was executed last Nov. 18, Mgr. Brennan wrote: "I commend my spirit to my Merciful Creator, Redeemer and Sanctifier and in the hope of a joyful resurrection I commit my body in Christian burial to the earth."

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BUY LINDBERGH BUST

To Contribute This Week for $5000 Memorial to Be Given to Historical Society.

A life-size bronze bust of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, to be presented to the Missouri Historical Society by the school children of St. Louis, is nearing completion. It is expected that the bust will be placed in Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park with appropriate ceremonies some time this month.

W. F. Engelmann, European sculptor, was commissioned by a group of St. Louisans to make the bust. Because of the inspiration to growing children in Col. Lindbergh's flight and his subsequent modest bearing in response to the world's applause the committee obtained the permission of the directors of public, parochial and private education in St. Louis and St. Louis County to make the bust the gift of school children.

The St. Louis Board of Education, at a recent meeting, approved a plan for contributions by public school children, individual donations not to exceed 10 cents. This limit was placed to enable children from poorer homes to give as much as those more fortunately situated. A similar plan will be followed in the parochial schools. Collections will be taken up this week in all the schools. In several private schools no limit has been placed on the amount of contributions.

The likeness of Col. Lindbergh fashioned by Engelmann was made possible through a motion picture sitting lasting but eight minutes. Due to the fact that the trans-Atlantic flyer had been literally on the wing almost continuously since his return to the United States, it would have been practically impossible for Engelmann to study his subject with the care necessary for a first-class piece of work.

Accordingly, during Col. Lindbergh's first visit to St. Louis following the flight he was placed in a specially fitted room at Hotel Coronado and 800 photographs of him were made. The photographs were made with a movie camera mounted on a circular track, shots being taken from a variety of angles as the camera revolved around the Colonel, who was seated in the center of the room. The sculptor subsequently studied the results of the photographs which were projected on a screen in his studio.

The movie sitting method was recently employed by Jo Davidson, sculptor, in making a bust of John D. Rockefeller, for which Davidson is reported to have received $50,000.

If, as is expected, the contributions of the school children exceed $5000—the cost of the bust—it is planned to use the funds in excess of this amount in supplying each donor with a picture of the bust and each school participating in the contribution with a similar framed memento.

Speaking of Pianos—

AND assuming you intend buying one, Conroys invite your attention to the fact that they have been in continuous operation under the same guidance for almost half a century.

IN that time we have, we believe, gathered sufficient knowledge to enable us to represent only the best Pianos in their respective grades. This has also been brought about by the fact that we purchase all instruments for cash and are not hampered by financial obligations of any sort.

PURCHASING an instrument on extended payments from Conroys does not work a hardship on the buyer nor increase the price. As a matter of fact, the interest charge is less than 4% on the entire amount, this unusual feature being made possible by the fact that we finance our customers' accounts, thereby eliminating carrying charges and other extremely high forms of interest rates.

A PIANO bought from Conroys is not only a safe investment but also an assurance of more than a reasonable amount of satisfaction years after the purchase price is forgotten.

NEW APARTMENTS MAY BE ERECTED IN WRECKED AREA

E. J. Russell, Chairman of City Plan Commission, Makes Suggestions as to Owners' Opportunities.

Many of the old-fashioned and even the newer dwellings wrecked in the tornado of Sept. 29 will be replaced with four-family flats and six-family apartments, in the opinion of E. J. Russell, architect and chairman of the City Plan Commission.

He said there was no practical suggestions for reconstruction for him to offer in his official capacity, beyond that for flats and apartments, which he believes to be the economic thing for this district, wherever wreckage is so great that replacement rather than minor repairs is necessary.

If the city had power to act immediately, the commission would urge establishment of Sarah street, an axis of the tornado havoc, as a broad boulevard. So many buildings on this street, across the West End, were destroyed that it would be comparatively simple to make the widened thoroughfare if the property could be made available immediately. Condemnation, however, would be necessary, and the accompanying delay would retard recovery of the storm district rather than facilitate it.

Chance to Buy Playgrounds.

The City Plan Commission has considered whether there was any other practical way in which it could take advantage of the damage to institute improvements, and has found one—playgrounds. Formerly, with its improvements, land in this thickly populated district was too expensive to acquire for playgrounds, but now the value left in many places is of the ground alone and it may be feasible to buy space with bond issue money. The old public schools in the section have inadequate yards.

Russell said the commission would like to get one or two playgrounds for white children and one or two for Negroes in this area. Each he said, should cover a city block. Parks he does not consider practicable, because they should occupy at least four blocks each.

"By and large," said Russell, "I feel there are going to be apartments and flats erected throughout the area of damage. It wouldn't pay to rebuild most of the single houses. The replacement will offer better living facilities, and I think this is bound to be a big help in the Negro housing problem. Many homes of Negroes were wrecked.

"I have been asking myself what I would do if I owned property in the tornado district. The answer is that, unless it was on a business street, there is only one thing to do—build apartments. And the term apartments really simmers down to flats.

"Practically all of the worst stricken zone is in districts where multiple-family dwellings, commercial or industrial buildings are permitted. Lindell boulevard, for instance, is all zoned for multiple dwellings. Delmar boulevard, as another instance, is zoned for industry, and it might be found to advantage to put industries in there. The value of property practically all over the area has been reduced to the value of the land.

Suggests Building Apartments.

"If owners of adjacent lots could consolidate them to furnish enough ground, it might be well to go in for larger apartments. If an old house was damaged 25 per cent, cost of repairs would represent about what the building cost when it was put up originally, and there is a question whether it would pay to restore it and rent it for a boarding house."

Because they are awaiting insurance settlements, and for other reasons, many owners of damaged or destroyed property are delaying their decision as to the future use of it. Some investors, it is known, are planning modern apartments on Lindell boulevard to command moderate rentals. Some boarding houses there were badly damaged.

An attorney for the Oliver Cadillac Co. yesterday told Mayor Miller the firm was anxious to build a $250,000 display room of pretentious design on the vacant lot at the southwest corner of Sarah street and Lindell boulevard, and asked the Mayor to sponsor an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would permit such structures in the section of Lindell, about three blocks long, which was damaged by the storm. The Mayor deferred his answer, awaiting expert advice.

The City Plan Commission has consistently opposed use of Lindell boulevard for commercial buildings, but in the interim between the old and new zoning ordinances a number of places which would be forbidden under both laws sprung up there, including automobile display and accessory shops, filling stations, stores and a mortuary.

Repairs on Lindell Boulevard.

Canvassing the stricken section of Lindell boulevard between Sarah street and Newstead avenue, a Post-Dispatch reporter found that permanent repairs had been started on a number of dwellings which suffered lesser damage.

At the corner of Lindell and Newstead is the mortuary of Charles L. Geraghty. The big front porch and other parts of the structure were blown away and the interior was damaged. It is to be repaired.

A three-story, six-family apartment at 4319 Lindell, owned by former Gov. Elliott W. Major, in which he resides, is to be rebuilt. He estimates his loss at $18,000 or $20,000, offset by $10,000 insurance.

One of the dwellings in this vicinity which was damaged the least was No. 4215, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kinder for a 12-room boarding house. Its owner is contemplating remodeling it as an apartment. Kinder, employed in Northwest St. Louis, did not know about the tornado until he approached his home that evening.

Hotel Little Damaged.

Apparently some deflection of the force of the wind conbined with good construction to save tall apartment houses near Whittier street and Lindeel boulevard from serious harm. The seven-story Windsor Apartment Hotel, at No. 4209, lost glass in 724 windows and tenants said the roof was damaged and some cracks appeared in the walls. Occupants stayed there

"So many of my friends have Kolster Radios"

"Why did I buy a Kolster? Simply because so many of my friends have one."

This typical reply tells the story of Kolster extra value, because although friends like to own the same sets criticism would be frank if results were not 'way ahead.

But the equipment which creates the greatest envy and the fastest purchase among friends is a Kolster Power Cone Speaker!

What this does for quality and volume in reception is a miracle. People get right out of their chairs and walk over amazed, for closer inspection.

This is but another example of Kolster value and scientific leadership. Compare values.

Then . . . you . . . will . . . buy . . . Kolster.

MEXICAN REBEL FORCE BOMBED BY FEDERAL PLANES

Gomez-Almada Insurgents Attacked From Air Near Perote, Newspaper at Capital Reports.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8.—Federal airplanes bombed the main body of the rebels under Gen. Arnulfo Diaz and Gen. Hector Almada, after scout planes had located them southeast of Perote, Vera Cruz, says the newspaper El Sol. The insurgents are believed to have suffered some casualties and are reported to have scattered, panic stricken.

Airplanes attached to Gen. Gonzalo Escobar's pursuing troops report that the rebels are apparently attempting to move toward the seacoast.

El Sol adds that the rebels are "pillaging the country and robbing the ranches and villages."

State Government Suspended.

The Federal senate has appointed Senator Abel Rodriguez of Chihuahua State to be provisional governor of the State of Vera Cruz. The State government of Vera Cruz has been suspended by the Federal government, which has assumed control because of the revolutionary situation. Rodriguez left tonight for Jalapa, the State capital, to take charge.

The insurgents tore up tracks and destroyed bridges on the Interoceanic railway between Puebla and Perote, to hamper pursuit by the Federals. Railroad repair gangs and army engineers are repairing the damaged sections, while Federal forces, operating with Jalapa as a base, are between the rebels and the coast and are maneuvering to prevent them from reaching the sea.

Gen. Obregon's Statement.

Gen. Obregon, who returned tonight to his home in Sonora State in the belief that the revolt is so far suppressed that his services in President Calles war council are no longer needed, issued a statement charging that Gomez, Serrano and other rebels sought to settle the presidential succession by force of arms fearing the result of a Democratic ballot. His statement follows:

"The Calles Government has had eloquent opportunity to demonstrate to the world that its policies have merited the sanction of the whole country, because upon he Gomez-Serrano revolutionary movement being attempted, the entire nation, with very rare exceptions, condemned the movement, protested adhesion, to the government and readiness to uphold with arms if necessary the institutions that the government represents and has known so successfully how to defend.

"If the Gomez-Serrano effort had had an echo in the public conscience, its armed movement would not have been confined to half a dozen faithless army officers, not even supported by their subordinates, but, instead, there would have been many outbreaks which would have surged spontaneously among the civilian elements of the towns and rural districts.

"But now the nation will be convinced that among the grand fruits the revolution (meaning the movement beginning with Madero that overthrew Porfirio Diaz and led ultimately to the Obregon and Calles Governments) has brought us, is the incomparable benefit of making impossible that the triumph of military revolution can be a decisive factor in our political campaigns; but, on the contrary, showing that such questions are to be settled by democratic campaigns, judged exclusively by public opinion.

"With regard to Gomez, there never was any danger that he would succeed in grouping around his personality any significant nucleus of members of the army. His vanity caused him to consider himself superior to everybody else, for which other army officers could not pardon him for the errors into which false friends led him.

Blames Hostile Elements.

"These friends profited so much while Serrano (who has been executed) was Governor of the Federal District that they figured how much more would they profit if Serrano were President, so they proclaimed him their candidate.

"Serrano, despite his graciousness and talent, had not had contact with the popular soul and spirit of the nation, nor had he ever done anything which constituted a guarantee of the proletariat of the towns and country, as opposed to the interests of reaction within or without our country.

"The recent tragic developments may surprise foreign and superficial observers, but not those of us who, being in the fight for all these years, know the elements opposing the triumph of the Mexican revolution (another reference to the movement beginning with Madero).

"Those elements succeeded in alluring Gomez to their designs, understanding that they could not control public opinion enough in a fair democratic election and determining to resort to an attempt at arms.

"I told friends early in the presidential election campaign that within 90 days my opponents, seeing their inability to win in a fair election, would resort to arms, but that, because of the organization, discipline and high sense of duty of the army, very few military elements would follow them, and the effort would be a complete failure. My prediction has been verified."

An early report from Queretaro to the newspaper El Universal Grafico stating that Gen. Gavira had been killed while leading a detachment of rebels proved to be untrue, when the General called at the office of the newspaper tonight. Gen. Gavira denied that he ever had been connected with the revolutionary movement.

NEW APARTMENTS MAY BE ERECTED IN WRECKED AREA

even though they were without electricity, elevator service and telephones for six days. Women who were inside during the tornado asserted they felt the structure rock and one of them described the air outside as "full of boards." So much dirt, followed by rain, was blown inside that the walls are muddy.

Among dwellings in the neighborhood under repair are those at Nos. 4235 and 4239 Lindell.

Whether the old residence of former Mayor Rolla Wells, at No. 4228, which has been headquarters of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and the adjoining house at No. 4218, also owned by Wells, shall be repaired has not been decided. The club structure was badly damaged, the entire front collapsing, but the other house suffered lightly. The club may return to the Wells house, but if it does not it will be re-established in the immediate vicinity. A large force of men and girls was working in the club when the tornado came, but all escaped. Of the great mass of records there, the only loss was of the mailing list, which can be replaced. The club set up temporary quarters on the Locust-Lindell cut-off within 10 hours.

BLAMES INSINCERE OFFICERS FOR LAX ENFORCEMENT

Conference of Southern Methodist Indorses Activities of W. C. T. U. and Anti-Saloon League.

VISITORS TODAY WILL FILL LOCAL PULPITS

Resolution Says Some Officials Apparently Have Tried to Prove Prohibition Can't Be Enforced.

Resolutions indorsing prohibition, law enforcement and the activities of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and Anti-Saloon League were adopted at the closing business session of the St. Louis Conference, Methodist Church, South, at Centenary Church yesterday.

The resolution on prohibition was read by the Rev. O. H. Duggins of St. Louis and the Rev. P. A. Kasey of Poplar Bluff. It stated in part: "Furthermore, this Methodist conference believes that the alleged failures in the enforcement of the prohibition laws have been primarily due to the fact that we have had too many men charged with responsibilities of enforcing the laws, whose purpose seems not to have been enforcing the law but to demonstrate that the law cannot be enforced."

J. T. Self of East Prairie, chairman of the Bible Committee, reported his committee distributed 9,000,000 Bibles last year and also had given out 1,000,000 copies of the Acts of the Apostles. He presented Presiding Elder A. C. Johnson of the Cape Girardeau District with a Bible in appreciation of his work in Southeast Missouri.

Other Reports Heard.

Reports also were heard from the Board of Education of which the Rev. A. F. Smith of Nashville, Tenn., is president; the Board of Finance of which T. W. Tadlock of St. Louis is president; the Board of Hospitals of which Dawson C. Bryan of St. Louis is president, and the Board of Lay Activities of which J. Will Pierce of Cape Girardeau is president.

The district lay leaders last year were A. E. Whittaker of St. Louis, J. W. Reeves of Leadwood, R. M. McCombs of Jackson, Fred Spell of Poplar Bluff and W. A. Ruggles of St. James.

Bishop McMurry appointed the Rev. C. W. Tadlock and former United States Senator X. P. Willfley to study and compare the history of Methodism in Missouri, following the motion of the Rev. Clarence Burton of De Soto, Mo., that the conference should take action to preserve Methodist history, especially in Missouri. They will co-operate with Dr. J. E. Godbey of Kirkwood.

Visitors Occupy Pulpits.

PROPOSES HIGHER CORN TARIFF

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 8.—A suggestion that President Coolidge advance the duty on corn imports 50 per cent has been made to the President by Gov. John Hammill. The Governor's telegram was prompted by the fact that Argentine corn now is being received on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards of the United States in open competition with the producers of this country and at lower transportation costs since the shipments are largely used as ballast on return voyages from the Southern Continent. Corn schedules of the protective tariff now call for a duty of 15 cents a bushel.

JUGO-SLAV ANGER RISES IN SPITE OF BULGAR PLEDGES

Envoy Reports Assurances From Sofia That Steps Will Be Taken to End Trouble on Border.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 8.—M. Nechitch, Jugo-Slavian Minister to Bulgaria, has informed his Government of the results of his conversation with M. Bouroff, Bulgarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, over the recent border raids and the assassination of Brigadier-General Michael Kovachevitch.

Assurances were given him that Sofia is doing everything possible to put a stop to the activities of the comitadjis, or irregulars, but the Government is handicapped because of the small number of troops at its disposal, due to the provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

Feeling in Belgrade is still running high. Fear was expressed that there will be public manifestations tomorrow morning when Gen. Kovachevitch is buried here. The National Defense Association has issued a manifesto to its members as well as all other patriotic organizations to attend the funeral in a body to protest against "the heinous outrage."

Officers, both active and reserve, students at the universities, also have announced their intention of participating in a manifestation.

Semiofficial Jugo-Slavian advices are that Bulgaria must follow up the conciliatory declarations of its Minister of Foreign Affairs by the immediate suppression of pro-Macedonian organizations.

Should criminal incursions into Jugo-Slav territory, organized in Bulgaria, continue, it is the feeling in circles close to the Government that good relations between the two countries will become impossible.

Bulgaria Says It Disapproves Guerrilla Activities.

By the Associated Press.

W. R. SCHNEIDER ASSAILS BAKER'S ECONOMY CLAIMS

State Government Per Capita Cost $15.42, Not $1.66, Candidate Tells G. O. P. Editors.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 8.—Disagreement with the claims of the Baker administration that economy is being practiced by the State government developed today in Republican official circles, when State Representative W. R. Schneider of St. Louis, Speaker pro tem of the House of Representatives of the Missouri Legislature, attacked contention of Republican State officials that there was no governmental waste.

Speaking before the Republican Editorial Association, in session here, Schneider took issue with statements of Gov. Baker that a record of economy was being maintained in all departments and answered assertions of other Republican state officials that a real budget system was in use in the State government.

Schneider is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination on a platform of elimination of waste in State government, consolidation of departments and adoption of business budgetry methods. He led the fight in the 1927 Legislature for a departmental consolidation, uniform accounting and budget bill, proposed by the Missouri Association of Economy in public Expenditures. The bill was defeated, largely through the opposition of Baker and other elective Republican state officials.

People Are Disgusted.

"The scandals, waste and governmental inefficiency which have thus far come to light in the present administration emphasize the need of my platform," said Schneider. "The people of this State are disgusted with the rapidly increasing cost of government and the inexcusable waste of their tax money."

He said the per capita cost of State government in Missouri was $15.42 a year, based on the appropriations made by the last Legislature, instead of the figure of $1.66 given by Gov. Baker in an address last night.

The editors indorsed a proposal for an additional bond issue to hasten completion of the State highway system, the amount to be determined by the State Highway Commission. An additional bond issue of $100,000,000 to expedite construction of the present system, and provide for necessary additional mileage is being advocated by the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Baker Not to Seek Office.

The Baker administration was commended in another resolution, which invited close scrutiny of State affairs, and asserted investigation would show "economical and business-like operation of all affairs of State" under Gov. Baker and other Republican State officials.

Gov. Baker, who has been mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United State Senator in 1928, and as a possibility for the Republican nominee for the vice-presidency, has definitely eliminated himself as a candidate for office in 1928. In an address before the Republican editors, Baker said he would not be a candidate for any office.

A Hard Job!

Looking at the bright side of life is easy to preach, but not so easy to practice.

To a man with an income of $12,000 a year things look much brighter than to a man with an income of only $1200, but many men in the humbler walks of life raise families on less than $1200.

But it is only by self denial that such things are accomplished—a most admirable trait—and productive of a satisfied conscience which is consoling.

Many of the nation's greatest men came from the humblest parentage. It's often a blessing to be poor!

AMERICANS GET CONTROL OF RAILROAD BRITISH SOUGHT

Federal Court Awards Committee 20,345 Shares of Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Line.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8.—Control of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad falls definitely into American hands as a result of the decision in Federal Court in Topeka today, awarding the American noteholders' committee 20,345 of the 35,000 shares of stock in the road offered to the gold note holders.

The control of the road, however, according to W. T. Kemper, Kansas City, president, will be widely scattered, no small group holding a majority of the stock. The largest individual holders of stock, Kemper said, are Hubert F. Hall of Kansas City and R. F. Hodgkins of Los Angeles.

The appointment by the Federal Court gives the American committee control of about 58 per cent of the stock of the railroad. The decision ends the fight of British note holders, who held about one third of the notes of the road, Kemper said, to gain control.

NO GOLDEN HORSESHOE IN NEW METROPOLITAN

Joseph Urban's Designs Call for Quarter-Circle of Only 35 Boxes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—There will be no golden horseshoe in the new Metropolitan Opera House. That famous society institution which has survived 43 years in the old opera house, will be replaced by a modest quarter circle of only 35 boxes—there are 34 in the old—according to the design Joseph Urban is preparing.

Urban's plans are described by Deems Taylor, composer and critic, in Musical America.

Ranged in a sweeping quarter circle, 5372 persons will be able both to see and hear the opera, in the great auditorium he has conceived. The present auditorium holds only 3600 and of these at least a third cannot see all of the stage. Above the orchestra will range only three tiers of seats. Five are piled one above the other in the Metropolitan's old home.

For the first time in the history of the American theater, Taylor believes, the architect has provided for standing room, enough to accommodate 500 persons comfortably and, what is more, his plans call for special smoking and refreshment rooms for the standees.

The new theater is to rise in Fifty-seventh street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, 18 blocks north and one block west of the present structure. A part of the plan is a studio apartment tower. The exterior will present strong vertical lines, in keeping with the new style of architecture, and its novelty, ingenuity and completeness, Taylor writes, are something for the student to wonder at.

The front part of the stage is a huge elevator, by which an entire scene may be sunk underground while another is brought forward without lowering the curtain.

Urban's plans are as yet unfinished, and no date has been set for the start of the actual construction.

Mother of Seven Kills Husband.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Tenn., Oct. 8.—Despondency because of ill health is believed to have prompted Mrs. Charles Nelson, mother of seven children, to kill her husband at their home here and turn a shotgun on herself, inflicting wounds which physicians say probably will cause death.

MORE INFANTILE PARALYSIS

New Case Reported at Harrisburg, Missouri.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 8.—The Boone County health unit announced today that a new case of infantile paralysis had been found at Harrisburg, 16 miles northwest of Columbia, where Vivian Forbis, nine years old, is the third member of her family to be stricken with the malady. Her brother, Nathan, 13, and a sister, Alline, 6, were stricken last week. This makes the twelfth case in Boone County since Aug. 19.

There are two cases at Columbia, three at Harrisburg, two at Woodlandville, three at Brown's Station, one at Dripping Springs and one at Ashland. One death had resulted from the disease in the county. Two cases in Columbia, those of Miss Virginia Hale and W. L. Nelson Jr., are improving.

It has not been our custom in publicity advertising to publish the ills and heirs of our fellowman but we are printing herein a letter from one of our patrons which tells the story of the wonderful curative properties of the Health Circle. READ IT!

ST. LOUIS, MO., SEPT. 28, 1927

RESTORO MAGNETIC HEALTH BELT COMPANY,
5809 DELMAR BLVD., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Gentlemen:—

I'll tell the world I'm for you and this great blessing you are offering to suffering humanity. It is changing me from a helpless invalid to a human being; in other words, from a physical wreck to a physical man.

The intelligent and sincere explanation of the Restoro by Mr. F. C. Davis, Manager of your Delmar Blvd. Office, induced me to give it a trial. I was very skeptical at first, just as many others are. I knew I had taken medicines and drugs for years and had submitted to chiropractic treatments and thought there would be no harm in trying the Restoro. I had begun to feel there was no hope for cure in my case. My suffering started in 1905 with Rheumatism or Lumbago in my back. It continued to grow on me and for the past six years I have been a helpless invalid, having virtually no use of my lower limbs. I was stooped in half circle, and my arms and legs were beginning to lose their feeling. I was in constant pain; rest was unknown to me. At the age of 60 years I had almost reached the point of desperation, for my money was gone and I was entirely dependent upon the generosity of others.

I started taking Restoro treatments 12 days ago. I truthfully state I can feel complete recovery with a few more applications. I am now able to work, the first in nearly 6 years and am continually on my feet, without the aid of two crutches or canes that I have used for about 6 years. Today I am working and happy and it is only through Restoro that it was made possible. I have lived in St. Louis over 46 years and in the vicinity of Delmar and Goodfellow for 32 years, being known to nearly every man, woman and child in that neighborhood, and any of my friends will quickly tell you what a miracle has been performed in my case through the use of the Restoro. That's why "I'll tell the world" I am for the Restoro Magnetic Health Belt. Here's wishing I could talk to every suffering creature and help them to help themselves through Restoro.

Yours very truly, (Signed) W. SCOTT.

SAYS ORIENT OFFERS U. S. BIG TRADE FIELD

Congressman Dyer, After Tour, Declares China Is Best Opportunity.

Trade with the Orient, particularly China, offers the United States the best opportunity for business expansion, Congressman L. C. Dyer said to the World Trade Club and Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce last night upon his return from his third trip of inquiry into the Far East. He was guest of honor at a dinner in Hotel Jefferson.

Dyer, after relating measures for facilitating trade which Congress has passed, gave the following as the most recent figures upon trade with China and Japan: China imported $52,143,000 of American goods in the first six months of 1927, compared with $110,000,000 in 1926, and compared with $157,000,000 of our goods taken by Italy. China exported to the United States $101,000,000 of goods, chiefly raw materials, in the first six months of 1927, compared with $143,000,000 for 1926.

Japan took $142,000,000 of American goods in the first six months of 1927, compared with $260,000,000 in 1926 and sent $225,000,000 of goods to the United States, compared with $400,000,000 in 1926.

Opens China to Business.

Dyer said that, at his instance, Congress passed a law exempting American companies organized for business in China from certain taxes and that in the three years since passage, 54 companies have been granted charters for trade in China, with a total capital of $19,000,000. In addition, he said, there are 617 other American concerns with agents or offices in China and that the invested capital represented through 12,500 Americans living there is approximately $125,000,000.

"When China has put down militarism and established a stable Government, our opportunities there will be stupendous," he said.

Dyer said that, although American shipping laws had been liberalized to encourage shipping in American bottoms to the Orient, that we had not made our laws comparable to the similar laws of other nations, but that ships flying the American flag and operated by private companies were doing a flourishing business with the East.

In conclusion, Dyer said: "What I have said so far would seem to indicate that my sole interest in China is foreign trade—dollars and cents. That is not true, however. I want to see that great country remain intact until it has eliminated militarism and established a stable civil Government, as well as improved its domestic economic conditions. Pending this, the United States will stand by China and prevent its dismemberment. When China has done her part, special privileges and unequal treaties will be a thing of the past. Then that great country will go forward and take her rightful place in the world of nations."

Hawes and Neun Speak.

Other speakers at the dinner, which was attended by about 350 persons, were President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, Senator Hawes, Dr. W. F. Gephart, president of the World Trade Club; Lon Sanders, a Chamber of Commerce leader and prospective Democratic candidate for Governor, and the toastmaster, Robert E. Lee.

Holders of many Federal, State and City offices and other politicians were present. Former Congressman Newton, Chairman Kiel of the Republican State Committee and Congressmen Niedringhaus and Cochran were among those at the speakers' table.

Senator Hawes declared there was no reason why the commerce of 26 states should not go by water from the Mississippi valley to China, with only one change of vessel (at New Orleans), and be exchanged for the wealth of the Orient for return by the same route.

Dr. Gephart said it was too bad China had not sent us some missionaries while we were sending missionaries there, so that Americans might be taught Chinese poise and calmness. He told of the affection the 500 Chinese residing in St. Louis have for Congressman Dyer. Lee remarked that the Dyer act, relating to interstate theft of automobiles, had saved millions of dollars for the motor business, and recalled that Congressman Dyer had been awarded a Congressional Medal for his bravery as a soldier at Santiago in 1898.

SCHUMANN-HEINK RENEWS ACQUAINTANCES IN ST. LOUIS

Diva Says She Will Not Return Professionally, After Her Recital Tomorrow Night

Ernestine Schumann-Heink, her pre-eminence as an interpretative genius unshadowed after more than half a century, is renewing old St. Louis acquaintances at Hotel Statler. She is in St. Louis for her farewell song recital tomorrow evening at the Odeon.

"I shall not return professionally," she said. "And I love St. Louis. It's 29 years now since my first concert here. I wept when I read of your tornado. If 'the boys' "—so she spoke of World War veterans, for whom she sang even on street corners in war time—"if 'the boys' are giving a benefit some time and ask me to sing a few songs, I shall be glad to return, for them; but not for my pocketbook."

Mme. Schumann-Heink plans to retire and devote herself to the training of young talent. "I feel that I can do much good in that way," she said. "In the war I had occasion to do something for the boys. Now I mean to do something for the girls. But I can never repay the people of the blessed United States for giving me my opportunity."

Musical Program at Luncheon.

A musical program will be given at the weekly luncheon of the Scottish Rite Club Tuesday noon at the Annex Hotel, when Fred Colber, concert pianist, will play and Clay Ballew, baritone of the Scottish Rite Choir, will sing.

BOWLING BALL DROPS IN AUTO

Crashes Through Top of Sedan From Fourth Floor.

A 12-pound bowling ball, accidentally dropped from a fourth floor window, crashed through the top of a sedan parked at Eighth street and Washington avenue, at 5:45 p. m. Friday, and landed at the feet of the occupant, Mrs. Gladys Davies, 130 Maple avenue, Kirkwood. She was not injured.

The ball came from the Washington Recreation Parlors, southeast corner of Eighth and Washington.

Corn Reaches 16 Feet in Height.

CASSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 8.—Two stalks of corn grown on the Rockhouse Cave farm of John England, near here, measured 16 feet and 15 feet 9 inches, respectively, and each had two unusually large ears of corn. The lower ear on the taller stalk was 10 feet from the ground. Corn in Barry County this year has done exceptionally well, farmers say.

BEEF STEERS RULE STEADY TO LOWER

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Wk.	Pr. Wk.	Last Yr.
Cattle and calves	38,783	42,104	40,312
Hogs	59,753	57,918	65,924
Sheep	10,748	12,088	18,887
Horses and mules	1,915	2,223	1,190
Totals	111,201	114,430	126,313

Despite a comparatively light run of cattle here the past week a lower price trend developed in many classes, medium and plain kinds penalized most severely. Best finished beef steers sold about steady; medium and plain kinds 25c to 50c off. Top was $15.75 for medium weight steers, several cars of heavies cashing from $13.25 to $15.25, the latter price for some over 1500 lbs. in weight. Bulk of all native sold from $10.50 to $14.75. Western steers fell off sharply in volume, prices ruling steady to 25c lower for the week. Top was $11 for some Kansas grassers, bulk of sales $7.75 to $9.75 and low end $6.75. Mixed yearling steers and heifers sold steady from $11 up; low priced kinds 25c to 50c off. A few heifers sold up to $13.50; bulk of sales $11.50 to $14. Medium kinds cleared at $8 to $11 largely; several cars of Oklahoma heifers $8.50. Top beef cows occasionally above $9; bulk of beef grades $6.25 to $7.50; bulk cutter cows $5.25 to $5.75; bulk canner cows $4.50 to $5. Prices steady to strong for the week on all classes.

Bulls advanced 25c to 50c; top bologna at $5.25; bulk $5.25 to $5; beef grades in the $5 column. Common and canner bulls sold from $5.50 to $6 largely. Stocker and feeder steers sold about steady during the week, movement slow but a good clearance effected. Bulk made $6.60 to $8.05; better kinds at $9 or better in a few instances. She stuff sold strong. A decreased demand for veals caused by Jewish religious holidays brought a decline of $2 on top calves; first cuts in proportion. Heavy calves also were penalized and almost unsalable late in the week. Canner yearlings closed 25c to 40c lower. In the week's final sessions top veals brought $14 and $14.50; first cuts around $11.50 to $12; heavy calves $6 to $8 and canner yearlings $5.25 to $5.50.

More Lighter Weight Hogs Arrive.

The market Saturday was somewhat slow and a weakness was featured in butcher weight hogs. Light weights held full steady with yesterday. Packers gave the trade good support, the trade and a good clearance was effected. Heavy and medium weights, in fact, anything over 240 lbs were about 25c lower and the market on these weights was nominally steady. Bulk of the 200 to 240 lbs cashed at $11.40 to $11.65, with a few weighing around 180 lbs up to $11.75. Hogs scaling 150 to 180 lbs brought $11.50 to $11.80, higher than regular top. Weighty hogs 250 lbs to 300 lbs are quotable at $11.50 to $11.75, according to the merits of the trade. Bulk of all desirable hogs sold right on the top end of $11.40 to $11.80. Pigs and light lights were in good demand Saturday, but were scarce. Prices averaged 25c to 50c higher in active market. Bulk of 90 to 130 lb pigs made $9.50 to $10.50, with weighty kinds, 130 to 140 lbs, $10.50 to $10.75. Packing sows were about steady under a slow demand, with some made $10. Bulk $9.75 to $9.85. Stags steady at $8 to $9.

The approximate number of swine received in the past week totaled 183,000, more than the same period last week and 10,000 less than the same time last year. Trade was generally fair to good. Supply of heavy and extreme heavy hogs was noted, with any material increase in the supply of lighter weight swine. Although the market fluctuated quite frequently the week's trade was orderly and fairly healthy due no doubt to their scarcity, were constantly moving upward. At the close of the week's trade the bulk of hogs sold at $11.80 to $12 and a little buying by packing houses. The close was unchanged to one point net higher. Approximate sales, 45,000 head. December closed 12.83; January 2.88; March 2.80; May 2.88; July 2.97; September 3.05.

LATE STOCK RISE PUT ON CREDIT EASE

Stock Market Has Risen, Not on Prospect of Bigger Earnings or Larger Dividends Primarily, but on Pressure of Money in Search of Employment, Said to Be View.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

The wholly unprecedented advance in stocks since July, superimposed on a level already high, has amazed the world more than any part of the long upswing since 1921, for this recent spirited rise is linked in the opinion of most people to the Federal Reserve System's easy money program. Nobody would contend that the Federal Reserve authorities set out early in August to keep money rates low for the purpose of forcing stocks higher, but the consensus is that in their operations to promote easy money here, both in the interests of the situation overseas and to smooth the way for our own Government financing this fall, they have indirectly stirred up the market. Heavy security purchases by the Federal Reserve Banks in the last two months have resulted in an outpouring of funds from the system, stimulating a perior of unseasonable ease in money. Other underlying influences have been at work to the same end, of course.

Money Seeks Employment.

"While the soundness of the business structure everywhere is recognized, those who follow such matters know that the stock market has risen not on the prospect of bigger earnings or larger dividends primarily, but on the pressure of money in search of employment. The market's recent bulge is so closely related to the money position that the financial district believes its immediate future depends pretty largely upon the trend of funds. That is why those who anticipate a continuation of easy money see no danger of a precipitate drop in stocks, and why some expect that the major downturn, in stocks will not come until the Federal Reserve System moves its rates up. It is difficult to read between the lines of the Federal Reserve's statements any definite sign of dearer money in the near future. Notwithstanding an expansion in the earning assets of the Federal Reserve representing member banks from $19,718,000,000 early in February to a present record high of $21,000,000,000 or $1,282,000,000 the member banks have not been obliged to increase their borrowings from the Federal Reserve Banks.

Earning Assets Rise.

"Not since 1924, when the earnings assets of the member banks in a similar period rose even more, has the effect of cheap money been so plainly revealed. Neither for 1924 nor 1927 to date do the records show any great expansion in commercial loans. In the absence of heavy increased demands from business during this period of 1924, when money was at its lowest since the war, the flow of funds was turned into loans or securities and into investments. Likewise in the earning assets from member banks represents an extension of loans on stocks and bonds and of investments by the banks themselves. So pronounced an expansion of 'member bank earning assets without any commensurate increase in discounts at the Federal Reserve Banks has been built on net gold imports for the year to date of roughly $180,000,000. If the inflow of yellow metal should cease, the member banks to continue the multiplication of their earning assets would have to discount their paper in larger volume at the Federal Reserve Banks.

Gold Movement Question.

"But it is not at all certain that the gold import movement is over, and even if it should now cease the Federal Reserve Banks are in excellent position to extend additional credit to their members. All of which is to say that the signs at present favorable for a continuation of low money rates outnumber those on the horizon that indicate firming tendencies. From all standpoints the position of money has become the dominant consideration of those whose business it is to follow the security markets and to forecast business. Unquestionably the prevalence of money available at reasonable rates will tend to encourage business leaders but fortunately it has not so far stimulated an unhealthy inflation of commodity prices. Any appreciable advance in commodities could absorb funds in an increasing amount and tighten money. But it is by no means yet certain that the general commodity curve has started on a major upward movement.

RECORDS MARK AN EVENTFUL WEEK IN FINANCIAL WORLD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The stock market, after having created a new altitude record this week, turned reactionary on selling inspired by speculative uneasiness over the huge increase in brokers' loans and the disappointing character of current trade reports. Mexican revolutionary disturbances also were a bearish factors as the week closed. Bond prices were firm in reflection of the relatively easy credit situation, reaching the highest general levels since 1913. Transfer of American capital to London, where higher interest rates are available, was indicated in a further advance in sterling to above $4.87, the highest since December, 1914. German marks shared interest with sterling in the foreign exchange market, touching a new high record at 23.85 cents in response to the raising of the Reichsbank's rediscount rate.

For the first time this year and the ninth time in the history of the stock exchange, total sales crossed the 3,000,000 share mark on Tuesday when 688 individual issues were dealt in, also a new high record.

Stock exchange member loans, made public after the market closed on Tuesday, increased $241,000,000 in September, bringing the total at the end of the month to record-breaking volume just under four billion dollar. The weekly Federal Reserve figures, made public on Thursday, showed a gain or nearly $200,000,000, making the total for member institutions $3,395,233,000, also a record. This huge absorption of credit by the securities markets at a time when leading lines of business were scarcely holding their own in comparison with last year naturally was the subject of widespread comment.

Rise in Sterling.

Apart from the rise in sterling, there were no changes of importance among the leading foreign exchanges.

The weekly Clearing House statement showed another deficit in reserve; this time it was $10,425,530 against $23,772,560 a week ago. Aggregate reserve was $604,741,000. The detailed statement of actual condition this day showed increases of $2,029,000 in cash in own vaults and $569,000 in time deposits, but decreases in all other principal items. Loans, discounts and investments dropped $134,823,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $13,007,000, and net demand deposits $199,650,000.

LOWER TREND TO STOCK PRICES IN WEEK-END TRADE

Series of Bullish Demonstrations in Few Specialties Bring Late Covering — Sterling Cables at Highest Since 1914.

Total stock sales, 1,079,090 shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The stock market worked steadily lower in today's brief session until just before the close, when a series of bullish demonstrations in a few specialties induced sufficient covering elsewhere to wipe out, or reduce many of the early declines. Final quotations were mainly lower, with the declines running from 1 to 4 points. Trading was fairly heavy, total sales crossing the million mark.

Outside the stock market chief interest centered in the brisk rise of about $2.50 a bale in cotton futures on publication of the Government crop condition report, and the further advance in sterling to above $4.87, a new high record since December, 1914. Sale of dollars and purchase of sterling was believed to reflect the transfer of American capital to London, where higher interest rates are available.

Mexican Affairs Watched.

Speculative Wall Street showed a disposition today to pay more attention to Mexican news and its possible effect on securities values. Shares of companies with properties in Mexico were under pressure. Greene-Cananea Copper breaking more than 4 points and then recovering half its loss, while American Smelting fell back 13. Shares of oil companies operating south of the Rio Grande yielde only fractionally, but they had been rather thoroughly liquidated previously because of the dispute over the land laws and oil royalty rights.

Further liquidation of the steel shares reflected the disappointing character of the fall business to date and the waning hopes of traders who had looked for a resumption of dividends on Bethlehem Steel common this year. Oils also reflected the unsettled conditions in that industry, new 1927 lows being recorded by Midcontinent, Pan-American, Western B., Phillips and California Petroleum. Tidewater Oil preferred jumped 4 points, however. Cuban sugars were heavy on reports of a large European crop, Cuba Cane and Punta Alegre sinking to new lows for the year.

Public utilities presented several points of strength, American Telephone, Abitibi Power, Montana Power and Engineers Public Service common and preferred, all reaching new high ground. Columbia Gas and Electric sold down about 3 points. United Drug was the outstanding strong spot among the specialties, soaring more than 7 points to a new high at 188½.

Rise in Sterling.

Apart from the rise in sterling, there were no changes of importance among the leading foreign exchanges.

The weekly Clearing House statement showed another deficit in reserve; this time it was $10,425,530 against $23,772,560 a week ago. Aggregate reserve was $604,741,000. The detailed statement of actual condition this day showed increases of $2,029,000 in cash in own vaults and $569,000 in time deposits, but decreases in all other principal items. Loans, discounts and investments dropped $134,822,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $13,007,000, and net demand deposits $199,650,000.

change market, touching a new high record at 23.85 cents in response to the raising of the Reichsbank's rediscount rate.

For the first time this year and the ninth time in the history of the stock exchange, total sales crossed the 3,000,000 share mark on Tuesday when 688 individual issues were dealt in, also a new high record.

Stock exchange member loans, made public after the market closed on Tuesday, increased $241,000,000 in September, bringing the total at the end of the month to record-breaking volume just under four billion dollar. The weekly Federal Reserve figures, made public on Thursday, showed a gain or nearly $90,000,000, making the total for member institutions $3,395,233,000, also a record. This huge absorption of credit by the securities markets at a time when leading lines of business were scarcely holding their own in comparison with last year naturally was the subject of widespread comment.

Steel Shares Heavy.

Steel shares were distinctly heavy, although a further slight increase in mill operations was reported during the week. September steel production figures showed a falling off of 17¼ per cent, compared with last year.

STOCK TRADE BROADER, TOTAL SALES SMALLER

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Oct. 8.—A larger number of individual stocks figured in transactions on the local market the past week, but the aggregate sales did not measure up to the total of preceding period. Trade was better distributed.

Missouri Portland part paid stock was the individual leader in point of trade, yet sales amounted to only 721 shares. A net gain of 2 points was shown for the period. St. Louis Public Service gained fractionally. Waltke did better late in the week. Burkart issues reacted some. Laclede Steel at 180 was up from last previous sale of 166, but turnover was only 13 shares.

Hamilton-Brown was unchanged to lower at final session of week. Scullin Steel participating was fractionally higher.

BOND LIST STEADY IN WEEK-END TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Although weekend profit taking today caused a halt in the march of many bonds into new high territory, the list as a whole was steady, and one or two of the outstanding leaders of the past week again improved their previous best prices. With money conditions still easy, and with the relatively small aggregate of $70,000,000 in new issues offering limited competition, there were no developments to bring about any general softening in prices.

Realizing was most extensive in certain foreign securities which have been buoyant recently, including German and Italian issues. Polish 8s and 6s were easy in consequence of conflicting reports concerning the proposed $70,000,000 loan to the Republic.

Erie refunding 5s were again among the buyers' favorites, a rather large amount changing hands as high as 97⅝, the best price ever attained. The issue closed at 97, fractionally higher than yesterday's best figure. Rock Island 4½s duplicated their previous peak, but later softened. Some of the Baltimore & Ohio lines were slightly lower.

There was fair demand for Gulf States Steel 5s, but industrials, as well as public utilities, were generally quiet. Buying of Liggett Steel Car 5s appeared to have run its course, for the moment, at least. United States Government securities were irregular and dull.

TRADE VOLUME LARGE ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Most significance in today's dealings on the Curb Exchange was the manner in which quotations of many securities improved without encountering nearby offerings. Trading in the general list continued in large volume for a half holiday session which was enlarged by profit taking in shares that have enjoyed material advances. Motor shares were compelled to recede from the levels reached on the recent upturn. Ford Motor of Canada declined 4 points early and a yielding tendency appeared in Studebaker, Reo Motor Truck, Nevada California Electric rose 4½ points and Southern Cities Utilities sold at 76 on 4½s, bonds from the preceding transaction. Celanese Corporation gained 2¾ points and high quotations for the year were established in Cities Service preferred and Seeman Brothers.

In the later dealings heaviness developed in Great Lakes Dredging, Deere & Co., and Maryland Casualties, which issues declines ranged from 3 to 6 points.

Several lower priced mining shares proved to have been taken in hand in the last few sessions for a renewal of bullish activities, observers said, probably following the lead of the substantial advance in Newmont Mining.

Oil shares presented a firmer front being influenced to some extent by a 4-point advance in Marray.

Foreign Exchange

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The week's trading in foreign exchange included another interval of pronounced strength in sterling exchange, dealings at times being in record-breaking blocks, some bids on the London cable at $4.86⅝, or cables being offered in blocks of £500,000 and representing accumulation both by English agents and by important banking interests here. In some circles it was regarded as certain that this accumulation will be followed in a short time by a gold export movement. Special stress is laid on the fact that both foreign financial interests and local banks favor the transfer of some gold to the British capital. Today sterling was above $4.87.

Cotton bills continue extremely scant and a practical deficit in the balance of supply to meet a steady demand also had much to do with the strong tone in London exchange. Yesterday the condition was made stronger by the fact that the highest record for the year, $4.86⅞, was bid for large amounts.

Weakness also prominent for a time during the week when lira rose from $5.42 to $5.53, but the institute was a heavy seller on this movement and was successful in checking speculative bullish activities after a sharp advance on Wednesday. In the last two days the market for Italian lire was quieter with a recession from its highest of the week.

Scottish exchange alternated between strength and weakness but ended with a gain of about 10 points, attributed almost wholly to speculative buying. German exchange made a new high record on an advance to 23.85, following the increase in the German bank rate, but lost its gain toward the end of the week. Norwegian bills changed little, Swedish made a new high for the year at $2.92, being then at 1 cent premium.

A feature of the South American group was strength in exchange on Uruguay which rose a cent to $102.25. Chilian was also strong, gaining 1¼ points to $12.25. Canadian held at 3-32 premium.

Weekly Metal Review

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Efforts to interest consumers of steel during the past week, on a larger scale than recently, appeared unsuccessful, practically all reports told of a continuation of moderate orders, which was viewed as disappointing for this season of the year. In some instances, price shading was being done on business for shipment the last quarter of the year. Some of the larger railroads were placing orders for delivery next year and actual contracts closed, as well as pending business, was estimated around 300,000 tons.

Pig iron was dull and prices were unchanged.

An improved export demand has helped to develop a firmer undertone in the copper market. Recent offerings at concessions appear to have been absorbed or withdrawn, and, while demand for home consumption has remained quiet, a better inquiry is regarded as pointing to an improvement, probably after the publication of the monthly statistics. There is a feeling in some quarters that the latter may show a small decrease in stocks of refined, but that this may be partly offset by an increase in blister. Producers generally are reported firm at 13¾c for electrolytic delivered.

Tin prices advanced sharply and then reacted slightly. Higher quotations abroad and an unexpected small increase in the visible supply caused the firmness. Smaller Straits shipments for October were being anticipated.

Lead was easier in tone owing to an unsettled price situation abroad. Mine production of lead was reported to have been reduced in several districts of late. Domestic inquiry was fair.

Zinc was slightly easier at the beginning of the week owing to a moderate reduction in the ore basis and a rather light consuming inquiry. Later the market was steadier as producers were unwilling to press sales.

Antimony averaged firmer for both spot and futures, and the removal of accrued duty on civil war in China, with the uncertain stock situation, proved to be the principal factors.

Dry Goods Market Review

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Cotton goods market strengthened on the cotton report by the Government, but on a short day trading showed little change in volume. Raw silk was 2¾c a pound lower. Woolen goods were in moderate demand for filling-in needs. The largest lines of woolen coatings and suitings for spring will be opened well as pending business, was estimated around 300,000 tons.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK BEGINS IN ST. LOUIS TODAY

Mayor Issues Proclamation Urging Every Precaution; Firemen to Give Demonstrations.

Fire Prevention Week in St. Louis, which begins today, was ushered in by a proclamation of Mayor Miller, calling on all citizens to use every precaution against fires.

Preparing for a general observance, the St. Louis Safety Council has sent communications to be read in churches today, and has notified all schools.

In picture shows special slides on fire prevention will be shown, and some civic and commercial organizations have promised to hold special meetings this week to discuss the subject.

The Fire Department, under the direction of Chief Alt, will give special demonstrations of the skill of firemen in the residential districts so as to direct attention of those who remain at home to the special observance of this week.

URGES HIGHER TARIFF ON CORN

Iowa Congressman Calls on President for Increase.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Representative Cole (Rep.) Iowa, called on President Coolidge today to urge him to increase the tariff duty on corn products 50 per cent. He made the point that imports from Argentina especially were damaging home producers.

The Tariff Commission has been studying foreign production costs of corn.

The President does not act under the flexible provisions of the tariff laws until the commission has had an opportunity to submit a report. The maximum rate increase the President could make would be from 15 to 22½ per cent.

Dangerous Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back

This Simple Home Treatment Is Giving Amazing Results

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply as directed night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller, and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly relieved. All Walgreen Drug Stores sell lots of it.

BISHOP P. J. MULDOON DIES AT ROCKFORD

Catholic Leader Founded Diocese in 1908—Prominent in War Work.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 8.—The Rt. Rev. P. J. Muldoon, Catholic Bishop of Rockford, died at his home this morning after a long illness.

The body will lie in state at the Episcopal residence tomorrow and Monday will be taken to St. James Pro-Cathedral where it will lie in state until the funeral Wednesday morning.

A general breakdown in health came while Bishop Muldoon was in St. Louis in the summer of 1926, attending the dedication of the St. Louis Cathedral, just after the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago.

Bishop Muldoon had been confined to his bed except for an occasional hour or two since soon after he returned from St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, last March. At his bedside when the end came were his sisters, Mother Mary Irena of St. Patrick's Academy, Chicago, and Miss Ellen Muldoon of Providence, R. I. Two other sisters, Miss Mary and Mrs. Felix O'Rourke of Providence, and his brother, Dr. John J. Muldoon of Chicago, were with the Bishop yesterday.

In 1908, Bishop Muldoon, after seven years as auxiliary Bishop of Chicago with the title of Bishop of Tamassus, was chosen to administer the newly formed Rockford diocese, composed of 12 counties formerly in the Chicago area.

With the World War came the establishment of a great cantonment near Rockford, and Bishop Muldoon met the increased demands for his services. Bishop Muldoon was a member of the National Catholic War Council, of whose administrative committee he was chairman.

Bishop Muldoon was born in Columbia, Tuolumme County, Cal., Oct. 10, 1863. Educated in California and Kentucky schools and at St. Mary's, Baltimore, he was ordained priest at Brooklyn Dec. 18, 1886.

With the close of the war in 1918, the National Catholic War Council, organized for service in this country, in which Bishop Muldoon was a prominent figure, found itself with a large part of its funds unused. The Bishop conceived the idea of diverting the funds into a series of educational scholarships. The funds were of such size that endowments were enough to last 10 years.

EVA TANGUAY SUES TO ANNUL MARRIAGE TO PIANIST

Dancer Says She Is Not Certain of Real Name of Her 23-Year-Old Husband.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8. — Eva Tanguay, vaudeville singer and dancer, today applied for a court annullment of her marriage last July to Alexander Booké, her 23-year-old pianist husband.

Miss Tanguay's complaint is that after marrying her vaudeville piano accompanist under the name of Booke, she discovered that he had two other names which he used so frequently that she was not certain of her husband's real name. The complaint says they separated in September. The nationally known singer and dancer charged Booke with using also the names of Allen Parado and Chandas Kslaziewicz.

MUSIC-DRAMA-MOVIES

PART TWO. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 9, 1927. PAGES 1—4D

Dramatic Season to Open With "Shanghai Gesture" And "Barker" This Week

Florence Reed Star of Play of Chinese Night Life, While Richard Bennett Heads Cast of Drama at the American.

TWO plays come to open the dramatic season this week—"The Shanghai Gesture" at the Shubert-Rialto tonight and "The Barker" at the American tomorrow night. The former, with Florence Reed as the star, will remain for two weeks, while the latter, which has Richard Bennett's name in electric lights, remains but one, with George White's Scandals" coming on Oct. 23.

Both of this week's offerings come here with established reputations and are well known to theatergoers who make it their business, or their pleasure, to find out what is going on in the show world. To the kind of playgoer who derives a pleasurable agitation at the thought of going to a melodrama in which one scene is boldly laid in a bordello, "The Shanghai Gesture" may be heartily recommended. All four of its scenes are laid in a bordello. That illustrious impresario, A. H. Woods, who is said to feel kindly disposed towards any manuscript with a bed in it, may be guessed to have jumped for joy when "The Shanghai Gesture" was laid on his desk.

It was laid there by Mrs. Leslie Carter, for whom it was written by none other than John Colton, who has wandered much in the insidious Orient and who has made what might be described as an untidy sum by helping write the play called "Rain."

He wrote this vivid new role of the old Chinese procuress, for Mrs. Carter. But during the trial flights of the play in such tentative communities as Newark and Atlantic City, it was decided that Mrs. Carter left something to be desired in the part. One can only guess what that was. A shotgun, possibly.

At all events, the management wished to put Florence Reed in her place, but were embarrassed by the trifling circumstance that Mrs. Carter had a contract for the run of the play. When the substitution was first tactfully suggested to her, she made such a rumpus that it was necessary to buy her off by promising her a large percentage of the author's royalties.

There are some fine, moving scenes in "The Shanghai Gesture," and some of the most carnal discourse and pageantry that has yet been attempted on the advancing frontiers of the new freedom. It is agreed, pretty generally, that Florence Reed gives a fine performance in the play and last week, in Kansas City—"The Shanghai Gesture" being headed eastward after a long run out on the Coast—the piece broke several records for theatrical attendance.

THE company bringing "The Barker" here is the one, headed by Richard Bennett, which has just ended its run of some 200 performances in Chicago. Another company has been playing the piece in New York for more than a year. Its yarn is spun behind the scenes in one of those migratory Coney Islands that trek across the land, following the strawberries from New Orleans to the edge of Canada.

The lady palmist, the tattooing expert, the Hawaiian dancer, the fair young snake charmer, the ticket taker, the ballyhoo man—these make up the motley people in this laconic, effortless, engaging romance of vagabondia. For the most part the action is unfolded when the tents are pitched on the edge of Shelbyville—the one in Illinois.

Those who attend the performances of "The Barker" will have an opportunity for becoming acquainted with the vernacular of the carnivals. A number of the expressions written into the dialogue of the play are familiar only to men and women who have experienced carnival life. Others have been drafted into general every day conversation. The program of "The Barker" carries the following glossary of carnival "slang":

Prop Wagon	Paraphernalia and equipment used on Carnival

Six New Plays Scheduled for Little Theater

NEGOTIATIONS between representatives of the Artists' Guild and The Players have just culminated in the organization of a Little Theater to give a season of plays in order to meet the increasing scarcity of worth-while dramas which reach the commercial theaters of this city, and also to offer to the drama-lovers of St. Louis some works of a kind that seldom are seen on the professional stage outside of New York City.

During the coming season, which will be opened during the latter part of November, six productions will be made. After private performances for members of the sponsoring clubs and their guests, the productions will be open to the public at popular prices. Season tickets will be sold at $10.

The theater will be managed by a joint executive committee composed of the presidents and two other members from each of the older clubs. All productions will be made under the direction of Frederick Kitson Cowley who comes from the East to undertake the work. Mr. Cowley has had professional experience both in the commercial theater and in little theaters, having been director of the little theaters in Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y. In 1917 he went overseas with Thomas Wood Stevens and Joseph Linden Smith to organize the soldiers' talent for entertainment. Later he took charge of the the trical entertainments provided for soldiers on leave in the Riviera. The parts will be filled by public try-outs for which anyone interested will be eligible.

During the coming season all plays will be given at the Artists' Guild Theater, Union boulevard and Enright. But it is hoped that the success of the undertaking may lead to the erection of a larger and more completely equipped theater-building.

Schumann-Heink In a Farewell Concert Monday

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK will close a quarter century's activity on the St. Louis concert platforms at her farewell recital in the Odeon tomorrow evening. The great contralto made her first appearance in St. Louis just previous to the World's Fair. The following year she returned to Europe to sing at the Berlin Opera, but her five years residence in America made their impression and her love for this country prompted speedy return for permanent residence. Her return to America was a triumph, she visiting all the leading cities of the country including St. Louis. This was in 1906 since which Madame has appeared here seven times with the Symphony and about twice that number of times in concert. Her first Symphony appearance was in 1911. One of her first appearances after the war was at the Coliseum for the benefit of the American Legion.

Madame will be the opening number of the musical season and will be the first artist to appear in the rehabilitated Odeon

WHAT IS GOING ON — ## Behind the Screens — OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 8. ANITA LOOS, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and John Emerson, her husband and co-worker, will retire, they announced as they left here for New York.

A book, a motion picture and a musical comedy—on which they are now working will be completed and then the couple distinguished for stage, screen and literary endeavors, will quit work, they said. They will divide their time between Vienna, Austria and Palm Beach, Fla., according to present plans.

The book on which Miss Loos planned to work while en route to New York, will be called, "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes." As a sequel to her previous satirical classic, it will recount the life and experience of Dorothy, the brunette, who figured prominently in the career of Lorelei, the blonde.

The motion picture is "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," now being "shot" at the Paramount studio here with Ruth Taylor, Alice White, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin, Trixie Friganza and other comedy players in the cast. Miss Loos and Mr. Emerson wrote scenario, selected the cast and watched the first week's work before leaving the production in hands of Director Malcolm St. Clair.

The musical comedy to be produced soon in New York is to be called "Is That Nice?" Irving Berlin wrote the music and lyrics and Miss Loos and Mr. Emerson the book while they were in Palm Beach last winter.

"Royalties from stock engagements of our first play ('The Whole Town's Talking,') pays all our bills and the rest is velvet," Miss Loos explained. "We've worked hard and we're tired. From now on we're going to play.'

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, who scored in "Seventh Heaven," made under the direction of Frank Borzage have started work in their second co-starring vehicle at Fox studios with Mr. Borzage again guiding their screen destinies.

The story is based upon an English play, "Lady Cristilinda," by Monckton Hoffe, although this title will be changed as soon as a suitable name for the production is decided upon. Alberto Ragabliati, who was brought to Hollywood from Italy by Fox after he had won a contest for screen aspirants in that country, is given his first big opportunity in the Borzage picture. The story is laid in Italy.

"Wallflowers," Temple Bailey's story of youth and love, recently off the press, will be produced in motion picture form, according to an announcement from the F. B. O. Studios. Dorothy Yost has just completed the scenario of the novel.

Sisters of prominent motion picture stars continue to break into the movies in Hollywood. This week Helen Taylor, sister of Estelle Taylor, Jack Dempsey's wife, and Constance Lewis, Lois Wilson's sister, made their bow in Ralph Ince's production of "Coney Island," a tale of the world's greatest playground.

Constance Lewis is the second of Lois Wilson's sisters to take up a screen career. About two years ago Diana Kane, whose real name is Wilson, decided to follow her sister's footsteps and since that time she has played many important parts. Her latest role is to be that of bride to George Fitzmaurice, director, according to recent newspaper announcements. Sisters seem to have little trouble in getting recognition from film producers. A sizeable list of them is headed by the Talmadge sisters, of course, and Costello girls, and the Duncan sisters.

Camilla Horn, blonde European actress, who was Emil Jannings' leading lady in Murnau's production of Goethe's "Faust," has been signed to an American film contract by Feature Productions, a United Artists production unit. Miss Horn will make her American film debut as John Barrymore's leading woman in the Barrymore vehicle to follow "Tempest," which is now being made with Vera Voronina as Barrymore's leading lady. Camilla Horn played Marguerite to Jannings' Mephisto in the UFA film, which was released in America by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She was "discovered" by Murnau, who was seated in a Berlin cabaret, when he was struck with the appearance of one of the dancers. He asked the girl to come to Neubabelsberg, where the UFA studios are located. The girl, Camilla Horn, screened satisfactorily. She was cast as Marguerite. Miss Horn will leave Germany Nov. 1 for New York and Hollywood. It will be her first trip to America.

Victor McLaglen, the Capt. Flagg of "What Price Glory," and Escamillo of "Loves of Carmen," is about to contribute another of his characterizations to the screen. He will start work next week in "Woman Wise," an original story by Donald McGibney and James K. McGuinness. June Collyer, beautiful "discovery" of Winfield R. Sheehan, who is just completing a role in John Ford's "Grandmother Bernle Learns Her Letters," has been selected for the feminine lead in "Woman Wise." Walter Pidgeon will have a leading role.

McLaglen, the hard-boiled Capt. Flagg, and Edmund Lowe, the wise-cracking Sergt. Quirt, are to be reunited. Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson, co-authors

Managers Expect Business In Movie Theaters to Get Back to Normal Quickly

Effort Being Made to Help First Run Houses Here—St. Louis Led All But Two Cities In Theater Building Last Year.

THE movie magnates are expecting business in the local cinema palaces to get back to normal this week. The cyclone wrecked the box office reports for the first few days after the big storm and during the past week there were no offerings on the screen calculated to make the show goers forget their misery. Now, however, the ballyhoo men are starting in to whoop things up again and everything is going full blast. The Congress is the only one of the smaller neighborhood theaters which has not reopened. Whether this house, on Olive, near Sarah, will be rebuilt remains to be seen. It was close enough to the Grand avenue district to keep a few customers away from the first run houses nightly and it may be allowed to fade out of the picture.

Taking the West End Lyric out of the first run field has undoubtedly helped the larger houses to some extent just as the closing of the Grand Central has done. The plans for reopening that house are still very much in the air but it is reasonably certain that it will have some form of picture entertainment to offer before long even if the present deal for Warner Brothers' films with the Vitaphone falls through.

All plans for the future of the local picture houses are taking into consideration the new Fox Theater with its added competition to an already overcrowded field. There are no other big theaters being suggested for St. Louis now and, in fact, theater building all over the country, which fell off last year, has taken a decided additional slump.

"FEWER but better houses" was the slogan of the theater industry in 1926, it is shown by figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor statistics of the Department of Labor. Data on building permits collected by the bureau shows that last year in 294 cities there were 967 amusement and recreation places built at a cost of $135,640,162, while in 1925 in 272 cities there were 1047 houses erected at a cost of $116,283,961. St. Louis stood third of all the cities in theater building last year.

While the Government makes no distinction in the types of amusement buildings erected, motion picture theaters represent a minimum figure of 50 per cent. Some architects believe 75 per cent is a reasonable percentage.

According to the bureau's figures, building permits were issued for 161 new amusement places in New York City, to cost $41,250,800. In 1925, there were 166 places constructed at a cost of $33,044,267. Los Angeles reported 45 places at a cost of $4,272,845, and in 1925 there were 61 costing $7,902,639. St. Louis followed with 41 places costing $707,850, the 1925 report showing 61 costing $3,247,680. Thirty-two new places in Chicago cost $13,960,500, as compared with 37 costing $12,728,500 in 1925. Philadelphia reported 18 houses costing $5,110,000, against 19 costing $3,345,000 in 1925.

ELSEWHERE in this dramatic section the announcement is made that Anita Loos and her husband, John Emerson, are to give up writing for the screen and stage and retire on their laurels. Out in Hollywood right now they are making a picture out of Miss Loos' "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and Miss Loos herself is authority for the statement that it is going to be "what the public wants"—that is, it will be made with plenty of hokum and slapstick.

"It's going to be a grand picture," she said. "They're going to throw pies! They're going to get quite arty, in certain sequences, and above all, they're going to make a movie, as I believe movies should be made—for entertainment only.

"You know there has been a great deal said about the mission of movies and the new art and all that boring blah, but personally I believe that a picture, just as a play, should be first and foremost a show, a display of accomplishments and amusing antics for the pleasure of the spectators who have paid some money to get in a theater where they can forget themselves and their own problems and petty duties and concerns for an hour or two. And so in 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes' we are going to give them, if nothing else, a show.

"Slapstick?" Why, of course, it's going to be slapstick! What else could you do with 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes?' It's a comedy! We're making a comedy with comedians and not with arty ideas. I believe in throwing pies, slipping on bananas and doing anything else that some of the so-called intelligentsia would call low-brow, if you're going to make a comedy. There's no argument against the fact that such slapstick sort of stuff makes people laugh, and that's what they're expecting to do when they see a comedy! And if you don't think slapstick is funny, I wish you could have seen Chester Conklin as the judge in the rushes of the court room sequences, when Lorelei Lee is on trial for the murder of the business college president who changed his affections from her to another cutie!"

W. U. to Produce Another Musical Show, "High Hat"

THE musical comedy "High Hat," written by three university students, Ted Williams, Milton Monroe and Carleton Hadley, has been chosen as this year's annual production of the Washington University Quadrangle Club. The winning comedy was selected from a field of four, by three judges, one of whom is a member of the English department at the university. Both the book of the play and the music was written by the three students who are now attending school at Washington. They were co-authors of the presentation "Rosita," which was given last spring at the American Theater.

The plot is of light vein. The first act is laid in a summer resort in Maine, while the second and third acts are placed in the romantic atmosphere of South Carolina.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.

MANY plays have come (and some have already gone) since first the curtains rose in August to launch another season. Of these, your correspondent has enjoyed not a few, relishing, for instance, the flagrant courtroom melodrama of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," roaring with helpless, surrendering laughter at the shy lunacies of the great Ed Wynn in "Manhattan Mary" and tapping an affectionate foot at the dear, remembered melodies, of "The Mikado." But all in all, I had the best time the night I went over to the Martin Beck to see the Gleasons who are entertaining this fall in "The Shannons of Broadway." And how!

At that lackadaisical and homely comedy, written by James Gleason and so beautifully played by him, I beat my palms together and beamed rosily and battled unsuccessfully against that curious tendency to choke up, with which you are familiar if, for instance, you ever tried to read Mr. Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" aloud.

Like Gleason's earlier comedy, "Is Zat So?" (at which one felt a similar exasperating impulse to chuckle and weep at the same time) this new piece is warm with a kind of gruff, jocular tenderness and if you respond to its humanity, you are as unaware of its gimcrack, two-by-four plot as you are of the plot of "The Pickwick Papers," say, or the plot of the sketches of domesticity by Clare Briggs.

I DEFY the most frosty playgoer to sit quite unmoved through such a tossed-in scene as that in which the Shannons draw up two grating chairs in the lobby of their small-town hotel to watch the terrible stranded vaudeville team of Allen and Allen run through their act. You see, Eddie Allen and the wife was canceled cold the night before, just after they'd laid out every last jitney for their wardrobe and everything. Eddie has already told his troubles across the hotel-desk when he could not pay his bill.

"The wife," he said, "has a bum bellows, see, so I just laid the last smacker for a bottle of Father Johns—she gotta cold last week in Waterbury, see—and she's got two numbers with hoofin' in both of 'em so I was afraid the old bellows'd go bad on us, see? An' Harry Hoffman was to come over from Boston to take a peek at the act but he never showed. And I put in some new stuff, an' I guess they was lookin' to air us anyways and when the manager over to Clarkesville gave us these and those, I up and take a smack at him after we'd had a word or two—so he leaves me out of the sugar and here we are a hell of a ways from Forty-sixth street."

The wife with a bum bellows was only a kid. Eddie had taken her out of a chorus. He had to give her the best of the breaks, good or bad.

"You see," he explained to Mickey Shannon, "she's a dame and I'm a feller."

WELL, it ends in the Shannons sitting down grimly to watch Allen and Allen do their turn, promising to forgive them their hotel bill and even help them on their way if the act seems to have a chance in the world.

"Go ahead," says Mrs. Shannon, "be comical."

And in that discouraging lobby, with their confiscated trunk disgorging the pathetic gewgaws of their wardrobe, they go to work, the little wife tearful and frightened, the young husband speaking with the eloquence of despair. To that canny, unsmiling audience, he tries to give some idea of their act, lifting up out of the trunk into the merciless daylight the costumes his wife had made for each song, waving his arms to indicate what the orchestra would be doing all this time, asking them to take on faith the swell imitation of Sophie Tucker the wife could contribute if only she had her health, and at last giving just a soupcon of his own imitations of Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson with which they swing off into a hoofing exit.

With sweat on his face and hands trembling, he dances a very jig of eagerness as he tries to make their dreary little routine sound gay and important. At last he stands still and looks at his judges, while his wife gets behind him and cries a little into a red spangled skirt she still holds in her hands. There is a moment of such deafening silence that the ticking of the big, cheap clock over the hotel desk sounds like a metronome of doom. Finally Mickey Shannon speaks.

"Eddie," he says, "it's lousy."

And when you hear the measureless loving kindness in Mickey Shannon's voice as he says, "Eddie, it's lousy," you know why some of us cherish James Gleason above so many of the higher-and-mightier actors of his time.

EDDIE ALLEN—Eddie whose act is lousy and whose bride has a bum bellows—is played with tenderness and truth and threadbare, jaunty gallantry by Harry Tyler. Tyler, who had Gleason's own role in "Is Zat So?" when that earlier comedy took to the English provinces a year ago, is a cousin or Gleason's. And indeed the family is scattered all through the new play. It was primarily written, of course, for Lucille Webster (Mrs. Gleason) who is so good as Mrs. Shannon. Then it is another cousin who weeps softly into the red-spangled skirt and it is an aunt of Gleason's who peers over the kindly spectacles of Mr. Swanzey in "The Shannons of Broadway." That has been the way of show folks the world around time out of mind. To the likes of Gleason, the theater is a homestead and each performance is as truly a tribal rite as a Christmas dinner.

GLEASON'S mother was a Crolius and the name of Crolius keeps bobbing up in the program of the new play just as it used to do in the programs at the old Boston Theater when his grandfather was a walking gentleman and Croliuses abounded in every bill. So, in due time, young Gleason made his own first entrance there before he could walk and I suppose he will still be making entrances when once more he has to be carried.

One of his earliest roles was that of the infant girl in an old melodrama who was revealed in the prologue afloat on a cake of ice. Of young Gleason on that touching occasion it was only required that he kick and squirm realistically, the while a crouching stage hand (thinly disguised as the wild Atlantic) rocked the ice-cake alarmingly and his own mother (as the young maiden in the play clung to it in talented despairing.

At that time, it was said that Master Gleason was only two, although, of course, one must always take these statements about any actor's age with a grain of salt. I doubt, however, if he now remembers the performance and I tell the tale here only to suggest that "The Shannons of Broadway" is the kind of play which somehow gets written only by the playwright who has had that kind of good running start in the theater.

sales over these broad and somewhat United States.

UFA's "Oddities," one-reel films covering a varied and diverse series of subjects, will be distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. As UFA produced such classics as "The Last Laugh," "Variety," "Faust," "Passion," "Metropolis," "The Waltz Dream," and other long features of that caliber—as its graduates include Emil Jannings, Pola Negri, Lya de Putti, Conrad Veidt, Ernst Lubitsch, Murnau and Dupont—something out of the ordinary is expected of its films.

With American producers, miscellany of the nature of these "Oddities" has generally been the by-product of camera expeditions. The thorough Germans, however, made the taking of these reels the direct object of various expeditions into strange lands, under the sea, and in the air.

Among the subjects listed for release are: "Winged Death," showing how falcons are trained to capture other birds, rabbits and small game; "The Parasol Ant," which shows the ant gathering and carrying its food supply, stocking its nest, and cultivating mushrooms underground; "Fight for Life!" an undersea study of a Darwinian struggle of the survival of the fittest, showing amazing life-and-death conflicts between gigantic lobsters and sharks, a lobster and an octopus, and lobsters and electric fish; and "Jungle Round-Ups," showing captures, by lasso and by hand, of crocodiles, sloths and boa-constrictors.

turned into a revue in 12 tableaux in a production in the Grosses Schauspielhaus in Berlin. The London Times reports the affair thus:

"The story remains substantially the same, but a Western element has been introduced by making Nanki-Poo into the son of the American 'su-er-king,' who desired his son to marry Katisha, the daughter of the 'fruit king,' for financial reasons connected with the formation of a marmalade trust. The handsome young man appears in the earlier scenes wearing 'Oxford' trousers and a sky-blue double-breasted blazer with brass buttons, but this in no way prevents Herr Jankuhn from giving an effective rendering of 'a wandering minstrel, I,' which is followed by a smart exhibition of dancing and gymnastics in the best music-hall style by the Jackson boys, dressed in gay sailors' garb. At this point enters the first hint of that syncopation of Sullivan's music which culminates in a grand jazz finale at the end of each of the original acts. At intervals throughout the evening music and action work up to a sort of ballet in which the 'Charleston' step predominates.

"The dialogue is, of course, almost entirely new and contains a wealth of up-to-date German slang. There are allusions to 'expressionism,' the loss of harps in Heidelberg, Prof. Steinach's theories, and other matters of present-day interest, and Ko-Ko fears that, if he does not stage a proper execution, he will be expelled from the International Association of Dictators. An element of coarse humor, totally alien to the Gilbertian spirit, is introduced, not only into the dialogue, but into such things as the decorations of the headgear of Pooh-Bah. Wireless and aeroplanes play their part in the story and a real motor car is driven onto the stage. The decoration in general shows, as in most German productions, the strong influence of the Moscow stage, although occasionally a discordant note is struck by relics of Germany 19th century provincial taste. The spectacular scenes are extraordinarily good of their kind.

"As a revue the production is an undoubted success. It is a much better revue than is usually provided and a crowded house, largely unacquainted with Gilbert and Sullivan's traditions, expressed approval. Yet all that is best in 'The Mikado' except, alas! the words of Gilbert's lyrics, remains. The charm of the melodies is unimpaired, and none of the old favorites is tampered with. Much hard work has been put into the characters, and Herr Max Pallenberg's Ko-Ko is, as might be expected, a work of genius."

of "What Price Glory," are now completing a sequel to the war story which will be produced as an original motion picture play. The further affairs of the two marines will be laid in civilian life in New York City after the World War. The picture will reunite all members of the original cast, including Lowe, McLaglen, Dolores Del Rio, Phyllis Haver, Sammy Cohen, Ted McNamara and Barry Norton. "The Cock-Eyed World" will be the title of the picture which will be based upon the professional soldier's slant upon private life and the standards of present-day society.

Lon Chaney becomes a Scotland Yard detective in dear old London in "The Hypnotist." Conrad Nagel and Marceline Day have the romantic leads. Henry B. Walthall and Polly Moran—the Mrs. Murphy of "The Callahans and the Murphys"—have character parts.

Norma Shearer seems to be the golden-haired child of the collegians. Princeton's seniors voted her their favorite woman player; and at Columbia, New York, she again won first honors. Renee Adoree prevented a Republican landslide by winning at Wesleyan College.

Fred Niblo, who made "Ben-Hur," will direct Lillian Gish in Channing Pollack's "The Enemy," which proved a smashing stage success for Fay Bainter. This indictment of war is laid in Vienna during 1916. Ralph Forbes, handsome blond young Englishman, who achieved distinction in "Beau Geste" and "Mr. Wu," will have the masculine lead.

The complete cast of Richard Dix's new starring picture, "The Gay Defender," has been announced. Dix has the role of Joaquin Murietta, colorful bandit figure in early California history. Jerry Mandy plays his servant, Chombo; Robert Brower, his uncle, Don Ferdinand Murietta; Harry Holden, the Padre, Sebastian. Thelma Todd is featured as leading woman in the character of Ruth Ainsworth, daughter of United States Commissioner Ainsworth, played by Fred Esmelton. Frances Raymond has the role of Miss Emily Ainsworth, aunt to Miss Todd.

Having survived the perils of the navy, come safely through fire and emerged scratchless from dizzy flights into the air, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton are to venture into darkest Africa on "Big Game Hunt." That is to be the title of the next Beery and Hatton picture. Frank Strayer, who directed "Now We're in the Air" will direct the hunting picture.

Edward Martindale has been signed for a supporting role by Corinne Griffith. Mr. Martindale will play the part of the Colonel in "The Garden of Eden," Miss Griffith's initial starring vehicle for United Artists. The actor was one of the original members of the cast when work was first started on the picture, but conflicting engagements necessitated a change. When Director Lewis Milestone took over the picture Albert Conti was announced for the part, but Martindale's schedule permitting, he has been re-signed. His engagement completes the casting for "The Garden of Eden," with Charles Ray, Louise Dresser and Lowell Sherman playing the other important roles.

"Honky Tonk," a story of the water fronts in the out-of-the-way places of the earth, will be George Bancroft's first starring picture for Paramount.

TWO PERFORMANCES FOR TORNADO RELIEF

Matinee and Night Show to Be Given as Benefit at Coliseum, Oct. 21.

Plans for the benefit performances at the Coliseum Friday, Oct. 21, to raise additional funds for the Citizens' "Red Cross Tornado Sufferers" Relief Committee were completed at a meeting yesterday.

The benefits are being given under the auspices of the Municipal Theater Association, in conjunction with the St. Louis Theater Managers' Association and the Motion Picture Theater Owners.

It was decided to have two performances at the Coliseum, a matinee at 2 o'clock and a night show at 8 o'clock. Each will include all of the talent appearing that week at the local theaters and at the larger picture houses. In addition, there will be several acts by the Municipal Opera chorus of the past summer. Those attending the performance also will have an opportunity for viewing the decorations and stage setting which will be used for the Veiled Prophet's ball the preceding night.

These tickets will be sold at $1 each and will be good at either the matinee or night show. Beginning tonight, they will be on sale at the Shubert-Rialto, American, Empress, Orpheum, St. Louis, Garrick, Grand Opera House, Liberty Music Hall, Loew's State Theaters, which are members of the St. Louis Theater Managers' Association, and at all neighborhood picture houses.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning; the above advice is true of genuine Castoria.* The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

Corns Now Needless

Prove It Overnight!

Why keep "treating" corns, when the first drop of Freezone stops all sensation of pain, and a few drops soon end the corn!

The most painful corn, even one sensitive to touch of stocking, can't throb ten seconds ofter Freezone comes in contact. All that's left to do, is lift the corn right off and it's gone! Isn't that better than surgery?

Feet that are "sights" from corns can grow back to normal, unblemished condition through the use of Freezone. Meantime, no pain—none at all—and no awkward pads or plasters to cause shoes to pinch and cultivate corns in other places.

The Freezone process is scientific and certain. The hardest corn that ever formed can't resist it—nor the soft corns between the toes which nothing has ever helped. A tiny bottle of Freezone copes with the worst condition of corns. Freezone has made it folly to have any corn at all, for any length of time.

For your own comfort, investigate Freezone. Every druggist has it, and the cost is a few cents!

It was a pass, Flamank to Clark, that brought a Missouri touchdown and a place kick by Dutch Maschoff, a third substitute, which added the seventh and deciding point. The three men were in the game less than three minutes of playing time. The other 57 minutes consisted of a frantic effort of Missourians to stop the plunging Presnell, the diving Howell and the battering Brown. And Missouri stopped them.

The Cornhuskers gained 327 yards from scrimmage to 289 yards for Missouri.

Nebraska First to Score.

The Nebraska touchdown came first, Howell plunging five yards for the counter on the first play of the second quarter after a march which began in the final seconds of the first period. This drive included a 30-yard dash by Presnell and another dash by Presnell for 10 yards. Jug Brown's try for point was blocked.

The Missourians elected to receive the kick-off, twice launched a passing attack and twice saw it crumble, then worked the ball up the field on punt exchanges until they had crossed into Nebraska territory, a feat which was a rarity this afternoon. Howell fumbled, Bob Miller of Missouri recovered, and Flamank and Clark limped into the fray.

Twice Missouri tried a pair of Crippled Stars in Game Less Than Three Minutes—Maschoff's Place Kick Provides Winning Margin—Huskers Gain 327 Yards From Scrimmage to 28 for Tigers.

The Nebraska touchdown came first. Howell plunging five yards for the counter on the first play of the second quarter after a march which began in the final seconds of the first period. This drive included a 30-yard dash by Presnell and another dash by Presnell for 10 yards. Jug Brown's try for point was blocked.

The Missourians elected to receive the kick-off, twice launched a passing attack and twice saw it crumble, then worked the ball up the field on punt exchanges until they had crossed into Nebraska territory, a feat which was a rarity this afternoon. Howell fumbled, Bob Miller of Missouri recovered, and Flamank and Clark limped into the fray.

Twice Missouri tried a pair of forward passes, and twice they drew a five-yard penalty for the second incomplete flip. Then a 15-yard penalty inflicted on the Huskers when they piled on Clark after he received a short toss from Capt. Flamank, aided the Tiger cause.

Combs Scoring After Miljus' Wild Pitch

—By Wire to St. Louis.

The Yankee outfielder counted the deciding run in the fourth and final game of the world series on a break with two out in the ninth inning.

Cuyler Thinks He Has Played Last Game for The Pittsburg Club

Outfielder Reviews His Troubles With Organization and Gives His Version of Controversy With Bush—Has "Yen" Against Batting Second and Playing Left Field.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The man who should know most about the "Cuyler case," discussion of which weighted all conversation and writing on the world series, knows less about it than anyone else, he thinks.

The man is Hazen S. "Kiki" Cuyler, star outfielder of the Pittsburg Pirates, who warmed the bench during much of the season and the whole of the world series, despite the strident yells of Pittsburg and New York spectators, demanding that the man who won two of the 1925 world series games be given a chance to show his stuff.

Tonight Cuyler, for the first time, gave his version of the case, and expressed belief that he had played his last game as a Pirate.

"To tell the downright and whole truth," Cuyler told the Associated Press, "the whole thing is a mystery to me. There are some things to be told, without doubt, but it is not I who can tell them. In my own heart I have felt some things, and they may or may not be true, but as for what might be called the facts of the case, they will have to come from my employers.

"However, I have decided to tell what I know and some of what I feel, and I do it solely because Barney Dreyfuss, the owner of the Pirates, his son, Sam Dreyfuss, and Donie Bush, manager of the team, have each and often told their sides of the case. As long as the Pirates were after the National League pennant and while they were in the world series, I kept still. I have been reported as saying this and that. I said nothing.

"Now that is all over. Furthermore, I think I have played for the last time in a Pirate uniform. Not because I don't want to play in that uniform, but because my employers, I have heard, have other plans.

"First of all, it should be said that I have no ill feeling for Donie Bush. I am sure that whatever he did, even where he did things that didn't make me feel any too good, he did for the best; did them because he was convinced that he would help the team. For my part, I was as strong for the team as Bush, or Dreyfuss, but, perhaps, we did not agree on the best way to help the team.

Origin of the Trouble.

"It has been stated often that the 'Cuyler case' began with my being fined for not sliding into second base. It may have begun there, but I think it began a long time before that. I was fined $50 for not sliding into second base during a game with the Giants. I did go into the base standing up, and that, in my judgment, was the proper thing to do, for there was

$5,592 to Each Yankee Player From Series 'Pool'

Each Cardinal Player to Receive $998.60— Total Sets Record.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Yankees and Pirates will split the greatest world's series player pool on record. Their share of the four game receipts amounts to $399,-440.67, surpassing by more than $25,000 the previous record "cut" of $372,390.51, divided last year.

Because of the likelihood that more players will be declared "in" on the money the individual shares will not be as great. Figured on a basis of 30 shares, expected of both clubs, each of the triumphant Yankees will get $5592.17 and each Pirate $3728.11.

The world's series clubs share 70 per cent of the total players pool amounting to $279,608.47 on a 60-40 basis, while the other 30 per cent goes to the second, third and fourth place clubs in each league. The division of this gives $59,916.10 to the second place teams, $39,-944.06 to the third place outfits and $19,972.04 to the fourth place clubs.

If the other participating clubs divide their pool into 30 shares the second place Athletics and Cardinal players will each receive $998.60, the Giants and Senators will get $665.73 apiece and each Cub and Tiger will be paid $332.87.

The largest individual players' shares were realized in 1923 when each winning Yankee got $6142.49 and each losing Giant $4112.89. The players' pool in that series amounted to $368,783.04, less than the sum to be divided in 1927, but there were fewer shares then than now. Last year each Cardinal collected $5554.51 and each Yankee $3417.75.

PIRATE FANS GEHRIG AND MEUSEL, THEN FALTERS; SCORE IS 4-3

Victory of New York in Four Straight Games in World Series Due More to Pirate Errors Than Good Baseball on Opponents' Side---Ruth Hits Second Home Run of Classic.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—John Miljus, Czecho-Slovak pitcher, made a wild pitch this afternoon in the ninth inning with the bases filled, two out and the score tied, and the blunder, the last of a string of bad plays by the National League pennant winners, gave the New York Yankees the fourth and final game, 4 to 3, and the world championship in four straight contests.

It was such a finish as you would have expected to this struggle for the championship of the baseball universe, one of the most one-sided contests in the history of the game, and while the Yankees played brilliantly through the series and proved their right to rank with the greatest teams of all time, the series was one of Pirate failures and mistakes rather than of American League achievements.

Donie Bush's team, fighting with its back to the wall, put up its best battle of the series in the final struggle. But even that flash of fighting heart was artificial made possible as it was by a momentary break in the great defense that the Yankees threw around their pitchers throughout the four-game struggle.

Three Off-Color Plays

The wild pitch was the second of the inning by Miljus and the third Pirate blunder, misplay or misfortune, as you choose to view it.

Combs drew a pass to open the inning and that was just a break of baseball. But Koenig bunted and then came the first blunder, misplay or misfortune. The bunt was a little pop-fly and Traynor, playing in because he knew well that Koenig would try to sacrifice, thought he could catch the ball. Otherwise he would have ignored it, as the ball was plainly destined to fall near the foul line. Traynor failed by a few inches to take the catch and the ball, plunking in fair territory, just inside the third base line, bounced into the air toward foul territory. But Traynor was there in the way and the ball caromed off his leg or arm and slithered away. Traynor pursued it but it was too late and the intentional sacrifice which would have gone foul had to be called a base hit.

That moved Combs to second, and with the dangerous Babe Ruth striding to the plate, it was natural that Miljus was a bit rattled. Ruth already had driven a home run into the distant bleacher seats in right center, driving in a runner ahead of him. Who wouldn't be rattled?

The rattled state of mind manifested itself in the form of a wild pitch, a curve that hit near the plate and hopped over Catcher Gooch's head. Combs raced to third and started home, but changed his mind and retraced his steps. Koenig moved to second on the wild heave and there was only one thing to do now. Ruth had to be passed and he was quickly, on four wide ones.

Crowd Cheers for Miljus After He Fans Gehrig and Meusel in Pinch

Miljus regained his poise then and almost pitched himself out of trouble. He struck out the dangerous Lou Gehrig, with a sacrifice fly all that the Yankees needed to win. He also struck out Meusel, with Big Bob swinging desperately to atone for previous failures at the plate.

The crowd of 58,000 had cheered eagerly for the hit that would finish the series after the bases were filled, but now they were cheering for Miljus. They wanted the pitcher to continue his great work and they were prepared to sit through more innings.

With Tony Lazzeri at the plate, Miljus had visions of doing what Alexander did in a well-remembered 1926 pinch. But Lazzeri startled him with a long foul into the left-field seats and then Miljus made the final and fatal wild pitch. It was a fast ball outside. Gooch lunged for the ball, but it merely flicked his outstretched glove and sailed to the backstop and the game was over. Combs easily

By Charles Eichenbaum.

The Washington U. team which defeated Rolla 13-0 yesterday afternoon at Francis Field may have failed to send Coach Bob Higgins' spirits soaring skyward, but it did accomplish one concrete fact. For the first time in more seasons than the average Washington U. fan cares to admit, three consecutive victories have been won by the Bear squad.

Washington scored its touchdowns in the first and fourth quarters. A plunging downfield march by the Bear backfield, aided by a 30-yard pass from Whittler to Kurz, put the ball in scoring position for the first counter and Whittler dived across eight minutes after the start of play.

The third quarter ended as the ball lay on Rolla's three-yard line after another plunging advance, and Whittler shot over the line for the second touchdown at the start of the final period. Kurz, Washington right end, covered Whittler's fumble after the fullback had crashed through the Rolla left tackle.

Higgins watched his men win from Rolla with no show of enthusiasm. While the Bears were performing with much earnestness and energy, there were rough spots in their play which showed them far off their possible form but the victory bell shook off another layer of rust at the conclusion of the game and that is something.

Missed Three Chances.

While the Washington backfield bucked its way down the field for the safe margin of two touchdowns, there were three occasions when the Bear rooters rose from their seats and watched their favorites cast away scoring chances from the sacred inner precincts of the five-yard line.

The Bears found no great difficulty with the Rolla line when the ball was anywhere near the vicinity of the middle of the field. They plunged, they bucked, they circled, and cut back for gain after gain through the Miners' forward wall. But when the Bear backfield was called upon to finish the drive with a show of surplus steam, the holes weren't there, and the Miner defense held successfully.

The Bears kept the Rolla team from approaching nearer to the goal than the 17-yard line to which one Miner sortie led, but the vigilant pass defense, which had smothered the Oklahoma Aggie overhead attack, was wanting and the Miners completed four passes in the second half for a total of 76 yards. One of the passes went for 30 yards, one for 25 yards, and another for 16 yards.

John Duncan, quarterback, came still closer to filling the shoes of the speedy Al Hayes. Duncan, while not a spectacular player, directed the team well and handled all of his punts successfully. He picks his way through a broken field with more caution than Hayes was accustomed to use, balancing caution against speed.

Monte Ledford a Star.

In the line, Captain McCarroll and Kurz, ends, turned in a respectable share of the team's defensive work. Kurz leaped into the spotlight with a bang in the first quarter when Whittler dropped back and heaved him a 30-yard pass. Schieb at center and Collins at tackle offered a consistent game, with Bickel, right half back, leading the defensive work behind the line.

Monte Ledford, Rolla captain, proved the main problem for the Washington linemen. The agile halfback slipped around the Washington forward wall with disturbing regularity and he plunged and passed with equal accuracy. Fritz Hassler, former St. Louis high school star, aws also prominent in the Rolla offense.

The game was slowed down by loose work on the part of both teams. Sixteen penalties were assessed, eight against each team, for a combined total loss of 145 yards. Of this, Washington was penalized 80 yards. A double penalty for Rolla called back a perfect execution of a pass to Ledford who raced 80 yards across the Bear goal line.

Easy for Barnard?

"I am turning over the office in such shape that a child could read its history and my successor will have no trouble whatever."

Mr. Johnson was asked if he had any intimation who would succeed him but declared he had no knowledge whatever of the club owners' intentions.

E. S. Barnard has received most persistent mention, with Will Harridge as the official secretary. That is, however, just the outstanding guess of the moment.

"I hope my successor will be a strong man, for the good of the league," Ban continued. "Without one the league can easily go on the rocks. Factions form in all groups and one man must dominate all factions and have real authority. A rubber stamp president will be a mistake."

It was suggested that great changes had taken place since he first took up his official duties.

Johnson leaned back in his chair and reflected.

"It's almost hard to grasp the extent of the change," he commented. "The amazing economics of the sport today almost startle one. Babe Ruth receives a salary for one year that exceeds the total capitalization of some of our clubs of a few years ago. Bob Hedges began at St. Louis with a $50,000 capital, and in war times. He built a grand-stand, bought a franchise, acquired some of the greatest players in the country and all with the $50,000. Top hands in his day would "jump" the National League for a $5000 salary. Wallace, Lajoie, Delehanty and others commanded no more, at that time. A club's pay roll, including the manager, would be around $60,000—which is less money than both Cobb and Ruth are drawing this year.

"The game has developed beyond the wildest dreams of all of us; but year by year it grows more and more difficult to maintain the playing standards of earlier years.

Timber Is Scarcer

"That's because there are fewer young players coming up and the veterans are dropping out, without proper replacements. You can see it all around—the old timers are hanging on long past their prime.

"There are many distractions for our youths, today, and golf and other pastimes have displaced baseball in popularity with the youngsters. Colleges do not produce many baseball players because there is only lukewarm interest in the game, there. It is a losing sport financially in many universities.

"The sources of baseball supply are drying up and some new schools of baseball development will have to be sought and nursed."

"What can you forecast for the future of the game, Mr. Johnson. Do you see any signs of deflation or of waning popular interest?"

"Other than the lack of players, I frankly do not. The season has proved that the fans are just as keenly interested in professional baseball as ever. But the game must be kept free from taint at the hands of gamblers, and from syndicating."

Johnson really welcomes relief from the strife that has dogged him since 1919, when he lost the first baseball war of his career—that centering around the Mays case. If there is one thing that galls him, as he sits physically withered but intellectually keen and cons over his long career, it is the fact that he will be forced out of power while his arch enemy, Charles Comiskey, is still in harness.

Vindictive to the Close

Comiskey, feebler and more broken than Johnson himself, is nominally the active head of his ball club and still a power in baseball. It was the enmity of Comiskey, unremitting and vindictive to the end, that finally, through an alliance with new enemies of the Czar within the league, brought the dictator low and changed the course of baseball politics and even its government.

For years Comiskey was the one jarring note in American League harmony. The absolute loyalty of all other owners for years nullified Comiskey. But he never forgot. One by one, death, financial distress and other causes resulted in changes of club ownership. Today Comiskey is the sole surviving owner of the original eight.

Men like Tillinghast Huston and Harry Frazee, "anarchists" Johnson called them, horned into the family circle and began to try to run the league. Individually, Johnson was more than a master for them. But eventually the Mays case furnished a ground for the consolidation of enemy forces. Comiskey joined with them and they won a signal victory over Johnson.

This group then combined with the National League to further break Johnson, forcing him to accept the worst dictatorship baseball has ever known—that of the "High Commissioner" form of government.

It is a poor substitute for the National Commission, many baseball men believe. But it was the only plan with a chance to level Johnson.

It was kayo for Ban. Just another Czar toppled.

What his enemies could NOT overthrow was his reputation for cleaning and reforming the game and for constant fighting to keep the sport on a high plane and out of the hands of gamblers.

One thinks with regret, as Johnson passes, that the very man who unhorsed Johnson was the man who kept on his payroll for more than a year the principal offenders in the biggest scandal of baseball history. It was finally Johnson who forced the culprits from the game, not the man who held their contracts.

"Rubber-Stamp President and Lack Of New Timber Greatest Menaces To American League"--Ban Johnson

One-Time Czar of Baseball, Ready to Quit His Desk in Few Days, Says Strong Leader Is Needed, and New Sources of Material.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Byron Bancroft Johnson, still president of the American League, is almost through housecleaning. The one-time dictator of the baseball world, now entering the stretch run of his career as a baseball power, is shaping up the affairs of his office prepratory to surrendering it, possibly this week, at which time his resignation takes effect.

For weeks accountants have been in charge at headquarters getting affairs in apple pie order for Johnson's successor—whoever he may prove to be. Johnson, meticulous in his care of office matters, had accumulated a vast amount of records, most of them of merely historic value. These have been sorted and the financial affairs of the office shaped up so as to present a complete record of all transactions that have taken place since the former "czar" took up his duties in 1900.

Johnson, cheerful in the midst of the office turmoil, sat at his desk in his shirt sleeves and smilingly discussed his future.

"I'll be glad when the audit is completed," Johnson said. "When it's all over I intend to get a rest—the first real rest in nearly 40 years of baseball work.

BLUES OPEN FOOTBALL CAMPAIGN AGAINST ANNA ELEVEN TODAY

The St. Louis Blues, local professional football team, will open the 1927 schedule today at Anna, Ill., under the leadership of Al Hayes, former Washington University star, who turned professional a few days ago.

The Blues are arranging a schedule which now includes four games to be played away from home. Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Peoria, and Cairo are among the cities to be visited, but so far only tentative dates have been set.

BOWLERS WILL GIVE 2 EXHIBITIONS FOR STORM BENEFIT FUND

Local bowling stars will do their bit towards the fund for the tornado sufferers by holding a benefit bowling exhibition next Thursday and Friday nights at the Rogers and Schaefer bowling alleys. Among the bowlers who have already donated their services are Mrs. Marge Sumers and E. A. Schaefer and Miss Ann Uhlen and Roy Nelson, who will meet in a mixed doubles match, and Harry Doon and Oscar Whitehead who will pair as a team against Freddie Krems of Chicago and his partner, who is yet to be selected.

The above named are rated high in the bowlers blue book, Mrs. Sumers being credited with one of the largest scores ever rolled by a woman bowler, a 299 score, while Miss Uhlen has several excellent performances to her credit and is on a par with the best in the city.

The exhibitions will be held at the Rogers alleys on Thursday at 9 o'clock and on Friday at Schaefers at 7 o'clock. No admission will be charged, but those attending will be asked to contribute to a fund which will be turned over to the Red Cross. S. Howard Stewart will act as master of ceremonies.

Chess Game Postponed.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 8.—The eleventh game in the world chess championship series, adjourned Friday night after 41 moves of complicated play, will be resumed Monday night. It was to have been played tonight, but Jose R. Capablanca, Cuba, the champion, made use of his right permitting him to remain away one day if necessary.

PITTSBURG OFF FORM IN SERIES, SAYS BABE RUTH

Four Straight Victories for Yankees Doesn't Prove Pirates Are Not Good, Slugger Adds.

By Babe Ruth.
(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Well, it's all over in four straight games, just as I predicted.

The man I'm sorriest for is John Miljus. There's a pitcher. He has plenty, that fellow, and all the nerve and courage in the world along with it. Losing a ball game and a series on a wild pitch like he did is about the toughest thing that can happen. Particularly after he had struck out Gehrig and Meusel with the bases full.

But that's baseball.

The Pirates were in there fighting all the time, and when the breaks went against them they just gritted their teeth and kept on trying. Fellows like Pie Traynor and Glenn Wright and Joe Harris and the two Waners never will dog it. They're a game ball club, and a good ball club. The fact that we beat them in four straight games doesn't prove that they're not. We caught them when they were off form, and we know it. We're not handing ourselves anything on that score.

Praises Two Managers.

Again I say it was a great series between two great ball clubs. Miller Huggins deserves a lot of credit for our victory. Huggins never made a mistake during the whole series. He's a smart guy and a great manager.

We beat them because we had more power and because we were lucky enough to get better pitching and better fielding.

Now we're champions of the world. I believe we deserve to be, for I believe the Yankees are the best team in baseball today.

K. C. De Molays Beat Sentinel, 2-1

Three-Hit Game by Katz Gives Visitors Victory in State Title Series.

Mother Chapter, champion De Molay baseball team of Kansas City, defeated the St. Louis titleholders, the Sentinels, yesterday at Stars' Park, 2 to 1, due to a 3-hit game pitched by Katz of the visitors.

The series is for the state DeMolay championship and to date Kansas City has won only one out of three contests. This afternoon a double-header will be played at Stars' park starting at 1:30. Part of the receipts will go to the tornado relief fund.

MISSOURI DEFEATS NEBRASKA, 7 TO 6

and the Missouriants uncorked a few seconds of spectacular attack—a pass, Flamank to Tarr, and another, Flamank to Clark, and the score was tied. Maschoff, like Flamank, and Clark, a substitute, rushed his toe into the game for the extra point which put Missouri in the lead.

Byars' Kicking Helps Tigers.

With Tuttle and Flamank both suffering injuries which kept their punting toes out of the contest, it was Bob Byars, whose consistent booting kept the Tigers in the runnings throughout the afternoon. Byars was consistent and got average distance with his offerings. Fast Missouri ends aided him in keeping the upper hand by downing Nebraska safety men in their tracks repeatedly. Likewise Byars had a trick of putting his kicks out of bounds, which made the going still more difficult for Jug Brown and Bronson, who alternated at bringing the ball back for the Huskers.

With Flamank and Clark in the lineup only a matter of seconds, and with Tuttle absent entirely, Henry's team's attacking power was negligible. The Tigers seldom gained through the line, and aside from the successful passes of Flamank they did not appear dangerous in the air. Their line could not stop Pressnell's lunges nor the dives of his backfield brothers, for that matter, in midfield. But it was a dogged and determined bunch of youths who guarded the Missouri goal line. They played heads up football—they blocked kicks, they intercepted passes, they recovered fumbles, and they tightened sufficiently to force the Huskers three times to try for place kicks and messed up those tries.

Bush Should Have Played Kiki Cuyler in Right Field Bleachers, Writes Lardner

Then He Would Have Made a Sucker Out of Babe Ruth—For 20 Years Ring Has Been Awarded a Seat Behind a Pillar at World Series.

By Ring Lardner.
(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—It was raining heavily at Great Neck this morning and I thought I was going to have a chance to recover from my infatuation for that terrible Thoke woman from Enid, Ok. But she called up while I was shaving for the third time and insisted on me coming to the city and showing her the sights.

I drove into town and escorted my fair visitor toward the ball park.

LARDNER

We arrived just in time to see Glenn Wright drive in the first run. Previous to this time they hit. Glenn had gone out on so many high flies that people were beginning to speak of him as a red hot popper.

In the New York half of the opening inning, with two on bases and nobody out, Carmen Hill fans Gehrig, Meusel and Lazzeri.

"Some feat," I exclaimed.

"Thank you," said Miss Thoke. "I thought you hadn't noticed them."

The seat they assigned me in the press coop was so prettily located just behind a large pillar that during the infrequent intervals when Miss Thoke was keeping her mouth shut, there was little to distract me from my own thoughts. These naturally were on the national pastime in general and the statistics of this series in particular. As you doubtless read in the papers the three-hit game pitched by Herbie Pennock Friday was his second world's series three-hit game.

Every Year Behind a Post.

But maybe you don't realize that this is the first of the baseball classics in which only two Waner children participated and the twenty-second one since 1905 in which the reward for my good behavior was rewarded with a seat behind a post. I had a lot more to tell you, but at this point Miss Thoke gave me the elbow.

"Walter," she said softly. "I want to know what you think of Kiki Cuyler."

"I think he is a great ball player," I replied. "Almost any club would be glad to have him."

"I would rather have you," said Miss Thoke, giving me that look which makes you want to crush her with a window weight. "But listen," she continued, "do you believe that if he had been in this series it would have made any difference in the result?"

"Well," I said, "Clyde Barnhart hasn't been such a punk in this series and Kiki would of had to of did considerable smacking to even tie Friday's battle. But I do believe Donie made a mistake keping him seated on the bench. There is other places where I wished he had set."

"Where, for instance?" inquired Miss Thoke, or Helma, as I now thought of her.

"I would of preferred that he set beside you," I told her.

Would Have Stopped Ruth.

"Well," she laughingly retorted, "that would of suited me fine. But seriously, I have learned a lot of baseball in these four heavenly days and if I was Mr. Bush, I would of had Cuyler setting in the right field seats. A good outfielder planted there would of made a sucker out of Ruth."

It develops now that the people who were screaming at Bush to put Kiki in the game were mostly from Flint, Michigan, where he got his start. One of them told me right after the game that he knew what the trouble was.

"What is it?" I asked curiously.

"'Cuyler,' he said, "'is too much of a gentleman to know how to handle himself.'"

That is the line I leave with you, my dear radio audience and to the person from Flint or elsewhere sending me the first correct answer, I will donate my share of tomorrow's receipts.

WRAY'S COLUMN

If the Cards Had Won.

TOO bad our Cardinals did not win the National League championship. Although the Pirates appear individually a better team than O'Farrell's combination, collectively the St. Louis bunch appears the better fighting aggregation.

Several times during the season, when the pinch grew tight, the Pirates faltered and seemed about to pull a Chicago. But although the Cardinals faltered, here and there along the route, there was no weak-kneed fight put up when the pinches came. The club pulled herolcs to retain up close.

St. Louis fans will always believe that the Yankees would not have been able to win the first games from the Cardinals. In fact, playing on the home grounds, with Old Pete and Haines in there, it is more probable that the clubs would have gone East with the Cardinals leading 2 to 0.

For several years the Pittsburg team has been under suspicion, as one subject to the rattles. The Cards at least know how to fight.

Time to End the Joke.

WITH boxing going on everywhere throughout the country and some 25 or 30 states legally recognizing it, it's about time that the Federal bill placing an embargo on fight film transportation were repealed.

The citizens of the United States are denied the right to view a reproduction of what they can see in the flesh, in 30 states.

To make matters worse, the law fails of its purpose in many instances, because it assesses a fine merely for transportation of the films from state to state. Once the films are shipped and the fine paid, they can be exhibited.

The situation is a hangover from conditions that existed in 1910, leaving the usual dark brown taste. If it is right to hold fights, it is no less right to exhibit pictures of them.

Time to square up this irregularity.

Why the Law Exists.

THIS Federal law was put on the books following the Jeffries-Johnson fight, when the tension between the races over the fight supremacy became acute. Racial fights and near-riots developed in several parts of the country. The exhibition of films fanned the flame. It was decided to stop this by barring the films throughout the United States.

Since the dethronement of Jack Johnson the occasion for the law has passed. It is doubtful if a similar situation ever will occur again in this country.

Bush and Cuyler.

PITTSBURG fans gave Donie Bush the razzberry for not using Cuyler either regularly or in pinches during the series.

Fans do not know the emergencies with which managers have to deal; they guess in the dark.

It is reasonable to suppose that Manager Bush is interested in winning for Pittsburg and that therefore every asset worth while gets a place in the scheme of things. There must therefore be something in connection with the Cuyler benching that convinces Bush his star player is not displaying his best.

He would not bench Cuyler if Kiki was worth more to the club than any rival on the team.

Fans here for a time spoke harshly of Breadon for getting rid of Hornsby. But since the owner and the manager could not get along, Hornsby's value to the club faded to a whisper. Breadon traded him and the team seems to have suffered little, if any.

The Bush-Cuyler situation may be of a similar nature.

Nevertheless, if Mr. Bush's peeve persists, Mr. Breadon could do worse than snare Cuyler for our Cardinals.

BROWN FOOTBALL TEAM LOSES TO PENN; FIRST DEFEAT IN 15 GAMES

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Brown University's football team, which had gone unbeaten for 15 consecutive games, was defeated by Pennslyvania today, 14 to 6. The first half was scoreless, but there was little doubt about the final outcome of the game in the second half, although Brown took their opponents by surprise at the outset of the fourth period by scoring a touchdown on a long forward pass.

It took plucky Paul Scull, speedy Penn halfback, and his so-called "green" teammates to overpower and chain the vicious and experienced Brown Bear for the first time since Harvard defeated Brown in 1925.

Scull scored all of Penn's 14 points and found himself acclaimed a hero as he limped off the field a minute before the final whistle. He was given a mighty cheer from the stands.

Fifty thousand persons braved a light rain to witness the game.

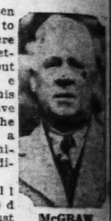
M'GRAW SAYS BUSH PASSED UP CHANCE IN 7TH

Giants' Pilot Believes Lloyd Waner Should Have Been Ordered to Hit Instead of Sacrifice.

By John J. McGraw.
Manager New York Giants.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—To me the outstanding feature of the last game, which won the world's championship, was the steadiness of Wilcey Moore's pitching.

It was not so much the kind of stuff he used but the fact that he was cool and calculating all the way and knew exactly what he was trying to do. He lived up to all the things that American League players and newspaper men had remarked about him during the season. I had never seen him until this series began. It is quite a strain on the average young fellow to be shoved into a critical place like that but Moore is a kid.



McGRAW

He has seen enough of life to know that there is no use in getting excited about anything. He simply took his time and gave them the best he had. It was a remarkable exhibition of steadiness.

Carmen Hill also pitched steady ball, just as I expected he would do. All season I have regarded him one of the smartest pitchers in the National League. After that first inning yesterday he sized up his opposition and made few slips. The thing that ruined his chances was Babe Ruth's home run in the fifth inning.

That wallop alone would have made Ruth one of the outstanding heroes of the series. All through the games, Ruth has hit steadily and has played for the team. He drove in the most runs, making short hits as well as long ones.

Miljus just missed being a great world's series hero. His wild pitch in the fatal ninth inning was an unfortunate end to the series. It was unfortunate also for the baseball public, which likes to see a game decided on a walloping rather than a misplay.

Says Bush Made Mistake.

I think Donie Bush made a mistake in judgment when he declined to gamble for victory in the seventh inning and had Lloyd Waner bunt. I would rather have seen him hit and take the big plunge right there of winning or losing. He advanced his men all right but the best he could get and did get was a tie.

There is no doubt about the Yankees having shown superiority all through the series.

They also showed superiority as a team over their work of last year. Experience has improved the club all around, and especially in the infield.

"Koenig Star of Series."

Right here let me say that Mark Koenig ought to be regarded the all round hero of the series. Leaving aside Ruth's home run hitting and his general good work, Koenig played steadily and brilliantly in the field and was always reliable at the bat. When both fielding and hitting is considered, I should regard him as the player who stands out. I was glad to see this, too. It made up for his slips of last year and will make him a much greater ball player in the future.

Another player who deserves a lot of credit is Joe Dugan. His experience told heavily, and if he has slowed up any, Joe didn't show it in this series. He handled these infield balls as if he were the fastest youngster on the field, and he knew exactly what to do in any situation. Dugan is a really great competitive player.

"Pirates Looked Better"

The Pirates looked much better in this game than they had at any time during the series. They showed much more life. At that they were never up to their real form.

The Yanks played exceptionally good ball when we realize that the only time their defense really cracked was when Moore and Lazeri made those errors and gave the Pirates a chance in the seventh.

The play that I think should have been worked different was Lloyd Waner's sacrifice. That was the time to gamble for the big prize, but Bush didn't take it.

I suspect that it will be a number of years before we see another world series decided in four games and on a wild pitch, at that.

SPRINGFIELD

BILL PARILLA MAKES THE ONLY SCORE OF GAME

Touchdown Follows Long March Down Field on Straight Football; Passing Attack Fails to Gain.

By Dent McSkimming.

It may be that the lateral pass is going to revolutionize college football as some coaches predict, but if yesterday's game at Sportsman's Park is a fair sample of the relative value of the new style of attack as compared with the old, it is safe to predict that St. Louis University will stick to the old.

In the first half of their game with the Southwest Teachers' College team of Springfield, Mo., the Billikens attempted nine passes, laterals and forwards, and gained not a single point.

In the third quarter, on 18 successive line plays, without the aid of a single pass, the same Billiken team ripped great holes in the Springfield wall, marched the full length of the field, from its own 20-yard line, and scored the winning touchdown.

The final score was 7 to 0.

Springfield kicked of to open this third period and from the time of the opening play until Halfback Billy Parilla crossed the goal line for the touchdown, Springfield did not have its hands on the ball.

Contrast in Results.

The contrast in the style of attack used in this victorious march as compared with the wide open and varied offensive of the first half was astonishing. The forward passes and lateral passes had proved a complete failure. Success crowned the effort to drive through the line and that in itself is sufficient argument why it is likely the Billikens will in future plays have greatater faith in their plays through the line than they have had in the past.

Because of the fact that St. Louis had run up big scores in winning the first two games of the season, many of the team's followers were disappointed when the Bills scored only one touchdown yesterday, but the Springfield Teachers proved a much better team than St. Louisans had expected to see.

If there was a particular weakness in the St. Louis U. attack it was simply that the passes attempted in the first half went to the wrong receiver. This was due partly to the fact that the Springfield defense successfully devined the play, sensed the direction of the pass and covered the man who had been chosen to receive the ball.

Here is a summary of the unsuccessful passing game:

FIRST QUARTER.

Pass, Jordan to Flynn, gains 10 yards.

Lateral pass to Parilla, who slips and falls and ball bounces out of his hands, recovered by Springfield.

Forward pass fails, blocked.

Pass, Lintzenich to Flynn, gains 10 yards.

Jordan's short forward pass over center intercepted by Tolliver of Springfield.

SECOND QUARTER.

Pass, Jordan to Browning, gains 7 yards.

Jordan's long pass, over Springfield goal line, blocked by Springfield fullback.

Jordan's forward pass after a lateral from Lintzenich goes into Springfield fullback's arms; Billikens lose ball.

Jordan's forward pass goes into arms of Abbott of Springfield.

The task of carrying the ball in the course of the 80-yard drive in the third quarter was equally divided between Flynn, Parilla, Jordan and Lintzenich but the big frame of Lintzenich was more in prominence than any of the others. The longest single run of the drive was made by Lintzenich when he earned 12 yards in a smash through right tackle. Parilla turned in a gain of 9 yards and all of the others were of 8 yards and less.

Lintzenich added the point after touchdown, sending a perfect drop kick between the posts.

The longest single run of the game was a sprint of 45 yards by Parilla in the second quarter. This was the play which placed St. Louis in position to attempt a forward pass over the goal line, an effort which failed.

Springfield was almost constantly on the defensive and the fact that the Teachers escaped with only a light score against them is a tribute to the manner in which they successfully anticipated the direction of the Billiken attack.

The attendance was estimated at 1500.

Contrast in Results.

The contrast in the style of attack used in this victorious march as compared with the wide open and varied offensive of the first half was astonishing. The forward passes and lateral passes had proved a complete failure. Success crowned the effort to drive through the line and that in itself is sufficient argument why it is likely the Billikens will in future games have greater faith in their plays through the line than they have had in the past.

Because of the fact that St. Louis had run up big scores in winning the first two games of the season, many of the team's followers were disappointed when the Bills scored only one touchdown yesterday, but the Springfield Teachers proved a much better team than St. Louis had expected to see.

If there was a particular weakness in the St. Louis U. attack it was simply that the passes attempted in the first half went to the wrong receiver. This was due partly to the fact that the Springfield defense successfully devined the play, sensed the direction of the pass and covered the man who had been chosen to receive the ball.

Here is a summary of the unsuccessful passing game:

FIRST QUARTER.

Pass, Jordan to Flynn, gains 10 yards.

Lateral pass to Parilla, who slips and falls and ball bounces out of his hands, recovered by Springfield.

Forward pass fails, blocked.

Pass, Lintzenich to Flynn, gains 10 yards.

Jordan's short forward pass over center intercepted by Tolliver of Springfield.

SECOND QUARTER.

Pass, Jordan to Browning, gains 1 yards.

Jordan's long pass, over Springfield goal line, blocked by Springfield fullback.

Jordan's forward pass after a lateral from Lintzenich goes into Springfield fullback's arms; Billikens lose ball.

Jordan's forward pass goes into arms of Abbott of Springfield.

The task of carrying the ball in the course of the 80-yard drive in the third quarter was equally divided between Flynn, Parilla, Jordan and Lintzenich but the big frame of Lintzenich was more in prominence than any of the others. The longest single run of the drive was made by Lintzenich when he earned 12 yards in a smash through right tackle. Parilla turned in a gain of 9 yards and all of the others were of 8 yards and less.

Lintzenich added the point after touchdown, sending a perfect drop kick between the posts.

The longest single run of the game was a sprint of 45 yards by Parilla in the second quarter. This was the play which placed St. Louis in position to attempt a forward pass over the goal line, an effort which failed.

Springfield was almost constantly on the defensive and the fact that the Teachers escaped with only a light score against them is a tribute to the manner in which they successfully anticipated the direction of the Billiken attack.

The attendance was estimated at 1500.

Play-by-Play Account of Final Game

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Following is the play-by-play account of the fourth and final game of the world series between the New York Yankees and Pittsburg Pirates:

FIRST INNING.

PIRATES—L. Waner beat out a hit to short. Koenig threw out Barnhart. P. Waner grounded to Dugan. L. Waner scored on Wright's single to right. Wright went to second on Ruth's throw to the plate. Traynor hit a grounder to Dugan who tagged out Wright. ONE RUN. TWO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Combs singled to right. Koenig singled to right, Combs stopping at second. Combs scorned on Ruth's single to right, Koenig going to third. Gehrig struck out. Ruth stole second. Meusel was called out on strikes. Lazzeri was also called out on strikes. This was the third straight strikeout for Hill. ONE RUN. THREE HITS. NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.

PIRATES—Grantham bunted and was thrown out by Dugan. Harris singled past Dugan. Smith flied to Ruth. Hill walked. L. Waner scratched a hit past Moore, filling the bases. Barnhart forced L. Waner; Lazzeri unassisted. NO RUNS. TWO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Wright threw out Dugan. Collins doubled to left. Wright threw out Moore. Wright also threw out Combs. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING.

PIRATES—P. Waner singled past Dugan. Wright hit into a double play. Lazzeri taking his grounder, tagging P. Waner and tossing to Gehrig. Traynor flied to Meusel. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Grantham made a good stop and threw out Koenig. Ruth grounded to Harris. Grantham threw out Gehrig. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.

PIRATES—Grantham grounded to Gehrig. Harris singled to right. Smith forced Harris, Koenig to Lazzeri. Hill tapped in front of the plate and was thrown out by Collins. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Traynor threw out Meusel. Traynor also tossed out Lazzeri. Dugan singled to left. Collins singled to left and Dugan got to third when L. Waner juggled the ball. L. Waner was given an error on the play. Moore struck out. NO RUNS. TWO HITS. ONE ERROR.

FIFTH INNING.

PIRATES—L. Waner's third straight hit was a single to center. Barnhart hit into a double play, Dugan to Lazzeri to Gehrig. Koenig threw out P. Waner. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Combs singled to center. Koenig struck out. Ruth hit his second home run of the series into the right-field stands, scoring behind Combs. Wright threw out Gehrig. Wright also threw out Meusel. TWO RUNS. TWO HITS. NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING.

PIRATES—Wright tapped to Moore. Traynor struck out. Gehrig knocked down Grantham's hit, but Grantham beat him to the bag. Harris lined to Combs. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Lazzeri struck out. Dugan fouled to Traynor. Collins walked. Moore singled to right, sending Collins to third. Combs flied to Barnhart. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

SEVENTH INNING.

PIRATES—Smith was safe when Moore dropped Gehrig's toss. Yde ran for Smith and Brickell batted for Hill. Brickell got to first on Lazzeri's fumble, Yde stopping at second. L. Waner sacrificed. Gehrig to Lazzeri. Yde scored on Barnhart's single to center, Brickell going to third. Brickell scored on P. Waner's sacrifice fly to Combs. This tied the score. Moore threw out Wright. TWO RUNS. ONE HIT. TWO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Miljus and Gooch formed the new Pirate battery. Koenig singled too hot for Grantham. Ruth hit into a double play, Traynor to Wright to Harris. Gehrig flied to Barnhart. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

EIGHTH INNING.

PIRATES—Dugan threw out Traynor. Grantham singled over Lazzeri's head. Lazzeri threw out Harris. Gooch was purposely given a pass. Miljus struck out. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Traynor threw out Meusel. Lazzeri walked. Dugan popped to Harris. Collins singled to center, Lazzeri going to third. Moore struck out. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

NINTH INNING.

PIRATES—Lazzeri threw out L. Waner. Barnhart flied to Meusel. P. Waner was tossed out by Moore. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES — Combs walked. Koenig beat out a bunt toward third, Combs going to second. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Ruth was purposely passed, filling the bases. Gehrig struck out. Meusel also struck out. Combs scored the winning run on a wild pitch. ONE RUN. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Roosevelt Beats Webster, 12 to 0

Exhibiting a more aggressive game, Roosevelt High School of the Public High School League defeated Webster High of the St. Louis County League in an interconference game yesterday afternoon on the Webster gridiron, 12 to 0, before a small crowd.

Roosevelt scored its first touchdown in the first quarter when Moffait captured H. Miller's punt and ran 55 yards through the opposing field for a touchdown. Barnes failed to kick goal.

Sauselle duplicated Moffait's feat with a 35-yard run across the goal line in the second quarter, but he was called back on a player being offside.

The second and final touchdown for the Rough Riders was registered in the final quarter. After a series of short plunges, Barns shoved through center for a needed 15 yards to register a touchdown. Hiece could not make the extra point.

The line-ups follow:

FLANAGAN STARS FOR NOTRE DAME

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Chris Flanagan, Knute Rockne's leading contender for gridiron honors this year, twice fought his way through the University of Detroit eleven here today, carrying the heavy end of the 20 to 0 score which Notre Dame piled up over the Detroit team.

Dew, sub-fullback for Notre Dame, carried over the third touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Municipal Teams In Doubleheader Benefit Contests

Morgans, Friscos, Pants Stores and Chevrolets Compete for Relief Fund.

An interesting double-header for Municipal baseball fans is scheduled this afternoon at Fairground Park, matching four leading teams of the association. The champion Morgan Haulers will play the Frisco nine and the Pants Store will oppose the South Side Chevrolets. All proceeds will be donated to the tornado relief fund.

The Morgans defeated the Chevrolets in the recent city title series and trimmed the Sieblers, Municipal champions of Cincinnati, O., in an inter-city series.

The first game between the Pants Store and the Chevrolets will start at 1:30 p. m. The Morgans and Frisco nines will play the second contest.

Jack Ryan, "Red" Roach and Vernon Sandusky will umpire.

an opportunity for a double play at first and second, and by standing up I could interfere with the throw to first and save one out.

"However, Travis Jackson dropped the ball. I overran second and was out. Still, there was no double play. Then I was fined. The newspapers got hold of the story of my being fined. Bush said I gave out the story. I had no reason to give it out, and I didn't, still, I saw no reason why it shouldn't have been given out, as was the case with other fines. This led to the belief that I was balking, but it was based on the false idea that I had given out the story.

"Shortly afterwards, Bush couched me far off third in a game. I protested that it was dangerous but obeyed. The ball was snapped to third and I was caught. Then Bush berated me for being caught. I said I was willing to take blame for my own lapses, which every player has, but not those of others.

"After the fine was imposed, I went to Bush and asked him if I had done anything wrong to let me know, that I was trying to give the best I had and wanted to be told of my wrong plays. He dismissed me with the statement that the whole thing was settled and done.

Has "Yens" of His Own.

"I had paid for my mistake, whether I thought it right or not, and felt that I should be permitted to start with a clean slate. But things didnt seem to work out that way. I was being played in left field and batting second. I had what ball players call a "yen" against batting in that position, and playing left field is about the worst thing I do. I told Bush about my "yens" and he told me he needed me in that position, so I could do nothing but bat second. The proof of who was right can be seen in my record as a batter while in second position. And yet I tried as hard there as I ever tried in my life.

"I made the mistake, I see now, of speaking about these two things. I should have batted second and played left field without saying anything, but I wanted to help and felt I could be of more help in center and batting in any other position than second.

"No doubt I have been guilty of things that might be held against me, but I never loafed and I was always trying to do my best. I still think Bush a great fellow, and there is no extreme bitterness in my heart, I, quite naturally, feel that I should have been permitted to play, but who knows that I would have done as well as the man who played my position? Clyde Barnhart played a good game, and he and I are not enemies in any way.

"I have heard that the whole matter will be thrashed out soon, and I will be as happy as any one to find out what is the real trouble. No one feels the team's defeat any more than I do. No one pulled harder for them to win."

Other players on the team expressed dissatisfaction with the benching of Cuyler, and some said they felt that it had done the team no good.

Cuyler's Ability Cited.

They also pointed out that Cuyler's percentage of runs scored, figured against his times at bat for this season, is much greater than that of Lloyd Waner, who was second in the league with 133. One less than Rogers Hornsby, they cited. Cuyler's throwing arm, his speed on the bases, the fact that he stole 20 of the 65 thefts credited to Pittsburg this year, although he was played only in 85 games and then asked why he should have been kept on the "Wood." they said that when the club owner's son announced that Cuyler was benched because Barnhart was playing better ball, and for no other reason, he still did not explain why they had sent to the minors to get Adam Comorosky to play in Barnhart's place when Barnhart was unable to play.

From the general attitude of some of the players, after losing the final game today, it seemed as if they, as well as the fans, had been wanting Cuyler to be put into the series.

Cuyler laughingly told of being offered an opportunity to go into vaudeville for the rest few weeks. "Accept it," a friend advised him.

"What could I do on the stage?" Cuyler asked.

"Well," one of the players said, "you can just go out there and take that old bench with you and sit on it with a gag in your mouth while they play the spotlight on you, just as you did in the world series."

YANKEES WERE BETTER CLUB, HUGGINS SAYS

Team Fortunate in Catching Pirates Off Stride—Bush Praises Miljus for Great Pitching.

By Miller Huggins.
Manager World Champion Yankees.

(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Well, it's over, and the Yankees are the champions of the world, just as I knew they would be.

It wasn't an easy series, and the Pittsburg Pirates deserve a lot of credit. We were fortunate in catching them at a time when they weren't playing as good a game, perhaps, as they did during the regular season.

That's the break that comes in baseball.

Some folks will say that the victory proves the great superiority of the American League. It doesn't at all. As I see it, the two major leagues are much alike. They're both good, and there are great ball players and great ball clubs in each league. The Yankees won the pennant in the American League rather handily this year, but I think they would have won the National League pennant almost as easily.

DONIE BUSH PRAISES MILJUS FOR COURAGEOUS PITCHING IN THE FINAL

By OWEN J. BUSH,
Manager of the Pittsburg Pirates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—"I want to be the first to congratulate Manager Miller Huggins and every member of his New York Yankees as the new champions of the baseball world. The Yankees won on their merits.

"I must say in defense of my own players who fought gamely up to the last ditch even when everything was going continuously against them that they were far from being themselves. I don't know how to account for it unless it was the strain of the final week of the league race. Evidently our club had nothing left after that trying finish. They were trying hard enough all the time, no mistake about that. I am grateful to each and every one of them and cannot say too much in their praise.

"I challenge anyone to point out a greater or gamer exhibition of pitching than Hill and Miljus gave in the final game. Miljus' work in the final inning was particularly notable. It was the toughest spot in which a pitcher can possibly be placed—with the bases full in the ninth inning—the result of the world series at stake on every pitch, and batters like Gehrig, Meusel and Lazzeri coming up. In striking out Gehrig and Meusel and being in a fair way to get Lazzeri before that fatal pitch unfortunately got away, Johnny gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions of nervy and great pitching ever seen on any ball field.

But it's all over now and while we did not play the best ball of which we are capable when in top form and our hitters in their stride, we must feel satisfied with the knowledge that we did the best we could at this particular time.

Yankees Win Fourth Straight From Pirates

reaching the plate before Gooch could reach the ball.

Had it not been for errors by Wilcy Moore and Tony Lazzeri, Miljus would have escaped the misfortune of being the final goat of the series. The Pirates scored a run in the first inning on singles by Lloyd Waner and Wright, with infield outs in between, and the Yankees tied the score in their half on singles by Combs, Koenig and Ruth.

Ruth Hits a Homer.

Then pitching prevailed until the fifth inning, when Ruth hit his second homerun of the series and the tenth in his world series career. Combs opened that fifth with a single to center, Koenig struck out, and then the Big Bambino hoisted the ball into the right-center seats.

Moore was pitching along evenly, not in his best form, but he had enough to keep the Pirates away from home plate in the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Then in the seventh Earl Smith, leading off, hit a hot grounder to Gehrig. Lou might have made the play at first himself. Moore reached the ball as he was about to step on the bag. But Moore is a pitcher primarily. Occasionally he gets a hit, but his business is throwing baseballs to batters and not taking throws to first base. He took his eye off the ball to look at the base and the result was that he muffed the ball. Smith was safe and the Pirates had an opening. Yde was sent into run for Smith, and Brickell batted for Carmen Hill, who had started the game on the slab for the National Leaguers. Brickell grounded to Lazzeri and had it not been for Moore's muff of Gehrig's throw, Lazzeri would have had no trouble with Brickell's grounder.

But with a man on first base the grounder offered Tony a chance for a double play. Before throwing a ball, it is necessary to get hold of it. Many a fielder has tried to throw one before getting it, but never has it been done. And Tony couldn't do it. The urge to throw spoiled the act of stopping. It was a fumble and instead of a double play, or any play at all, both runners were safe.

Lloyd Waner, sacrificed them along, Barnhart singled to center, scoring Yde, and Paul Waner's sacrifice fly to Combs sent Brickell home with the tying run.

Miljus Succeeds Hill.

Wright tapped to Moore to end the inning and then Miljus went to the hill. His great work in relieving Kremer in the first game of the series made him the logical man for duty in this crises, but it was evident that he was not the Miljus of the first game.

Koenig greeted him with a single to Grantham in deep territory, but a double play started by the strong-armed Traynor and made possible by the fact that Wright was in position to be middle man at second, pulled the pitcher out of that hole.

In the eighth, Miljus walked Lazzeri with one out and Collins' single sent Lazzeri to third, but two were out and the fact that Moore, a weakling batter, was next up, made it easy for the Czech to get by that inning safely.

The stands expected the top end of the batting order to finish Miljus and it did. Not quite in the way expected, but it finished him or put him in such a state that he finished himself and the Pirates all in one fell swooper wild pitch.

WORLD SERIES SIDELIGHTS

By J. ROY STOCKTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.

IT was the first world series decided in four straight games since 1914, when the Boston Braves, upsetting form as it had never been upset before, romped through the great Philadelphia Athletics without losing a decision.

In 1914, though, a great team was beaten, while even the most rabid National League fans, if they saw the series, will say that the Pirates did not show even vague traces of championship ability. The fielding, expected to be brilliant, was ragged. The pitching was not bad, but still not good enough to stand up behind a weak defense and the devastating punch of the Yankees.

The outcome of the series slices the suspicious persons who thing a series always is stretched to seven games to rake in the shekels. As a result of the abrupt end of the struggle the Yankee management will have to refund about $200,000 taken in through sale of tickets for the game that was to have been played tomorrow.

Pirates Erred in Each Game.

The Pirate defense cracked in every game. Kremer and Miljus deserved to win the first game from Hoyt and Moore, but Grantham and Earl Smith made errors that gave the Yankees a 5-to-4 verdict.

Lloyd Waner and Wright made errors in the second game, in which Pipgras defeated Aldridge, Cvengros and Dawson, 6 to 2.

Pennock was the hero of the third game, but with all his great pitching, Meadows, with perfect suport, would have given him a battle. But the Yankees did some heavy hitting after Pirate mistakes and Pennock, giving only three hits, breezed through, 8 to 1.

It was the third straight world series to end in a midst of rain. The Pirates nosed out the Senators in 1925, the final game being played in a drenching rain. Last year the final game in which Haines and Alexander beat the Yankees, was played in a mist and fog, a day much like the one that saw the Pirates take the final knockout.

Huggins Started Four Pitchers.

Manager Huggins started four different pitchers in the four games and Hoyt was the only one who failed to go the route. Moore, besides winning the final game, saved the opener for Hoyt.

With only four games played, the total attendance and receipts fell far below the record. The first game attracted 41,467 cash customers, the second 41,634, the third 40,695, and the bad weather held down the total today to 37,909.

Two errorless games by the Yankees helped them to score their decisive victory. The Pirates had bobbles in each game, but the Yankees, after Meusel muffed a fly in the first contest, went through the second and third with a perfect record. Moore and Lazzeri had the errors in the fourth contest.

Yankees Straight Game Victory Is Second in History

WHEN the Yankees defeated the Pirates today for their fourth straight victory to win the world baseball championship, it was the second time in history that a club has accomplished the feat. The other occasion was in 1914, when George Stallings' Braves defeated Connie Mack's famous old Athletics four in a row.

In the 1907 series, the first game between the Cubs and Tigers ended in a tie and then the men of Frank Chance took four in a row. In 1922, the Giants took four victories from the Yankees, but in this the second game was a tie. It was this game which the umpire called and Commissioner Landis gave all the money to charity.

BAN JOHNSON SENDS YANKEE OWNERS HIS CONGRATULATIONS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, was highly elated when the Yankees vanquished the Pirates in the fourth straight game today. The deciding run hardly had been scored when Johnson dictated this telegram to Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Americans.

"Hearty congratulations to you, Manager Huggins and the players. We like to destroy the enemy in the manner. Four straight victories will have a wholesome effect upon the public mind and strengthen the position of professional ball."

Michelsen Wins Marathon Event; Ward Is Second

Veteran Covers 26-Mile Course in 2:31:11 From Bronx to Stamford.

By the Associated Press.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Albert "Whitey" Michelsen of Stamford, Conn., running unattached, won the marathon race of 26 miles and 385 yards from the Bronx to this city this afternoon. His time was 2 hours, 31 minutes and 11 seconds.

F. Ward of Dover, N. J., was second, finishing in 2:37. Francis O'Donnell of Mays Landing, N. J., and Clarence Demar, Melrose, Mass., finished third and fourth respectively, the former in 2:38:35 and the latter in 2:41:21. There were 200 entries.

PURDUE DEFEATS HARVARD, 19-0; YALE LOSES TO GEORGIA, 14-10

WELCH STARS AS BIG TEN TEAM DOWNS CRIMSON

Western Eleven Scores in Each of Three Quarters—Elis Unable to Overcome Southerners' Early Lead.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8.—A Texas youth named Ralph Welch, playing his first game of College football, led Purdue University's eleven to a 19 to 0 victory over Harvard in the Stadium today in the crimson's first intersectional game since 1921.

Young Welch played left halfback in place of "Cotton" Wilcox, Purdue's star back, who was kept out of the game by an injury. On the first play he crashed through the Harvard line for a gain of 12 yards and that was only the first advance he made. Whether in running, kicking or passing, the Texas boy came through. It was this day, almost to the exclusion of the other members of the Hoosier team.

As a team, the Purdue eleven was far superior to Harvard and outplayed the crimson from the start with the exception of a brief period in the final quarter when Harvard produced an attack that netted 60 yards. The advance was stopped, however, when Welch intercepted a forward pass and led his team on a march that ended with the final whistle on the Harvard five-yard line.

Harvard played a sluggish game. The line especially was weak and showed no improvement over last week. The efforts of the backs were cut down by an excellent Purdue defense that again and again pierced the crimson line. Harvard made six first downs, three of them in the final period. Purdue made 13 first downs. Purdue scored a touchdown in each of the three quarters.

Seven Fumbles Spoil Yale's Chances to Win.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Georgia's eleven today crashed through the Yale team to win, 14 to 10, from an eleven that showed fine football at times, but was weak and clumsy when within striking distance of the goal.

All of the scoring came in the first half, Georgia taking a lead which the Elis vainly sought to overcome in the last quarter, during which they made ten first downs to one by the visitors. The Southerners played even with the Yale team during the third period and in the final quarter checked four Yale rallies, to three of which, however, Yale contributed much by inopportune fumbles.

Yale's attack, led by the brilliant running of Bruce Caldwell, was better than that of the winners' during most of the game, the Blue making 17 first downs to six for Georgia. Seven costly fumbles on Yale's part, however, offset its attack, while Georgia went through the game without a fumble.

Weak line play during the early part of the game on the part of the Yale forward wall was responsible for the advances made by Georgia's backs during the first two periods.

Caldwell gained the most ground, but he was unable to make a needed yard for a touchdown to win the game in the final period. Shiver's punts, always dependable, helped the Southerners, many times.

Princeton Easily Defeats Lehigh, 42-0.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 8.—Princeton's revamped backfield today displayed a powerful drive against Lehigh and rolled up 42 points, while the Pennsylvania eleven was unable to score. The Roper team used nothing but straight football.

The Lehigh team was unable to stop the line smashes directed against it with Wittmer and Norman carrying the brunt of the work.

Lawler, left end for the Tigers, blocked a Lehigh punt in the third period and ran 15 yards to a touchdown.

The Lehigh team could make little headway against the Princeton line, and made but three first downs, as compared to the Tigers' 21.

SPEED BOATS TO HAVE BUSY DAY ON MISSISSIPPI

Many Entries for St. Louis Yacht Club's Third Annual Regatta—Independence III in Time Trial.

By Gerald Holland.

The most pretentious undertaking ever attempted by the St. Louis Yacht Club is represented in the crowded program of its third annual motor boat regatta which will be held today between Eads and Free Bridges. A four-mile race for outboard motors will open the program at 11 o'clock this morning and the main events will start at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. The feature, a 50-mile race for outboard motors, starts at 1:45 p. m.

About 30 boats are expected to start in the 50-mile race. The winner will hold the world's championship regardless of the time he takes since that distance has never before been attempted by outboards. The large field and title involved will make the distance race especially interesting and spills are likely to be frequent at the turns. Life belts must be worn by all entrants and with the course well patrolled, serious accidents are unlikely.

The free-for-all race over a distance of six miles will show the spectators lots of speed and Miss St. Louis, local 60-mile-an-hour hydroplane driven by Walter Kastrup and Ray Hullinghurst is a heavy favorite to win.

Out-of-Town Boats Entered.

Several out-of-town entries have been announced in the 151 class increasing the field to 10 boats Miss Quincy, driven by Cliff Padgett, E. F. Carter's Miss Danville, and Miss Louisville, driven by Lawrence Jones, all own impressive records and close competition is indicated throughout the race.

Commodore Edwin C. Koenig will take a shot at the world-record held by Gar Wood's Miss America with his recently constructed hydroplane, Independence III. Koenig's boat skimmed over the water at a 70-mile-an-hour clip last Thursday in a trial run and with the three Hispano aircraft motors tuned perfectly, the local driver has a touch for the 85-mile mark which will give him the title. Gar Wood won the one-mile championship with a speed of 83.4. The crew of Independence III will include Koenig at the wheel and L. F. Henry and either E. E. Wood or W. G. Baird at the controls.

Other events include a four-mile race for the larger outboard motors which will open the program and a four-mile runabout race. Cups have been offered to winners and runners-up in all classes. Donors of the trophies are: Senator Jos. Mogler, John Moir, Michael Nash, William Lyle, William Grossman, Fred Wehrenberg, Oliver Schmidt and Al Guerdan.

Old Dutch Wins Baldwin Handicap

By the Associated Press.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 8.—W. R. Coe's Old Dutch, which was added to the list of starters at the last moment, again showed his heels to some high-class juveniles when he led home the field in the Baldwin Handicap, a five and a half furlong sprint, here this afternoon. He ran the distance in the amazingly fast time of 1:05 1-5, considering the track was sloppy.

Old Dutch holds the track record for the five and one-half furlong route. He is just now coming to himself and is running up to the expectations of his stable.

At no part of the journey did his backers have cause for worry. He flashed by the half-mile post in 46 seconds flat and won by three lengths.

Excalibur was second, defeating Nusakan for the place by a head.

The race was worth $4800.

CAYUGA BEATS BATEAU A NECK AT LAUREL

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL PARK, Md., Oct. 8.—Edward F. Whitney saddled the winner of this afternoon's feature race, when his Cayuga won the National Handicap, with $8000 added.

Cayuga beat Bateau by a neck after having led from the start to finish and ran the six furlongs over a muddy track in 1:13 4-5. Dicing ran third, beating H. P. Whitney's Honker by a length.

Dicing set a hot chase after Cayuga, but could not gain on the fast-running mudder. Bateau slipped through and got up in time to beat out Dicing for the place.

The winner paid $8.70. He earned $6800 for his owner.

Meeting Extended.

THE annual fall meeting at Hawthorne has been extended three days. The original meeting was scheduled to close yesterday but a petition signed by practically every horseman racing at Hawthorne was presented to the officials of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association yesterday, asking them to extend the meet until the opening of the Arlington Heights racetrack.

H. Massey will ship his recent purchases, Celidon and Florian, to Churchill Downs in the near future. Massey recently set a new American claiming record when he took Celidon from Rancocas Stable for $12,000. A few days later he claimed Florian for $7000.

William P. and Great Sport were sold by C. E. "Boots" Durnell to S. N. Holman at private sale, Friday. William P. raced in Durnell's colors at the Fairmount fall meeting and won a few races. Great Sport raced at Fairmount and Hawthorne the past month. Great Sport recently won a race at Hawthorne after being practically left at the post. He was five lengths behind at the start and raced around his opposition to win in a drive.

Program Book Out.

THE program book for the first 10 days of the meeting of the American National Jockey Club at Arlington Heights was issued Friday. The meeting at Arlington will open Thursday, Oct. 13. There will be no purse less than $1200 with overnight purses ranging from $1300 to $2000. Six stake features will be decided during the meeting. Maj. T. C. McDowell will act as presiding steward at the meeting.

One track mark was shattered and one equaled at Jamaica and Laurel, Friday. Old Dutch, racing in the silks of W. R. Coe, won the fifth race at Jamaica and set a new record for five and one-half furlongs of 1:04 2-5. The former record of 1:04 4-5 was held by Sun Audience. Buddy Bauer, winner of the Fairmount Derby, tied the six furlong mark of 1:11 2-5 at Laurel in winning the Collington Handicap.

REIGH COUNT EASY VICTOR IN KENTUCKY JOCKEY CLUB STAKES

WINS $28,480 FOR HIS OWNER, MRS. J. D. HERTZ

S. O'Donnell, Jockey on Vito, Which Runs Second, Set Down for 30 Days for Rough Riding.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., Oct. 8.—The Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes, $10,000 added, for 2-year-olds, at one mile, was easily won by Mrs. J. D. Hertz's Reigh Count, with C. Lang up, this afternoon. Vito finished second and Algernon third.

Sea Rip was coupled with Reigh Count in the mutuels.

The horses were well bunched for the first half of the running, the lead first being held by Sea Rip, which forfeited it to Vito. Reigh Count, coming from behind, went to the front at the will of his rider and won by four lengths, hard held.

Vito was responsible for some crowding which enabled him to race in second position in the stretch, which he never relinquished. Algernon plodded along in the rear but finished with rare gameness to take third money.

The winner ran the distance in 1:40.

S. O'Donnell, who rode Vito, was suspended for 30 days for rough riding.

Mrs. Hertz was enriched $28,480 by Reigh Count's victory.

The Polk Laffoon entry, Fargo and Sarah Alethe, took both win and place positions in the second race, seven furlongs, for 2-year-old maidens. Adam's Apple was a poor third. Glee finished fourth.

Miami Triad of the Audley Farm, coming from far back, worked forward to take the fourth race with two lengths to spare. Pretty Run was just able to nose out Guillotine for the place. Footloose, which for a time led the 11 starters, could not hold out and finished fourth.

The Runt won the sixth race by a length and a half. Louis Rubenstein was second, three lengths ahead of Compensation.

The Missing Ingredient.

OUR Cards from the beginning,
Misfortune had to meet;
The boys were great when winning,
But greater in defeat.

The recollection rankles,
The stab is burning hot;
For, broken ribs and ankles,
Were all the breaks they got.

The bench was filled with lame ones,
But, hope was never gone;
With lesser lights, but game ones,
Our heroes carried on.

When the Bucs began to tire,
To greater heights we rose;
And nipped them at the wire,
But, missed it by a nose.

And now the Yanks they're playing
For money and renown,
And there is no gainsaying
Their daubers must be down.

Although they shot it to us,
The Yankees turned them back,
For the Spirit of St. Louis
Is what the Pirates lack.

Too True.

Individually, the Pirates are a great team. Collectively, they are no stronger than their weakest link with their strongest link sitting on the bench.

While Cuyler may not fit in with Donnie Bush's style of play, the grandstand managers would like to see Kiki get in there and take a cut at the pill occasionally just for old time's sake.

Hot Dog!

"Swedish Prince Eats Hot Dogs."

Indicating that someone put a Swiss movement in the dog watch.

Hot dogs are becoming popular all over the world. Even down in Peru, where the dogs have a Peruvian bark, they are gaining in favor and flavor.

It won't be long until the dogs of war will be turned into sausage and served red hot in the Salvation Army.

Hot dogs are all right and may be eaten without a license in any man's league.

We all have our favorite brands of hot dogs. The pointer has its good points and there is quite a run in greyhounds. Personally, our favorite piece de resistance is the wire-haired terrier.

MISS FULTON WINS SUNSET HILL CLUB'S FALL TOURNAMENT

Miss Isabelle Fulton won the women's fall tournament at Sunset Hill Country Club yesterday, defeating Mrs. E. Laun, 2 and 1, and taking possession of the trophy given by Mrs. Lloyd F. Crouch.

Mrs. Crouch was the winner in Class A, eliminating Mrs. Clarence Wolff in the final match, 5 and 4. Mrs. Conrad Budke won the title in Class B by beating Mrs. D. J. Henry, 2 up. The championship consolation division was headed by Mrs. E. J. Mauntel, who defeated Mrs. M. S. Braun, 1 up.

VALLEY LEADERS TO CONFER AT CHICAGO TODAY

Three Washington University Representatives Attend Meeting to Consider Admittance of New Members.

Dr. William Edmunds, director of athletics at Washington University, accompanied by Arthur Eilers, secretary of the Missouri Valley Conference, and Dr. Walter E. McCourt, faculty athletic representative for Washington University, departed last night for Chicago to attend a meeting of the four Missouri Valley Conference schools surviving after the recent withdrawal of the Big Six.

Besides the Washington men, representatives from Drake University, Grinnell College and Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College were to attend the conference, together with athletic directors of several other schools which were being considered as possible new members.

It was learned the definite action to fill the vacancies left by the seceding schools will be taken at Chicago.

St. Louis U. Considered.

On good authority, it is stated that among those invited to become members are Butler University of Indianapolis, Marquette of Milwaukee, University of Detroit and Creighton of Omaha. That St. Louis University is also a prospective member has already been told.

All four of the schools mentioned were named two years ago in rumors of a new conference in which St. Louis U. was to take part. The idea, locally at least, died when the then existing athletic regime was supplanted by the present one.

The prospective newcomers are sister schools of St. Louis U., with the exception of Butler. Marquette, Creighton and Detroit are members of the educational system of the Missouri Province of the Jesuit Order, which has its headquarters at St. Louis U., the oldest of the group of a dozen or more colleges and universities located in the Middle West.

Marquette is perhaps the strongest of the lot, its spectacular 21-3 defeat of Navy in 1924 bringing it into national prominence. Creighton was also strong that year and beat Marquette later in the season, 21-7.

Marquette, Creighton and Detroit have been on St. Louis U. athletic schedules for many years and have been seen frequently off the local feild. Frank Murray, a graduate of Tufts, has been the man behind advancement at Marquette.

CREVE COEUR RACE MEETING EXTENDED TO NEXT SATURDAY

BAD WEATHER CAUSED LOSS OF TWO DAYS

Original Closing Date Was Oct. 10—More Horses Due Here From Smithville Track—Spontaneous Wins Again.

The race meeting at Creve Coeur Lake, in connection with the Greater St. Louis Fair, has been extended to next Saturday, it was announced by fair officials last night. The meeting as originally planned was to run from Oct. 1 to Oct. 10. Inclement weather caused two postponements which would have pushed the closing date back to Oct. 12. Therefore, the extension to Oct. 15 is announced as a three-day extension.

It is rumored that the racing may be carried even beyond next Saturday if weather conditions are favorable.

A remarkable feature of the first week of the meeting has been the consistency of Carl Drake's 6-year-old mare, Spontaneous. This game daughter of Hearts of Oak started three times during the five days of racing and in all of her races she was victorious.

Conditions for the first few days of the week have been drawn up by Secretary Pat Galliger, and are in the hands of the horsemen.

More horses are expected to put in an appearance at the track within a day or two, there being a carload of thoroughbreds on the way here, from the Smithville-Kansas City race track, consisting mainly of the Midway Stable horses, owned by P. L. Castle, of Chicago. Castle's horses, and others, will add a new aspect to the sport for the coming week.

Favorites and well backed choices accounted for the majority of the races yesterday. Monsoon, Spontaneous and Arragosa, winners of the first, fifth and sixth races respectively, all were pronounced first choices.

Helen Payson Is New Canadian Golf Champion

Portland (Me.) Girl Beats Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, 3 and 2.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 8. — The Duchess of Connaught Gold Cup, emblematic of the Canadian women's golf championship, shifted to a new owner today when Miss Helen Payson of Portland ,Me., defeated Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., in the 36-hole final match over the Lambdon course, 3 and 2.

The trophy came to the United States for the first time since 1924, when Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., won it for the second time in successive years. Miss Payson succeeds Miss Ada McKenzie as the Dominion's titleholder.

Today's final was the first that has been provided in the Canadian championship between two Americans. Miss Payson owes her victory chiefly to a commanding advantage piled up in the early stages of the match. She was five up at the end of the morning 18 and she increased the margin to seven up in starting out the afternoon round.

Miss Stifel then began her belated rally and won five holes in a row, and, taking eighth and ninth, made the final turn four down. She won the tenth and twelfth, and the eleventh was halved. Only two down with six to play, she appeared to have the Portland girl on the run.

The break came at the thirteenth. Miss Stifel had the greater distance off the tee, but Miss Payson, in playing the odd, got away a beautiful brassie which ended up eight feet from the pin. Her opponent hit behind her ball on the approach and then overplayed the green. Her attempt to sink a tricky, down-hill putt rolled only inches beyond the cup after rimming it. Miss Payson hold out in two.

The match was dormie at the sixteenth and both were on in three with great approaches. Miss Stifel was away and overran the cup, Miss Payson ending the match by halving the hole by means of an approach putt that rested dead beside the cup.

CHAMINADE DEFEATS JOHN BURROUGHS, 21-6

The Chaminade football squad defeated the John Burroughs School eleven this morning on the victors' gridiron, 21 to 6. In the first half Viviano scored a touchdown on a line buck, and Jackson, completing a pass from Singler, scored the second touchdown for Chaminade. Switzer and Singler scored the extra points. In the second half Ramsey, Burroughs halfback, intercepted a pass from Singler of Chaminade, and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. Burroughs failed to make the extra point. In the last quarter Brown scored for Chaminade on a line buck. He also made the extra point.

NORTH SIDE Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS Y. M. H. A. IN SWIMMING MEET 38-24

The North Side Y. M. C. A. swimming team won a dual meet from the Y. M. H. A. team at Union Avenue pool last night, 38 to 24.

Victory for the North Side Y. came with the winning of the relay race which it gained by a one-foot margin, a dash by Hochstadt failing by that much.

Hochstadt was the individual star of the meet scoring 15 points with three firsts.

Barringer and Neilson with 8 points each were the high point men for North Side Y.

A return meet is expected to be held within the near future.

The results:

100-YARDS, FREE STYLE—Hochstadt, Y. M. H. A., first; Neilson, N. S. Y. M. C. A. second; Schoenberg, N. S. Y., third. Time 1 minute, 2.4 seconds.

40-YARD, FREE STYLE—Barringer, N. S. Y., first; Jacobsmeyer, N. S. Y., second; Millstone, Y. M. H. A., third. Time 21.4 seconds.

100-YARD BACK STROKE—Hochstadt, Y. M. H. A., first; Pelster, N. S. Y., second; Schneider, N. S. Y., third. Time 1 minute, 20.9 seconds.

100-YARD BREAST STROKE—Neilson, N. S. Y., first; Jacobs, Y. M. H. A., second; Wehmeyer, third. Time, 1 minute, 23.5 seconds.

C. B. C. IS WINNER OVER COUNTRY DAY IN PREP GAME, 18-6

Halfback Tierney led Christian Brothers High to an 18-6 victory over Country Day School in a Preparatory League football game on the Country Day gridiron yesterday.

Tierney scored three touchdowns, making two 30-yard runs and a number of lesser ones. Schulte and McCoole also featured the winning attack on the losers' line. Bond, Country Day's left end, did some nice work on the receiving end of forward passes.

C. B. C.	12	0	6	0	—18
Country Day	0	0	0	6	— 6

Touchdowns—Tierney (3), Hilts. Substitutions: C. B. C.—Rohan for Diemer, Dyer for Hannick, Walter for Dustin. Country Day—Kileforth for Galloway, Messick for O'Fallon, Durham for Thomas, Armstrong for McConnell.

Soccer Teams in Practice Match

Managers Foley and Brady to Try Out New Talent at Sherman Park.

A practice match preparatory to the season's opening, next Sunday, will be played this morning between the Ben Millers and the Wellstons of the St. Louis Soccer League. The game will be played at Sherman Park, starting at 10 a. m.

Manager Willie Foley will make use of two new players whom he expects to use regularly this season. Tom Heidenry, a graduate of the Brandts of Carondelet Park, will play at halfback, and Elmer Mandeville, a fullback who starred for Andy Fredrich's Morgan team last season, will pair with Frank Vaughn or Tom Erbe. In other departments, Foley's club will remain unchanged. Both Mandeville and Heidenry have been highly praised for the work in the Municipal League.

Tate Brady will introduce several new players. He has John Prindable for his forward line; George Sauter for goal and Carl Dorley for halfback duty. Sauter starred for the Morgans, Dorley played with the Union Electrics and Prindable graduated from Sherman Park.

John Marre, a new franchise holder, announced that he will have his Tabler team working out at Fairground Park this morning. Marre has the better members of the Ratican Club as a nucleus from which to build a new team.

Harry McCarthy, whose team will play this season under the name Morgans, will have his players in action at Fairground also.

The Call of the Outdoors

By ALEC MERMOD

As mentioned in last week's column, The St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club will hold its annual field trials for derby and all-age dogs at Farmington, Mo., Oct. 22. The ground selected by the committee will be much better than last year's proved to be, for it is easier going for the dogs and horses. In addition, there are more birds, and it is the opinion of all the members of the club that this meet will be far ahead of any of the former trials, both as to the number of entries and attendance.

Farmington is about two and a half hours' run from St. Louis over U. S. Highway No. 61, and can also be reached by trains.

First-class hotel accommodations are to be obtained and there will be ample room for all visitors, also there will be plenty of good saddle horses.

Headquarters will be at the Hotel Ada, where the drawing will take place Friday night. A large entry is expected, for many of the members have declared both derby and all-age dogs.

The following compose the field trial committee: S. G. Wilson Jr., chairman; W. K. Richardson, Will Shannon, Robert Johnson and A. E. Van Ree.

For entry blanks and further information, apply to S. I. Pautler, secretary, 411-13 Washington avenue, St. Louis.

The St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club is a member of the Amateur Field Trial Club of America, so that amateurs will have a chance of qualifying for the amateur championship stakes.

ILLINOIS' PASSING BEATS BUTLER, 58 TO 0

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 8.—Illinois shout out Butler today by a score of 58 to 0, flashing an air offensive in the second half that brought the Illini seven touchdowns. Butler was no match for the Illinois team that demonstrated a marked improvement over the game here a week ago with Bradley.

OHIO STATE AND CHICAGO TAKE BIG TEN GAMES

Victory for Stagg's Team Over Indiana Is School's First Conference Triumph Since 1925.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—A. A. Stagg, dean of Big Ten football coaches, proved still able to teach Pat Page, his brilliant pupil of nearly 20 years ago, a few things about football today, and Chicago triumphed over Indiana, 13 to 0, for the first conference victory for Chicago since the middle of the 1925 season. Today's tilt not only upset the pre-season dope, but uncovered some of the best material Stagg has had at his disposal in three years.

The 12 pounds by which the Maroon line outweighed Indiana took toll in both the defensive and offensive play. Neither team was able to make many gains on passes, but the Maroons out-punted the Hoosiers and counted 10 first downs to Indiana's five.

Ohio State Held to 13-6 Score by Iowa.

By the Associated Press.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 8.—Ohio State's football machine, considered an outstanding contender for the Western Conference championship, snatched a 13 to 6 victory from Iowa in the inaugural of the Big Ten title race today before 15,000 spectators.

The Buckeye warriors, a powerful and veteran crew, took the field with the expectation of piling up a big score, but they were surprised when the green and untried Hawkeyes, holding their own in the first two periods and beaten in the third, exploded their dynamite in the fourth and seriously threatened to tie the score.

The Hawkeyes opened a sensational forward pass attack in the fourth period that enabled them to score a touchdown.

The alert Ohioans took advantage of Iowa's blunders in the third period to score their first touchdown when Byron Eby, the Buckeye's stylish open-field runner, picked up a fumble on the Iowa 20-yard line and sprinted unmolested for a touchdown. Ohio failed to add the extra point.

Before the Hawkeyes could recover, Eby tossed a pass to Alber that was good for 20 yards. Alber twisted fro mtwo Iowa tacklers and, once in the open field, ran 40 yards for Ohio's second touchdown. Ohio made the extra point.

Martha Hawley, Mary Dickson and Carolyn Bailey Are Betrothed

Former St. Louis Girl to Become Bride of Edmund Melhado of Jamaica, West Indies — Miss Dickson and Miss Bailey to Wed Eastern Men.

MRS. G. ANDERSON HAWLEY of 829 Park avenue, New York, announces the engagement of her daughter, Martha, to Edmund Melhado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Melhado of Devon House, Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies. The wedding will take place in New York in the spring.

Mrs. Hawley and her daughter are of a prominent old St. Louis family and lived here until just prior to the World War. Since then they have spent much of their time in France.

Miss Hawley is a niece of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gregg.

TWO young women, who have had important roles in society since their entrance several seasons ago, stepped into the spotlight last week with announcements of their engagements.

Late Friday afternoon at an informal mixed tea at their home, her friends were told of the engagement of Miss Mary Francis Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dickson Jr. of 5602 Kingsbury Court, and James Hinkle of Boston, son of Mrs. Charles Hinkle of Osterville, Mass., New York and Cincinnati. The announcement appeared in the final editions of Friday's Post-Dispatch. Mr. Hinkle arrived in St. Louis Thursday for the party and will remain until today as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dickson.

Miss Dickson is a graduate of Mary Institute and attended Smith College for two years. She became a member of the Imperial and the Junior League in her debut year. Her mother, a belle in her girlhood, was Miss Sidney Boyd, and the late David R. Francis, former Governor of Missouri and later United States Ambassador to Russia, was her great-uncle.

Mr. Hinkle is a graduate of Yale, class of 1921, and during the war served overseas with the Seventy-sixth (New England) Division. He is a member of the Eastern Yacht Club, Union Boat Club and Yale Club of Boston.

The wedding will take place after the Christmas holidays.

Of no less importance was the announcement of the betrothal of Miss Carolyn Stewart Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey of 4556 West Pine boulevard, and Arthur Frederick Miller of New York, which was announced informally yesterday afternoon at a small luncheon given at the Bailey home for a few close friends of the prospective bride.

Miss Bailey is a graduate of Mary Institute and Vassar College and later took her M. A. degree at Columbia University in New York. She was one of the special maids of honor to the Queen at the Veiled Prophet ball the season of her debut, and is a member of the Junior League and the Imperial.

Mr. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clarence Miller of New York. He is a graduate of Andover, and Yale class of 1919, and is a member of several prominent New York clubs. He served overseas during the war with the Signal Corps.

The wedding will take place in the spring.

Mrs. Bailey and her daughter recently returned from New York, where they spent September as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

Miss Elizabeth Clark, Miss Florence Ludington and Miss Dorothy Bemis, three of the debutantes, will be complimented by a theater and supper party Monday evening, Oct. 31, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. Carpenter of the Senate Apartments.

Miss Grace Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moulton of 6227 McPherson avenue, has chosen Friday, Nov. 4, as the date of her debut tea, to be given at the Moulton home from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Medart of 5406 Delmar boulevard will have as their guest for two weeks their niece, Miss June Reynolds of Tulsa, Ok., who will arrive today.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Medart gave a dinner for Miss Josephine Brinckwirth and their son, J. Reynolds Medart, whose marriage will take place Wednesday, and their bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Vion Papin of 5237 Waterman avenue, and Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor of the Convent Garden apartments departed Friday for a motor trip to St. Genevieve, Mo., to spend the week-end at the Papin country home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter of 8 Portland place and their daughters, Miss Mary Carter and Mrs. John Eaton Monins, and Mr. Monins of Kent, England, are expected in St Louis tomorrow. Miss Carter's marriage to George Herbert Walker Jr. of New York, will be a social event of Oct. 29.

Social Diary of The Debutantes

THE formal debut of one of the most attractive "buds" of the season held the attention of the debutantes yesterday, when Miss Josephine Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Milton Boyd of Kirkwood, made her bow at a tea at the home of her parents.

The rich colors of autumn were emphasized in the decorations of masses of autumnal foliage in russet and red shades combined with great clusters of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums. The tea table was adorned in chrysanthemums and was lighted by yellow candles. The debutante wore a beaded gown of flesh-tinted chiffon and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Her younger sister, Miss Emily Boyd, wore a beaded frock of pink georgette and carried pink roses. Mrs. Boyd's gown was of orange georgette beaded in pearls.

Miss Frances Breck, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Celeste Hammett, Miss Jane Bradley, Miss Charlotte Nelson, Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Dorothy Bemis, Miss Kate Thompson and Miss Virginia Brauer, debutantes, took turns serving at the tea table. They were assisted by Miss Earl Harsh, Miss Mary Broderick, Miss Ruth Hafner and Mrs. Joseph Toberman, who was before her marriage Miss Alby McCormick. A group of Mrs. Boyd's friends who served without hats included Mrs. W. N. Bemis, Mrs. Heman J. Pettengill, Mrs. Benton H. Pollock, Mrs. Henry Cooper Whiteside, Mrs. Fred Bauchens, Mrs. Herbert L. Parker, Mrs. Ernest H. Richardson, Mrs. Edward N. Durham, Mrs. Robert R. L. Hedges, Mrs. D. C. Berryman, Mrs. Lee Van Cleave, Mrs. Samuel Butler, Mrs. B. K. Leach, Mrs. C. F. Brown, Mrs. Collins Thompson and Mrs. George Graham.

A number of young men were invited for a buffet supper and informal dancing followed the tea.

The calendar of parties for debutantes to be given this week follows: Tuesday, a tea for Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes at their home, 6500 Forsythe boulevard, from 4 to 6 p. m.; a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Charles E. L. Thomas of 4925 Pershing avenue will give a tea Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 9, at her home to present her daughter, Miss Mary Papin Thomas, to society. Mrs. Thomas and her daughter are guests for the winter of the former's brother, William Booth Papin.

Miss Marie Reine Fusz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Fusz, will make her debut at a tea Monday afternoon, Dec. 31. Miss Fusz has recently returned from a summer spent in European travel.

Engagements and Weddings

THE wedding of Miss Louise Agatha Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson Nicholson of 6147 Columbia avenue, to Vern Ivan Keeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walton Keeter of Maysville, Mo., took place at the home of the bride's parents Oct. 1, at 7 p. m. Dr. John Lincoln Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, performed the marriage ceremony, to which only the relatives and a few friends had been invited. A large reception followed.

The house was decorated in festoons of southern smilax, roses and asters. In the dining room the wedding cake was placed under a canopy or roses, delthinium and tulle. A screen of palms and ferns in the living room formed a background for the bridal party which was led by Lorraine Nicholson, niece of the bride. Mrs. Randolph Churchill Wohlmann, matron of honor gowned in rose transparent velvet and carrying Columbia roses, preceded the bride. The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, trimmed in old rose point lace, the double train edged in orange blossoms. Her veil was confined to her hair by a bandeau of rose point and she carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lillies.

Mr. Keeter was attended by Charles H. Nicholson, the bride's brother.

Miss Nicholson attended Lindenwood College and Mr. Keeter is a graduate of Missouri University School of Mines at Rolla, and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. Kirkwood

The marriage of Miss Martha Walker McGirk, daughter of Mr. I. A. McGirk, of Taylor avenue, to Marion R. Mann of St. Louis, took place Thursday evening, at the home of the bride's father. The Rev. W. E. Sullens officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Irene Schulze, and Mr. Mann had as his best man Melvin Foeller of St. Louis. They departed for a honeymoon trip through the East, and upon their return will be at home at 6228 Oakland avenue.

Mrs. A. B. Ambler of Gill avenue was hostess at a meeting of the Needlework Guild Wednesday afternoon. Plans were outlined and arrangements made for the annual meeting to be held Saturday, Nov. 10, at the Parish Guild House of Grace Church.

Miss Elizabeth Broderick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Broderick, departed Tuesday for Pine Manor, Wellesley, Mass.

Mrs. William Hedges of Berry and Lockwood avenues has had as her guests last week her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGowan of Mobile, Ala. Mrs. McGowan will be remembered as Miss Joyce Stapler.

Mrs. Luther Armstrong was hostess at the first meeting of the Kirkwood Fortnightly Club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. John K. Broderick was the speaker of the afternoon, taking for her subject "City Plan Commission."

City Prepares to Greet Veiled Prophet

Parade Is to Take Place Evening of Oct. 19 and the Ball the Following Night.

His mysterious majesty, the Veiled Prophet, having fixed Oct. 18 as the date for his delayed arrival, the parade to be held the evening of Oct. 19 and the ball on Oct. 20.

Plans for the occasion interrupted by the recent tornado are proceeding.

His majesty will arrive, as planned, by airplane, and will be welcomed with pomp and ceremony by city officials and private citizens.

If there is any change in the arrangements for the ball at the New Coliseum it will be in the nature of greater brilliance, because the settings are to be used the following evening to aid the storm sufferers. All the appointments will be turned over intact for the benefit performance to be given by the Municipal Theater Association for the Red Cross Relief Fund and thus the Veiled Prophet will be contributing from his own pocket to the assistance of the thousands of St. Louisans.

Most of the matrons and girls who form this year's Court of Honor will be present at the benefit performance.

Art Club Meeting Tomorrow.

The Twentieth Century Art Club's Executive Board met Wednesday at Town Club. Mrs. T. E. Francis was appointed chairman of the Flower Committee. The year's study is to be "India." The first regular meeting of the year will be tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Jefferson Memorial. Mrs. L. L. King, chairman, will give a historical "Outline of India." Mrs. Frank M. ST. LOUIS TERCENTENARY SHAKSPEARE SOCIETY will open the season at a public program Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at Vandervoort's Music Hall. The Rev. Albert Muntsch, S. J., a member of Tercentenary Round Table, will deliver a lecture, his subject being "The Abiding Value of the Shakspearean Spirit." The public is invited.

The regular monthly Executive Board meeting will be held on the same date at 1 p. m.

Miss Elizabeth Morse of the Morse School of Expression will begin a series of lessons on "Twelfth Night" Oct. 18 at 2 p. m. in Vandervoort's Music Hall.

Dr. William Lawrence Sullivan, Cyril Clemens and Richard Spamer will deliver lectures early in the season.

The St. Louis Dante Club held its regular monthly luncheon in the Italian room of Forest Park Hotel last Wednesday.

Following the luncheon a short business session was held, the president, Mrs. William Watt Spear, presided. Miss Mary L. Crowley accepted the program chairmanship, with Mrs. Charles F. Richardson as vice chairman. Mrs. O. S. Ledman is chairman of hospitality. Miss Mary L. Crowley, an early member, renewed her membership. The club sent a check to the Red Cross.

Following the roll call with quotations from the "Divine Comedy," Mrs. Florence Meek read a paper on Dante's home, "The Villa Allighieri." Mrs. Mary E. Kickham read a paper entitled "Dante as a Tonic for Today." Miss Mary L. Crowley gave an account of her visit to the home of Dante.

Mrs. Charles F. Richardson read a review of a book about to be published relating to life during the Italian Renaissance, the subject of which was "Intimate View of the Fifteenth Century, by Lucca Lauducci."

The Monday Club of Webster Groves resumed its fall activities by celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the club Oct. 3, at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Phillip N. Moore of St. Louis and Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, president of the Eighth District, were introduced and responded with greetings. The Eighth District Missouri Federation meeting will be held at the Wednesday Club, Nov. 4.

Mrs. Ruth Harris Porteus, dressed in Colonial costume, sang several old fashioned songs. The history of the club, written by Mrs. D. H. Kremer, was read by Mrs. S. F. Burnet. A summary of this year's work was given by Mrs. James McCleave. There was a large birthday cake with 40 lighted candles.

The Executive Board meeting was held Oct. 6, at 10 a. m.

The History and Literature Section meeting will be held Oct. 10, at 10 a. m. Subject, "Poetry of Browning;" Mrs. W. W. Keyser as leader.

How to Reduce Your Weight

Simply, Safely, Comfortably— Is Explained in Lectures by

Miss Earnestine Littlejohn

Given Each Day on the Sixth Floor at 11 and 2.30 o'Clock.

Miss Littlejohn, a recognized authority on reducing, will explain in a series of delightful lectures just how successful reducing can be accomplished without the usual undesirable accompaniments—exercise, dieting, drugs or rubber garments. Every woman is invited to attend—there will be no charge, of course!

Private Consultations in the Corset Salon

After each lecture there will be private consultations for those who wish them in the Corset Salon, second floor. Here Miss Littlejohn will be glad to answer all questions relative to this marvelous system of getting rid of superfluous fat.

If you cannot attend the lectures, write to Miss Littlejohn, care of Stix, Baer & Fuller, and she will answer, telling you how to easily reduce.

Sixth and Locust

East St. Louis

Mrs. William Erastus Wheeler, Mrs. Lemuel Byrd Short and Mrs. Finis P. Ernest Jr. have issued invitations to a bridge luncheon to be given at the St. Clair Country Club the afternoon of Oct. 18.

Mrs. Cletus Canavan will be hostess Wednesday afternoon at a bridge luncheon at her home on North Twenty-second street.

Members of a fortnightly bridge club will be guests tomorrow evening of Miss Margaret Shreve of North Ninth street.

Mrs. Ray C. Harding is giving a birthday party for her little daughter, Betty Jean, on Wednesday afternoon at the St. Clair Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Oehmke of North Twenty-third street, will entertain the members of their bridge club Thursday evening.

The formal opening of the new Broadview Hotel has been announced for the evening of Oct. 18.

The St. Clair Country Club postponed its regular dinner dance set for last evening and also the bridge supper the following week. The first of the winter dances probably will be given at the club on Hallowe'en.

Mrs. John C. Roberts, Mrs. Kenneth McCurdy and Miss Helen Kramer were hostesses yesterday afternoon at the St. Clair Country Club at a 1 o'clock luncheon and bridge party. The affair was one of the largest of the fall season.

John W. Freels of Pennsylvania avenue has returned from a European tour. Mrs. Mary B. Freels, his mother, who has been visiting in Jacksonville, Fla., also returned home this past week.

Miss Edith Markert of North Twelfth street entertained the following guests last Monday evening at bridge Miss Anita Michael, Miss Maud Weisert, Miss Margaret Shreve, Miss Thelma Beasley, Miss Lucille Taylor, Miss Exzilla Schanot and Miss Florence Nott.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Edwin Popkess of North Forty-sixth street motored to Chicago for the week-end.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Wednesday Club of East St. Louis was celebrated at the first meeting of the year at the St. Clair Country Club. A luncheon at 1 o'clock was followed by a special program during the afternoon when the new president, Mrs. McCawley Baird, spoke to the members on "The Spirit of Youth." The long center table held the huge birthday cake with 25 candles. At the main table sat the officers, past president and charter members of the club. A musical program was followed by the introduction of the new members. Mrs. Harvey Smith was toastmaster during the afternoon.

Mrs. William Allen and Mrs. Roy Doyle entertained this past week in honor of Mrs. Reginald Coley who will depart soon for Owensboro, Ky., where she will make her future home. Hallowe'en decorations were used at the luncheon tables and the following enjoyed bridge during the afternoon: Mrs. Dwight Taylor, Mrs. Frank Hauss, Mrs. Harris Underwood, Mrs. Robert Eggman, Mrs. William Costello, Mrs. Frank Taylor and Miss Ida Gerold.

Mrs. H. B. Ismond and Mrs. Minnie B. Heller of Los Angeles, Cal., were honor guests at a luncheon and afternoon party given Tuesday by Mrs. Oscar White of Audubon place.

Mrs. Robert Salvage of North Thirty-third street entertained the following members of her club at luncheon and bridge, Tuesday afternoon: Mrs. Perce Clement, Mrs. Murray Watkins, Mrs. John C. Roberts, Mrs. Ray C. Harding, Mrs. Allen Watkins, Mrs. Joseph Marsh, Mrs. Scott Kirby Alvis, Mrs. Andrew W. Kurrus, Mrs. Morton Benham, Mrs. Eugene Menges and Mrs. Gerhardt Suppinger.

Mrs. James E. Parham of Granvue drive spent several days this past week visiting with friends in St. Joseph, Mo.

Mrs. J. R. Mrenshaw, her daughter and son have departed for Tulsa, Ok., where they will spend a month visiting Mrs. Crenshaw's mother, Mrs. Margaret Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCaffrey and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carter and daughter and Mrs. Fannie McCaffrey have returned from a motor trip to Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. M. C. Reis and Miss Mary Alice Reis of Alhambra court have gone to Owensboro, Ky., where they will attend the wedding of Miss Lucille Mann. Miss Mann and Miss Reis were classmates at Loretta Academy in Webster Groves.

Mrs. C. J. Bradwell of Oakland, Cal., is the guest of her niece, Miss Nellie Jefferies of Veronica avenue.

The marriage of Miss Helen Cecil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cecil, of North Twenty-ninth street, and Arthur T. Padfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Padfield, took place Wednesday morning at nuptial high mass in St. Elizabeth's Church, of which Rev. Peter Engel is pastor. The members of the bridal party were the bride's sister, Miss Thelma Cecil, Miss Arlyn Pulsing, Emmett McGrath, the bridegroom's cousin, and Walter Godin.

Activities of Women's Clubs

eon, after which the regular meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. F. J. Sternberg. The members responded to rollcall, with current events, and Mrs. Harry Bennett continued the reading of the book, "The Rising Tide of Color," by Lothrop Stoddard. Mrs. M. S. Kentor gave a sketch of the life of William Beebe and a brief review of some of his books. The meeting closed with the reading of the "Collect for Club Women" and the "Mystery Box" was awarded to Mrs. W. F. Storck. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. C. Markham, 3940 Russell avenue, Friday, Oct. 14. The meeting will be preceded by a 1 o'clock luncheon.

The Earnest Endeavor Club held its first meeting of the fall session Monday, Oct. 3, at the Town Club, a 1 o'clock luncheon preceding the meeting. The president, Mrs. Gordon Z. Davis, called the meeting to order, and members responded to rollcall with current events. This club makes a study of parliamentary law, with Mrs. Fred Armstrong for their leader. The next meeting is to be held Monday, Oct. 17, at the Town Club at a 1 o'clock luncheon.

The first regular meeting of the Wells School Mothers' Club will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the kindergarten. Election of officers will be followed by an address by the principal, E. E. Chiles, on "The Value of Parents' Organizations to the School and the Home."

PARIS FROCKS BRIEFLY SOJOURN

IN THE LITTLE FRENCH SHOP AT GARLAND'S

Then Add Brilliance to Smart Social Gatherings

Velvet in the Evening Mode

Transparent Velvets in black and delicate evening tints have captured the formal mode, which one can easily understand upon viewing the exquisite collection at Garland's. Sketched in the center is an elegant Frock after Premet. Tea rose transparent velvet, skillfully worked into a chiffon bodice top, trimmed with pearls and rhinestones. The uneven hemline is characteristically Premet's. $145. Others, $35 to $167.50.

The Afternoon Vogue of Velvet

As one sees Frock after Frock of velvet for afternoon wear in the Paris salons, its importance in the mode is accepted. Velvet appears in many types...velveteen, straight pile, panne chiffon, printed, embossed, delicately shaded and the incredibly sheer transparent velvet. Including latest replicas of Paris creators and foremost American originators, the prices range from $25 to $195.

Metallics Grace Chic Frocks

Typical of the success of the two-piece Frock is the extraordinary procession of Paris productions employing embossed, embroidered, and woven cloths of metallics in gold, silver or variegated hues, combined with velvet, satin or wool fabrics. The Jenny version is sketched above—has pleated skirt of transparent velvet and bows of the same material appliqued on metallic blouse. In replica, $85. Others from $16.75 to $135.

The Jewels of a Paris Night

The new turn of the Paris mind is toward glittering rhinestones, pearls and other simulated jewels which become an integral part of the design of the gown. A number of striking examples of this artistry are shown in the little French Shop. Sketched above is Chanel's interesting contribution copied in filmy white chiffon, in which rhinestones play a leading role, accentuating the odd cut and the intricate border of pale pastel green velvet appliques, $149.50. Others priced from $25.

Acid Scalp

How many carefully coiffured heads can stand the test of eyes only inches away, and reveal not a speck of dandruff? How many women can warm to the dance, and know their hair will have no taint for the partner who holds them close?

No one can be sure who has acid scalp.

If you even suspect this acid condition of the scalp, it is time for Danderine. This scientific preparation will neutralize any acidity; and dissolve all dandruff if there is any. And it always gives the hair itself a lovely softness and sheen. It will wave better, hold a wave longer, and behave better all the time if you just occasionally apply a few drops of Danderine. Try it! Every drugstore has this perfect conditioner of the scalp and hair, and a thirty-five cent bottle lasts for weeks.

DETROIT AUTO PLANTS EMPLOY 200,000 MEN

Factories Working at High Production Levels—Several Behind on Orders.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Detroit factories are working at high levels of production, many of them at peak for their output figures, and several of them report that they are behind on orders at the present time. Changes in number of men employed from week to week continue to be nominal and no definite trend in employment is discernible. The total of operatives on the payrolls of members of the Employers' Association holds a trifle below 200,000, or approximately 27,000 men less than were working here a year ago. Unemployment, however, does not appear to be acute, since increasing demands from out-State automotive centers are responsible for many Detroit workers being given employment in Pontiac, Lansing and Flint.

Ford Made 15,000,000 Units.

Figures printed in Ford News, the factory newspaper of the Ford Motor Co., show staggering totals of expenditure. In the nineteen years that the Model T was being manufactured, the company made 15,000,000 units and spent nearly $2,000,000,000 in wages and salaries to operatives and executives. On a conservative estimate, tabulations show that $7,090,423,176 was paid out in factory wages and salaries as noted, plus the sums paid to maintenance and service employes of dealers, salesmen, employes of service stations, outside garages and repair shops who have serviced or worked on these cars. The grand total is reached by adding a percentage, between 33 1-3 and 40 per cent, of the total purchases made by the company over the period, amounting to $4,868,427,102.32.

To recapitulate, the grand total is made up of the following items: Wages and salaries to factory operatives and executives, $1,970,414,172.29; to "outside" workers, $5,467,614,172.29; percentage (33 1-3) of purchases, estimated to have gone into wages, $1,622,809,004.10; grand total, $7,090,423,176.39. This sum is larger than the estimated wealth of 35 states of the Union.

$2,250,000 Chevrolet Plant.

Chevrolet Motor Co. is to erect a new assembly plant at Atlanta, Ga., at a cost of $2,250,000. It is to be completed April 1, 1928, and will have a capacity of 330 cars daily, serving Georgia, Florida and parts of Alabama and South Carolina. There will be about 1200 employed, with a daily payroll of $8000.

Completion of this plant will expedite Southern delivery of cars and relieve congestion at the Norwood (O.) plant, which is now being operated on an overtime schedule. As planned, the new plant will include about 28 acres, with three one-story buildings: an assembly plant, 800x220, with monitor roof; a Fisher body unit, 160x480; and a parts division, 120x204. There will also be a two-story office building, 40x204. When completed, Chevrolet will have eight assembly plants, at Flint, Tarrytown, Norwood, Oakland, Cal., Buffalo, Janesville, St. Louis and Atlanta, and an export plant at Bloomfield, N. J.

The Willys organization operates five great plants, at Toledo, Pontiac, Elmira, N. Y.; Toronto, Ontario, and Stockport, England. There are 149 buildings in these plants, with a combined area of 200 acres of floor space, and they employ 23,000 operatives directly. Taking the usual figure of four to a family, that

LESS THAN 60 MAKES OF AMERICAN AUTOS

Hundred Other Pioneer Cars Now Forgotten—Old Ones Under New Names.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

When one goes in quest of the ideal automobile today, he anticipates no difficulty in finding the make, model and price to his liking, for the motor market is a broad one where eccentric tastes are gratified and where the most dwarfed purse is altogether adequate.

The very perfection of the field from which one may select his car is responsible for the fact that the sanguinary battle which preceded this perfection has become but a faint memory.

There are less than 60 domestically manufactured motor cars in the United States today. Ten times that many died that the industry might flourish. But, who recalls those noisy, awkward but virile warrior of early motordom days when he goes today to buy a car.

The next time the talk veers around to automobiles, mention the Alpena, the Silent Northern or the Great Eagle. Note the pity on the listener's face. Good cars in their day, they have passed on.

A List of Old-Timers.

Of this partial list of good cars now gone, how many of the names are recognizable by the modern motorist?

S. V. G., Stoddard-Dayton, Richmond Nance Marion, Guy, Cecos, Diles, Maytag, Cartercar, Firestone-Columbus, Columbus, Flanders, Lozier, Marathon, Palmer-Singer, Pope-Hartford, Pullman, Rambler, Comet, Pan-American.

The cold figures which prove that 10 cars have died where one has lived leads one inevitably to speculate as to the causes of so high a mortality. What gives a car a start on the highway to popularity and what keeps it going, once it gets under way? Certain makes have battled through scores of difficulties from the dawn of the motor car's day until now they stand pre-eminent with no signs of losing their places. Others flash across the horizon, hold the stage a brief moment, then pass on as suddenly as they came. Old-timers go along, then fade quickly out. Newcomers achieve a meteoric success and then fortify themselves against all attacks. What is the difference between success and failure?

Some Reincarnated.

Disappearance of a name, however, does not always denote disappearanec of the car that bore it. Automobiles frequently find reincarnation under a new name a profitable process. In the middle price class today, two cars are to be found that obtained new leases on life in this fashion. The old E. M. F., which father once thought the greatest motor vehicle of all times, now is giving son splendid service under its new name. The old Jeffrey holds a high position in the public esteem and confidence.

One cannot help but think that there is something in a name when one compares the appellations of the dead motor cars with those that are living. Glance at the name of any car marketed today. The name denotes something definite. It fits the car. Psychological? Of course, but the effect is life-giving. Some names denote low cost, others sturdiness, still others speed, combinations of all of these, or luxury or some other quality equally appealing in its particular realm.

If the car one owns today were named, for instance, the Nance or the Guy, it would not be the same automobile at all.

PAVING BETWEEN UNION AND U. S. 50 OPENED

Paving between the east city limits of Union and U. S. 50—at Oak street in Union—has been opened to traffic and the detour there eliminated, according to Sam Rudder, divisional highway engineer at Webster Groves.

An Amazing Invention

FOR the first time, it is possible to get a glass enclosure for an open car that can be put on or taken off easier and quicker than celluloid side curtains, and that can be carried in the car.

AS USEFUL IN THE SUMMER AS IN THE WINTER

Glassmobile is carried in a shallow container when not in use, occupying about the same amount of space as ordinary curtains.

Perfect ventilation without draughts is secured simply by sliding either or both panels back from the windshield.

Anyone can put on or take off a set of Glassmobile in four minutes, without tools and from inside the car if necessary.

Tour Through Nine States and Province of Quebec

Principal Objectives on 3442-Mile Trip Were Philadelphia, New York, and Detroit.

BY RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF.

Nine states and the Canadian province of Quebec were traversed by Skidamaree, gypsy car of the Post-Dispatch, in a recent autumn vacation tour of the Gypsy Baron.

The 3442-mile trip had as principal objectives Philadelphia, New York City, the Adriondack Mountains, Montreal and Detroit.

Boat Trip Included.

One 280-mile leg of the trip was made by boat on Lake Erie, from Buffalo to Detroit, a delightful way of traveling, which also saves a day on the road for the laggard hastening home.

It is remarkable how uniform the questions of a motor tourist's friends are, upon his return from such a jaunt.

"How were the roads?" they all demanded, first. Well, they were just about as fine as one could expect, this time, albeit, not perfection. They were paved with concrete, bituminous macadam or the like all the way, except for certain side routes deliberately followed. Detours were conspicuous by their infrequency and mildness, and in Pennsylvania Skidamaree found itself detouring on concrete!

"What kind of a country did you see?" comes next. Beautiful country, throughout the trip, of great variety of character—fertile plains, pretty mountains deep woods, fine suburban areas and attractive cities; and, too, a bit of foreign soil, as striking to a midlander's eye as the other side of the Atlantic.

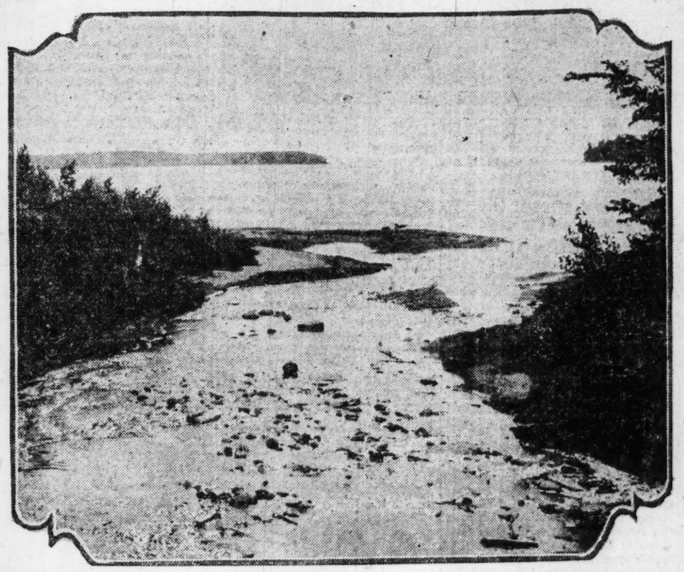
"How long were you gone?" inquirers continue. Three weeks, with time for several days in Philadelphia and New York, more than a week of loafing in the Adirondacks and part or all of three days in picturesque Montreal.

"And how much did you spend"—this from the friends who know the tourist well. The Gypsy Baron isn't secretive; he'll give the figures away here and now, and afterwards get down to description of the route.

Total Cost $280.46.

This tour cost $90.59 for operation of the car, a heavy coupe, and $189.87 for other expenses, a total of $280.46. Not included are certain items which would vary greatly with the individual traveler, like expenditures in New York City, and the hotel and restaurant bills of a companion for part of the trip.

Operation of the car, calculation shows, cost 2.8 cents per mile, without taking into consideration depreciation. It costs 3.6 cents per mile for one person to ride a train, without Pullman fare, and Skidamaree has many advantages a Pullman lacks, even if it does have to stop over night.



A view from Lake Champlain from the New York City-Montreal Highway, near Plattsburg, New York.

The automobile expenses were: 196½ gallons of gasoline, $41.69; 39 quarts of oil, $11.65; greasing and oiling, $10.35; washing, $3; garage storage, $16.90; miscellaneous adjustments, $4.50 repairing tube, 75 cents; tips, $1.75.

Expenses of the Gypsy Baron were: Hotels, 10 nights, and laundry, $43.15; meals, $56.22 (the odd two cents must be part of the Montreal hospital tax on restaurant checks); resort camp in Adirondacks, 10 days, room, board and miscellaneous, $29.75; ticket and stateroom across Lake Erie, $11; shipping car, same, $13.25; toll bridges and ferries, including an expensive ferry in the Adirondacks, $9.32; camera films and finishing pictures, $12.94 traveler's checks, $1.50; miscellaneou, $12.74.

In spite of the seeming slimness of the figures, good accommodations were had everywhere and there was no skimping at the table. Only an angel could drive all day in September and not play havoc with a menu. What's the answer? Why, that it is cheap and delightful to tour by motor. Readers sometimes question accounts such as these, but the foregoing items are complete and absolutely accurate.

Across Levels to Mountains.

Illinois and Indiana, via the National Highway, are pretty much an old story to readers of these pages. Crossing Ohio is like going through a nearly continuous string of suburbs, punctured rather frequently by bright, small cities. Columbus, the capital, is one that stands out, particularly for its chief thoroughfare, which has a fine character all its own, yet reminiscent of Lindell boulevard, Fifth avenue and Michigan boulevard. Not far from Columbus the rolling little hills develop into mountain-like big ones, and then from Zanesville to Wheeling, W. Va., gradually turn into real ranges. Wheeling is a mill town sprawled out over a series of mountains and valleys.

But at Uniontown, Pa., the highway strikes the honest-to-goodness Alleghenies, and panoramas of broad land begin. So does gear shifting into second speed, more frequently for safe descents than for climbing. The route leads through Cumberland, Md., and, approaching Hagerstown, in the same State, drops out of the mountains but skirts them northward through the Gettysburg battlefield.

The Lincoln Highway is followed then to Philadedphia and New York. The Pennsylvania towns are attractive for their colonial flavor and the long string of Philadelphia suburbs, like Bryn Mawr and Haverford, for their beauty. The City of Brotherly Love and its environs have much to offer the sightseer—Valley Forge, for instance, is a worth-while side trip. Continuing eastward, a good optional route over the Jersey flats crosses the huge, new Camden bridge and leads to Trenton. Thence the usual New Brunswick-Jersey City course is taken, and the ferry into Gotham.

Good brakes and a cool head are chief requisites for driving in New York City, but it depends on where one wants to go whether it is worth while taking one's own car after arriving there.

Philadelphia to Big Moose.

Skidamaree retraced its tracks from New York to Philadelphia and later took a charming and comparatively unfrequented paved route north. From Philadelphia to Big Moose, N. Y., in the heart of the Adirondacks, it covered 354 miles in one long day and never was out of hills and mountains.

This path leads directly through the Delaware water gap, the Pocono Hills, Scranton, Pa., and its anthracite mountains and correspondence school; Binghamton and Utica, N. Y. It makes a whole story in itself. Its beauties are unending, and at this season of the year it is a mellow hinterland.

Attractions in the Adirondack section are legion. It is a realm of unspoiled wildness, where the dim and infrequent trails of men cross often the tracks and works of the deer, the beaver and even the bear. A glance at the map shows how few and far between the highways are, but those existing are excellent. Here are lakes and woods which look today as they looked before the white race entered.

This is one of the last stands of the primeval—and but 10 hours distant from the greatest metropolis in the world. The Gypsy Baron hiked, drove, paddled and went by motor launch over this enthralling terrain. While St. Louis was sweltering in September drouth, it was necessary to drain Skidamaree's radiator on freezing nights, but the air in this altitude of 2000 to 3500 feet was dry and invigorating. The Adirondacks, too, can make a tale in themselves.

From Big Moose to Montreal and back, a circle in the Adirondack section and the St. Lawrence Valley was described. Northbound, Skidamaree started with a steam ferry trip of an hour and a half across the eight-mile wilderness of Raquette Lake, which as yet cannot be dodged by road. Onward the car sped in a day through Saranac, Paul Smith's and the "port" of Malone, N. Y., and then into the strangeness of Quebec province where every sign in English is duplicated by one in French, but every humble citizen, unlike Amer-

ILLINOIS AT WORK ON FIRST SUPER HIGHWAY

Forty Miles of Paving 40-Feet Wide to Run From Kankakee to Chicago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Oct. 8. — Illinois' first superhighway is under construction. It is Route 49 of the State bond issue, and will extend from Kankakee to Chicago. H. B. Jay, assistant engineer of the State Highway Department, is supervising the job. Right of way has been secured for a width of 40 feet of concrete.

Starting at the city limits here, the road will extend 40 miles north, via Bradley and Matteson, to the suburbs of Chicago. It will be the shortest possible route between Chicago and Kankakee, and undoubtedly will carry the great bulk of traffic from the south into the metropolis. It will be wide enough for four lines of cars, two northbound and two southbound. It is planned to lay about a mile, only this season unless weather conditions permit paving a greater stretch.

Due to the extreme width, only a few hundred feet of slab can be laid each day, three weeks being required for each mile.

Engineer Jay has decided to build the road in two strips, 20 feet at a time. After carrying one strip 400 to 500 feet, the workmen will start upon the adjacent, continuing this method for the entire distance. Grading is being pushed rapidly. The right of way is level stretch all the way from Kankakee to Chicago, and this will expedite construction.

Every effort will be made to have the road completed and in service by the end of 1928.

Here's 10 Reasons Why You need the

ALLEN SHUTTERFRONT

Every motorist is interested in operating his car at maximum efficiency at all times. To get this efficiency the year around you need the ALLEN SHUTTERFRONT and here's ten reasons why—

1—Keeps motor running at correct temperature all the time.
2—Insures quick starting on frosty mornings.
3—Protects battery from excessive drain and exhaustion.
4—Enables motor to deliver as much power in cold weather as in summer.
5—Prevents excessive use of "choker".
6—Reduces crank case dilution to minimum.
7—Prevent excessive accumulations of carbon.
8—Is a big factor in proper lubrication, warm, free-flowing oil, prevents friction and wear, pitted or scored cylinder walls.
9—Minimizes fouling of spark plugs.
10—Prevents quick expansion or contraction of reciprocating parts, which causes warpage.

—and don't forget appearance—for the ALLEN is made so beautifully, is designed so skillfully, that it improves the appearance of any car. Mechanically perfect—hand controlled from the dash—the ALLEN

AFTER 1932 EVERY AUTOMOBILE MANUFACTURER CAN BUILD KNIGHT-ENGINED CARS

Turning to Knight-engined cars

Many car owners are now investigating the famous Knight sleeve-valve engine, and the trend of buying is rapidly turning to Knight-engined cars.

This demand for better automobiles indicates a wide public appreciation of a motor that is free from the carbon trouble and mechanical annoyance that has marred their motoring satisfaction in the past.

PREDICTS GREATER USE OF CRUDE OIL AS FUEL

Hudson Chief Asserts Thirty Per Cent Ratio in Gas Must Be Increased.

"We are on the way to motor fuels which will use much higher percentages of crude oil. Today about 30 per cent of the crude reaches the motorist's gasoline tank in the form of gasoline. That ratio must go higher. To bring a higher ratio, our engineers must design motors to fit fuels, and not demand special fuels to fit their designs," the Big Four State convention of oil men, at Kansas City was told by W. A. James, advertising manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., of Detroit, and J. E. McLarty, service manager of the same company.

"There are many confusing terms in the motor fuel trade, but none more contradictory than the phrase 'low grade fuel,'" said James. "The lay mind would believe from teh term that this fuel had less energy-value than the so-called 'high-tests' or the specially compounded fuels. As a matter of fact, the 'low-grade' fuels have many more units of energy than have the special fuels of higher volatility and higher price.

"It is clearly in the public interest that motor cars shall be so designed that the refiners can get more gallons of motor car fuel from each barrel of crude oil, and so that motor car users thus can get more mileage from the oil resources of the country. Five years ago it was said the country had enough oil to last 1000 years. But the use of motor cars has increased so fast that even if this estimate were correct at the time, which is very doubtful, the years might now have to be reduced to 50 or 100, or even less.

"Consider what is being done where petroleum is not available in such present lavish supply. In Germany the engineers have made remarkable progress with Diesel engines which burn crude oil. These are no longer the extremely heavy, ponderous motors of a few years back. They are even used in airplanes.

"In the motor car field today we are on the way to designs which, like the Diesel, employ the principles of high compression and high temperature. We won't use crude oil for a long time at least, but gasoline need not be as highly volatile as it is now—a much higher percentage of crude oil will be in each gallon of gasoline the motorist buys. The power output of these engines of the future will be higher, performance smoother and standards of economy improved. Fuel will be the so-called 'low grade.'"

Two Real Pioneers in Transportation

Two transportation pioneers at the International petroleum exposition at Tulsa, Ok.—Lindbergh's plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," and the General Motors truck which "Cannon Ball" Baker drove to a trans-continental truck speed record.

The development of the automobile engine made it possible for Lindbergh to cross the Atlantic in the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris. It also made possible the Buick-motored, fast-duty 2-ton truck with which Baker made the record run from New York to San Francisco.

Both Baker and Lindbergh began their careers with motorcycle driving, and Baker has made scores of records in motorcycle and automobile racing and driving.

The flight of Lindbergh and Baker's transcontinental trip with a truck permit interesting comparisons.

Lindbergh traveled 3610 miles; Baker, 3693 miles.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" consumed 370 gallons of gas; the General Motors Truck, 438 gallons.

Lindbergh's New York to Paris flight was accomplished in 33 hours and 20 minutes; Baker's New York to San Francisco run took approximately 110 hours actual running time.

"The Spirit of St. Louis," when it hopped off from Roosevelt Field, New York, weighed 5130 pounds; the General Motors Truck weighed 12,560 pounds as it left New York City with a load of sea water.

The average revolutions per minute of the motor in the Ryan plane was 1500 and in Baker's truck 3000.

Lindbergh's average speed was 113 miles per hour and Baker's was approximately 35 miles per hour actual running time.

accounts for 112,000 people directly dependent on the factories for their livelihood. Added to the factory operatives are 52,500 workers in the branches and for the dealer organization; this accounts for 210,000 more who are supported by income from the Willys-Overland operations, making a grand total of 322,000 people who are supported by this enterprise.

Additions now under way at Toledo plant include a forge shop, a body plant and a heat-treating department. When these are completed, under contracts that call for their delivery Dec. 1, the plant will represent an investment of $12,500,000 and have a capacity of 1500 units a day.

Many Visit G. M. Salon.

An interesting evidence of increasing public interest was shown by the crowds that flocked to the fall showing of General Motors products. The exhibit closed Oct. 8, after a week of unusual activity. Close estimates place the average crowd at 12,000 nightly, somewhat in excess of the figures for last year. The exhibition hall on the fourth floor of the General Motors Building was handsomely decorated and 97 different models of the corporation's passenger cars were on view.

When the cars are seen en masse there is evidence of a definite trend of richness and good taste in the colors used on the bodies. The corporation recently appointed a general supervisor of body design and finish and apparently his counsel has resulted in certain definite standards. The more striking colors have been rather avoided, and while there are variety and individuality in abundance, the cars generally show the result of restraint in their color schemes. In the two-tone dress of the cars there is harmony rather than extreme contrast and some of the handsomest on the floor are finished in rich dark colors, relieved by contrasting striping on body and wheels.

In addition to the full showing in the general exhibit, Cadillac had an individual display of Cadillac and La Salle cars in the auditorium on the ground floor. Concurrently with the general exhibits in the building, the dealer organization held individual showings in their own salesrooms, so that the week just ended may be considered to have been General Motors week here.

Chrysler Exports Increase.

Exports of Chrysler cars increased 90 per cent over the same period in 1926, according to Walter P. Chrysler, president and chairman of the Board of Directors of the corporation.

An indication of increased business at the Reo factory in Lansing is seen in the announcement that 1458 new employes have been hired since Jan. 1.

Another Ford Report.

It is reported that the Ford Motor Co. has shipped to the Otis Steel Co., at Cleveland, a boatload of 600 to 1000 tons of steel bars for rolling into sheets at the Cleveland plant. In some quarters this is regarded as presaging the early offering of the new Ford line.

Dodge Income $6,000,000.

The net income of Dodge Brothers, Inc., for eight months ended Aug. 31, 1927, was approximately $6,820,971, after charges and Federal taxes, it was announced. According to the company the truck line is doing the greatest business of its history. Current export shipments of Dodge Brothers passenger and commercial cars and trucks have been showing rapid increases.

English Accident Statistics.

Ninety per cent of automombile accidents in England are caused by careless drivers, the Royal Automobile Club reported after compiling statistics from all parts of the country.

NASH EARNINGS INCREASE MILLION OVER 1927 FIGURE

At a meeting of the directors of the Nash Motors Co., held last week, the regular quarterly dividend of $1 per share was declared and an extra dividend of 50c per share, payable on Nov. 1, 1927, to stockholders of record at the close of business Oct. 20, 1927.

The company reported that for the third quarter of its fiscal year 1927, covering the months of June, July and August, after deducting all expenses of manufacturing, including depreciation, selling, administration and providing for local taxes, and State and Federal income taxes, the net income amounted to $6,298,524.55, as compared with $4,643,658.66 for the corresponding quarter of 1926. Total earnings for the nine months of the fiscal year 1927 amount to $15,790,259.75, against $14,791,991.27 for the corresponding period of 1926.

CHEVROLET SALES DRIVE ON

Two hundred Chevrolet dealers of the St. Louis territory and their salesmen met at the Chase Hotel the past week and launched the second annual Turkey-Bean Bowl contest, a Chevrolet sales drive which provides that the winning dealer organizations in the St. Louis territory, at the end of 30 days, will be tendered a turkey dinner by the dealers ranking too high in sales. The losing teams at the same dinner are to eat beans.

JORDAN AIR LINE EIGHT AN ENGINEERING TRIUMPH

Famous Duplex Aerotype Carburetion largely responsible for amazing performance

New type combustion chamber and new design of cylinder head used.

Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons and Lanchester Torsion Neutralizer among new features.

JORDAN has produced a new light motor with striking aeroplane characteristics that gives tremendous increase in power, speed, smoothness and flexibility without adding a pound of weight to the car.

Performance feats never before thought possible have been accomplished with astonishing ease.

Smoothness and flexibility at low speeds are as striking as perfect balance and comfort at high speed—an unusual thing.

Four body styles, all by custom designers. Houdaille shock absorbers, chrome vanadium springs and custom equipment throughout.

Ask for an Air Line Eight—and test it yourself.

Your Essex gives you 50 miles an hour all day long. Far greater speed if you want it. Brilliant activity in pick-up and hill climbing. More than 2½ times the power its motor size ordinarily rates it. Long life and enduring character to all its abilities and quality.

It is exclusive performance because Essex Super-Six design is exclusive. And because every part of motor and chassis is engineered to true balance with every other part.

This unity construction goes beyond Essex performance to Essex comfort, appearance and economy. Thus its compactness gives 15% more passenger room. Its riding ease is indifferent to pace and road conditions, and is not excelled by any car regardless of size or price. Its controls are so simple and instinctive you are scarcely conscious of them.

And its economy includes not only unusual gasoline, oil and tire mileage, but astonishingly low maintenance.

During the year Essex has outsold any other "Six" at or near the price, almost two to one, and we believe a single ride will fully reveal the reason.

STAR MOTOR CO. OPENS HEADQUARTERS HERE

Durant Subsidiary, Under W. S. Cook, to Wholesale in 40 Counties.

The Star Motor Company of St. Louis, a subsidiary corporation of Durant Motors, Inc., organized to handle wholesale distribution of Star cars in St. Louis and 40 surrounding counties in Missouri and Illinois, has taken over the western half of th three-story Durant Building at 3202 Locust boulevard as headquarters.

W. S. Cook, formerly general manager of the Star Motor Company of Kansas City, also a subsidiary of Durant Motors, Inc., has been appointed general manager here, and succeeds Roy Lively, who was Star wholesale manager in St. Louis when Durant Motors had its offices in the Railway Exchange Building.

The eastern half of the Durant Building is to be occupied by the Central Star Sales Company, 2939 Locust boulevard, when the present occupant, the Firestone Tire Company, moves to its new building now being erected on Forest Park boulevard.

The Star Motor Company of St. Louis, under its new manager, is to carry out a community store idea in painting its headquarters in black and gold exterior, and white and rose interior, which will also be used by the 19 Star dealers in St. Louis metropolitan territory, according to Cook.

The firm's headquarters has a frontage of 45 feet and a depth of 135 feet. 45x90 foot space on the ground floor is to be used as display floor. In the rear of this is the executive office, and beyond a new car receiving station.

The firm will carry a drive-out stock only, all carload shipments to come direct from the factory. The basement of the Durant building, with a capacity of 75 cars, is being used for this purpose. The third floor is the shop.

The wholesale factory branch will carry no parts nor maintain a service station.

Central Star Sales Co., when it moves to the Durant Building, will carry complete Star parts and maintain a fully equipped service station, as well as handle retail sales of Star cars on Locust boulevard. Other Star dealers will likewise handle a complete line of parts.

Cook, who prior to coming here, was general manager of the Star Motor Co. of Kansas City, has been with Durant since its beginning. Formerly he was general wholesale manager at Memphis, and earlier a retail manager and factory territory man.

TOUR THROUGH NINE STATES AND PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

ican cousins, does not speed about in a car.

Montreal is by way of being a dream city, an anomalous mixture of the Old World and the New, a potpourri of England, France and America. Its points of interest are scattered everywhere. It doesn't seem to hurry, but it is the center of an urban population of 1,000,000 and one of the great ports of the world.

There is one inevitable question asked of the visitor to Canada nowadays. Well, a New Yorker and his wife accompanied the Gypsy Baron to Montreal. At the first dinner, the Broadwayite had a bottle of stout. Next day at luncheon in a French restaurant the trio split a half-pint of Bourdeaux rouge. Believe it or not, that was the total consumed. And returning throug hthe customs the inspector didn't eve nope nthese travelers' bags!

Rouse's Point, N. Y., was the "port" of return, and then the route followed the very shore of picturesque Lake Champlain, with the Green Mountains of Vermont hazy on the horizon; next, through Au Sable Chasm—a disappointment in the Gypsy Baron's opinion—Schroon River and back to the Big Moose section over 30 miles of gorgeously unmade road in the Sacandaga River valley, and through the resort town of Speculator.

Homeward Trek Begun.

When eventually the homeward trek from the Adirondacks was begun, exactly three days were left in which to reach St. Louis. The first was an easy one to Buffalo, via Utica and Rochester, avoiding some construction work in the Syracuse sector. Then a restful, chea pand pleasant ride across Lake Erie, followed by a morning's visit in Detroit.

The second afternoon took Skidamaree across a pretty stretch of Southern Michigan and into South Bend, Ind. The last day, there was an easy 380-mile drive home, by way of Valparaiso, Ind., Chicago Heights, Champaign, Mattoon and Staunton, Ill., avoiding the Sunday traffic on the National Highway.

Strong among the Gypsy Baron's memories of the tour is the ease with which it was accomplished, the simplicity of driving and convenience of this interesting mode of travel.

G. M. CHIEFS IN EUROPE FOR BUSINESS SURVEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A group of General Motors executives, including among others E. G. Biechler, president and general manager of Frigidaire Corporation, and C. F. Ketterling, vice president of General Motors, in charge of research, sailed recently on the Ile de France for an extensive survey of business conditions in Europe, with special reference to electric refrigeration.

Before sailing Mr. Biechler made the following statement:

"Contrary to the general impression, an American manufacturer can develop European business, we have found, in much the same manner as he operates in America. We are expanding our overseas sales organization along the same line laid down previously in the United States. We use the same sales methods and employ the same sales arguments in all parts of the world. Human nature, we have found, is very much the same everywhere in that everybody responds to ideas that are based fundamentally on economy, convenience and health.

"We have at present a sales, installation and service organization of approximately 2000 people in Europe, with headquarters at Paris. We are operating branches in Berlin, Paris, Milan, London, Glasgow, Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, Edinburgh, Brighton, Nice, Leipzig and Dresden, besides numerous European distributorships."

CHEVROLET SPEAKERS AT TRAFFIC CLUB LUNCHEON

The Monday noonday luncheon of the St. Louis Traffic Club, held the past week at the Chamber of Commerce, was designated Chevrolet day. It was attended by about 200 traffic experts.

O. E. Nonn, zone sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co., here, was guest toastmaster. A. W. L. Gilpin, Chevrolet regional manager, was the speaker.

Following the luncheon, a cinema of the General Motors proving grounds at Milford, Mich., 60 miles out of Detroit, were shown.

WALTER CHRYSLER ADDRESSES HIS FOREIGN DISTRIBUTORS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Walter P. Chrysler, president and chairman of the Board of Directors of Chrysler Sales Corp., here for the international automobile salon at the Grand Palais, addressed Chrysler distributors and dealers from the Continental countries, the Near East and Northern Africa, at a meeting held at the Hotel Claridge.

"In building Chrysler automobiles our factory personnel introduced a new standard of operating efficiency which is manifest in the finer appearance, better riding qualities, extreme smoothness and flexibility of performance and longer life all of which summed up accounts for the reputation which our cars enjoy today," said Chrysler in part.

From Paris Chrysler, accompanied by J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, is going to London for the international motor exhibition organized by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, Ltd., in connection with the Royal Automobile Club and to be held at the Olympia Oct. 14 and 22. During their visit in London Chrysler and Fields will address a meeting of English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh distributors and dealers. From London Chrysler and Fields will return to the continent, going first to Antwerp where are located the European headquarters of the Chrysler Corporation, and later to Berlin to inspect the Chrysler assembling plant there.

Chrysler Corp. is displaying a full line of cars at the Paris salon —the new "52," the great new "62," and the illustrious new "72," the successor of the famous, original "70," and finally the Chrysler Imperial "80."

Rubber Signal Posts.

Experiments are being made in Chicago, Ill., with rubber signal posts. The posts, about two feet high, with a big stop sign on top, are installed in some streets opening into boulevards. If the motorist runs over them they bend flat to the pavement, then spring back into position.

What's New in Cars

Top of this new Packard eight-cylinder convertible sedan can be lowered readily, making it a touring car, and glass partition between front and rear compartments can be raised or lowered as desired.

This is the new Stutz Black Hawk Speedster, a duplicate of which on Labor Day won the A. A. A. Stock Car Race at Atlantic City.

Packard "8" Convertible Sedan Here

An eight-cylinder convertible sedan has been added to the Packard line and is on display here by the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributor.

A novel feature of this new sedan is that the top can be lowered readily, making it a touring car. Glass panels can be left standing with the top down, making a complete glass enclosure along both sides of car.

The glass partition between driving and rear compartments can be raised or lowered to make a chauffeur or owner-driven car.

The new car has 143-inch wheelbase, and is obtainable in a variety of color combinations.

New Nash Cabriolet on Display

The latest addition to the Nash Standard 6 line is a collapsible cabriolet with rumble seat now on display by the Southwest Nash Co. factory distributer. The new car is priced at $995, factory, and is factory-equipped with front and rear bumpers.

The new cabriolet has a beige-colored lower body and maroon upper body. The running gear is black. The body beading is black and has a bright red centerline.

The collapsible top is tan mohair. The upholstery, both front compartment and rumble seat is gray Spanish grain leather.

Disc wheels are standard.

New Wolverine Sedan on Display

The latest addition to the Reo Wolverine line is a five-passenger, four-door sedan, now on display by St. Louis-Reo, Inc., Reo distributer here.

The body of the new car has every appearance of speed. The hood louvres are lateral and the body at the rear is rounded and set off by cabriolet irons. Wooden wheels are standard.

The standard body color is green, with black running gear.

Upholstery is gray mohair.

The new car, as are other Wolverine models, is powered by a six-cylinder engine. Hydraulic shock absorbers and four-wheel brakes are standard.

OVERLAND TO BUILD ALL ITS OWN BODIES

Will Save Several Millions a Year—Employments for 3000 More Men.

Willys-Overland Inc. will hereafter build all its own bodies, according to W. A. Elliot, factory branch manager here, who has just returned from a meeting of Willys-Overland distributors and branch managers held at the factory in Toledo. Plans to accomplish this have already been partially put in operation, and will be completed by Dec. 1, according to Elliot.

"For some time Willys-Overland has built part of bodies for its line of cars, and this step forward means a still more rigid inspection of quality and closer control of economics. It eliminates paying out of profits to body-makers, and also eliminates large transportation costs," Elliot said.

"Decision to build in its own plants all bodies used in its line of cars will involve very little capital investment, as the company has ample facilities, with some rearrangements, to take over its body-building. It is estimated that 3000 to 5000 additional men will be employed when this is completed.

"It is estimated that savings which will accrue to profits will amount to several million dollars a year. At least $5,000,000 would have been saved to Willys-Overland profits if this process had been in operation since the first of the year, it is esimated.

"It was brought out at the convention that there would likely be no revision in Whippet prices. The position of the car in the market is such that a reducton is not being considered at this time. There are now 125,000 Whippets on the road and their proven stamina, comfort and quality have firmly entrenched them in public esteem. In addition, with the many features which the Whippet now enjoys, such as four-wheel brakes, it is thought that if other light-car makers reduce prices, the Whippet will maintain its place through the value of these advantages, while the addition of some of Whippet's equipment to other light cars would appreciably increase their manufacturing costs. Meanwhile, the Willys-Knight models are going ahead steadily to the satisfaction of the company."

CADILLAC DISTRIBUTERS AND DEALERS HOLD CONVENTION

The largest and most important service convention ever held by the Cadillac Motor Car Co. took place in Detroit Sept. 27, 28 and 29. It was attended by 400 service managers and assistant managers of distributers and dealers from every State in the Union and Canada, and by service representatives of the General Motors Export and the Cadillac companies.

The convention was called by H. M. Stephens, Cadillac general sales manager, and was in charge of Nicholas Dreystadt, general service manager. It was the first general service convention since the introduction of the LaSalle last March and followed immediately after the introduction of the new Cadillac.

Executives of the Cadillac company and of General Motors Corporation with the men toured Cadillac and LaSalle plants and the General Motors proving ground.

PEERLESS MAKES FAST TIME ON SOUTH AFRICAN RUN

A Peerless 6-80 car recently made a fast road trip from Cape Town to Johannesburg, completing the 966 miles over jungle roads in 25 hours and 25 minutes, according to a factory report.

One of Africa's fastest trains takes 4 hours and 35 minutes longer to make the same distance.

CHRYSLER 'RED-HEAD' MOTOR ADAPTABLE TO EARLY MODELS

"The new Chrysler 'Red-Head' high compression engine is the latest illustration of the foresight with which Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers have planned the development of their car ever since they first designed it," says L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributor.

"One of Chrysler's chief concerns has always been to minimize losses in value of cars in use due to engineering improvements on new models. From the beginning Chrysler design and construction have rested on engineering fundamentals so sound that older Chrysler models could benefit to the greatest possible extent by new developments. Because of this principle any Chrysler owner who so desires may take advantage of the most recent evolution in automobile construction, for any Chrysler six built since July, 1925, can be equipped with a 'Red-Head' engine at slight cost.

"Chrysler engineers have again a notable example of their ability in anticipating future developments in motordom. Among the features built into the Chrysler car at the very start was an unusually strong bridge-like crankcase webbing.

"The first Chrysler also had a stanch, firmly supported seven-bearing crankshaft. Both of these details in the original equipment of the Chrysler car are today important aids to the type of engine which the widespread distribution of high compression fuels has at last made feasible.

"Chrysler led the industry into a new motoring era by announcing the 'Red-Head,' the first engine taking full advantage of high compression fuels to be put on the market, and led Chrysler owners with them by making the new feature available for cars in use."

REO FACTORY MEN STICK TO JOBS, REPORT SHOWS

Remarkable service records of Reo Motor Car Co. factory employes are contained in a report just issued by Reo officials, showing that 53.7 per cent of the employes who were on the payroll at the first of the year have been with the company for five years or longer.

Due to the heavy production of Flying Clouds and Wolverines, the factory payroll has been increased by hundreds of additional men, more than 1458 new employes have been added since Jan. 1, 1927. In compiling service records, these new employes were deducted, the Jan. 1 force of 4419 employes being used as the basis of computation.

According to the report, 1690 factory men have worked for Reo from five to 10 years. Four hundred and ninety-four have worked from 10 to 15 years, while 157 have worked from 15 to 20 years. Thirty-three factory employes have been with Reo from 20 years to the organization of the company. The oldest Reo foreman is Edward Seibly, who came to Reo in September, 1904, and who is one of the 35 employes wearing a 20 year service emblem. He is 72 years old.

Whippet De Luxe Delivery Car

This new Whippet de luxe delivery car is especially designed for fast parcel and express service. It is powered with standard Whippet engine and has enclosed driving compartment.

WILLYS-OVERLAND DEALERS HOLD CONVENTION HERE

Three-hundred Willys-Knight and Whippet dealers from five states attended a dealer convention held here at Willys-Overland, Inc., factory branch, Wednesday, Oct. 5. The dealers came from Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The principal speaker of the meeting was George M. Graham, executive assistant to John Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc. W. A. Elliot, local branch manager, presided. In the evening a banquet was held on the fifth floor of the factory branch.

The meeting, according to Elliot, was called in order to outline to dealers factory policies for the ensuing year.

Great New "62"

Great New Chrysler "62"—62 and more exceptional miles an hour—6-cylinder engine—7-bearing crankshaft—invar-strut pistons—ventilated crankcase—impulse neutralizer—rubber engine mountings—4-wheel hydraulic brakes—road levelizers front and rear—plus a wealth of body features unequaled in any other make for several hundred dollars more.
Seven body styles . . . . . $1095 to $1295

Illustrious New "72"

Illustrious New "72"—72 and more miles an hour—counter-weighted 7-bearing crankshaft; spring ends anchored in blocks of live rubber, developed for the Imperial "80," now applied to the "72"—longer, lower, roomier than the original "70" with beautiful bodies, tastefully appointed, and a host of features which make it more than ever the outstanding value in its price field.
Seven body styles . . . . . $1495 to $1745

Imperial "80"

Imperial "80"—92 horsepower and speed ability of 80 miles and more an hour in fingertip leash—a measure of performance and comfort absolutely unequaled by any other fine car in America. Because it shares in the advantages of Chrysler's tremendous production facilities it offers at prices remarkably low the luxury and distinction of the very costliest cars.
Eleven body styles . . . . . $2495 to $3595

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. All Chrysler cars have the additional protection against theft of the Fedco System of numbering.

TO thousands upon thousands of motorists, it has become increasingly obvious that Standardized Quality takes all the guesswork out of buying a car—definitely assures the highest standards of quality and value, whatever the purchase price.

For it makes each Chrysler the beneficiary of all the pioneering in engineering design, exceptional skill in engineering, precision in manufacturing and vast resources concentrated in the development and building of all other Chrysler models. Through it, Chrysler applies refinements pioneered and developed for its cars of top price to those in lower price ranges.

The shortest acquaintance with any Chrysler "52," "62," "72" or Imperial "80"—will reveal a score or more of outstanding advantages.

We invite you to see for yourself. Choose any model and body style you wish. Drive it and know the great difference Standardized Quality makes in motoring satisfaction.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high compression gas, produces extra speed, still faster acceleration and even greater hill-climbing ability than the standards announced.

This remarkable development is standard equipment on the roadsters of the "52," "62," "72" and sport roadster of the Imperial "80." It is also available, at slight extra cost, for all other body types. For a reasonable charge it can be applied to earlier Chrysler cars now in use.

RACE TO DECIDE DIRT TRACK CHAMPIONSHIP

Three 50-Mile Heats, Under A. A. A. Supervision, Set for Oct. 16 at Detroit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A race to decide who is official dirt track champion of the United States is announced by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

Contest Board officials have felt that the national dirt track championship should be determined in a race to which should be invited drivers who have made the best showing in various sections of the country.

The championship race is to be conducted under strict rules and regulations at Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16, and will consist of three heats of 50 miles each.

Racing aces who have won laurels on speedways, as well as on dirt tracks, have entered for the dirt track crown, including Ralph De Palma, Frank Lockhart, George Souders and Cliff Woodbury.

"As this is an event of national character," the Contest Board says, "the best drivers from the Atlantic Coast States, Western Pennsylvania, Middle Western States, Colorado, the Southwestern States and the Pacific Coast have been nominated to participate by the district representatives of the Contest Board, rather than choosing the 18 fastest cars and drivers at large."

New Moon and Diana Distribution Center for St. Louis and District

Modern automotive building of the Franke Motor Co., Hamilton and Ridge avenues, where Moon and Diana automobiles are displayed and distributed in St. Louis city and territory. A parking space of 75 cars on the roof, with an electric elevator that handles two cars at a time, is a feature of this building, which was erected about a year ago.

LOCKHART USED AC PLUGS IN BREAKING 100 RECORDS

"Frank Lockhart's achievement of breaking every one mile dirt track record from one to 100 miles at the North Randall track, near Cleveland, Sept. 25," says R. A. Stranahan, president of the Champion Spark Plug Co., "is one of the most remarkable motor feats of the last five years.

"The Los Angeles speed marvel broke more than 100 dirt track speed records. He averaged 80.826 miles an hour for the 100 miles, smashing all of Ralph DePalma's former records from one to 25 miles and all of Tommy Milton's between the 50 and 100-mile distances.

"Here are the old marks he broke and his new ones at seven representative distances:

Miles	Time	Av.	Old Av.
1	41:95	$3.0	$2.75
5	3:38:11	$6.6	$1.44
10	7:00:71	$5.9	$1.01
25	17:42:42	$4.5	$0.35
50	35:55:72	$3.7	$0.37
75	54:25:72	$2.6	79.50
100	1:14:14:50	$0.826	$0.00

"Champion officials point out that Lockhart has, in the last three years, established nearly 200 world records with his Miller Special racing cars. He has used Champion spark plugs exclusively throughout his racing career and has credited them, in frequent dispatches to that company, with contributing heavily to his racing success."

Total Miles			40,000
Total Minutes					65,678

45 Trains — 40,000 Miles — 65,678 Min.
3 Auburn Stock Cars — 42,000 Miles — 40,435 Min.

2000 Miles Farther in 25,243 Less Minutes

THE public thinks of such trains as the "Century" and the "Chief" as being fast. They are.

But it requires over 65,600 minutes for 45 of the world's fastest trains, going in all directions from Chicago, to run 40,000 miles. And these trains get MANY fresh engines, at regular intervals, in order to make this remarkable speed.

Contrast this phenomenal performance of three Auburn fully equipped STOCK cars that ran 42,000 miles in less than 40,435 minutes (exact duplicates in every way of the Auburn cars every Auburn dealer has).

Here is an amazing record of performance, endurance and value never before approached, let alone equalled.

No change of engines for these three stock cars. No favoritism, but the hardest kind of driving, continuously, under American Automobile Association official supervision, on the Atlantic City Speedway.

To even RUN 42,000 continuous miles, at much less speed, would be a tremendous tribute to ANY automobile's efficiency and stamina. That is farther mileage and infinitely harder punishment than any three average private owners impose on their cars in a whole year's service.

But no other car has ever survived an official test of this magnitude and distance. Three Auburn cars DID it, at speeds that overwhelmingly break all records.

Not only that, but we KNOW that Auburn cars can go much farther at even FASTER speed.

The purpose of this test was not speed, altho that is sensational and establishes Auburn supreme in this respect.

The real purpose was to prove in the acid test of this proving grounds that Auburn cars ARE better designed, better built, more efficient, and more durable.

In these highly competitive days of extravagant claims, the public is entitled to the unvarnished truth about the relative value of motor cars.

It is what a car DOES and not what its builders SAY that determines VALUE.

Auburn lets its car speak for itself—

And here is what it will say to you when you DRIVE it;

"I am the most advanced designed car, lower, safer, easier to handle and more comfortable to ride in. I steer with less effort, and do everything you want a car to do easier and better than any other (regardless of price) that you have ever driven. I can outperform others in get away, pick up, on curves, on hills, in sand and anywhere under all conditions. I will get you there and back quicker, and you will marvel at the fact that you are not tired. I stand up and endure with a minimum of attention. And I command an unusually high resale value".

Drive an Auburn Straight Eight and if it does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

"TIN CAN TOURISTS" ARE DISAPPEARING

5000-Mile Cross-Country Trip Tour Expert Saw But Two Disreputable Cars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The "tin can tourists," so familiar in westward highway travel in former years, is disappearing from the roads, according to I. A. Hankey, tour expert of Californians, Inc., who has just completed a 5000-mile motor trip over the roads leading from the east and middle west into northern California. During his whole jaunt Hankey saw but two disreputable automobiles—and they were both headed east.

Times have changed, says Hankey, since the days when spring urged hundreds of families to load everything moveable, including kitchen stove and pup, into a rattling flivver and head for the west, living off the country as they went.

The reason for the change, he thinks, are first, that the novelty of motoring has worn off; second, that many have learned, to their sorrow, that they can't live in California on just sunshine and oranges. They have found it is not much fun, after all, motoring across the country in a broken down car, and that wherever they go they have to work for a living.

"Better roads and more and better hotel accommodations along national highways account for the higher class of tourists," he says. "Only a few parties carry camping equipment other than perhaps a convenient automobile stove. Many stop at hotels at night, and those who stop at automobile camps now prefer places where they can get a little cabin and avoid the trouble of setting up a tent. It really seems, so far as cross-country travel is concerned, that the old-fashioned automobile camp, providing only space for camping, will disappear entirely within a few years in favor of the more modern camp with clean, attractive cabins which can be rented cheaply by the night or week."

Oldtime western trails, lined with skeletons of horses and wreckage of covered wagons, have given way to smooth motor highways. But skeletons, says Hankey, still line the routes—skeletons of weary flivvers and "used car bargains" which couldn't quite take their owners all the way across the wide—and hot— open spaces.

H. C. MERRY, INC. APPOINTED SHUTTER FRONT DISTRIBUTER

H. C. Merry, Inc., 3920 Lindell boulevard, Gabriel distributer, has been appointed distributer in Southern Illinois and Southeast Missouri for Allen Shutterfront, a patent engine and radiator warmer, manufactured by the Allen Auto Specialties Co., of New York.

Twenty dealers in the territory, according to Merry, are thus far handling the shutter front and more are being lined up.

There are two models, the red label, for all makes of automobiles, and the blue label, especially designed for popular priced cars, and known as Allen Special Shutter.

"Allen Shutterfront," according to Merry, "keeps motors running at correct temperatures at all times, insures quick starting on cold mornings, and protects battery from excessive drain and exhaustion."

"TIN CAN TOURISTS" ARE DISAPPEARING

5000-Mile Cross-Country Trip Tour Expert Saw But Two Disreputable Cars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The "tin can tourists," so familiar in westward highway travel in former years, is disappearing from the roads, according to I. A. Hankey, tour expert of Californians, Inc., who has just completed a 5000-mile motor trip over the roads leading from the east and middle west into northern California. During his whole jaunt Hankey saw but two disreputable automobiles—and they were both headed east.

Times have changed, says Hankey, since the days when spring urged hundreds of families to load everything moveable, including kitchen stove and pup, into a rattling flivver and head for the west, living off the country as they went.

The reason for the change, he thinks, are first, that the novelty of motoring has worn off; second, that many have learned, to their sorrow, that they can't live in California on just sunshine and oranges. They have found it is not much fun, after all, motoring across the country in a broken down car, and that wherever they go they have to work for a living.

"Better roads and more and better hotel accommodations along national highways account for the higher class of tourists," he says. "Only a few parties carry camping equipment other than perhaps a convenient automobile stove. Many stop at hotels at night, and those who stop at automobile camps now prefer places where they can get a little cabin and avoid the trouble of setting up a tent. It really seems, so far as cross-country travel is concerned, that the old-fashioned automobile camp, providing only space for camping, will disappear entirely within a few years in favor of the more modern camp with clean, attractive cabins which can be rented cheaply by the night or week."

Oldtime western trails, lined with skeletons of horses and wreckage of covered wagons, have given way to smooth motor highways. But skeletons, says Hankey, still line the routes—skeletons of weary flivvers and "used car bargains" which couldn't quite take their owners all the way across the wide—and hot— open spaces.

H. C. MERRY, INC. APPOINTED SHUTTER FRONT DISTRIBUTER

H. C. Merry, Inc., 3920 Lindell boulevard, Gabriel distributer, has been appointed distributer in Southern Illinois and Southeast Missouri for Allen Shutterfront, a patent engine and radiator warmer, manufactured by the Allen Auto Specialties Co., of New York.

Twenty dealers in the territory, according to Merry, are thus far handling the shutter front and more are being lined up.

There are two models, the red label, for all makes of automobiles, and the blue label, especially designed for popular priced cars, and known as Allen Special Shutter.

"Allen Shutterfront," according to Merry, "keeps motors running at correct temperatures at all times, insures quick starting on cold mornings, and protects battery from excessive drain and exhaustion."

QUICKEN TRAFFIC, REDUCE DEATH RATE THUS, SAYS CORD

"A greater speed, on our public highways, will reduce auto death rates because it will develop more careful driving and more cautious pedestrians," says E. L. Cord, president of the Auburn Automobile Co.

"It is illogical to believe that slow driving means careful driving. In virtually every city of size automobile accident statistics show that more accidents occur on side streets, where there is but a small amount of traffic.

"Present speed laws were enacted when we had four-cylinder, 30-horsepower automobiles, weighing 5000 pounds. These cars were built high, were dangerous on quick turns and slow to pick up.

"Modern construction has incorporated every advanced mechanical appliance to make automobiles speedier and safer. Low center of gravity construction today virtually eliminates danger of overturning, cars can pick up faster, and motors of 60 to 80 horsepower, and four-wheel brakes, make it possible to keep your car under complete control at all times. These mechanical perfections reduce traffic acident possibilities to the minimum.

"We cannot evade the traffic issue. We must find a solution. And that solution may be found in wider streets, better pavements and a systematic arrangement of streets to include certain highways for faster travel."

GARDNER PRESTIGE INCREASES

"Gardner Motor Co., Inc., builder of the Gardner Eight-in-line and 34th in space drawings for the 1927 New York Automobile Show, stepped past seven competing motor car manufacturers in sales during the past twelve months to gain 27th place in drawings for space allotments at the 1928 Show, which takes place next January, the factory reports.

CHANDLER CRANKSHAFTS DYNAMICALLY BALANCED

Years ago motor car engineers bent all their efforts toward securing first of all power, then speed. That has been achieved by most of the makers of automobiles today and is expected in a car by the buying public. Now emphasis is being placed upon quietness and smoothness of operation, says Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation.

"Chandler has established a standard of quietness with its high-compression engine principle that was not dreamed of a decade ago and which is the result of exhaustive research, says the factory.

"No special cylinder head was needed on the Pike's Peak motor to achieve this superquietness and powerful performance. It is a complete high-compression motor in itself and has proved successful in doing away with the "ping" caused by detonation.

"Many notable Chandler features have been incorporated in the motor of the Royal Eight, Big and Special Six series for the express purpose of producing velvety smooth, noiseless performance.

"Another important Chandler feature which leads to quiet operation is the honed cylinders of all Chandler motors. The cylinder bores are not just ground or reamed, but are honed to a mirror-like finish. This eliminates the initial wear when the car is first run, and insures from the start better and more quiet performance for the entire life of the motor.

"The crankshafts of the three Chandler series of motors are statically and dynamically balanced with counter-balance weights, thus reducing vibration to the vanishing point.

"The new Chandler manifold was developed after an extensive study of mixtures and proper vaporization, and exerts a marked effect on the performance of all Chandler motors. It eliminates power noise and at the same time promotes quick starting.

"High pressure lubrication to all bearings makes the motor literally float on a film of oil. There is no metal to metal contact anywhere.

SHIP 51 MOON CARS TO LOS ANGELES BY BOAT

Fifty-one Moon automobiles left the port of St. Louis Oct. 1 on two boats of the Mississippi-Warrior Service for Los Angeles via New Orleans. The cars, recently ordered by the Barrows Motor Co., Moon and Diana distributer of Los Angeles, consisted of 36 Royal six-sixty roadsters and 15 six-sixty sedans.

The shipment was loaded at the Municipal Docks at the foot of North Market street and was put on two boats, 19 automobiles being loaded on the express boat "Gulfport," while 32 automobiles were loaded on a barge.

The "Gulfport" arrived at New Orleans in six days from sailing time at St. Louis, while the barge is scheduled for arrival about three days later.

At New Orleans the cars were transferred to a Redwood Line steamer, which left New Orleans yesterday, which will take it through the Panama Canal and up the Pacific Coast to the port of Los Angeles. The sailing time from New Orleans to Los Angeles is 25 days, and is considered fast time for the trip, says the Moon Motor Car Co.

"The great saving in freight charges on such a shipment when made via the all-water route as against the rail route caused the distributer to order the shipment via the former, the factory reports.

CHEVROLET DEALER IN TEMPORARY QUARTERS

While the sales building of the Wells Motor Car Co., authorized Chevrolet dealer, at 3008 North Grand boulevard, which was damaged by the recent tornado, is being rebuilt, the firm is temporarily doing all its business at its service station, 3530 North Spring avenue.

NEW OLDS PLANT ADDITION TO BE COMPLETED SOON

The first building in the $3,000,000 Oldsmobile expansion program will be completed before the end of October, according to factory officials at Lansing, Mich. It is expected that work of installing machinery and rearranging production lines will be completed before the first of the year.

"This large expansion of plant and manufacturing facilities is evidence of the steady growth of Oldsmobile business. Hardly more than four years ago the Oldsmobile factories, at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars, were re-equipped for the manufacture of the Oldsmobile six. At that time the facilities were believed adequate. Since that time the demand for Oldsmobile has increased at a rate that made the earlier plant revision and expansion inadequate. Now new buildings and equipment are being installed at an expenditure of more than $3,000,000," says the factory.

AUTO MEN COLLECT $11,000 FOR TORNADO SUFFERERS

Including checks totaling $2639, turned in Thursday at noon by Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, representing remittances for Red Cross work sent to and through that association, the total contributions made by the automotive industry, as a whole for tornado relief up to Friday morning was in excess of $11,000.

These figures were gathered from contributions made through the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association and the Automotive Accessory Association and turned in by Lee and from acknowledgments of remittances to the fund from automobile concerns asknowledged in the daily newspapers.

Further contributions in considerable amount are expected to be sent in to the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

OAKLAND HAS PERMANENT CAR SALON IN NEW YORK

A beautiful blending of Colonial furnishings and wall murals, depicting Michigan when it was the hunting ground of the Indian, make attractive the recently completed New York salon of the Oakland Motor Car Co. The salon, a permanent exhibit of Oakland and Pontiac sixes, is in the new General Motors Building on Broadway.

A. R. Glancy, president of the Oakland Motor Car Co., and Mrs. Glancy, who have a hobby of collecting early American furniture, helped plan the murals, decorative scheme and furniture.

One mural represents Chief Pontiac and his warriors advancing to the siege of Detroit in 1763. Another shows the signing of the treaty of 1795 by which General Anthony Wayne obtained from the Indians the district which now includes the city of Pontiac and Oakland County. Other murals picture various events which culminated in establishing a flour mill at Pontiac in 1819 on a site not far from the present Oakland Motor Car Co. plant.

AVERAGES 46.7 M. P. H. FOR 690 MILES IN STUDEBAKER

"Six hundred and ninety miles in 14 hours and 45 minutes, an average of 46.7 m.p.h., was recently made by a Studebaker Commander coupe between Tulsa, Ok., and Colorado Springs, Colo.," the factory reports.

"The Commander coupe was driven by Stanley Thomas, president of the Thomas Motor Co., Tulsa Studebaker dealer. He registered out of Tulsa with the Western Union Telegraph Co. at 2:53 o'clock in the morning and was at Colorado Springs at 4:38 o'clock that same afternoon," the report says.

Eager to Meet its Comrades —comes the Wolverine Sedan

Far and wide the Wolverines of the roads have gone. Strongest of their size, able and willing to conquer any conditions of highway or traffic, they have lived up to the reputation of that fearless master of the woods, the wolverine, for whom they are named.

Eager to take its place beside the other Wolverines of the roads, comes the new Wolverine Sedan, low and long . . . a roomy, brawny, comfortable four-door sedan for those who want Wolverine performance plus a sedan body.

Look one over and try one out. Feel for yourself its sweeping flow of power, the soft and certain action of its Velvet Stop brakes. Use its easily handled controls, pit it against time or grades, hold it at a fast pace for hour after hour. Then you'll find that, at a moderate price, you've found the kind of car you'll like to own.

SCOUTS CHANGE BADGE BESTOWAL PROCEDURE

First Class Awards to Be Presented at District Court of Honor Meetings.

The first class badge, hitherto presented by the scoutmaster to any Boy Scout in his troop when the boy reached the first-class rank, will no longer be a troop award in St. Louis, local scout headquarters has announced. Beginning Nov. 1, the badges will be presented at the District Court of Honor meetings, the same as merit badges. After Jan. 1, 1928, no first-class awards will be given by the district courts unless the scout has appeared before the Board of Review which will be formed in each district, and has satisfied the board that all requirements for the firs class rank have been met.

Appearance before the Board of Review will not be necessary for scouts who have made application to appear before the November and December courts, as the machinery for these reviews has not as yet been set up. The boards, however, are expected to be functioning by December, to enable scouts to apear at the January court.

Cards to Be Filled Out.

In the meantime scoumasters have been requested to obtain from local headquarters cards which are to be filled out, bearing the certification of the scoutmaster that all first class requirements have been fulfilled. These cards, with the scout's registration card, are to be filed at headquarters with the first class application. A fee of 15 cents will also be necessary, to cover the cost of the badge, which will be awarded at the court. Without the fee, the scout will be give nthe iright to wear the badge, but without it sactual presentation. Scoutmasters who have first class badges on hand may turn them in in lieu of the fee..

The change in system was adopted upon the recommendation of the local Committee on Education and the Court of Honor, who felt that, with the first class rank a matter of headquarters rather than troop record, more accurate track could be kept of the higher-rank scouts, especially when the applications for merit badges are filed. Troop records are many times incomplete, and even when they are perfect headquarters rarely has entirely up-to-date copies.

Courts of Honor Scheduled.

The schedule for the District Courts of Honor during November and December will be

No. 7, North District: Yeatman High School.

Nov. 14, South District: Missouri School for the Blind.

Nov. 21, West District: Ben Blewett Junior High School.

Nov. 28, Suburban District: Webster Groves High School.

Dec. 5, North District: Yeatman High School.

Dec. 12, South District Missouri School for the Blind.

Dec. 19, West District: Ben Blewett Junior High School.

Dec. 19 Suburban District: Webster Groves High School.

Scouts entitled to merit badges who were unable to appear at the City Court of Honor, held Sept. 12, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, must appear at their next district court in order to obtain their badges. When a City Court and the first following District Court pass without the scout appearing, his badge is considered as lapsed, and must be repassed by an examiner, unless satisfactory evidence is presented showing it was impossible to attend either of these meetings.

Boy Scout Notes

SOUTH DISTRICT.

Troop 34, meeting at the Shenandoah School, is on a hike to the Lion's Den today accompanied by the Father's Club of the troop. The novel feature of the hike is that each boy is responsible for preparing a meal for his father. The troop is taking over the forestry booth at the merit badge exhibit and plans to spend a part of the day in collecting leaves, shrubs, etc. The troop was engaged last week in the tornado relief work. Scouts served as traffic officers, assisted the Red Cross and delivered telegrams.

Troop 57, meeting at the Wyman School, has reported its progress under the leadership of Scoutmaster Fichtel. A number of new scouts have recently been entered on the roster of the troop.

Troop 61, of the Haven Street Methodist Episcopal Church, has been reorganized under the leadership of Scoutmaster George J. Meenen and Assistant Scoutmaster Alois Pommer. The troop has taken a number of week-end hikes and reports a full program for the fall activities.

One of the members of Troop 67, William Farrell, died a week ago Saturday afternoon after spending all of Friday and Saturday morning in relief work in the storm area. William had been out all Saturday morning with his friend, Floyd Hyman, also a member of the troop, and had gone home with Floyd for lunch. The troop met Monday evening and rehearsed the flower ceremony, which was conducted at the services at William's funeral on Tuesday afternoon. Six of the scouts of the troop acted as pallbearers and a special Guard of Honor was brought over from the storm area. Scout Farrell was a first-class scout and had been a member of the troop for two years. He was also an assistant patrol leader.

In the recent tornado disaster six scouts from Troop 143 were on duty with the Red Cross Thursday night and 15 scouts Friday. Three new scouts, John Boehr, Roland Schaefer and Clarence Fritzemeyer, have joined the troop. Scout Victor Bauer is leading in the mystery contest with 155 points, and Scout Kirk second with 80 points. A meeting of the fathers will be held tomorrow night to organize a new Fathers' Club. Each member of the troop is to bring his father. A new patrol has been organized, with Scout William Wollman as patrol leader.

Troop 160 held a Fathers and Sons hike to Kenwood Springs last Sunday. A number of fathers went with the scouts on the trip. A treasure hunt was arranged between the boys and their parents, after which a game of ball was staged while they were waiting for chow—a kettle of stew.

WEST DISTRICT.

To Troop 125, of the Grace Presbyterian Church, goes the credit for being the first to mobilize to assist the Red Cross after the tornado. Many of the scouts in the troop are students in Central High School, which was struck by the storm. They mobilized at their troop headquarters, inquiring where they could be of most assistance. They were busy Thursday far into the night aiding the Red Cross and other agencies in relief work. They returned to work again Friday morning and stayed on the job until Sunday, when most of the scouts were recalled from duty.

Troop 2, of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, rendered service to the Red Cross, American Legion, Western Union and other agencies after the recent tornado. Some scouts aided in delivering telegrams, others assisted the Red Cross in moving furniture, feeding refugees and running errands, while still others assisted the police and American Legion in traffic and relief work.

Troop 5, of the West Presbyterian Church, also aided in relief work. As soon as the call was given, Troop 5 mobilized and reported at the nearest police station, where the boys worked until long after midnight. After a few hours' rest, they returned Friday morning and stayed on the job until released Sunday night.

As soon as the storm struck St. Louis, the boys of Troop 23 rushed out and helped to clear up traffic. They also watched fallen wires and rendered first aid. During the days that followed, the troop helped in moving furniture, rendering first aid, distributing food and clothing to the homeless, and directing traffic. The scouts were on duty until dismissed. Many of the scouts are helping the Red Cross in various kinds of relief work.

Troop 75 of the Washington School suffered the loss of a comrade, Scout James C. Jones, who died suddenly Sept. 23. His body was in state at Clark's undertaking parlors, and the following scouts acted as guard of honor: Billy Neddo, Troop 75; Clark White, Trook 75; Milton Moldafsky, Troop 75; Kermit Hartman, Troop 59; George Hucke, Troop 94, and Tom O'Connor, Troop 94.

The burial being at Frankfort, Mo., necessitated the funeral procession leaving St. Louis Sunday morning, Sept. 25, at 4 o'clock. The above named scouts accompanied the body to its last resting place and acted an honorary pallbearers, giving the scout salute at the lowering of the body. Louis White, father of Scout Clark White, father of Scout Clark White, and the new scoutmaster of Troop 75, conveyed the boys to Frankfort.

NORTH DISTRICT.

Deputy Commissioner J. P. Simons of Region No. 1 in the North District wishes to thank the scoutmasters and scouts of the troops in his region, Nos. 3, 172, 161, 206 and 243, for the response to his call to help in the relief work necessitated by the tornado. These scouts worked finding personal belongings for victims of the storm, serving as aid for traffic policeman at busy street intersections, and as helpers on Red Cross relief trucks. It is this preparedness for an emergency that keeps the troops on their toes.

Troop 53, of the Independent Evangelical Protestant Church. Fair and Margaretta, conducted an investiture ceremony for new tenderfoot scouts this morning. The ceremony was part of the church services, this being Rally day for the church. Scoutmaster Brockhoff, assisted by the members of the troop committee, helped the scouts of the troop to put on the ceremony. The candle ceremony, a candle for each of the 12 laws, and three candles for the three parts of the Scout oath, was used. Twelve scouts each lighted a candle representing a scout law. Senior Patrol Leader Schinelz then lighted the candles representing the parts of the Scout oath and explained the Scout oath, after which the tenderfoot pins were presented the candidates by a member of the troop committee.

Troop 53 has room for about 10 more scouts in the troop. Any boys in that neighborhood who are interested have been asked to get in touch with Scoutmaster Brockhoff at once. The troop meets Tuesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in the Independent Evangelical Protestant Church.

Two new scouts, Ray Wagner and Henry Stray, were present at the last meeting of Troop 3. At the recent storm the scouts of this troop did some good work in the wrecked district. The troop is at the Lamber Flying Field today to learn about aviation.

Fifteen scouts of Troop 206, present at the last meting were each presented with a knapsack by the troop committee. At a program held at this meeting two scouts received their second class pins, two others their registration cards, and another his first-class pin. This troop is on a 14-mile hike today.

Troop 22 of the Walnut Park School reports that all the members engaged in a number of activities during the relief work at the tornado. Many aided the traffice policeman; others reported to Scout Headquarters and assisted in the delivery of telegrams which the Western Union turned over to the Boy Scouts; their delivery force being unable to keep ahead of the large number of messages received from people outside of the city. Scouts of this troop also helped at the Red Cross relief stations, distributing clothing and food to the refugees of the storm.

Scouts of Troop 34, under the direction of Assistant Scoutmaster Wilson, immediately after the storm reported for duty at the Red Cross relief station. They were sent to the National Guard Headquarters and from this base were sent out to notify members of the National Guard to assemble at the National Guard Headquarters for immediate service. After this duty was completed they assisted throughout the area, wherever they found work that should be done.

7 SMOKE SUPERVISORS NAMED BY CITIZENS' LEAGUE GROUP

Officers Will Note Offenders in Their Districts and Seek to Instruct Them.

Smoke supervisors for seven of the eight districts of the St. Louis metropolitan area, as provided in the three year program of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League, were appointed yesterday by the executive committee of the league. In their respective districts each will take note of the flagrant smoke offenders, and seek to curb the nuisance through instruction. Each supervisor will have three instructors on his staff.

The supervisors are Robert S. Mills, for District No. 1, comprising East St. Louis; Herbert J. Lutz, for District No. 2, extending from the Municipal Bridge west to Grand avenue, and south from Chouteau avenue to west Kingshighway; George B. Bolt, District No. 4, west on Kingshighway Park, north on Virginia on Grand to Magnolia, west on Magnolia to Kingshighway, north on Kingshighway to Oakland, west on Oakland to City Limits and south and east on the City Limits to the river; H. BOY SCOUTS AWAKEN INTEREST

Inquiries as to Becoming Members Increase Since Tornado.

One of the results of the work of the Boy Scouts in the period following the tornado has been a marked increase in the number of requests received by local headquarters from boys for information which would enable them to become scouts. In answer to these requests, Earle W. Beckman, local scout executive, has issued the following statement:

"The recent storm has proved to the citizens of St. Louis that the training a boy receives as a member of the Boy Scouts stands him in good stead when called on in an emergency. Any boys desiring to become scouts should get in touch with any scoutmaster or Boy Scout they know, who will give the necessary information, or else come to headquarters, 505 Chestnut building, and we will endeavor to place them with good, live troops."

All ST. LOUIS is talking about the OAKLAND ALL-AMERICAN SIX
PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Everywhere you go you hear them talking . . . about this finer, faster Six, the Oakland All-American.

About its new and vivid beauty. About the new performance results attained by all-American principles in engineering and construction. About the matchless value created by the lower prices.

Length, lowness, grace, luxury—all are expressed in the masterly perfection of the new body creations by Fisher. Speed, smoothness, comfort, staunchness—never did another car of comparable price combine them so supremely!

For here is a longer, stronger chassis—smaller wheels and larger tires—a 212 cubic inch engine equipped with the new G-M-R cylinder head, which eliminates harshness and roughness, minimizes spark knocks and increases power—without the use of special fuels.

Why shouldn't this new and thrilling car be thrilling all America? Why shouldn't its success be already surpassing all previous Oakland achievements? A look and a ride will tell you the story—why everyone is saying, "That's the car!"

LEGION TRIED AND PUNISHED LOOTERS

Commander of Tornado Relief Work Tells How Summary Court Was Held.

"Summary court" for prowlers in the tornado area was held by men of the American Legion who were assigned to patrol and rescue work by Chief of Police Gerk a few hours after the tornado. Any intruder into the ruined homes was taken to a dark spot by the war veterans, and in the words of Roy G. Chisholm, in command of Legion operations, "was given his trial and punishment right now."

"One important job assigned to us," Chisholm said, "was to watch for vandals. Maybe you noticed how few arrests were made? Well we caught three or four Negroes who couldn't give an account of themselves, prowling around in some homes. We held our own court—right in some dark spot. And if they couldn't move afterward, we left them lying there."

A little before 3 p. m. Thursday a call for American Legion men was broadcast from every local radio station. By 6 p. m. nearly a thousand World War veterans were patrolling the ruins in the "no-man's land" bounded by Laclede and Easton avenues and by Grand boulevard and Whittier street.

Relieved Police on Patrol.

"We assembled at the Elks' Club," Chisholm said, "and placed ourselves at the disposal of Chief Gerk. Some of our number relieved policemen who were patrolling the district and the rest of us got to work with the rescue outfits.

"We at once established temporary headquarters at 4020 Page boulevard and opened two other relief stations. More than 200 women members of the Legion auxiliaries, led by Mrs. Gus Wies, 4609 Gertrude avenue, served about 5000 meals a day at the Page boulevard station, until we closed it Thursday."

Offers of aid from American Legion posts in neighboring towns came pouring in a few hours after the tornado. All were refused as unnecssary. The Festus Post, Festus, Mo., sent no offer of assistance, but 23 men and three trucks from that post reported for duty at the Deer street police station late in the afternoon.

Doctors' Post Offers Aid.

The Boutwell Post, a local chapter composed of nearly 100 physicians, immediately offered its members' services wherever needed. A spontaneous financial contribution was made at all St. Louis 23 posts, and the American Legion has not wanted for money to carry on relief work. The men in Veteran's Hospital No. 92 at Jefferson Barracks contributed $56 before nightfall.

"The 'digging crowd' was a mighty busy bunch for the first three or four days," Chisholm said. "They found nearly a dozen bodies after other rescue squads had given up. Had the situation been less tragic, it would have been funny to see the personnel of some of those digging squads. In one bunch on Page I saw a fellow who was a buck private in France digging like hell with the former captain of his company. And everywhere the private got rid of a bundle of dirt, he managed to drop a little down the neck of his ex-captain. But they got the edge of a roof off somebody's chest, and that's what counts."

The Legion Headquarters now are at the Jackson Johnson Jr. Post, 4160 Lindell boulevard, where food and clothing is being distributed to the storm sufferers.

MANY AMERICAN IDEAS USED IN FRENCH AUTOMOBILES

Air, Oil and Gasoline Purifiers Among Things That Will Appear on Cars.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Six cylinder cars, some price reductions and a number of American improvements will be the features of the French Automobile Salon this fall. France always has felt herself to be the pioneer in automobile invention and practice but she has had to follow America in many things since the war, such as the closed body, self-starting, better lighting, spring design and accessories such as the windshield wiper, battery ignition, window-opener devices and the general adoption of the electric horn.

Six cylinder cars have long been general in large, expensive cars but this year the low priced, quantity-production makers are falling into line. A year from now a majority of the cars are expected by engineers to follow suit, retaining, however, what Americans consider small, light, high-compression motors.

Air, oil and gasoline purifiers are among the American ideas that will appear on many cars.

Prices that went up with a bump during the money panic of 1925 have been going down slowly but surely. The Salon is expected to bring a general lowering of figures and probably the elimination of some models, the wide variety of which has always contributed to the high cost of manufacture here.

"I know a man who went to a hospital where they cured him of rheumatism by means of bee stings. But when he came out he told me he would rather have rheumatism because the treatment had taken away his taste for whisky," Anderson declared. "Most bee raisers are teetotalers, but I think that is because they eat lots of honey and that takes away the craving for alcohol."

The "WHY" of Willys-Knight's marked Superiority

Everyone is talking "High Compression"

But only the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine gives highest uniform compression, insuring smoothness, power and long life beyond any other type of motor Spherical cylinder head and sliding sleeves of patented Knight engine have always provided the most efficient compression chamber. No breaks in the walls or head; no corners or openings where fuel can escape the compressing force.

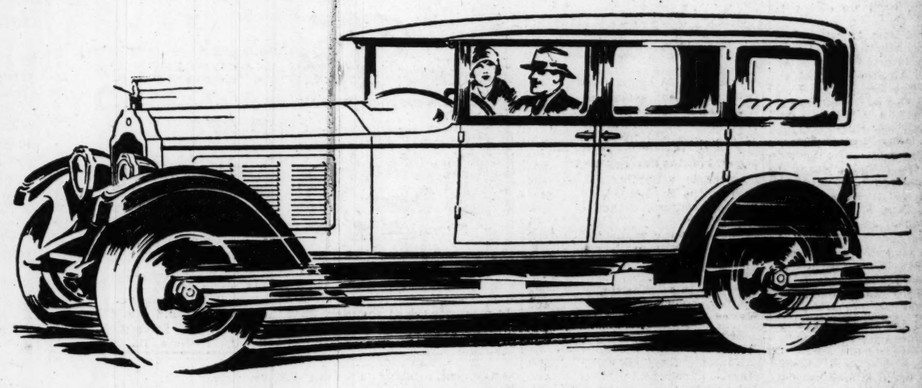
Use ANY gas



Exquisitely beautiful new colors

Your choice of many distinctive colors, both in lacquer and upholstery. Colors that are rich, harmoniously blended, lastingly attractive.

High compression is the order of the day. The need for speed and flashing activity to meet modern motoring conditions has caused many manufacturers to bring out special high compression motors.

The patented Knight engine, because of the basic principle of its design, offers you the advantages of highest uniform compression. And in the Knight engine, this high compression has been obtained without any of the disadvantages so common to other engines which have made big sacrifices for compression alone.

Many of these engines require special and more costly fuel. With the Knight engine, you can use any gas. Many of these engines are short-lived, and develop knocking even after inconsiderable mileage. The Knight engine grows smoother and quieter with use—compression is not only high, but uniform!

For high, sustained efficiency, mile after mile, year after year, the Knight-powered car has set high standards all its own.

More than 300,000 owners are now driving Willys-Knights. Their enthusiasm often sounds like extravagance. Yet they continue to pile experience on experience, with definite mileage figures, actual performance records, accurate figures of minimum operating costs, building up a mass of evidence decisive in its proof of Willys-Knight superiority.

Be sure to see this finer Willys-Knight, at your earliest opportunity.

$1295 F.O.B Factory is all you pay for a 5-passenger, 6-cylinder Willys-Knight closed car. "70" Six, $1295 to $1495. Great Six, $1850 to $2695. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

Women's Ills Often Yield To 48 Hour Test

Thousands of women who suffer from disturbed sleep, bladder weakness, backache or leg pains would be delighted if they would only make the simple, Cystex 48 hour test.

Just step into any drug store and ask for Cystex. Put it to a 48-hour test. If you soon feel like new, full of pep, able to sleep soundly with pains alleviated it will cost you only 60c, otherwise nothing.

Don't give up. Don't wait. Feel better tomorrow. Learn the joy of healthful living. No need to risk a penny on unproved things because you are the sole judge of your satisfaction under the Cystex legal, binding, money-back guarantee.

Just Touch

a Corn or Callus with this

"Gets-It" acts like an anaesthetic. Stops all pain in 3 seconds

WORKS like magic on any kind of corn, no matter how old, where it is, how bad it hurts. One touch and the pain goes. Almost unbelievable. Then the corn shrivels up and goes. A scientific way that dancers, walkers, actors, doctors and millions use. Beware of imitators. Get the real "Gets-It" at leading drug stores everywhere.

"GETS-IT"

Child's Scalp Broke Out With Pimples Cuticura Healed

"My little daughter's scalp broke out with pimples. She complained of the eruptions itching and burning and they made her head ache. Her hair fell out and was lifeless and dry, and there were bald places around each sore eruption. She would cry and was very fretful, especially at night when she would lie down, and could not sleep.

"She had the trouble about three weeks when I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it two days I could see a great change so purchased more, and in a short time she was healed." (Signed) Mrs F. M. Gill, R. F. D. 3, Cutler, Ohio.

Make Cuticura Soap and Ointment your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear, sweet skin, soft, smooth hands, and a healthy scalp with good hair. Cuticura Talcum is unexcelled in purity.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden, Mass."

"Decided To Use It Exclusively!"

One woman recommending it to another explains why millions of packages of Black and White Face Powder are used each year by beautiful women everywhere.

Pretty Miss Dorothy Mohr, of Long Branch, N. J., says: "A friend gave me a box of Black and White Face Powder and urged me to try it. I had experienced such difficulty in finding a satisfactory face powder that I was delighted to find it blended perfectly with my skin. After one trial I decided to use it exclusively."

A trial will convince you, too, that Black and White Face Powder is as satisfactory in texture and tint as it is appealing in fragrance. It clings to the skin for hours and keeps your complexion soft, fresh and smooth.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c.

FIREMEN FIGHT, HOUSES BURN

Row Over Jurisdiction Fatal to Property in Bavarian Town.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—Farm houses, stables and agricultural machinery were destroyed by fire near Illikofen, Bavaria, because the fire brigades from two rival towns poured water on each other instead of on the fire in a fight over jurisdiction.

In response to the alarm the fire brigades of Regensburg and of Illkofen arrived at about the same time. There was solemn parleying at first, the crew of each brigade claiming that it had the sole right to quench the fire. As arguments proved ineffective, the Illkofeners reinforced their point of view by turning on the hose on the Regensburgers. These replied in kind.

French Church Built of Concrete.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—A reinforced concrete church, the first in France, has opened new possibilities in design, but above all in economy. For $12,000, the town of Montmagny, not far from Paris, has built a church 120 by 43 feet, with a high bell-tower and steeple. Best of all, the church is light. The upper two-thirds of the four walls are half colored class, set in a criss-cross design, much like leaded glass except that the framework all is in cement.

Paris Tries One-Man Street Car.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—One-man street cars of the pay-as-you-enter type are in operation out of Paris on a suburban line as an experiment. This is an extension of the successful experiment with express autobusses, introduced two years ago. Several safety devices have been added to the cars to meet public criticism. The doors are closed automatically before the car can start and they are opened automatically in case of accident.

MOTHER!

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Young Wife Lives On Thin Soup 5 Months

For months Mrs. Connor could not do her housework and had to live on soup. She says:

"The only thing I could eat for 5 months was soup. Anything else would bloat me up with gas till I could hardly breath. I lay awake nights and had to walk the floor sometimes. Nothing seemed to do me any good. Then I began to take Adlerika, and the first bottle helped me. Now I eat almost everything, my stomach doesn't bother me, and I sleep much better. Adlerika has made me a happy woman."—Mrs. A. J. Connor.

As gently and naturally as taking a drink of water, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowels, bringing quick relief from gas bloating, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation.

The very FIRST dose of Adlerika often brings out astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the intestinal canal. This poisonous matter may have been in the intestines a long time, causing gas, headache, sleeplessness and many other symptoms. A treatment of just a FEW weeks with Adlerika often brings great permanent improvement in cases of so-called stomach trouble.

What Doctors Say

Dr. H. Louis Shoub, New York, states: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleasing action, tends to check the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster, a physician of over a quarter century's experience, says: "In the treatment of gastro-intestinal disorders, Adlerika has no equal."

J. E. Puckett, writes: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. Carl Weschcke, graduate of Heidelberg University, Germany, first perfected Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser known to science with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements.

Many physicians recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for gas, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation. Unlike most medicines it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika may bring out poisonous, gas-forming matter which you would never believe was in your system.

No matter what you have tried for the bowels and stomach, Adlerika will surprise you.

'POP' CONCERTS TO BE BROADCAST BY STATION KSD

Notable Radio Series This Winter to Be Sponsored by the Laclede Gas Light Company.

All 16 of the Pop concerts to be given this winter by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra are to be broadcast by KSD, radio station of the Post-Dispatch.

This concert series—the most notable single musical event in the history of local broadcasting—is made possible by the Laclede Gas Light Co.

"We feel that the symphony orchestra is one of the great influences for good in the community," said George B. Evans, president of the Laclede Gas Light Co., in explaining why the company decided to sponsor the broadcasting of these concerts. "Its concerts are uplifting and create a taste for the best in music. An appreciation of the finer things in music, art and literature is one of the best indications of culture.

Wants None to Miss Concerts.

"The Laclede Gas Light Co., in assisting in this enterprise, is doing so with a thought for those who might be prevented from attending these concerts. The company does not want a single person to miss such musical treats.

"Also, through these radio programs not only St. Louis itself, but those outside of the city, can enjoy the programs given by a musical organization of world-wide reputation and one with which St. Louis is glad to be identified.

Will Reach Many Held to Homes.

"The money which the Laclede Gas Light Co. is contributing to this enterprise is going to the Symphony fund and, it is felt, will make up for any lack of attendance occasioned by broadcasting the concerts.

"But mainly we want the programs to reach those who are unable to attend. Many mothers are compelled to remain at home with their children. Others, unable to leave invalid chairs or sick beds, would otherwise miss this treat."

The Pop concerts are scheduled to begin at 3:15 o'clock Sunday afternoons. The first is to be given Sunday afternoon, Nov. 6, and the balance of them as follows: Nov. 13, 20 and 27; Dec. 4 and 11; Jan. 8, 15, 22 and 29; Feb. 5, 12, 19 and 26; March 4 and 11.

Frederick Fischer is to conduct the orchestra in some of the Pop concerts, while it is expected that at others the notable guest conductors for the regular concerts, including Emil Oberhoffer, Carl Schuricht, Willem Van Hoogstraten, Bernardino Molinari and Eugene Goossens, will conduct.

Listeners' Votes to Decide Contest

KSD to Broadcast the Missouri State Contest in Atwater Kent Singing Competition Tomorrow and Tuesday Nights.

Radio listeners will have a chance to decide tomorrow and Tuesday nights who are the best young singers in Missouri. Tomorrow night, KSD will broadcast the Missouri State finals for young women in the nation-wide Atwater Kent Foundation competition, and Tuesday night will broadcast the Missouri finals in the young men's competition.

Listeners those nights are invited to mail or telegraph to KSD, radio station of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, their votes for the best young man and young woman singer among those taking part in the contest, which will be held in the KSD studios. Votes of listeners will count for 60 points out of 100. Votes of the official judges will count for 40 points.

From 9 to 10 o'clock Central Standard Time tomorrow and Tuesday nights, listeners should turn their dials to KSD, 550 kilocycles or 545 meters. Then they should write or telegraph their votes immediately.

To count in the balloting for winners, votes must be mailed or telegraphed before 9 o'clock on the morning following each contest. That is, a vote on the young women's contest must be sent before 9 a. m. Tuesday, and a vote as to which of the men singers is the best must be sent before 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Names of contestants will not be announced when they sing, nor will they be known to the 20 judges, who will listen in a room adjoining the KSD studios. Instead, each contestant will be announced by a number, as was the case in the St. Louis district preliminary contests at the radio show last month.

The following winners of district contests in Missouri have been officially entered in the contests tomorrow and Tuesday nights:

St. Louis District—Georgia Mooney, coloratura soprano, and Walter J. Rothschild, baritone.

Sedalia District—Mrs. Buford Bettis and William Morgan.

Kansas City District—Gladys Morrison, coloratura soprano, and Dehmer R. King, baritone.

Hannibal District—Jeanette I. Baker, and Sam W. Thompson, of Armstrong.

Columbia District—Rachael Way and Carl J. Otto.

Mexico District—Edith McKinley and Oren Hammond.

Cape Girardeau District—Marion A. Bradley, Leming Hall, and Tom Toole Jr., of Bloomington.

Jefferson City District—Lucille Seymour and Milo B. Dekrum.

The contests are to be opened with a brief address by United States Senator Harry Hawes, State chairman for the competition. Then the singers will go before the microphone in turn according to their numbers. Mrs. Frederick Nussbaum has been appointed official accompanist.

Some of the contestants in the Missouri state contest in the Atwater Kent competition which is to be broadcaster by KSD tomorrow and Tuesday nights. Top, left to right—Georgia Mooney, St. Louis; Lucille Seymour, Jefferson City; Jeanette I. Baker, Hannibal. Below, in center—Marion A. Bradley, Cape Girardeau. At bottom, Gladys Morrison, Kansas City.

Atwater Kent receiving sets were presented to the St. Louis winners—Miss Mooney and W. J. Rothschild—at the Advertising Club of St. Louis, Wednesday.

Blind Girl Among Winners.

A blind girl, Ruth Williams, won in the audition at Columbus, O., and will represent her city in the Ohio State contest in the Atwater Kent competition.

The Nebraska State finals resulted in selection of Miss Marian Fisher, coloratura soprano, and J. Meridan Gleason, tenor, both of Omaha, by votes of radio listeners and a jury of 15 musicians stationed in different parts of the State. Runners-up were Katherine Dean of Lincoln, a contralto, and Carrol Wygren, Malmo, Neb. Miss Fisher has sung a number of times through WOW.

RADIO STATION LICENSES

KMA, which has figured in so much controversy over direct advertising by radio, has been granted permission to reconstruct its transmitter to use a wave length of 394.5 meters, 760 kilocycles and 1000 watts power.

Permit N. Nelson has been permitted to rebuild his transmitter, WKBS, and to move it within the city of Galesburg, Ill.

ANOTHER BIG RADIO CHAIN REPORTED BEING ORGANIZED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Confirmation is announced of reports that the Loew-Metro-Goldwyn theatrical and moving picture interests are about to establish a wide-flung chain of radio stations, with WHN, New York, as the key station.

Plans are stated to be to give the public by radio the same kind of entertainment offered in the theaters. It is said 60 stations have applied for membership in the chain.

Delay in getting the chain broadcasting under way was said to be due to difficulties over obtaining suitable wire circuits. It was said, however, that this difficulty would be overcome in time for the chain to start work before the end of the season.

KSD GIVEN FULL BROADCAST TIME ON 545.5 METERS

St. Louis Radio Station Now in Position to Give Listeners Even Finer Program.

Allotment by the Federal Radio Commission of full time to Station KSD on the 550 kilocycles, 545 meters, wave channel, as reported from Washington by the Associated Press, will enable this pioneer St. Louis station to strengthen still further the programs which have won it recognition throughout the Middle West.

Evidence of this intention is the announcement, in another column of this section, of arrangements for KSD to broadcast all "Pop" concerts by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

KSD first went on the air in the spring of 1922. Its present transmitter, which is on the roof of the Post-Dispatch building, in St. Louis, was first tested in May of that year. Almost immediately KSD became one of the leading broadcasting stations in the United States. Its programs presented the best singers and musicians of St. Louis and many visiting celebrities.

When WEAF, New York, was made the key station of the first broadcasting chain and began to send out programs by artists of nation-wide and even international fame, KSD availed itself of the opportunity to give this part of the Middle West the best on the air.

Every broadcast event of national interest has been heard through KSD. The first presidential address broadcast was delivered by President Harding from the studio of KSD, which has put on the air other presidential addresses, the welcome to Lindbergh, great sporting events, political conventions, important happenings at the national capital and all Atwater Kent radio concerts with their army of internationally famous artists.

According to the Associated Press dispatches, KFUO, station of Concordia Lutheran Seminary, has been switched by the radio commission from the wave length that it has shared with KSD and is to divide time with KFVE, St. Louis, on the 1280 kilocycles, 234 meters, wave length. KFQA, radio station of the Principia, which has used a wave length of 322 meters, is to share time with WMAY on 247 meters.

Straight Line Condensers.

The straight line frequency condenser provides equal separation of stations over the entire dial, instead of bunching them at the lower end as is the case with a straight-lin wave length condenser.

'THE BEGGAR'S OPERA' TO BE GIVEN ON MAXWELL HOUR

The first musical show produced in America, then the Colonies, will be heard in the Maxwell Hour at 8, Central time, next Wednesday night. The name of this production is "The Beggar's Opera" and the broadcasting will be through WJZ and 14 stations of the Blue Network.

The British Beggar's Opera Company, which recently completed a revival of this two-hundred-year-old opera, which ran four years at the Lyric Theater, Hammersmith, London, has arrived in the United States and is rehearsing for the radio performance. Among the stars of this troupe are George Baker, Sylvia Nelis, Charles Magrath, Lena Maitland, Norman Williams, Alfred Heather, J 'e Meo, Allison Ramsay and other favories of English music halls. Celia Turrill joined the troupe in America.

The Beggar's Opera was George Washington's favorite play.

Flexible Wire for Connections.

Flexible wire is now considered the most satisfactory wire for making connections in a set. It is much easier to handle and solder than is bus bar wire, which is heavy and difficult to work with, and, also, unless an insulated covering is placed over it, short circuits are liable to occur at any time. Because of the disadvantages of solid wire, flexible insulated wire is now used in most home-made receivers. This wire is composed of from five to nine strands of fine wire and each wire is tinned to facilitate soldering. By use of this wire it is possible to increase the efficiency of any receiver. It is known that best results are always obtained when all battery and low potential wires of a set are cabled, or bunched, together, and with this method of wiring flexible leads are necessary. The wire is easier to solder because it is light in weight, and the possibility of short circuits is reduced because of the heavy insulation. Because it is flexible, mechanical vibrations cannot jar connections loose. When wiring a set with flexible wire, a different color wire may be used for each circuit. When this method is followed it is much simpler to check the connections and to locate trouble after the set has been completed.

Too Much Service.

Much trouble in the operation of receiving sets can be traced to carrying service plans too far. Take, for example, the matter of keeping the prongs of the tubes clean. Some fans file them and believe that the job is not complete until the brass shows through. This may be all right in theory, but it should be remembered that these tubes have to be put back into sockets that have not been tightened to compensate for the metal filed off the prongs. Tight contacts are important in radio and radical service on the tubes may violate this rule. It is best to clean the tube prongs with a rubber eraser.

The old-time approximation

Ordinary Radio Reception
Now you get it—now you don't! Often blurred, indistinct and unfaithful.

From the roar of the crowd at the World's Series to the thinnest, sheerest notes of the E string, Fada reproduces any sound broadcast with absolute fidelity. Not only all the fundamental or bass notes of the musical and vocal scale but also the harmonics or overtones formerly believed too delicate for radio reception. This outstanding Fada feature is made possible by the newly discovered principle of Harmonated Reception, which means a receiver and speaker so perfectly harmonized that they are electrically and musically one instrument. Of course it must be a Fada receiver with a Fada speaker or you do not have real harmonated reception. Hear this new-day radio at any Fada dealer's shop and you will understand why Fada Harmonated Reception is held to be the supreme achievement of radio engineering today.

MATZENAUER STAR IN KSD CONCERT TONIGHT

Will Sing in Atwater Kent Hour—Other Notable Features on Week's Schedule.

With Margarete Matzenauer, of the Metropolitan Opera, who also is one of the world's greatest concert singers, as the bright particular star, KSD will begin today another week of exceptionally fine broadcasting.

Mme. Matzenauer is to sing tonight, in the Atwater-Kent Hour. She will open with two airs from "Carmen," the "Habanera" and the "Seguidilla." She also is to sing that wonderful song of Brahms, "The Sapphic Ode." In the writer's years of hearing the greatest opera and concert artists, Mme. Matzenauer's singing of this Brahms song stands out as supremely fine.

A new feature, the National Concert Orchestra, is to alternate Sunday afternoons with the Crosley Moscow Art Orchestra, beginning this afternoon.

The Goodrich Zipper Orchestra comprising nationally known musicians, whose names are not to be made known at first, is to be featured in the Goodrich Hour on Wednesdays with the Goodrich Silvertown Quartet. They will take the places of the Goodrich Silvertown Cord Orchestra and Silver Masked Tenor, who have gone on another tour of the country.

Today's KSD Program

KSD's broadcasting today is to begin at 2 o'clock with the Young People's Conference, the program for which follows:

Holy, Holy, Holy .....Gaul
Quartet
Welcome to Radio Audience by Dr. William B. Millar.
Hymn with orchestral accompaniment.
Quartet—Bless the Lord.....
.....Ippolito-Ivanoro
Scripture Reading by Dr. Millar, with orchestral accompaniment.
Response by quartet—
That Sweet Story of Old....West
Grant Kimbell, Tenor.
Serenade .....Toselli
Orchestra.
Adress—"Bed-ridden Truth,"
....Dr. Daniel A. Poling.
Gospel Solo .....Ernest Naftzger
Questions and Answers—
Dr. Poling.
Benediction with chanted Amen by the Quartet.

The next KSD feature is to begin at 4:30 when the National Concert Orchestra and Michael Khariton, a noted European pianist, will occupy the period that last week brought the Crosley Moscow Art Orchestra. Khariton is to play:

Ballade G Minor.....Chop
Nocturne C Major.....Fourdrain
Etude (Revolutionary) ....Chop Waltz No. 1 G Flat Minor..Chop Seguidilla .....Albe
Elegie .....Rachmaninoff
Russian Tango .....Kha
Lotus Land .....Scot
Doctor Gradus ad Parnassum.....Debussy
Air de Ballet .....Moszkowski

The next KSD feature for today is to begin at 5:30, when a radio Biblical drama, depicting an incident in the life of Jezebel, will be presented.

The new Capitol Theater organ said to be the largest in any theater in the world, is to be heard for the first time this evening when Maj. Bowes "Family" goes on the air through KSD. Another new feature for this hour is the Capitol Singing Ensemble.

A revue entitled "Oddities" will be part of the stage broadcast, and this will be Pat Rooney, Marion Bent, Pat Rooney the third, the Keller Sisters and Lynch, and Rose and Dunne. Also appearing in the program from the stage will be the new Capitolians orchestra under direction of Paul Specht. An elaborate presentation, "Echoes of the Opera," has been prepared by Dr. William Axt and David Mendoza and will be participated in by the Capitol Grand Orchestra, Koussevitzky and Battista, Villani, guest artists of the Philadelphia Opera Company, and Carlo Peretti, the Capitol "Family" baritone.

Musical novelties from Europe are to be heard for the first time in this country during Collier's Radio Hour, which is to be broadcast through KSD tonight. Mrs. B. Kennedy, associate editor of Collier's Weekly, is to be the speaker.

Margarete Matzenauer, world-famed mezzo and dramatic soprano, is to sing the following exceptional program in tonight's Atwater Kent Hour through KSD:

Habanera from Carmen.....Bizet
Mme. Matzenauer and Orchestra.
Seguidilla from Carmen.....Bizet
Mme. Matzenauer and Orchestra.
Overture to Mignon.....Thomas
Orchestra.
Sapphic Ode .....Brahms
En Cuba .....Arr. Lafleur

Contest Monday Night

As is told elsewhere in this section, tonight KSD is to broadcast the women's State finals in the Atwater Kent Foundation singing contest.

For Tuesday Night

A dramatic presentation of the story of Columbus is to be broadcast through KSD Tuesday evening as another episode in "Great Moments in History." It is said to emphasize a new viewpoint on Columbus.

The Sealy Air Weavers' program, to be broadcast by KSD Tuesday night, is believed to strike a new note in program arrangement. It is in reality a program within a program. No sooner word opens the half hour, the notes of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" played on the vibraphone signalling the appearance of the Sealy Air Weavers.

The half hour is brought to listeners through two engaging Negro characters, "Cotton" and "Morpheus," who in their travels use a portable receiving set. They "pick up" the music of the Sealy Air Weavers and their comments on the selections are the only guide to the identity of the music.

This time the two wanderers are en route to St. Louis. The program:

Tying in with the interest in the world series, a baseball program will be given in the Eveready Hour next Tuesday evening.

Music associated with baseball will be played by the Eveready Orchestra and will form the incidental background for Ring Lardner's baseball sketch, "In the Bull Pen."

When "In the Bull Pen" was presented in the Ziegfeld Follies, it made on instant hit. A professional cast has been engaged to broadcast it Tuesday.

Among the baseball songs will be "Tessie," "Along Came Ruth" and "Take Me to the Ball Game." Another number will be the "Reuben Marquard Glide."

Fans listening to the Eveready Hour will recall that it was "Tessie" which really broke up the first world's series, back in 1903. The song, which "razzed" their opponents, the Pittsburg Pirates, unmercifully, was arranged at the instance of the Red Sox. To its effect upon the Pirates' morale baseball writers attributed the Pirates' downfall.

Tuesday night KSD will follow the Eveready Hour with a broadcast of the men's contest in the State finals of the Atwater Kent Foundation singing competition.

Wednesday on KSD

Wednesday morning will bring another Betty Crocker talk in the Gold Medal flour home service series.

The Gilbert & Sullivan light opera, "Iolanthe," is scheduled for presentation through KSD Wednesday evening by the National Light Opera Company.

The cast is to include: Adele Parkhurst, soprano; Frances Paperte, mezzo soprano; Paulo Heminghaus, contralto; George O'Brien, tenor; Harvey Hindermeyer, tenor; Theodore Webb, baritone, and John Oakley, basso.

Another Aeolian Hour is scheduled to be broadcast through KSD as the second feature on Wednesday evening.

Several selections of popular appeal are among the music to be played through KSD Wednesday night by the Ipana Troubadours. The feature is to be "Dear Little Boy of Mine," played as a 'cello solo. The Ipana program follows: Smiles; Sudan Sunset; Blue Heaven; Dear Little Boy of Mine, 'cello solo; There's No Land Like Dixieland; Beneath Venetian Skies; Calinda; Just a Memory, string section; Polly; Bye, Bye, Pretty Baby; Smiles.

A program suitable to Columbus Day is scheduled to be broadcast through KSD Wednesday night by the Goodrich Zipper Orchestra, which is to make its debut in the Goodrich Hour. Radio listeners are to have the opportunity to guess the identity of a number of the artists in this organization.

Thursday Night on KSD

The second program in the Thursday morning Radio Household Institute series through KSD is to bring a message of especial interest to mothers from Lola Jean Simpson, editor of "Children—A Magazine for Parents."

KSD'S Thursday evening program is to begin with another in the "Half Hours with Great Composers" series. The artist is to be Hans Barth, a noted pianist who knows how to play the piano for broadcasting. He is to play:

Concerto in A Major, Liszt;
Dance of the Gnomes, Liszt;
Spinning Song, Liszt;
Fourth Rhapsody, Liszt.

The second of the novel half hours by the "Hoover Sentinels," featuring a "Quartet of Quartets," will be broadcast through KSD Thursday evening.

It will open with the "Dance of the Hours" from Ponchielli's opera, "La Gioconda." In this selection, the dancers represent the hours and as the ballet progresses they weave themselves into the circular 24 hours of the old Flortine clock face.

The brass quartet will be the first of the quartet groups to be heard on this evening and will

RADIO POWER
-automatically supplied automatically controlled!
CONNECT a Basco Combination "A" and "B" Power Unit to your radio, plug in at any wall outlet or light socket, click on your radio switch and tune in a station—any station within the maximum power range of your set. Enjoy the program as long as you want to, with never a thought about recharging or wearing out batteries.
Basco Radio Power is automatically supplied from the household power line, and is automatically controlled by your radio switch. You need never disconnect it from your radio—no "silent nights" due to lack of power. Basco Power stays on the job every day of the year and gives you the same high standard of performance all the time. Requires practically no attention—operating cost is negligible.
Eighteen years of precision-manufacturing experience and complete engineering and production facilities are your assurance of a thoroughly satisfactory product.
Basco Power Units will operate any 6-volt radio set having 1 to 10 tubes. Easy payments can be arranged. Ask your Basco dealer for a demonstration.

MATZENAUER STAR IN CONCERT; WHAT KSD WILL BROADCAST

perform the Prelude, Op. 28, of Chopin, which has been transcribed especially for them.

The string quartet will play Mozart's "Rondo." The full orchestra will give the "Aragonaise" from "Carmen," and the vocal quartet will sing "Across the River," by Penn, and "Smile" by Heywood. MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" will be played by the woodwind quartet. The vocal quartet and the full orchestra will close the program with "Down South," by the English composer Myddleton. This is an impression of an American cotton plantation as seen through the composer's mind's-eye, and in it the clog dance and now obsolete cake-walk are heard.

The third KSD feature next Thursday night is to be another program by the Smith Brothers.

The Rev. Father Finn, whose playing at the Paulist Church, New York City, has made him known to musicians throughout this country, will be soloist Thursday night in the Organ Masters' recital through KSD. He is to be assisted by the Medieval Singers in the following program:

Grand Choeur ..... Dubois

Friday Night on KSD

Songs of Shakspeare are to be featured in Friday evening's Musical Miniatures concert through KSD, to be given by the Famous Concert Orchestra and the following soloists: Adele Parkhurst, soprano; Frances Paperte, mezzo-soprano; Henry Shope, tenor; George O'Brien, tenor; Theodore Webb, baritone, and John Oakley, basso.

The program follows:

Hark, Hark the Lark..... Schubert
Mixed Quartet.
O' Mistress Mine ..... Quilter
Baritone Solo.
Who Is Sylvia?..... Schubert
Male Quartet.
Heigh-ho! For a Husband.... Unknown
Contralto Solo.
It Was a Lover and His Lass.... Wallace

Soprano Solo.
Orpheus With His Lute... Sullivan
Tenor Solo.
What Shall He Have That Killed the Deer? ..... Bishop
Male Quartet.

Music played by the Satina Quartet and Softo Saxophone Trio is to be featured in the La Franconi broadcast through KSD Friday night. The program is to include "French March," "Blue River," "Miss Annabelle Lee," "To Will Have Yearned Alone," Satina Quartet.

"Cavalleria Rusticana," Yon, solo.
"Voice at the Chimes," Seeboeck, orchestra.
"Estrellita," violin solo, "Whims," orchestra.
"To a Wild Rose," Soto, Saxophone Trio.
"La Paloma," orchestra.
"Peppy," "All My Life," "Malotte."

A varied concert of music of melodic appeal as well as diction is to be given by the White Anglo-Persians through KSD Friday night. Chapi, Dvorak, Popy, Saint-Saens, Delibes and Ippolito-Ivanow are the composers represented on their program, which follows:

"The Call of the Desert"; "Moorish Serenade," Chapi; "Valse Cieuse," Dvorak; "The Alsatian," Popy; "Patrol," Popy; "Le Cygne," Saint-Saens; "La Source," Delibes; "Procession of the Sardar," Ippolito-Iwanow.

The "Four Bards" quartet of the Yascha Bron Trio are to be featured again in the final period of broadcasting through KSD next Friday night.

For Saturday Night

KSD's Saturday night broadcasting is to begin with a WJZ program, including Ann Travers and Marie Benda in songs, with xylophone solos by Joe Green and a concert from the United States Army Band direct from Washington.

The band's program follows:

The American Red Cross (march) ..... Panella
Dance Hongroise..... Wieniawski
Saxophone solo, Tech. Sgt. E. Boetter.
Selection from The Vagabond King. ..... Friml
First Heart Throbs..... Ellenberg
King Karl (march) ..... Urban
The Star-Spangled Banner.

With Wilda Bennett, who created the title role, playing the lead, Victor Herbert's musical comedy, "The Only Girl," is to be broadcast through KSD in the Philco Hour next Saturday night. "The Only Girl" was first produced by Joe Weber in 1913. Miss Bennett will be supported by a number of radio and musical comedy artists and by a large orchestra. She began her stage career as "Conscience" in the allegorical production, "Everyman," and the following season played the same part in the London production. She was in Belasco's "The Good Little Devil," and played her first lead in "The Only Girl."

MODEL E RADIO SPEAKER. Brown crystalline finished. Gold-plated name plate. Durable—the Atwater Kent way. With 9 feet of flexible cord. $30

Just listen!

PUT this new Radio Speaker—Model E—to the listening test today.

It represents nearly three years' research in the same laboratory which produced the famous Atwater Kent ONE Dial Receivers. You'll say the time was well spent.

The new type of operating unit is sensitive to the least tonal vibration. The new method of unhampered cone suspension permits even the faintest impulses to reach your ears. The lower the 'cello descends, the higher the violin mounts, the happier is this Speaker—for it loves to display its mastery over the entire musical range.

SURVEY DISCLOSES RADIO CONGESTION

Total of 575 Stations Within 100 Miles Radius of 28 of Largest U. S. Cities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Extent of the congestion of broadcasting stations around a number of the largest cities is indicated by a recent report of the Federal Radio Commission which shows the number of stations within a radius of 100 miles of 28 cities.

The total number of stations within a radius of 100 miles of these 28 cities is 575. But there is an overlapping, because some of the cities are not 200 miles apart. It is estimated, however, that nearly 500 of the total 575 stations are operating within a radius of 100 miles of the 28 cities.

According to experts, it means that, because of the availability of talent, large audiences, and other reasons, broadcasting stations are inclined to gravitate to centers of large population.

New York has the largest number of stations within a radius of 100 miles, with a station total of 35. Chicago is second with 71, Boston third with 26, Omaha fourth with 32 and Baltimore fifth with 30.

ERLA SETS' AMPLIFICATION MEASURED AND RECORDED

Amplification, or the power of a radio receiver to magnify faint signals without losing any thing of the quality of music or voice, is a definitely measurable quantity, according to the Electrical Research Laboratories, maker of Erla sets. Amplification, it is stated, can be visualized and recorded so that one can know exactly what performance he may expect when he turns the dials.

The new Erla receivers range from five-tube to six-tube and seven-tube types, each having the RFL balanced bridge circuit which eliminates noisy regeneration without sacrifice of selectivity or power. There are 10 cabinet and console styles.

Exceptional performance in its class is claimed for the 5-tube Erla. The 6-tube Erla models comes in two types—with two controls and with one dial. The single control six has an auxiliary sensitivity control for amplifying signals from extremely distant stations.

Most powerful of the Erla receivers is the "Super Seven," which has four radio frequency stages, detector and two audio stages.

All models may be had with AC system, tubes, speaker protecting filter system.

A console model, with 7-tube receiver, has an eight-foot air column speaker and special speaker unit.

Erla power units include an ABC converter with automatic voltage control, an A unit, and B and C unit. Each has plenty of output to care for a 171 power tube, and all are dry.

Trade Notes.

The Lance Electric Supply Co., 1016 Market street, has been appointed distributor of Erla receiving sets, power units and speakers.

ERLA SETS' AMPLIFICATION MEASURED AND RECORDED

Amplification, or the power of a radio receiver to magnify faint signals without losing any thing of the quality of music or voice, is a definitely measurable quantity, according to the Electrical Research Laboratories, maker of Erla sets. Amplification, it is stated, can be visualized and recorded so that one can know exactly what performance he may expect when he turns the dials.

The new Erla receivers range from five-tube to six-tube and seven-tube types, each having the RFL balanced bridge circuit which eliminates noisy regeneration without sacrifice of selectivity or power. There are 10 cabinet and console styles.

Exceptional performance in its class is claimed for the 5-tube Erla. The 6-tube Erla models comes in two types—with two controls and with one dial. The single control six has an auxiliary sensitivity control for amplifying signals from extremely distant stations.

Most powerful of the Erla receivers is the "Super Seven," which has four radio frequency stages, detector and two audio stages.

All models may be had with AC system, tubes, speaker protecting filter system.

A console model, with 7-tube receiver, has an eight-foot air column speaker and special speaker unit.

Erla power units include an ABC converter with automatic voltage control, an A unit, and B and C unit. Each has plenty of output to care for a 171 power tube, and all are dry.

Trade Notes.

The Lance Electric Supply Co., 1016 Market street, has been appointed distributor of Erla receiving sets, power units and speakers.

Caring for Storage Batteries.

Loose or dirty battery connections often account for some of the noise heard in a receiving set. The terminals on a storage battery are coated with lead to withstand corrosion from the spray of electrolyte, but nevertheless they oxidize quickly, and therefore require an occasional scraping and cleaning. All connections should be as tightly made as possible and then a coating of pure vaseline should be spread over the battery terminals. The wires leading to the radio storage battery should be rubber covered without braid, since braid is attacked by the storage battery spray and is destroyed in a short time. Rubber is immune to acid. There is no substitute for the recharging process necessary when a battery becomes discharged. This refers to those brands of quick charging battery dope which are offered as substitutes for recharging a battery. Water—distilled water—is the only thing that a battery owner should ever put into his battery.

A rattle in the cone speaker is sometimes an indication of a loose screw.

To Check One Kind of Noise.

A large condenser of 4 mfd. placed across the 110-volt line to the storage battery recharger will usually eliminate the troublesome hum heard in the nearby receiving set.

Abox
"A" BATTERY ELIMINATOR

Licensed by The Andrews-Hammond Corporation, under Patent No. 1,637,793 and applications
$32.50
Slightly Higher West of the Rockies
A royal reception greets ABOX wherever it is replacing storage "A" batteries and other indirect "socket power" units that contain a battery or embody a battery principle.
And in return, ABOX is giving radio reception of a quality and degree of convenience that is possible with no other form of "A" power.
Without the trace of a battery, this unit is always ready to supply a reliable and complete source of "A" power direct from the light socket.
Enthrone ABOX in the "A" battery compartment of your set, make two simple connections and give yourself the treat of true electric operation—that is ready any instant at the touch of a switch to bring in programs at peak efficiency. ABOX requires no attention or service.
See ABOX demonstrated at your radio store.
The ABOX Filter is an entirely different unit from the Eliminator, being the filter circuit alone in a small, compact unit. If you have a suitable charger, it can be easily converted into an "A" Eliminator by substituting the ABOX Filter for the storage battery. Shipping weight, 11 lbs. Price, $19.50. Slightly higher west of the Rockies.

INVALID GETS AUSTRALIA ON ONE-TUBE SET

Nineteen years in bed, never seeing the outdoors, Jennie R. Miller of Oswego, N. Y., has found radio her greatest consolation, and night after night, far into the mornings, she has tuned in for programs all over the United States and far beyond. She won the silver trophy offered by the Radio World's Fair in 1926 for the greatest distance received on a one tube set.

With that same set, she now reports, she has tuned in 3LO, Melbourne, Australia. This station is picked up or multi-tube sets on the Pacific Coast, but Miss Miller's achievement is far more noteworthy.

"This past May, June and July I have been tuning in to radio stations sometimes until 5 a. m., particularly during the trans-Atlantic aeroplane flight reports," says Miss Miller.

"While listening for the bulletins on the Bellanca plane flight to Berlin, at 2:15 a. m., I picked up a very weak signal and after a few minutes I heard a man talking, but the static was noisy. I marked the setting and on a fine cool night, at 3:05 a. m., I heard the station again, very clear, and heard the call 3LO, Melbourne. I heard very clearly a piano solo. I will never forget those few minutes as long as I live."

Battleships of the United States navy use a "multiplex" system of radio reception by which one antenna may be used to receive and transmit signals of varying wave lengths at the same time.

THAT'S JUST WHAT THEY ALL SAY

"Once a User, Always a Booster" Is the Verdict of Everyone Who Takes the Herb Extract Remedy (Formerly Known as Herb Juice).

It seems almost incredible that any one medicine could attain such remarkable sales record. But when you realize how quickly it gives relief in the most severe cases of chronic constipation, you will readily see why it is proclaimed the greatest tonic-laxative of this day and time. It is made and sold to benefit; thousands of grateful users say "it's the best!" That's just what they all say; "a user, always a booster."

MRS. LULA HEAUSLER.

Mrs. Lula Heausler, 1225 Hickory street, St. Louis, is among the latest to praise the Herb Extract remedy (formerly known as Herb Juice). "I have gotten better results from your herb medicine than anything I have ever used," states Mrs. Heausler, "and I am glad that I took advantage of the opportunity to try it. My brother-in-law recommended it to me and insisted that I try it by all means. He had gotten such remarkable results from its use that he said he was quite sure it would greatly improve my condition. Now, after giving it a fair trial, I am ready to join the list of indorsers and recommend it to all sufferers of constipation, stomach and liver disorders. It is a most effective remedy for these ailments; in fact, the best I have ever found, and I see no reason why anyone will allow themselves to suffer with such ailments if they know about the merits of this medicine. In a surprisingly short time it puts one's system in good order, purifies, regulates and tones up the system in a general way and makes one feel like a different person. One thing sure, it surely gives quick-lasting relief, and that's the thing that counts when taking any medicine. Pleasant to take, effective in action and relieves and restores one in a most substantial manner. It's my favorite remedy and one I expect to keep on hand in case I should need to take it again. I am glad to make this statement and recommend the Herb Extract medicine to others because of the remarkable things it has done for me."

Columbia Chain Features This Week

The first hour of this afternoon's Columbia Chain program through KMOX is to be devoted largely to symphonic music. A feature is to be the singing of the Handel "Largo" by Redferne Hollinshead, tenor. The hour from 3 to 4 this afternoon will bring a group of Schubert dances and popular concert numbers.

At 8 this evening, the Columbia concert grand orchestra, Howard Barlow conductor, is to make its radio debut, playing music from Rossini's "Barber of Seville;" Drdla's "Serenade;" Massanet's "Castillane;" Percy Grainger's "Molly on the Shore;" Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire" and Schumann's "Traumerei." There will be a viola solo, "Dreams," by Wagner. The chain's vocal ensemble will assist the orchestra in the "Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore."

"Tom" and his banjo, with an old slave song, are to be featured in the 9 to 10 Columbia hour tonight.

The Monday night Columbia chain program will bring the Dodge hour of variety music, and 60 minutes of popular classics by the all-soloist symphony orchestra and singers of the chain ensemble.

Ted Lewis and his band, and Lee Morse, "blues" singer, are to be featured in the first Columbia hour Wednesday night, and the Captivators will be heard in an hour of dance music.

Music from Wagner's operas will be played in the "Great Composers Hour" on the Columbia chain Friday night.

WLW JOINS BLUE CHAIN FOR SPECIAL FEATURES

Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, has purchased the programs of the Blue Chain for broadcast through the Crosley station, WLW, at Cincinati, from 8 to 10 Wednesday and Friday nights, with the possibility of the addition of Collier's hour Sunday nights. The New York broadcasts through WLW will include such features as the Maxwell hour, Don Amaizo, and others already popular. Besides these, the station will broadcast national events and even more elaborate studio programs.

Programs of three big chains may now be heard in Cincinati without interference, in addition to the excellent programs furnished by the Cincinati stations.

'HOT SPOT' 14-TUBE SET WINS CHAMPIONSHIP AT SHOW

John Hartley, who was judged champion receiving set builder at the 1926 New York radio show, staked his 1927 chances on a "Hot Spot" 14-tube receiver. During the summer he built it and tested it to compete against all comers at the New York exposition. Sets were to be judged on appearance, selectivity, tone quality and distance range.

Hartley retained the championship with his 14-tube set. As the contest was open to any set builder in the world, his championship takes on an international aspect.

Tests of the same receiver during the Chicago radio trades show in June showed it to be of exceptional power and selectivity.

Sources of Noises.

Such things as electrical heating pads, and rotating apparatus, washing machines, fans, vacuum cleaners, violet-ray machines, electro-therapy outfits and the like, may be possible noise sources in a receiving set.

ABOX REALLY ELIMINATES USE OF STORAGE BATTERY

A power unit or battery eliminator, like the motor of an automobile, requires a "fly-wheel" or stabilizer to maintain a constant power output. The "fly-wheel" of a power unit supply is the condenser bank in the filter circuit connected across the output. This bank accumulates a certain charge or potential that is constant while the unit is in operation, and, like a fly-wheel, makes the energy output smooth and unvarying by absorbing excess and supplying lack of power.

To compare a "B" power unit to an "A" power unit: the amperage output of the former is approximately 40 milliamperes, or 40 thousandths of an ampere, while the latter must supply at least 2 amperes, or more than 50 times as much. The capacity or size of a condenser bank used in each unit varies in ratio as the difference in the output and due to certain requirements in producing the proper power for the "A" circuit must have a capacity thousands of times as great in an "A" eliminator than a "B" eliminator.

The physical size of an ordinary condenser bank for "B" power use is about 3 inches square by 6 inches high. It can be seen, therefore, that it would be a mechanical impossibility to apply this type of condenser to an "A" power unit. This has been the nemesis of most electrical engineers working on a means of obtaining "A" power from the light socket. The problem was to create a unit having the required tremendous capacity in a small enough space so that it would be adaptable to radio use.

Edward F. Andrews, designer of the Deresnadyne and other radio devices, has designed and patented a new device with a capacity far beyond that approached by other means, yet is small enough so that when incorporated with most rectifying devices, it is smaller than a storage battery. This unit is the Abox, manufactured by the Abox Co., Chicago.

It is built individually, so that it can be used with any type of a rectifier (most any ordinary battery charger will do) and in a small compact unit called the Abox "A" Eliminator, which is a complete storage battery eliminator. Tests in the laboratories of every radio publication of any size in the country, as well as in the Hagerman Laboratories, are said to have proven this unit to be perfectly successful.

For the Notebook.

A receiving set must be of a very high standard to operate successfully on a loop aerial.

Home-made coils, unless they are the product of experts, are not as efficient as the manufactured types.

Large by-pass condensers can be placed across the line without reducing the higher audio notes.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

W. B. Caldwell, M. D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

SOCIAL WORKERS SAY FAMILY LIFE IS NOT IN DANGER

Conference of Educators and Scientists, Headed by Prof. Bruno of Washington U. Reports Findings.

RADICAL CHANGES IN HOMES, HOWEVER

Training for Marriage and Parenthood Advocated to Meet Modern Conditions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The American family is neither dead nor dying; it may be ill in spots and need careful watching and nursing; with proper care and follow-up training, however, the family will emerge a stronger and more satisfying institution than it ever has been.

This is the verdict issued here today by the committee which arranged the first conference on "Family Life on America" during which a thousand social work leaders, economists, educators and scientists put the American family as an institution under the microscope and subjected it to a thorough examination. In a series of sessions, clinics and round table discussions, extending from 8 o'clock in the morning until close to midnight during the four-day period, everything in connection with the family, from the biological basis of its origin on through every phase of modern life, was analyzed by the executives of welfare organizations whose daily work brings them into close contact with more than a quarter million of American families.

Evolution of Family Life.

The findings of this study as reported by the Conference Committee of which Frank J. Bruno of Washington University, St. Louis, is chairman, are summarized as follows:

1. The American family is not, as many claim, disintegrating; it is, in fact, on as firm a foundation as ever, and is likely to continue indefinitely as the basis of civilization.

2. The American family is undergoing radical changes in the form of its life in the home; in the sources of its income and expenditures; and in the relationships between husband and wife, and between parents and children and in its relationships to the community.

3. The changes in family life are corrollary to the evolution of thought, industry and science; these changes cannot, therefore, be predicted; radical readjustments within the family are necessary, and the most important problem of social workers and others interested in the integrity of the family is to prepare men, women and children for these readjustments.

Training for Family Life.

The most vital immediate need is education and training for marriage and parenthood; family life, the conference agreed, is an art for which people should be trained as carefully as for any of the arts or professions.

Not only will the family continue as the predominant unit of society, but it will, for the most part, continue on a basis of life-long monogamy; this is the most satisfying form of family life for human beings because of economic reasons, biologic reasons and social reasons. With the economic freedom of women, however, the family, which has been held together in the past largely by the pressure of the common tasks necessary for its economic support, will depend upon the strength of its affectional ties.

Industry must take more account of the effect on family life of fatigue and monotony, and other deteriorating effects of a machine age. The worker should be enabled to bring to his job the strength of social sufficiency, and he must not be denied the strengthening influences of his own family which he must be able to keep in health and well-being.

Marriage and the State.

By contrast with those who are now contending that marriage is not the State's or the nation's business and that, especially where no children are involved, marital and sex relations are nobody's business but that of the two persons concerned, the conference feels that marriage always has had at least four outstanding aspects: its strictly personal aspect, its family aspect, its community aspect, and its State aspect. There is great opportunity for all groups in the community—schools, churches, women's and men's clubs—to give active help in more adequate education for marriage and parenthood.

How to make men and women so that they want to participate in the joint adventure of family life and how to equip them so that they may do it successfully are the real tasks which face America today, the report said. Home is not a house, but people. The family, marriage and parenthood depend upon the relationships of individuals. Every phase of life in a changing today must share in strengthening the bonds of the family and the home so that it may meet the increasing strain of modern life.

25,000 EXPECTED AT DEMOCRATIC RALLY IN SEDALIA

Car Load of Beef, 1000 Pounds of Baked Ham, 40,000 Buns Ordered for Barbecue Wednesday.

SENATOR REED TO BE CHIEF SPEAKER

Several Bus Caravans to Bring Party Workers From St. Louis and Kansas City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 8.—Arrangements have been made for the entertainment in Sedalia Wednesday at the Statewide Democratic rally and barbeque the largest political gathering in the State since the barbeque at the Nelson farm near Bunceton in 1924, which was attended by John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President. The crowd then was estimated at more than 50,000. It is expected that more than 25,000 will be in Sedalia.

The occasion, though not officially so designated, will in fact be the opening of the campaign of United States Senator Reed for the party's indorsement in the State for the Presidency. The Senator will deliver the principal address and will, it is understood, discuss the issues on which his campaign will be based.

Car Load of Beef Ordered.

For the barbeque a car load of beef, 1600 pounds of baked ham and 40,000 buns have been purchased. The speaking program will be in the Livestock pavilion on the State Fair grounds, and loud speakers will be installed that those outside the building may hear, it being estimated the pavilion, which has a seating capacity of 15,000, will be insufficient to accommodate the crowd.

In addition to those who will come to Sedalia by railroads, which have made a special rate, there will be several bus caravans, two from St. Louis to bring members of the City Committee and members of the Jefferson Club. Twenty-five busses from Kansas City will be escorted by motorcycle policemen.

The address of welcome will be delivered at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by W. D. Steele. Former Gov. Gardner and Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Bunceton, nominee for Governor in 1924, will preside at the morning sessions, at which speeches will be delivered by Senator Hawes; Col. Carl L. Ristine of Lexington, representing the young Democrats' Jefferson Club organization of the State; Mrs. W. W. Henderson of LaPlata and four prospective candidates for the nomination for Governor, Lon Sanders of Webster Groves, Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City, State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage and A. N. Gossett of Kansas City.

Reed to Speak in Afternoon.

At the afternoon sessions, which will be presided over by Stephen B. Hunter of Cape Girardeau, former chairman of the State Executive Committee, and Congressman Dickinson of Clinton, the speaker in addition to Senator Reed, will be United States Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland.

The arrangements have been in charge of Harve W. Terry of Sedalia, a member of the Democratic State Committee, and Miss Jean Slack of Sedalia, vice-chairman of the Pettis County Democratic Committee. The Sedalia committee will furnish the bands and orchestra, and has arranged for ample parking facilities and for traffic officers.

The Democratic State Committee will meet Tuesday night in Sedalia for the transaction of routine business, and during the day Tuesday the Democratic Editorial Association will be in session.

Meeting of Bar Association.

The October meeting of the St. Louis Bar Association will be held tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. at St. Louis University Law School, 3642 Lindell boulevard. Reports of several committees will be received and an address on "Bar Organization" will be delivered by Dean Hale of the Washington University School of Law.

LANGE DENIES HE FAILED TO READ INJUNCTION ORDERS

Chief Deputy Sheriff Says They Reached His Desk Too Late to Stop Sale.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Rudolph Lange yesterday denied he did not bother, as was printed in the Post-Dispatch several days ago, to read injunction orders in suits filed by Circuit Attorney Sidener to prevent foreclosure sale of three parcels of realty belonging to Jack Nieman.

Service on the orders was not obtained until too late to prevent the sale of one parcel, which was advertised to take place last Tuesday noon at the Real Estate Exchange. Lange said the injunction papers, in which temporary restraining orders had been granted by Circuit Judges Hall and Hartmann, did not reach his desk until a half hour before the time set for sale and although the orders did not specify when and where the sale was to take place, nevertheless he immediately sent a deputy out with the writs looking for defendants. However, service was not obtained until 2 p. m. The Nieman property had been listed by the owner in giving qualifications as a bondsman and the Circuit Attorney sought to stop foreclosure under a mortgage on the theory the State had a prior lien by reason of forfeited bond judgments against Nieman.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost. Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

A postal will bring one of the men or women seeking employment under situations wanted in today's Want pages.

POET BURIED IN PLOT HE HELPED DEDICATE

Michael Gallagher Is Interred in "Exiles' Rest" in Calvary Cemetery.

Michael Gallagher, poet, who assisted in the dedication of "Exiles' Rest" in Calvary Cemetery 18 years ago, recently was buried there, 170 others having preceded him to that hallowed ground.

Gallagher, a native of County Sligo, Ireland, a transient worker, and a contributor of poetry and prose to magazines, was a guest at Father Tim Dempsey's Workingmen's Hotel in 1909 when a plot of ground in Calvary was set apart as a burial place for those friendless guests who died, with no relative or friend to provide a grave.

Gallagher then was editor of Father Dempsey's Hotel Magazine, and in it he wrote as follows of the Celtic Cross that marks the "Exiles' Rest."

"'Tis such a Cross as marks today on many a hillside and in many a ruined abbey, hallowed ground where saints and chiefs have worshipped God; it rises o'er the exiles' graves on far-famed battle fields, where the destinies of nations were decided; but it has never been used to glorify the vulgar wealth and pomp and power that tread o'er the hearts of the free.'

"The winds which now moan their requiems to the dying year in this silent city of the dead, shall never visit a spot of earth dedicated to a sweeter sentiment nor typifying a stronger spirit of human brotherhood than this, where the Celtic Cross adorns The Exiles' Rest."

It is Father Tim's boast that his "boys," as he calls them, "got as good a funeral" as more fortunate persons, and this was true of Michael Gallagher's funeral. He died Sept. 30 at the age of 70. Funeral services with mass of requiem were held in St. Patrick's Church, with Monsignor Dempsey himself speaking words of praise.

SINCE my return from Mexico, all my friends want to know how I got away from the bandits, especially when I mention my motor trips to places like Cuernavaca—where an American was kidnaped and killed little over a year ago—or to Puebla, where by all newspaper accounts some promiscuous shooting occurred two weeks ago and may, for all we know, still be going on. I must frankly confess that my escape was due less to personal gallantry or proficiency in dodging my captors than to the total, though perhaps only temporary, absence of bandits. The grossly exaggerated tales about the insecurity of life, to say nothing of property, on Mexican territory, must be the principal reason why so very few Americans travel for pleasure to Mexico, when by the charm of its climate, marvelous scenery, beauty and historic interest of ancient towns and churches, wondrous pyramids and ruins, and, too, by the pleasantness and inexpensiveness of living that country seems providentially offered to North Americans as the most convenient foreign "resort." No other country known to me can give the foreign visitor within an equal span of time such a multitude of exotic and archaic thrills as the land of the Aztecs and their conquerors; and all of these are epitomized in one place, the capital of the republic, which at the same time offers all the comforts and luxuries of a modern metropolis.

Why No Advertising?

Without delay I will put a fair discount on my enthusiasm which relates, naturally, to external aspects and contacts. It seems that it makes some difference in one's feelings toward that strange country whether one is a transient guest or a permanent resident—for pleasure bound or on business bent, as salesman or investor. Even before I started on this trip I had wondered why Mexico was so poorly advertised that no "literature" concerning it was obtainable at any transportation office in St. Louis. When I saw what Mexico has in the way of sights I thought of a simple plan of putting that poverty-stricken country on her feet. Her national debts amounts, roundly, to $500,000,000. The American tourist spends $800,000,000 in Europe every summer. Why not make him go to Mexico just once? Advertising performs greater miracles than that every day. It makes us pay a dollar for any 50 cent article that we want and many dollars for articles we do not want. So I asked a highly intelligent Mexican why his people did not organize for an aggressive campaign of publicity to pull the neighbors across the border. His answer was enlightening. "That would be money thrown away," he said. "Do you see that group of young Americans over there? Well, those are news correspondents, and their single aim and hope is the front page. Suppose we get our 'prospect' to the point of packing his trunk. Then something bad happens here, as occasionally it will. Up flare the headlines in your papers, and our prospect goes to Paris, as per usual." He instanced the American enrollment at the summer session of the National University. In 1926 the special courses in Spanish, Latin-American history, etc. drew about 800 American teachers and students to Mexico. This year, as a result of "bad

MEXICO DESPITE ILL REPUTE IS LAW-ABIDING LAND OF HISTORY, CULTURE, BEAUTY

Underlying Problem, Says Prof. Otto Heller, Is One of Poverty—Blames Correspondents for Americans' Mistaken Ideas.

A MONTH IN MEXICO

By OTTO HELLER,
Professor of the German Language and European Literature, Washington University.

SINCE my return from Mexico, all my friends want to know how I got away from the bandits, especially when I mention my motor trips to places like Cuernavaca—where an American was kidnaped and killed little over a year ago—or to Puebla, where by all newspaper accounts some promiscuous shooting occurred two weeks ago and may, for all we know, still be going on. I must frankly confess that my escape was due less to personal gallantry or proficiency in dodging my captors than to the total, though perhaps only temporary, absence of bandits. The grossly exaggerated tales about the insecurity of life, to say nothing of property, on Mexican territory, must be the principal reason why so very few Americans travel for pleasure to Mexico, when by the charm of its climate, marvelous scenery, beauty and historic interest of ancient towns and churches, wondrous pyramids and ruins, and, too, by the pleasantness and inexpensiveness of living that country seems providentially offered to North Americans as the most convenient foreign "resort." No other country known to me can give the foreign visitor within an equal span of time such a multitude of exotic and archaic thrills as the land of the Aztecs and their conquerors; and all of these are epitomized in one place, the capital of the republic, which at the same time offers all the comforts and luxuries of a modern metropolis.

Why No Advertising?

Without delay I will put a fair discount on my enthusiasm which relates, naturally, to external aspects and contacts. It seems that it makes some difference in one's feelings toward that strange country whether one is a transient guest or a permanent resident—for pleasure bound or on business bent, as salesman or investor. Even before I started on this trip I had wondered why Mexico was so poorly advertised that no "literature" concerning it was obtainable at any transportation office in St. Louis. When I saw what Mexico has in the way of sights I thought of a simple plan of putting that poverty-stricken country on her feet. Her national debts amounts, roundly, to $500,000,000. The American tourist spends $800,000,000 in Europe every summer. Why not make him go to Mexico just once? Advertising performs greater miracles than that every day. It makes us pay a dollar for any 50 cent article that we want and many dollars for articles we do not want. So I asked a highly intelligent Mexican why his people did not organize for an aggressive campaign of publicity to pull the neighbors across the border. His answer was enlightening. "That would be money thrown away," he said. "Do you see that group of young Americans over there? Well, those are news correspondents, and their single aim and hope is the front page. Suppose we get our 'prospect' to the point of packing his trunk. Then something bad happens here, as occasionally it will. Up flare the headlines in your papers, and our prospect goes to Paris, as per usual." He instanced the American enrollment at the summer session of the National University. In 1926 the special courses in Spanish, Latin-American history, etc. drew about 800 American teachers and students to Mexico. This year, as a result of "bad publicity" at the critical moment, the attendance fell off to less than 150.

A Dog's Bad Name.

Of course, the source of untoward publicity lies in the country's reputation of having adopted revolution for its chief national industry. There is a widespread fear that this industry is about to enter on an era of marked intensity and expansion, such as regularly precedes presidential elections. Although the next election is yet a year off it must be remembered that, unhappily for the prosperity and civil peace of the land, political campaigns in Mexico are conducted by the manana tempo so characteristic of Mexican business; so that electioneering has been under way for some time, and the usual explosive premonitions of trouble are making themselves heard. Several assassinations have occurred, many others are threatened. To infer from the relative frequency of these "political" crimes a predisposition of the general run of people to violence and viciousness, would be a grievous injustice. The Mexicans are decidedly more law-abiding than we have been since the advent of prohibition and the crime wave. Burglaries and hold-ups must be rare in the metropolis, since only one of the former species of crime, and none at all of the latter, occurred, or was reported, during my 33 days in Mexico. Another difference from our record deserves mention. The commission of crime in the neighbor republic is a professional specialty. That is, murder (non-political, I should specify) is the job of murderers, burglary of burglars, forgery of forgers; high school boys, college students and young "society" amateurs need not apply. And inasmuch as the average malefactor in Mexico is above 40 years of age, while in this country he is barely half as old, a comparison of the two countries on the score of criminality is likely to turn less and less favorable for ourselves. Moreover, Mexican justice is swift and drastic. For the prevention of delay by means of technicality and subterfuge, in particular by the saving qualities of the Mexican equivalent of habeas corpus, our neighbors have invented an incongruous but highly efficacious combination of legal and martial procedure which makes short shrift of red-handed cases. On Saturday, the 20th of August, there was captured by Federal troops in the district of Toluca the notorious Manuel Reyes, together with his "secretary" and a band of outlaws. The same evening the "General" and his Lieutenant were tried, convicted and sentenced. The following morning, notwithstanding it was a Sunday, the seasoned criminal and his misguided neophyte were publicly executed in the Plaza of Toluca. As to the legality of the procedure there may be a question, but there is no question on these two essential points: The men were "guilty as charged" and they are dead.

Comparative Safety.

Can you imagine people walking freely about the streets of St Louis with bags full of silver dollars slung negligently over their shoulders, or dangling from their hands? In Mexico, where most business is carried on in cash and payments are regularly made in silver, the sight is very common indeed, and nobody ever fears be-

Ten Years After October Revolution Russia Is Preparing for 'The Invasion'

Entire Soviet Foreign Policy Is Directed Against Great Britain, Says Upton Close, Writer and Student, Who Has Observed Workings of Bureaus and Interpreted Foreign Policy on His Travel.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.

EARLY next month Soviet Russia will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the social revolution which shook the world and has left many Tories in England and the United State still shivering. In Russia this political cataclysm is called the October Revolution, for in spite of many other radical changes, economic, political and social, the soviet Government retains the unrevised calendar, two weeks behind the Gregorian, now used in the West. By the Western calendar, the October revolution came during the first week of November.

What changes have been wrought in that time? Will the Bolsheviki be able to dominate Russia and hover over the rest of the world for 10 years more? Will the same propaganda tactics be followed? What will Russia be like 10 or 50 years from now? Should the United States Government recognize the Soviet Government?

No one can answer these questions in their entirety. Any attempt would be futile. The best that can be hoped for are the conclusions of experienced observers with the backgrounds of history, political science and sociology at their command.

Prof. Hall's Observation on Russian Situation.

Such an observer is Prof. Josef Washington Hall, who, under the pen name of Upton Close, is the author of "The Revolt of Asia," over which the London Times fulminated for two columns and to which Dean Inge gave his blessing. The subtitle of this work, "The End of the White Man's World Dominance," explains these two opposite reactions.

Hall also wrote the modern half of the "Outline History of China," now a popular reference book and school text, and "Eminent Asians," a study of the leading figures in the Orient. For several months in 1922 he watched the workings of the Soviet Government in Asiatic Russia, and he has just completed a month's journey from Harbin to Moscow, in the course of which time he and his wife stopped off along the route to get first hand information from officials, workmen and peasants about conditions and changes in their country. In Moscow he interviewed the now deposed Trotsky, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, Karl Radek of the radical left wing, Lunacharsky, Commissioner of Education, and numerous officers in the foreign office.

"Russia has become practical but there is no change in the Bolshevist zeal and ideology," Hall told the writer at the Explorers' Club here. "The higher authorities realize that they have been premature in many of their policies and they are seeking to prevent a repetition of mistakes. They are looking farther ahead now and they are willing to make temporary compromises with the capitalistic system and bourgeois governments. Underneath, however, they are the same people they were 10 years ago.

Foreign Policy Directed Primarily Against Britain.

Hall's exposition divided itself naturally into his observations of economic, social and political conditions in Russia, and his interpretations of Russian foreign policy from the information supplied him by foreign office officials. He discussed first the Russian foreign policy.

In its dealings with countries to the south of European and Asiatic Russia, the Russian foreign office has adopted a compromising attitude to gain their support against the British empire, Hall stated.

"The whole Russian foreign policy is now and will be for the next 10 years directed against the British empire," Hall said: "Just as Germany prepared for 'der tag,' so Russia is preparing for 'The Invasion.' For the present, the Bolsheviki believe that they would be wasting their time by trying to overthrow the American Government.

"The highest officials in the foreign office talked with daring frankness about their policy toward Great Britain. They have made a personal agreement with Mustapha Kemal to quit all Bolshevist propaganda in Turkey. They will support his Nationalist movement as long as he keeps himself free from entangling alliances with the British.

"In Persia, they have realized that they have made tactical mistakes in the past. They are seeking to correct them. A short time back, the Russians put an embargo on Persian wool. This drove the Persians into the arms of the British, who made the most of the opportunity. When the foreign office realized the mistake, an 'unofficial' delegation was sent to Persia to placate the Persian merchants. The embargo was lifted, and now Persia, like Turkey, is listed as territory 'unprepared for the social revolution.'"

Maintain Policy of Keeping India Stirred Up.

"In India, the Russians will continue their policy of supporting the smaller revolutions. This will put Great Britain to constant expense and will keep India in a turmoil. If necessary, the Russians will support the Nationalists. The objective is the undermining of British rule.

"China presents a curious compromise. The foreign office officials said that they were working for an agreement with Chang Tso-lin, whereby that Northern General will be recognized as the dictator of a nationalized Northern China, provided he cuts away from his Japanese and British alliances, while Southern China, now the hotbed of the Nationalist movement, will be recognized as proper territory for Soviet propaganda and Russian suzerainty. The British concessions are concentrated in Southern China. To strike at them, the Russians are willing to let Chang Tso-lin build up a nationalistic state in Northern China."

"Where does the invasion come in?" Hall was asked.

"According to the Russian Foreign Office, Great Britain will not give up her Asiatic empire without a struggle," Hall replied. "The Soviet authorities believe that within 10 years they can break down this structure. This will cause great economic distress in England. The struggle will be between Russian Bolshevism or Communism and British imperialism. To protect her own interests, Great Britain will try to crush Bolshevism by invading Russia to Moscow. The Soviet authorities believe they will be able to crush British imperialism.

"When I was in Moscow, I saw Russian youths parading with banners inscribed 'Prepare for the Invasion.' Note, the words were not for 'an' invasion, but 'the' invasion. I saw lads from 14 to 20 years old, training with real rifles, and shooting real bullets. They too, talk continually of 'the' invasion."

"Do you personally believe such a thing will come to pass?" was asked.

"I don't know. I am merely telling you what the foreign officials told me and what I saw."

Methods of Spreading Bolshevist Propaganda.

"Where are they getting funds for all this propaganda?" was the next question.

"That's the great illusion," was the reply. "There are no great funds. All the money being spent in China comes, I personally believe, from profits of the Far Eastern Naphtha Syndicate. These can't run more than $30,000 or $40,000 a month. There can be no great subsidies, as many of the enemies of Bolshevism declare. The propaganda is spread by literature and military advice. In fact, I got the idea from the Moscow officials that they would prefer not to have so much active propaganda among the proletariat. I was impressed by the way they thought better results could be achieved by the old-fashioned Machiavellian diplomacy."

"What are the Russian hopes for the United States?"

"The Bolshevists now realize that there isn't a chance for a social revolution in America for the next 50 years," Hall replied. "With our working class in reality a great middle class, they can see no possibility of overturning our Government now. Bolshevism can only be imposed in times of distress. That is what the Soviet Government is trying to bring about in England. As long as a country is prosperous and the people relatively contented, Bolshevism can make no progress. Against our isolation and natural resources, it has no weapons."

Peasants Complain but Don't Want Czarism Back.

"Has the spirit of compromise and practicality revealed itself noticeably in the relations between the Moscow Government and the Russian people? Is there more freedom for the people? Is the Government more efficient? Are the people contented with the Bolshevist rule? Did you notice a difference in the attitude of the people this year as compared with 1922?"

"The peasants complain and they always will complain," Hall answered. "They say that they receive only the pre-war price for their products and that they have to pay three times pre-war prices for the things they buy—their shoes, clothing, plows, and other tools. Fundamentally they are pleased with the Government that gave them the land. In complaining they forget that they get many things now that they did not get 20 years ago or even five years ago. They pay no rents to the landlords; they get fertilizer almost free; they receive free hospitalization, and transportation costs are down to the minimum on farm products. When you pin them down, the peasants are quick to say that they don't want anything like the czarist regime. They do not want to go back to the landlord system.

"The moderately well-to-do farmer complains against the taxes and to us they do seem high. The poor farmer, however, pays almost nothing in taxes. If a farmer employs laborers he is taxed on a sliding scale for each additional laborer he hires. That is to eliminate the exploitation of another man's labor. But in many districts, the greater producers receive a larger share of the land. That is a distinct improvement over five years ago. More land is also given to the heads of larger families.

"The old three-field or mir system of agriculture still exists in most parts of Russia, but the local authorities are doing their best to break up this plan."

"The mir system of agriculture has been one of the hindrances to Russia's economic progress. By it, a member of the farming village community receives several strips of noncontiguous land—the strips may be miles apart. Two-thirds of this land is cultivated each year while one-third lies fallow. Often there are many fights at the annual distribution of the strips. This system of agriculture became obsolete in England 400 years ago.

Inefficient Government, But Then That's No Novelty.

"I really don't know whether the Soviet Government has become more efficient," continued Hall as he took up the writer's other questions. "Inefficiency is not a Bolshevist innovation. It is an old Russian governmental characteristic. Russia is still a land of human queues, queues before the railroad ticket office, queues before the co-operative shops, queues before the postoffice and queues before the visa offices.

"There is still much governmental supervision of foreigners, although I never felt myself under surveillance. If a foreigner remains in a town longer than three days, he must get a local visa, costing seven and a half roubles. This is extremely bothersome, but then you must remember that we have not recognized Russia. Twice in Moscow, the three-day time limit expired before I was able to get an extension to my visa. All told, my wife and I spent over $100 in visa fees.

"I am convinced, however, that the Russian officials cannot be bribed, nor will they take anything for extraordinary services. This is very unusual for Europe and Asia.

"The Government is trying to give the people the benefit of any economies effected. While we were in Russia, the Government announced that it had a favorable balance of 400,000,000 roubles and that all Government prices would be reduced 10 per cent. We left before we were able to get a reduction on our railroad fare."

"Are the schools improved?"

"Commissar Lunacharsky told me that

OCEAN FLYING CAN BE MADE SAFER BY USE OF WISDOM OF THE SEA, SHIP CAPTAINS SAY

Stress Need of Navigator and Wireless—Blame Unpreparedness for Loss of 27 Lives in Trans-Sea Flights.

By JOHN T. PARKER JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.

CROSSING uncharted, lonely seas has been one of man's oldest ventures. Now a new method has been found which makes the venture more hazardous. In a year's attempt to fly across the open seas 25 men and two women have perished; only 15 have struggled through. "Admirable pluck," said Sir Arthur H. Rostron, Commander of the Cunard liner Berengaria, speaking as a fellow venturer across the sea. "But, for the most part, all that is shown is either a lack of imagination or of a real knowledge of conditions."

Men who cross the seas in ships believe that men who cross it by plane must listen to them. Centuries of adventure and toil have produced certain rules of the sea road—rules they insist, must be obeyed even by the plane.

Two instruments have been devised through centuries of struggle to know the sea—the sextant and compass. Man is now adding a third—radio. Many sea captains believe that it is disregard of these devices that has caused more than half the disasters to planes lost this year in attempting trans-oceanic flights.

While a committee, recently appointed by President Coolidge is seeking to find out whether or not such flights should be regulated—and by what means—a few sea captains have made suggestions.

Capt. David W. Bone, master of the Anchor liner Transylvania, with his ship has dealt more with trans-Atlantic flyers than any other seafarer. First, Chamberlin soared overhead in the Bellanca monoplane Columbia off Land's End—a point far off the plane's projected course. A correction was made from the ship below.

Then, Commander Byrd with his three companions overhead in the America, threw radio down through an enveloping fog to get their position from Capt. Bone. Concerning this, Byrd later told a friend: "It is difficult to imagine the relief and satisfaction one gets, surrounded by thousands of miles of water, two miles up in the air in a thick fog, to suddenly be told where you are."

And, still more recently, Capt. Bone took the Transylvania into port after the sad, futile search for the survivors of Old Glory. Fourteen hours were spent by him and his crew searching for a tiny speck on thousands of square miles of gray, dreary waters.

"If we only knew their position," he said at the time, "if they could have given it to us within 10 miles—we could have saved them."

A halting message, amateurishly sent,—"Five hours east of Newfoundland"—was the only clew to where Old Glory had fallen. This, Capt. Bone insisted, meant but little. He had to guess what part of Newfoundland they were east of—on what course—and what speed, or speeds, the plane might have made during these hours. Then he was forced to lose precious time zigzagging to cover several places they might have been.

These experiences have led him to one conclusion—that the ocean flyer must depend upon the ocean-going ship.

Drift Hardest to Estimate.

"The greatest difficulty in a plane," Capt. Bone said, basing his remarks on several discussions with aviators, "is to estimate the drift. Over land this may be done and sometimes at sea by dropping flares and seeing which way they are carried. But, during a fog, there is no means of estimating, and the plane may drift 45 degrees off her course without knowing it.

"So, to a great degree, they are dependent upon what people tell them"—a dependency which he believes will continue if airplanes expect to cross with any degree of regularity.

Therefore, for all future attempts, he believes airplanes should have a competent navigator on board, but, more important than that:

"Very fine wireless equipment

And not an amateur operator, but a particularly skillful and clever one, who can keep in close and accurate touch with ships. Thus they will be able to base their position on ships."

His arguments are derived from long experience with the three principal methods of navigation. By the first, a ship at sea obtains her position by the use of the sextant and chronometer.

This is done by either "shooting" the sun or one of many stars at night. The sextant obtains the planet's angle with the earth's surface. The exact time is obtained from the chronometer and prepared tables give the position on the earth's surface at which the sun—or stars—shine at a particular moment.

Dead Reckoning.

Very frequently on the North Atlantic, fog obscures the sun and stars for days. Then ships are forced to resort to dead reckoning. A compass gives direction and the speed of the vessel is either estimated from the log or the revolutions of the ship's engines. But, in this form of reckoning, most important of all is the estimate of drift, tide and wind.

From the bridge of a steamer, drift, tide and wind can be estimated by experienced seamen, although no instruments aid much in this estimate.

From the tiny cockpit of an airplane, speeding at 100 miles an hour, it is almost impossible to gauge the force and effect of a light breeze, unless, Capt. Bone pointed out, they are able to get below the fog and get a partial estimate from the surface ripples on the water.

Capt. Bone pointed out how a slight error in estimating speed and drift, might throw a plane hundreds of miles off its course in crossing the Atlantic.

Ships using the third and newest means of navigation—radio—use it in a slightly different manner than would, or could, an airplane. The equipment required at the present time for a radio direction-finder is far too heavy and large for an airplane, although on a ship it can be used to tell those aboard the approximate position of a plane.

Finding Position by Radio.

At the present time, the greatest use of the radio direction-finder is to enable a ship to check her bearings and to pick her way through fog. It has partially supplanted the old method of sounding when near the coast—when, by heaving the lead, a good idea of position is obtained from knowing the depth of water and the character of the sea's bottom at that point.

By turning a square aerial, a ship's wireless operator working with a station on shore is able to get the angle of direction of that station. Then he works with another station, obtaining another angle. On a chart, lines are drawn from the stations at the angles found, and the position of the ship is found where the two lines intersect.

By requiring planes to send out automatic signals, as was done for a while by Old Glory and the America, Capt. William Perrott, marine superintendent of the United States Line, believes that this radio direction-finder can be used effectively by ships to gauge the position of a nearby airplane and advise those flying overhead.

"But first and foremost of all,"

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"A Great Purveyor of Bunk."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AFTER reading Edwin T. Meredith's latest dry-political effusion from Iowa, astute observers who can read between the lines of political speeches and still think straight must be convinced that Mr. Meredith is a great purveyor of bunk. The conclusion must also be forced upon such, that a large section of corn-growing Iowalans are addicted to balmy breezes laden with manure scent.

I refer to those parts of Mr. Meredith's dry-Democratic advice for 1928 in which he states that he in common with all other Democratic advocates of an American Sahara earnestly desire to make the coming campaign a real test of strength between the wets and drys. He also refers to the wonderful prosperity among the farmers since prohibition, and expresses the fear that this sparkling prosperity would quickly evaporate if the Volstead law were tampered with.

Of course, Mr. Meredith has never heard of Messrs. McNary and Haugen; nor will he ever admit that he knows that 25 per cent of the farmers' grain markets collapsed with the enactment of the eighteenth amendment and, as a consequence, they have been in difficulties ever since. Of course, not. The surprising part of his address lies in his strange advice to the nation, to wit: That to obtain a real test, once and for all between the wets and drys, a bone-dry Democratic nominee should be chosen! Now, certainly, Mr. Meredith ought to know that's not true. It ought to be plain to everyone that the Republican nominee will be dry, also! How, then, a wet and dry test?

I am beginning to believe that Al Smith is the only square-shooter in politics.

An Argument for Old Age Pensions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE recent suicide of a former Mayor of St. Louis in his old age should convince the thoughtful citizens of this State of the necessity of enacting a law pensioning the veterans of life's battles and struggles. Wisconsin has such a law and it has been proved that such pensions cost less than the maintenance of poorhouses which, in many cases, are only a species of graft for political henchmen. Owing to improved sanitation and the great advance in medical science the army of elderly people is greater than it has ever been before. What shall we do with them? Increase the number of poorhouses or give to each aged person a small monthly pension which will provide means to defray the small expenses of living permitting each individual to pursue some work suitable to his strength and experience?

Wisdom suggests the latter for it is only in work that the aged can be made happy and comfortable. It is a stupendous fallacy that an aged person should retire altogether from active life and rust and rot in some poorhouse. If he able, the exercise of mental and physical faculties in the work he chooses will contribute much to his happiness. Relegate him to the shadows of the charnel house and it will drive him, as it has done many in the past, to suicide. A small pension will give a man assurance that his wants are provided for, and what he receives from any employment he might follow will encourage him, and denude his mind of morbid thoughts.

DE SENECTUTE.

Cleanliness in Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM interested in clean government which, of course, we haven't got in Illinois, neither have you in Missouri. But the time is coming when there will be an awakening by the people who are interested in good government. That time is near.

Indiana is awakening to the fact that some kinds of 100 per centers haven't a drop of real American blood in their whole system, and is trying men for corruption who ought to be examples for the very best citizenship instead of the worst. A fine example to the youth of Indiana!

Do you find this condition in New York? No! Yet this same class of imitation Americans are trying to belittle a man who has really accomplished something, a man who has endeared himself to the biggest part of the greatest city in the Union. He doesn't have to apologize to the McAdoo kind of drys nor to the Indiana brand of 100 per centers. He stands for the flag and what it represents. That's true patriotism.

Noah Did Not Choose to Drown.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I SEE several precedents have been found for President Coolidge's use of "I do not choose" besides the one uncovered by Senator Gillett. The President no doubt will feel very much pleased at the interest taken in this subject.

I would like to suggest that the gentlemen investigate further. It may be found that during the time of Noah someone may have used that same phrase.

S. R. P.

THE COURTS AND THE POLICE.

People who live in cities will, with few exceptions, indorse the position of Judge J. T. White of the Missouri Supreme Court that the cities should have absolute control of their police departments.

Judge White made that statement in an address to the State Bar Association at Columbia a few days ago. He was discussing the increase in crime and the capacity of the courts and the police departments to cope with crime and criminals. In his opinion the courts are efficient and the police inefficient. But he does not blame the police. He blames the system. The automobile is mentioned as a means of swift getaway for the criminal. Our police methods, he says, "are archaic." The police, we are told, are using "bows and arrows of capture against machine guns of escape."

That is an excellent metaphor. It has "kick" and color. As a statement of fact, however, it is not impressive. Our police methods are not survivals of the days of archery. They are decidedly modern. Police departments are motorized. They also have machine guns. They have a lot of equipment that Robin Hood and his merry men never dreamed of. Our police have levied liberally on science. They have adapted the ways of Big Business in developing their technique and perfecting their whole scheme of operations. Police work today is, in some respects, a profession. Occasionally a policeman touches the edge of art in perforating a mystery.

As for the efficiency of the courts having to do with criminal justice, Judge White takes a large assortment of statistics which he bends to his conclusions. His discussion is interesting. We do not find it convincing. He is, we assume, correct as to the number of crimes committed the perpetrators of which have never been arrested. And when he tells us that the courts cannot convict criminals who are never brought into court he is safe in the shelter of a truism.

But the thoughtful citizen today, confronted by organized crime, is not disturbed by the number of comparatively petty offenders who escape detection and arrest. He is thoroughly alarmed by the fact that the professional criminal is here, practicing profitably with little interference from the law.

By way of specific instance, the thoughtful citizen of St. Louis often ponders the extraordinary case of Sylvester Baldwin. This man was arrested, tried and found guilty of holding up and robbing a laundry driver. The verdict was affirmed by Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court, over which Judge White presides. It is of record that the Supreme Court gave Baldwin a rehearing after his attorney had failed to file a motion within the period fixed by the court's rules. It is of record that this extraordinary concession was granted by the action of Judge White and Chief Justice Blair. It is of record, too, that a dissenting opinion was made by Judge Walker—an opinion that fairly crackled with indignation. And it is of record, finally, that this man Baldwin, who, according to his attorney, Jones Parker, "had never been in much trouble," had been arrested 69 times, convicted twice on burglary and robbery charges and fined in police court on six occasions.

Perhaps this case is exceptional. But there is nothing exceptional about the professional criminal who, arrested repeatedly, is immediately out on bail, again to resume his criminal career, thanks to the professional bondsman, and to the fact that our courts are not able to bring those professional criminals to justice. We have no idea how many such criminals are at large in St. Louis and every other city in the country today, but there is an army of them. And with all respect to Judge White, we submit that these criminals are at liberty, not through police inefficiency but through the inefficiency of the courts.

Another citation of a different character may be offered. A carousal ends in the shooting of a bellboy in a St. Louis hotel. The police arrest the killer and the law lets him off with a fine of $500. We sincerely ask Judge White to believe that the Rutherford case has chilled the confidence of many thoughtful citizens of St. Louis in the capacity of our courts. Again, if it please, or displease, all the Judges of our courts, the people of St. Louis are unable to forget that an unoffending Pullman conductor has been dead these several years, and Lem Motlow, who killed that man in a drunken rage, is a free, untrammeled citizen of Tennessee.

Surely the cities should have absolute control of their police departments. The present pressure and tension of things today demand it. We are one with Judge White on that point. But years ago a great lawyer declared that "the administration of criminal justice in the United States is a national disgrace." He who handed down that opinion is now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Taft has never withdrawn it or qualified it. On the contrary, he has reiterated that grave indictment of our criminal courts and the maze of technicalities which befuddle the citizen and serve the professional criminal so terribly well.

GOV. BAKER AND HIS PARTY.

It is not necessary for any political opponent to say what he thinks of Gov. Baker and his theory that the way to govern a state is to turn it over to your friends and let them run with it.

His own party says what it thinks of that. It wants Mr. Newton to be the candidate for Governor next year because he was in Washington and is, therefore, untainted by any association with the Baker regime.

Isn't that enough? Would you paint the lily by adding anything to that caustic criticism by the Governor's own party?

FRANCE'S TRUMP.

Our tariff controversy with France, which once promised to become a trade war, seems to have reached a stalemate. France still refuses to grant us the most favored nation treatment which she has agreed to give Germany by a formal treaty, but says we can have such treatment whenever we, too, will arrange a treaty. We continue to demand that she lower her tariff duties to our products, while stubbornly declining any intention of lowering our own duties to her exports.

Obviously, there was only one thing for President Coolidge to do when this impasse resulted—that is, if he desired to act consistently and maintain our bullying attitude. He should have availed himself of that clause of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act which allows him to raise duties on exports from a foreign Power as high as 50 per centum.

But he has not done this, nor has he even threatened to do it. Why? We think that no long search is needed to find the reason. France owes this country many millions of dollars. If she ever pays any considerable portion of this debt, she must, so the economists say, get the money by selling her products to other nations, of which our own is one of the most important. Therefore, slamming the door against her products could only mean further delays in getting back some of our money.

France knows this. That is why she refuses to take fright at our high-and-mighty bearing. But President Coolidge must know it, too. The international bankers see the absurdity of our trying to maintain a high tariff wall while acting as money lender to the world, and have often told him about it. This, no doubt, explains why he is content to cease leading in the present game. He knows that France holds the commanding trump.

BLOODY MEXICO.

When the conquistadores entered Mexico they found it reeking with blood, and in the 400 years since then it has hardly been any different. Humboldt called it the treasure house of the world, and it could as well be termed the world's slaughter pen.

The various candidates for the presidency outside the Sonora group which has governed Mexico ever since the revolution against Diaz know they cannot beat the Calles-Obregon combination at the polls. They cannot do that because Calles and Obregon won the mass of the people by largely socializing Mexico. A political opponent may take away from them part of the army, as Gen. Serrano did last week, and as Gen. Gomez seems to have done; but only Calles and Obregon command a considerable popular following.

This explains what is happening now. Serrano, whose coup failed, has been taken and executed. Gomez, whose coup is no more successful, is hiding in the mountains with Federal troops seeking him. Until a week ago both men were candidates for the presidency in quest of power at the polls. It was when they found that Calles and Obregon command all the approaches to the presidency that they resorted to armed revolt.

Revolution is not a pretty business. Nor is it a pretty business to retain the fruits of revolution when they are won. It takes iron men to do it, and Calles and Obregon are the iron men of the Mexican revolution. They are the product of 400 years of semi-barbarism practiced upon Mexico by her conquerors. It is a result that can be produced in any country, a lesson that this old world is some day bound to learn.

New York Republican leaders are perturbed by the speech young Theodore Roosevelt made as temporary chairman of their party's State convention. They're afraid the keynote is a death knell.

THE HOUR, THE MAN.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is just ending a continuous run of more than five years, beating the run of anything written by Euripides, Moliere, Corneille, Shakspeare, Voltaire, Victor Hugo, Sophocles, Goethe, Ben Jonson or Beaumont and Fletcher. When the curtain goes down for the 2327th time October 22 certainly some fitting epitaph should be written in commemoration of Anne Nichols' prodigy. We have cast about for the one man most eminently fitted to do this, and we have found him. It is none other than that great manufacturer of intellectual sausage-meat, Bruce Barton.

The Cardinals can't win the pennant every year and—to maintain our reputation for impartiality—neither can the Browns.

THE BANK CLERK.

It is said by those who see evil in racing, no matter how regulated, that their prey is the bank clerk. According to the wowsers, bank clerks infest the dog races in the county and the horse races at Creve Coeur in a feverish eagerness to hand their slender salaries over to bookmakers.

We do not believe it. We have observed a number of bank clerks, and if there is a biological form in our midst that sits tighter on its money, we have not discovered it. We observe, moreover, that bank clerks grow up to be vice presidents, cashiers, and even the heads of banks. They could hardly do that if they were all the boobs they are represented to be by the people who want to save them by suppressing all sorts of betting.

In fact, we would rather believe that if the dog races or the horse races go broke it will be the work of bank clerks. They are notoriously underpaid, and their necessities are very great. If that doesn't make them the shrewdest segment of the population it is because causes have ceased to produce effects.

The Germans are right in thinking they have a great President in Paul von Hindenburg. That old boy would run pretty well on any ticket in any country.

ANTIFORD PROPAGANDA.

If the apostles of a communist world-wide revolution actually hate any capitalist more than another, that one is Henry Ford. They know how to fight the average plutocrat, but fighting Ford is something else. It is desperately hard to find the sort of propaganda which will make the five day week and high wages look like exploitation of the proletariat. And as Karl Radek, European communist and journalist, recently said: "How can you expect us to make successful propaganda against 23,000,000 motor cars?"

The Russian soviets have just begun a literary campaign to counteract the healing influence of Ford's policies upon the proletariat. They are doing it primarily by means of the stage. A communist writer has just put Ford into a play which endeavors to show that his policies really are without merit. In this play, the automobile manufacturer goes to Europe, is given a more youthful appearance by some new device of surgery and comes home to find that his associates and family do not recognize him. Finally, he goes to work in his own plant. Then comes the great awakening—which means, of course, that Ford realizes the plight of the worker, and is converted to communism.

This sort of thing will no doubt pass very well in the shadow of the Kremlin, but we trust the soviet rulers will show the enlightened self-interest to keep it at home. For if Western Europe ever saw the play they would probably demand to know why, if it really meant anything, Ford's workers were not communists. And that would be an embarrassing question for the communists.

The State Department has reversed its Nicaraguan policy, in so far as objections are now raised to candidates before they are elected.

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

From the New York Evening Post.

IN the spectacle of thousands of people standing in silence up on the lawn of the late William R. Nelson during the funeral of his son-in-law, Irwin Kirkwood, we have a sadly interesting instance of the personal hold which a great newspaper as well as a great editor may still have upon an American community. They say that the old "personal journalism" is dead. We have always declined to accept that statement in its entirety. No editor, we submit, was ever more "personal" than Mr. Hearst; not even the great and eccentric Mr. Greely. But in Kansas City and throughout the Southwest, the Kansas City Star is as personal a thing as the family physician. Col. Nelson, mistakenly, as he himself, we are sure, would admit now, tried to leave the Star adrift upon the waters. Like Mr. Victor Lawson of the Chicago Daily News, he failed to provide in his will that it should go to the staff of men who had made the paper under his guidance. But, as in Chicago, the Star men rallied and purchased "their" newspaper. Kirkwood and his late wife, the brilliant Laura Nelson, led this enterprise. He brought to the new management a deep reverence and understanding of Col. Nelson's ideas and wishes. He had the intelligence wherewith to adapt them to present-day conditions. Above all, he had Nelson's lion-like courage. The outpouring at his funeral shows how well he continued and strengthened the family tradition in the Star.

THE DISAPPEARING INSTITUTION OF HUMAN SLAVERY.

From the Boston Transcript.

IT MAY be a surprise to many people to learn, from a London cablegram, that by a newly adopted ordinance slavery is to be abolished in the British protectorate of Sierra Leone. Most people had supposed that there were no longer any slaves within sound of the British drum beat. This is true, and has long been true, of the British colonies proper. But there is a colony of Sierra Leone, and also a Sierra Leone protectorate, separately administered, extending far back into the hinterland. Within this protectorate Mohammedan local rulers bear at least a partial sway, and in most Mohammedan lands—even in Turkey—slavery still exists. It prevails today in many parts of mandated Africa. It prevails in Morocco, and very generally in the Soudan. Europe, indeed, through its various agencies and representatives, assumes to prevent the slave trade, but that trade still lingers, though its worst horrors are at an end. That the British Government has been able to decree the freeing of the 220,000 slaves in the protectorate of Sierra Leone marks a distinct advance in the civilization of Africa.

The record of the colony of Sierra Leone proper is one which reflects honor on the British Empire. The colony itself was founded as a refuge for liberated slaves. The settlement began in 1787 with a transplantation thither of Negro slaves from the United States who had been in the British naval service, or who had taken refuge in England. In 1792 a colony of 1100 Negroes from Nova Scotia was taken to Sierra Leone. Soon after, the British Government began sending to Sierra Leone the Negroes taken on captured slave ships. In this manner a black population grew up which was derived not only from almost all parts of Africa but from America as well. Sierra Leone, as a home for the freed Negro race, was really a precursor of Liberia. The race has thriven there; it has advanced in civilization and general development. The colony is a credit to the empire and to British civilization, and its progress is a pledge of hope for black Africa.

Even in Mohammedan countries the institution of slavery languishes, and tends to disappear. How the world has changed in this respect we may realize when we reflect that many men and women are living today who were born in slavery in the United States, and subject to be bought and sold like cattle—that 70 years ago a newborn black baby was worth a hundred dollars to his Virginian owner. Slavery was an institution that carried in its own veins the seeds of its destruction, and it is unlikely that another generation will find it existent any where.

GOVERNMENT AVIATION.

From the American Review of Reviews.

TO Col. Mitchell more than to anyone else is due the revival of official aviation in the United States. His best supporter has been Admiral Sims. Bureaucratic conservatism and red-tape traditions caused the retirement of Col. Mitchell from the army. But he had so won his case with the public that something had to be done at Washington. A roundabout way was adopted, but it is proving to be a fairly successful reform. It was provided that there should be an Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics exclusively. In like manner there was to be an Aviation Assistant Secretary in the Navy Department, and an Assistant Secretary for Aviation in the Department of Commerce. These three assistant secretaries, having nothing to do except to promote aviation, became in point of fact an official commission of high prestige, exercising great authority. Not less important than a workable system is a set of capable and intelligent appointees, cooperating in the right spirit without friction or jealousy, and with devotion to a common end. President Coolidge was well advised in his selections, and this aviation board at Washington is accomplishing much for the efficiency of the air services of the Army and Navy, and is finding ways to promote commercial aviation.

THE BLIGHT OF BUREAUCRACY.

From the Springfield Union.

ADMIRAL MAGRUDER'S strictures on the Navy Department may rest largely on the general truth of over-organization in the Federal administration, and so far as they are based on that truth neither the President nor anyone else can take reasonable exceptions to his criticisms. There may be a question about specific charges such, for instance, as the alleged oversupply of officers, but there is no question as to the blight of bureaucracy in the Navy Department. Furthermore, there may be no way to get rid of it.

Yet this criticism, to which no sound exception can be taken, is by no means peculiar to the Navy Department. It is a general malady and it grows with every effort to increase the functions of the Federal Government beyond their proper or needed scope.

THE PERFECT ALIBI.

He that has light within his own clear breast

—Milton.

But then Milton was a poet, and poets are notorious for telling us in a nice way what we only wish were true. No matter how righteous a man's position, he grops for a supporting hand. The alibi, which is only a pitiful appeal for sympathetic understanding, was invented in Eden. Not until recently, however, were we fated to hear the perfect, air-embracing alibi, the excuse at once soothing the speaker's conscience and turning the incipient sneer of cynical friends into a ready smile. He was practicing golf, and a golfer's excuses are many. But a man, to be off his form, must have form and he had none. It was dusk of a rainy day, but the ball was visible. After three or four ineffectual attempts, he shouted, "Wait till you see how this goes when I hit it." Perfect! A man might devote a life time to thought—or to golf—and not invent a better excuse. That alibi will do for any club, and for any position on—or off—any course. If a ball insists on being temperamental, what can a golfer do? Bobby Jones' laurels are safe; for all we know, he may never hit it. Even if he did hit it, it would not go straight, so why hit it? His golf score may be a thing for blushes, tears and shame, but his alibi is perfect.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BABEL.

They dreamed a dream in days gone by,
They planned as well they could
A tower high to reach the sky
Of stone and brick and wood;
Or ever work was well begun
The workers fell apart,
Some of them talked of usefulness,
While others talked of art.

Forgot the task they planned to do,
Forgot the tower tall,
Forgotten, too, to plan anew
At joining in the brawl;
And never stroke of work was done
In quarry, shop or mart;
Some of them talked of usefulness,
While others talked of art.

And neither one could see the side

he said, "is the navigator. It is important to know where you are at all times. The rest then depends upon the mechanical elements of the plane."

Differing somewaht from Capt. Bone, he believes that planes can regularly struggle through on dead reckoning alone.

By making allowance for the wind and seeing a little of the stars at night—and certainly if the sun is seen during the day—there is no question of it," Capt. Perrot said.

By "shooting" the sun or stars, a competent navigator can obtain the position of his ship within a few yards in two to five minutes. Even with the great height and high speed of an airplane, Capt. George Fried of the President Roosevelt maintains that satisfactory results can be obtained from a plane by using a sextant. Results within a mile of the exact position can be obtained quickly and even more accurately if the plane comes close to the sea when shooting. In using a sextant, the height above the sea's surface plays an important part in the calculations.

Capt. Fried's chief recommendation for the aid of ocean-hopping aviators is additional and more complete weather reports from ships at sea.

At the present time, he said, ships send oft a report of the weather in their area once every 12 hours. For flyers, traveling at higher speed and therefore passing more quickly through an area whose weather is known to another where weather may have changed following the latest weather report, Capt. Fried thinks it essential that weather reports be sent every six hours.

the Government educational policy had been changed recently," Hall said. "Lunchársky declared that henceforth the Government would concentrate upon higher learning, whereas in the past, it had sought the greatest diffusion of knowledge among the illiterate. This was done through the army and the local trade unions.

Grim Education for the Rising Generation.

"There is an intense interest in education among the younger Russions, particularly the League of Communist youths, upon whom the older heads are depending for future leaders. I talked with many of the boys and girls of the league, and I was astounded at the seriousness of their purpose. I have never encountered such zeal and comprehension in other young people. Love of luxury apparently has no part in their lives. They have dedicated their lives to their Government.

"I asked a 14-year-old boy if he wasn't afraid to train with a real army rifle and shoot real bullets. Wasn't he afraid, I asked, that some associate might shoot him. Imagine my astonishment when the 14-year-old lad replied, 'What difference does it make if two or three of us are killed. It merely means that two or three molecules of the system are destroyed. The system must go on.'

"There is no humor or levity in all this training. There is no flirtatious spirit in the young girl members. Sex enters their life merely as a normal appetite, to be satisfied by the dictates of the individual's own disposition. There are no sex lures like lipsticks and rolled hose among the feminine leaguers.

"Behind the League of Communist Youth are the Pioneers—boys and girls from 9 to 14 years old. These children live in communes and are devoted disciples of Lenin. They sometimes call themselves 'Leninists.' These children will be graduated into the League.

Criminal Class Growing.

"One problem the soviet authorities have not solved," Hall continued. "Moscow and the other large cities have swarms of homeless waifs who are developing into the most daring criminals in the world. Already they are thieves, pickpockets, murderers. No one is safe from them. Even the police fear them.

"These waifs are the result of the revolution and the famine. They have no homes, no relatives, no ties of any sort. They travel in packs for protection. They claim to live in pure communism.

"Either from policy or necessity, the government is lenient with them. They are too dangerous to put into schools with other students, for they would corrupt their associates within a short time. They do not hesitate to murder. It is against the Bolshevist policy to put restraint upon children, and these waifs are generally left free to practice their thievery.

"Apparently they do live in pure communism of one for all and all for one. I had a rouble note to give a group of them. 'To whom shall I give it?' I asked the group. 'It doesn't make any difference; give it to any of us,' was the reply. In any other country there would have been a scramble to see who could get it first.

"As regards their thievery, however, unless something is done quickly I don't see how Russia can keep from having a very large and dangerous criminal class."

How Ocean Flying Can Be Made Safer

he said, "is the navigator. It is important to know where you are at all times. The rest then depends upon the mechanical elements of the plane."

Differing somewhat from Capt. Bone, he believes that planes can regularly struggle through on dead reckoning alone.

By making allowance for the wind and seeing a little of the stars at night—and certainly if the sun is seen during the day—there is no question of it," Capt. Perrot said.

By "shooting" the sun or stars, a competent navigator can obtain the position of his ship within a few yards in two to five minutes. Even with the great height and high speed of an airplane, Capt. George Fried of the President Roosevelt maintains that satisfactory results can be obtained from a plane by using a sextant. Results within a mile of the exact position can be obtained quickly and even more accurately if the plane comes close to the sea when shooting. In using a sextant, the height above the sea's surface plays an important part in the calculations.

Capt. Fried's chief recommendation for the aid of ocean-hopping aviators is additional and more complete weather reports from ships at sea.

At the present time, he said, ships send out a report of the weather in their area once every 12 hours. For flyers, traveling at higher speed and therefore passing more quickly through an area whose weather is known to another where weather may have changed following the latest weather report, Capt. Fried thinks it essential that weather reports be sent every six hours.

Why Germans Failed.

He cited the case of the two German planes, the Bremen and Europa, which turned back from their attempt to fly west across the ocean.

"They turned back because of fog," Capt. Fried said, "whereas a later report would have shown them they could have flown through this fog in 15 minutes.

For dead reckoning Capt. Fried uses only the revolutions of the turbine to gauge his speed and his compass to give direction. Aerial equivalents can be learned the same way through experience, he believes.

He also suggested, as a theory, the possibility of constructing the fuselage of an airplane stout enough to serve as a liferaft after dropping the wings and motor and pumping out the gasoline. Its lightness, he said, would enable it to ride the roughest sea as bouyant and water-tight as the Eskimo kyack.

Capt. Sir Arthur H. Rostron of the Berengaria is also of the opinion that the air will develop its own means of navigation, although the lesson must be learned from the sailor.

"Before any one is allowed to fly across the ocean," Sir Arthur said, "he should be required to cross the Atlantic several times.

"It is highly essential for success that the flyer be familiar with the conditions under and in which he operates. This is the only way to do it."

Byrd's Attempt Safest.

He agrees with many other seafarers that the only properly equipped attempt to cross the Atlantic was the flight made by Commander Richard Byrd, Noville, Acosta and Balchen in the Fokker monoplane America. From the mariners' point of view, the America was properly manned with competent pilots, navigator and wireless equipment, and represented to them a soundly planned venture, not a rash attempt.

An organization composed of a number of American merchant marine officers—the Neptune Association—through its head, Capt. John F. Milliken, has already petitioned the Secretary of Commerce "to prevent this great waste of human life."

This necessary regulation can be had, Capt. Milliken stated, by present laws. The first step would be to have the State Department restrict the issuance of passports.

The Department of Commerce, he said, could co-operate by refusing to issue "ship's papers" to any improperly equipped airplane.

"Clearing" Airplanes.

At the present time, a ship, before leaving for another port, must "clear" through United States customs authorities. Clearance papers are issued only when the master of a vessel shows the necessary ship's papers—certificate of seaworthiness and evidence that the vessel is properly manned by certified officers and has adequate life saving provisions. In general, li American flag ships crossing the Atlantic are required to have radio equipment, although in the case of small freighters, the certified radio operator is frequently one of the ship's navigating officers.

"If a ship, infinitely more equipped to withstand the elements than an airplane, is required to meet these requirements, why does the Government lag in enforcing equivalent requirements for an airplane that wishes to cross the ocean?" Capt. Milliken asked.

Value of Navigation.

Such modern devices as the earth inductor compass and the radio beam he regards as too theoretical and requiring conditions far too ideal to be ready yet for regular use by airplanes.

"They merely give you direction—tell you if you are on a certain course," he said, "without giving you a position."

Two cases indicating clearly the necessity of a knowledge of navigation were found by him in the flight of the Aloha in the Dole race to Hawaii and Commander Byrd's flight over the North Pole.

In the former case, old-fashioned marine navigation showed the crew of the Aloha they had strayed from the radio beam and were 200 miles due north of Hawaii. By turning due south from their calculated position they were able to land in safety.

Mexico Is Law Abiding Land, Says Prof. Heller

ing robbed in the streets. "Terry's Guide to Mexico" had implanted in me an alert fear of pickpockets, counterfeiters, shortchangers, and marauders, but this fear proved utterly groundless even in the famous "Thieves' Market" (which, by the way, owes its name not to the moral turpitude of the sellers and buyers, but to a mistranslation of the Spanish "Volador.") Nor could I verify from my experience the common statement that the Mexican shopkeeper is prone to overcharge outrageously but will not stick to his price. There are certain fairly conventional local practices of bargaining, but random dickering seems confined to public markets, peddlers, and—as elsewhere, too, dealers in secondhand stuff and antiquities old and new.

The Petroleum Problem and Some Others.

I DO not pretend to possess extensive information on Mexican affairs and shall limit my observations to the things that come to a stranger in foreign parts through the testimony of his senses, including, it is to be hoped, some common sense. And in fair deference to less complimentary critics I readily grant that for permanent residence the Mexican capital may be less alluring than for a casual or extended visit. I heard much grumbling, for example, about the devious and dilatory ways of doing business, about unreasonable taxation, arbitrary regulations, the incompetency of the official class and inefficiency of labor. Many of the foreign residents—by no means exclusively Americans—advocate half openly the "peaceful penetration" of Mexico by the United States as the only possible salvation. Some go further than that. One large American investor attributes the responsibility for the present unsatisfactory situation to the peace treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo (1848). He thinks that after Gen. Scott's triumphant entry into Mexico City Uncle Sam ought to have taken in the whole of Mexican territory instead of contenting himself with New Mexico and Upper California. Big business may subscribe to the view.

The trouble with such people is that they cannot think of other countries save in terms of their own advantage. They say with some semblance of logic that if a country as rich as Mexico cannot exploit its own resources she ought to let "the other fellow" do it. What would happen should Mexico be enabled by the withdrawal or suppression of all foreign competition to work all her oilwells on her own account? These men make the rather wild guess that in such an event the total output would not exceed 50,000 barrels a day. That may be perfectly true for all I know, but is in itself no convincing reason why constitutional law should be nullified or amended for the benefit of foreigners. That such laws do not always flow from wisdom, is hardly to the point.

The petroleum problem is not even simple to define, much less to solve, and the Mexicans themselves are by no means of one mind about it. Moreover, it is but one phase of a larger perplexity, and possibly not the most important. The oil interest represents after all only about one seventh of the American capital invested in Mexico, a fact that must be of immense influence on the Mexican attitude in the issue. An outsider like the present writer can only weigh the most palpable factors in the situation. These are: First, that every nation has a patent right to fashion its own laws. Second, that a nation should respect its treaties and old contracts, hence should not expropriate without indemnifying. Third, that the Mexican State has no money for cash compensation. Owing to certain less ponderable political and economic circumstances the Mexican Government saw fit to enforce the incident radical laws, yet tried to redeem the odium of its action by a form of lease which was deemed by many a full commercial equivalent of their confiscated property rights. At any rate, the great majority of those concerned accepted the new terms. The others gave with their grievance new leverage for anti-Mexican propaganda.

Facile Oratory vs. Honest Intentions.

THE Mexicans are very sensitive to what they regard as our general unfriendliness to them and decline to take hollow protestations of amity as proofs of genuine good will. They are prone to suspect any cordial approach by Americans as a commercial maneuver. That, too, stands in the way of mutual entente. We on our part are likely to overwork our facile oratory to make the neighbor "feel good," regardless. My point is illustrated by an editorial article in Mexico's principal newspaper, published after the final round table of the university's summer session. At this love feast two of the American professors in particular appear to have run over with sheer sentimentality. The love-smitten Professor Inman went so far as to pronounce the Mexicans an ideal people, the most perfect on the globe and consequently the only one able to teach the others. (I am quoting from the account in El Universal.) Professor Clemens also avowed that he adored the Mexicans, whom he knew well and would make better known to his compatriots. Unfortunately this spilled his Mexican beans, and they are still jumping madly all over the place. For his idea, as expressed in the amazed presence of great friend and prospective benefactor of the finest nation on earth his Mexican auditors, was to teach his countrymen the Spanish language first, and then all about the history, religion, literature, customs and manners of Mexicans, so that—here came the grand spill—they could go right into Mexico and sell their goods, like the Germans and the English. This classic of philistinism brought forth scorching editorial comment on the following day. Look at ourselves and the Germans, was its tenor in part. We don't swap students or professors with the Germans. We are ignorant of their language, their history, their culture. Nevertheless we maintain the best relations with them and do a lot of business together, too. What is the secret of it? Simply this: that Germany has never chosen to make factious opposition to Mexico or to interfere in her internal policies. The following paragraph expresses the compact feelings of Mexico, if not of all Latin-Americans, towards ourselves:

"No, Prof. Clements is mistaken. We have suffered great wrongs from the Yankees not because the merchant did not know our tongue, nor because he did not ingratiate himself with us like the German, but because the politics of the United States have been essentially anti-Mexican. * * * And a change in these politics is the only possible balm for our feelings."

The foregoing is an articulation of national, not partisan, resentment. It does not imply any suspicion that the United States is now taking a semi-official hand in the impending election or lending the least moral support to one or the other candidate. No doubt we are going to behave as neutrals, partly because it is the right way to behave, and partly because we have nothing to gain from a preference. One of the American correspondents, fresh from his interviews with the three most prominent presidential candidates told me that to his question waht course they meant to steer if elected, they made an identical reply. In the American matter, and in the church and state imbroglio, all three propose to stand pat on the current policies. As to who will actually be elected, I heard everywhere the same opinion, that it will be Obregon—"if he lives!"

Pauperism and a Veneer of Riches.

AFTER all, the crux of Mexico's perplexities at home and abroad is not far to seek. In the ultimate reckoning, suae quisque faber fortunae. If Bernard Shaw is right, and the greatest of crimes be poverty, then Mexico is guilty of living in an abject state of criminality. Notwithstanding much outer show of well-being—beautiful streets and parks and houses and gardens, a wealth of sculpture and decoration everywhere, exquisite jewelry and wearing apparel in the shop windows, a superabundance of automobiles, not to forget many cafes and restaurants of Parisian and Viennese quality, with exquisite cookery and service, the crowded Toreos, opera, theaters, cinemas, the Sunday corso in Chapultepec Park, the cabarets—notwithstanding these and other manifestations of prosperity, it is impossible for the visitor to forget for one moment that, taken in the gross, Mexico is a land of paupers. Not merely of numerous paupers; a goodly majority of the population, putting it still conservatively, is engulfed in the curse of abysmal poverty. So ubiquitous and so conclusive is the evidence of pauperism with its depressing concomitants that an embargo has been put on the exportation of films or photographs revealing the wretched condition of the poor. The precaution, futile though it may be, betokens a laudable national self-respect. The poor people of Mexico surely merit a worthier reputation than is commonly associated with their pitiful state. They have been unjustly described as lazy, swinish, brutal, filthy, and drunken, when, as a matter of fact, they are to an extraordinary degree industrious, decent, frugal, patient and genial. Apart from the beggars who swarm about streets and churches, the poor people of Mexico are the cleanest-looking unfortunates in the world. In their apparel, cheap and patchy though it is, they betray an indefeasible artistic taste. Their carriage is superb and their teeth are beautiful. Where running water is at all accessible they love to wash their clothes and bathe their bodies. Nay, even in the slums, where water is scarce, they can contrive not to look grimy, as there is no smoke or soot in Mexico City. In their native regard for decency and physiological modesty they excel all Europeans. The entire absence of public obscenity of any sort is a gratifying relief from Parisian memories. Invariably they are civil, sweet-voiced, obliging and gracious. Most amazing of all, considering their lack of schooling, is their correct and even elegant Spanish, in striking contrast with the murderous treatment of the vernacular even by collegians in this country.

Beer as an Antidote.

As regards the Mexican's ill fame of drunkenness, I can give my affidavit, strengthened by three veracious fellow travellers, that in all our rambles through the great and crowded city, and on many excursions to other places, we never chanced to see a drunken Mexican. Mexico, if ever she was an inebriate country, as they say, has sobered up. She found an antidote for pulque and tequila by adopting instead of prohibition an excellent and temperate beverage called beer—just as we were on the point of doing in this country when through a disastrous conspiracy beer was suddenly superseded by gin and whiskey as the nearest thing to a national drink.

But despite the amiable and long-suffering disposition of the peons there is no gainsaying that the crass disparity between the fortunes of a small minority and an overwhelming majority is the fundamental problem with which Mexico has to cope. It is a problem that ramifies into every phase of the nation's interest, and in the last figuring a failure to relieve the economic distress of the masses would bring the collapse of a civilization rich in past achievement and much richer still in future possibility.

GOTWALS TO TALK ON FLOOD

Government Engineer Will Address Electrical Board of Trade Tuesday.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Government engineer for the St. Louis district and commander of the flood relief fleet in Louisiana last spring, will talk on "The Mississippi River Flood of 1927" at Tuesday's luncheon of the Electrical Board of Trade at Hotel Statler.

The industrial engineers' section will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Westinghouse service division, 717 South Twelfth street. "Control" will be discussed by B. H. Berkeley, control engineer of the Westinghouse Electrical & Manufacturing Co.

Russia Prepares For "the Invasion"

the Government educational policy had been changed recently," Hall said. "Lunacharsky declared that henceforth the Government would concentrate upon higher learning, whereas in the past, it had sought the greatest diffusion of knowledge among the illiterate. This was done through the army and the local trade unions.

Grim Education for the Rising Generation.

"There is an intense interest in education among the younger Russions, particularly the League of Communist youths, upon whom the older heads are depending for future leaders. I talked with many of the boys and girls of the league, and I was astounded at the seriousness of their purpose. I have never encountered such zeal and comprehension in other young people. Love of luxury apparently has no part in their lives. They have dedicated their lives to their Government.

"I asked a 14-year-old boy if he wasn't afraid to train with a real army rifle and shoot real bullets. Wasn't he afraid, I asked, that some associate might shoot him. Imagine my astonishment when the 14-year-old lad replied, 'What difference does it make if two or three of us are killed. It merely means that two or three molecules of the system are destroyed. The system must go on.'

"There is no humor or levity in all this training. There is no flirtatious spirit in the young girl members. Sex enters their life merely as a normal appetite, to be satisfied by the dictates of the individual's own disposition. There are no sex lures like lipsticks and rolled hose among the feminine leaguers.

"Behind the League of Communist Youth are the Pioneers—boys and girls from 9 to 14 years old. These children live in communes and are devoted disciples of Lenin. They sometimes call themselves 'Leninists.' These children will be graduated into the League.

Criminal Class Growing.

"One problem the soviet authorities have not solved," Hall continued. "Moscow and the other large cities have swarms of homeless waifs who are developing into the most daring criminals in the world. Already they are thieves, pickpockets, murderers. No one is safe from them. Even the police fear them.

"These waifs are the result of the revolution and the famine. They have no homes, no relatives, no ties of any sort. They travel in packs for protection. They claim to live in pure communism.

"Either from policy or necessity, the government is lenient with them. They are too dangerous to put into schools with other students, for they would corrupt their associates within a short time. They do not hesitate to murder. It is against the Bolshevist policy to put restraint upon children, and these waifs are generally left free to practice their thievery.

"Apparently they do live in pure communism of one for all and all for one. I had a rouble note to give a group of them. 'To whom shall I give it?' I asked the group. 'It doesn't make any difference; give it to any of us,' was the reply. In any other country there would have been a scramble to see who could get it first.

"As regards their thievery, however, unless something is done quickly I don't see how Russia can keep from having a very large and dangerous criminal class."

"Should the United States Government recognize the soviet Government?" This was the final leading question put to Hall.

"Situated as I am, I don't think I should give my personal views on the subject," he replied. "I can only give my own observations and experiences and let people judge and interpret them for themselves.

Bolshevism Here to Stay.

"In the first place, there is no question that Bolshevism is here to stay. If the United States is deferring recognition, on the hope that there will be a change of government in Russia, there is no hope. The Bolshevist government is the most stable government in Europe or Asia today. There is no chance of a military revolution within Russia. There is little or no likelihood of an overthrow from outside sources. The treatment Trotsky received shows there is no likelihood of change from within.

"There is no reason to wait for a real modification of the Bolshevist policies. The Bolshevist ideology is more firmly implanted than it was 10 years ago. The highest authorities are still living in two rooms, working 18 hours a day and receiving only 320 roubles a month. (A rouble is about equal to half a dollar.) Their zeal is intact.

"The younger generation, which will furnish the future rulers, are as confirmed zealots as their present leaders. They have the same intensity, the same enthusiasm, the same philosophy as that which inspired Lenin, Trotsky and Djerjinsky. They are willing to sacrifice comfort and luxury for service now. They will continue to do so later.

As a Banker Sees It.

"Then we have recognition as a business asset. In answer to this we have only the reaction of the bankers and industrialists who are already in Russia. The question is, can the Russian government be relied upon? I have talked with American bankers in Russia and American bankers in the United States. One whose judgment I trust, but whose name I am not at liberty to reveal publicly, has told me that the Russian government had never broken a business contract with his organization, which has handled $500,000,000 worth of Russian business during the last five years. This banker declares that Russia is the most promising field for American investment today. German and Japanese money is already in Russia, and English money is now biding its time. American industrialists in Russia told me that they were content with their Russian contracts.

"Fourthly, there is the problem of Russian repudiation of the American debts. A high official of the Foreign Office frankly discussed this phase of recognition with me.

"'We are a practical people,' he said. 'If it is to our advantage to pay $10 in order to get $100, we will pay the $10. But there must be nothing in the transaction to announce to the world that we have retreated from our stand on repudiation. If the money can be paid without ostentation and it is to our advantage to pay it, we'll pay.'

Bolshevism a Menace?

"If the United States demands public retraction of the repudiation policy, there will be no recognition. The bolsheviki will not announce to the world that they have changed front. Some arrangement may be worked out by which this money could be paid. Russia recognized and loans obtained. The method would have to be indirect. Repudiation of the repudiation cannot be made the sine qua non of recognition, so far as the soviet government is concerned.

"Recognition really depends upon what answer is given a final question: Is bolshevism a menace to civilization? That question every individual must answer for himself. On the surface there have been temporary changes in the bolshevist policy. Fundamentally, the policy remains the same. The leaders have merely realized that many of their programs have been premature. Now they are willing to compromise to gain new strength. They are looking 10, 25, 50, 100 years hence.

"The ultimate objective is the defeat of capitalism by communism. To be sure, they don't practice communism in Russia. Under the new economic policy, all they have is State Socialism. To this observation their answer is that the United States is not a real democracy, that it has democracy only as an ideal. So to them, communism is an ideal.

"In the meantime, the present leaders of soviet Russia believe that some practical working arrangement can be made with the United States and the other capitalistic Governments for mutual advantage. The leaders are willing to abide by whatever contracts they make, but they will not relinquish what they think is Russia's destiny."

J. E. Ball to Address Traffic Club.

J. Elmer Ball, a member of the Fire Prevention Committee, will address the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Traffic Club tomorrow noon in the Chamber of Commerce dining room.

WABASH

Announcement!

Delmar Avenue Station Moved Two Blocks North

To Wabash Patrons:—

During the period of construction of the Delmar viaduct, and the new Wabash station, at Delmar avenue, Delmar Station will be located at a point about 700 feet north, at Clemens and Hodiamont avenues, on the east side of the tracks.

This temporary station will provide all the facilities formerly at Delmar avenue, including the checking of baggage and the sale of tickets to all points.

A cinder road has been built paralleling the track and offering access to the station from both north and south. Automobiles may be driven directly up to the station platform from which trains depart.

During the period of construction, Hodiamont avenue between Delmar and Enright avenues will be closed, but automobiles may go west on Clemens avenue, or Cates, or south on Hodiamont avenue.

Movie Stars Rely on FARR'S

Movie stars must stay young and slim or lose their jobs.

So they slenderize and rely on Farr's as the safest way to restore the natural, original color whenever a gray spear appears.

Farr's is a common sight in the dressing rooms at the studios. It is freely used because they have proved it to be absolutely harmless, perfectly clear and clean, not sticky and will not rub off nor stain the scalp.

FARR'S GRAY HAIR RESTORER

MRS. KELLOGG FAIRBANK of CHICAGO praises this new mattress

"Most comfortable—most durable on the market"

In MRS. FAIRBANK'S home Simmons Twin Beds Model No. 1554, with Simmons Springs and Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses. "The best for comfort," Mrs. Fairbank says of these luxurious mattresses.

MRS. KELLOGG FAIRBANK speaks from long experience. In her own home she uses Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses. And she is President of the Chicago Lying-In Hospital, equipped by Simmons throughout. She says: "The mattresses have kept their shape. They are the best for comfort."

The Beautyrest deserves the praise it gets. You know, if you have tried it! The famous Simmons Company perfected it. Its "inner coil" construction is unique—for comfort, for durability. And its good looks delight the housewife's heart. Its smart boxed sides cannot be crushed—withstand the hardest use. And they will stay just so—straight, tailored, upstanding so long as the mattress lasts!

In furniture and department stores. Other Simmons Mattresses, $10 to $100; Springs, $7 to $60; Beds, $10 to $60. Look for the name, "Simmons." Our local branch serves your dealer promptly. The Simmons Company, New York, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco.

Note the unique construction that gives the Beautyrest its magic comfort, its durability. Resilient coils of finest steel are hidden through luxurious upholstery. And you can sit on the square-boxed sides—they won't be crushed.

MRS. KELLOGG FAIRBANK

A vigorous, outstanding personality, prominent in Chicago society and widely known through her writings and her active work in charity and politics. A loved hostess, her New Year parties and house parties at Lake Geneva are famous.

Inflamed Eyes Clear in Five Minutes

A new scientific method of strengthening eyes begins by freeing them of inflammation in a few minutes, making them clear and bright.

Look closely at your eyes and lids. Are they clear and fine like the eyes of a child? Do your eyes open readily in the morning and feel smooth, or stick together and feel rough? If your eyes show the effects of strain or overwork; if the lids show tiny wrinkles, you need this new treatment to make your eyes strong and beautiful and rid your lids of the tiny wrinkles before they grow into crows' feet.

Just ask your druggist for Bon-Opto home treatment outfit. Use it as directed and watch the result. Inflammation goes like magic. Your eyes grow strong and your sight clear. Relief from strain and squinting stops the formation of the little wrinkles born to grow into crows' feet and rob you of youth and beauty.

Be sure to ask for Bon-Opto and use it with utmost confidence. It is known to druggists and doctors as a cleansing, soothing, strengthening lotion and is recommended and sold by all good druggists.

NEW APPLICATION FOR ELECTRIC RAILWAY

Proposed St. Louis-Kansas City Line Would Be Built North of the Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 8.—The St. Louis-Kansas City Shortland Railroad Co., which has sought since 1925 to obtain authorization from the State Public Service Commission to construct an electric railroad across Missouri from St. Louis to Kansas City north of the Missouri River, yesterday filed a new application with the commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity.

This leaves the company in virtually the same position it was in in January, 1925, when the first application was filed. The commission denied it on the ground that the company was not in a position to show where its financial backing was to come from and the company went to Cole County Circuit Court here and then appealed to the State Supreme Court. Several weeks ago it dismissed the company's appeal.

The proposed electric railroad would run from St. Louis to Kansas City through St. Louis, St. Charles, Warren, Montgomery, Callaway, Boone, Howard, Saline, Lafayette and Jackson Counties. It would cost about $55,000,000, according to estimates by the company. Bonds would be issued and sold to finance it, the application said. Surveys, franchises and rights-of-way already procured are listed at a value of more than $20,000,000. Expenditures so far amount to $26,000. Headquarters of the company are at Kansas City. Lee Dunlap, real estate dealer of Kansas City and vice-president of the company, filed the application.

The proposed railroad would "traverse a section of Missouri greatly in need of direct east and west transportation and the fast and improved train service the line will furnish, will be of incalculable advantage to the people of Missouri," the application said. Six hundred bankers, farmers and business men in the north half of the State urge that permission be granted for construction of the road, it was added.

PLANE'S CONTROLS IN FRONT

Motor and Wings Behind in New Type Aircraft.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—Principles which have thus far been regarded as axiomatic by airplane designers have been stood on head by the firm of Focke-Wulf of Bremen in the construction of a new type of heavier-than-air machine.

The new plane gives the impression of flying backward, for its controls are in front and the motor and wings behind. The pilot faces in the direction of the tail. The inventors claim for the new type known as "duck" that it obviates any possibility of capsizing. More important still, they say, the brakes can be applied suddenly and quickly when the plane reaches the ground without the danger of its turning a somersault. This is of inestimable value in the case of forced landings on small fields.

Finds New Germ in Africa.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—A new and deadly bug has been added to the long list of microbes which prey on man and monkey alike by Dr. Vibert, head of the Pasteur Institute at Kandia, French Guinea. In a paper read to the Paris Academy of Sciences by Prof. Roux, director of the Paris Pasteur Institute, Dr. Vibert describes how he discovered the new microbe in chimpanzees upon which he was experimenting. It is a spirochete, or spiral bacillus, and causes a highly infectious disease of epidemic character bearing a close resemblance to yellow fever. The discoverer also found to his cost that it is transmissible to man, for he contracted the disease himself. It is, however, less deadly to man than monkey, for the doctor recovered but the chimpanzees were carried off in a few days.

27 CHILDREN DISCHARGED FROM 'SHRINERS' HOSPITAL

102 Patients Being Treated at End of September, With 339 on Waiting List.

Twenty-seven boys and girls who had been treated for deformities were discharged from the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children in September, it was announced yesterday. The previous month 34 were discharged. There were 102 children under treatment at the end of September, and 339 on the waiting list.

The work of repairing tornado damage to the hospital, which included the loss of the west wing roof, is being completed. Work also is being done on the adjoining home of attendants, which was damaged by the storm.

GRAND CHAPTER OF MISSOURI O. E. S. TO CONVENE TUESDAY

The Grand Chapter of Missouri, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its fifty-third annual session at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Tuesday with delegates from 526 chapters in attendance.

Among the visitors at the convention will be Job Newton of Springfield, grand patron of the order in 1905, who celebrated his one hundred and first birthday recently.

The outstanding question before the delegates will be the proposed establishment of Esther Homes in Kansas City and St. Louis, for women in employment. Mrs. Adele A. Wissmath of St. Louis, grand matron, is one of the leading sponsors of the homes project.

1000 ENGINEERS EXPECTED AT NATIONAL FUELS MEETING

Smoke Pollution of Atmosphere and How to Get Rid of It to Be Discussed.

Smoke pollution of the atmosphere and how to get rid of it, smoke prevention on railways, and the burning of liquid fuels will be among the subjects discussed at the National Fuel Meeting, the first of its kind, which convenes at Hotel Statler tomorrow under the joint auspices of the Fuels Division and the local chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. More than 1000 engineers from all parts of the country will attend.

Monday's program calls for a general session with addresses on fuel resources, combustion, heat transfer and recent developments in low temperature carbonization.

Tuesday's program will deal with the use of varied fuels in industry, and the adaptation of fuels to power plant. Wednesday will be devoted, among other things, to discussion of ways of prevention of the smoke nuisance in cities.

The visiting engineers will make a tour of the major industrial plants of the city.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

40-Inch Brocades

$2.25 Value, Yd.. $1.77

Light and airy Brocades of Celanese and silk in a variety of rainbow shades and two-tone effects, make the most alluring party frocks. Also in demand for fancy work.

$2.98 Satin Crepe

Favored for Frocks!

40 Inches Wide, Yard .. $1.88

Satin Crepe with its dual personality appears in many charming ways this season! Sometimes it turns its lustrous, satin side... at others the rich, dull crepe finish...and very, very often both sides appear...to fittingly contrast each other! Black...white and a varied selection of approved colors...at this distinct saving!

Printed Crepe de Chine

$1.49 Value.. $1.00

Of a medium weight which is most desirable for frocks... all-silk...and printed in a wide variety of allover patterns...in vivid or subdued effects.

Metal Cloth

$5.95 to $6.95 Values, Yd... $4.85

Smartness must sparkle—according to Paris couturiers—so the evening costumes of the fashionwise will include a gown or wrap of their favorite color, brocaded in glittering gold or silver.

Plaid Silks

$2.50 Value, Yd.. $1.77

Gay plaids of many color combinations are shown in soft finish silk twills, so liked by school girls for blouses, scarfs and trimmings. 36 inches wide.

Colored Pongee

$1.39 to $1.98 Values... $1.00

It's attractive...with its vivid or pastel tints...and its rough weave! It's practical, for it washes beautifully... and may be used for personal wear...and draperies, too. 32 to 36 inches wide.

Metal Cloth

$3.95 and $4.95 Value..... $2.95

Plain gold or silver tinsel cloth or changeable effects. For trimmings or to be used in combination with other fabrics. Imported from France.

36-Inch Duvetyn

$1.69 Value, Yd.. $1.35

Duvetyn, too, enjoys an increased popularity because of its extreme adaptability, its downy surface and beautiful shades. Silk-faced on a cotton back.

Printed Radium

$2.50 Value.. $1.88

That beautiful suede finish which is so very popular... All-silk, and 40 inches wide! Gorgeous colorings...on rich backgrounds ... in effective allover designs.

$2.69 Crepe de Chine

In Autumn Colorings!

40 Inches Wide, Yard ... $1.95

Soft golden browns...shadowy leaf greens...brilliant blues... and glorious reds! Black, of course, and the somber shades... favored by conservative women! Pastel tints for lingerie...and warmer tones...for party wear! A most inviting array...all silk, pure dye and washable...affording splendidly economical choice to the woman who sews.

Dress Velvets

$6.50 Value, Yard..... $5.45

Imported and domestic qualities are included in this group of handsome, erect pile velvets in the favorite new colors including black. 39 inches wide.

Crepe de Chine

$1.98 Value, Yard..... $1.55

For general wear, heavy quality crepe de chine has no rival with women of taste. Offered in light and dark shades. 39 inches wide.

Black Charmeuse

$2.98 Value, Yard..... $1.89

Satin-faced Charmeuse is a particular favorite for general wear, because it lends itself readily to the draped mode and retains its luster through hard wear. 40 inches wide.

This freedom of yours!

YOUR grandmother used to wear a lot of things you never even heard of. But, fortunately, times have changed. Women have freed themselves from bustles, hour-glass corsets, seven-yard dresses and ten-pound hats. Today, style must be combined with comfort.

And the science of making Shoes has advanced with the age. Today in the Red Cross Shoe your foot is comfortably clad, without sacrificing the least degree of smartness...and those maddening instep aches are prevented by the built-in Arch-Tone arch support. Many new Red Cross models await your selection.

NEW BUILDINGS PLANNED FOR TORNADO AREA

Different Type in Many Instances Will Change Character of Certain Sections.

INSURANCE WILL NOT COVER REPLACEMENT

Results of Storm Have Strengthened Real Estate Situation—Fewer Vacancies Reported.

By Berry Moore.

From present indications, plans for many new buildings soon will be under way to replace those destroyed or damaged in the tornado. An entirely different type of buildings in not a few instances will be erected especially in sections which were in a state of transition, and which are destined to change radically in character.

This applies to Olive street, Lindell, Washington and Delmar boulevards, where the trend is towards apartment and hotel construction as well as business development, and where the ground has become too valuable for dwellings. Practically all business buildings will be repaired or replaced with buildings of a better type.

The present building law, enacted 14 years ago, provides that buildings damaged more than 50 per cent, shall be completely rebuilt. And under the building code now in effect, in the construction of buildings more than one story high, 12-inch walls are required, whereas 9-inch walls were formerly permissible. Permits for 9-inch walls will be granted under certain conditions for the restoration of buildings partially destroyed. This means that millions will pour into new construction as soon as plans are available.

Will Work Transformation.

Sections devastated, accordingly, will be centers of building activity with the professional operation in real estate on an aggressive basis, it is believed. This is based on the theory that reconstruction will work transformation with a resultant increase in values. The volume of real estate transactions thus will be augmented appreciably, according to J. M. Levi.

It is pointed out that under prevailing costs of construction, money realized from insurance will be inadequate at least in many instances, for reproduction, notwithstanding the character of the buildings. Cost of reproduction, without exception, would greatly exceed the original cost of destroyed or of damaged buildings which were erected 20 or 40 years ago when construction involved less than half what it does now. Eugene J. Altheimer contends. Thus erection of similar buildings, notably residences, would not be justified in deteriorated sections since the rental returns would not be commensurate with the investment involved.

New Buildings Contemplated.

Many owners of partially destroyed or damaged buildings, it is suggested, under the circumstances, may elect to salvage the building material and dispose of the sites. The money derived, with that realized from insurances, would more or less offset the intrinsic loss.

Where the sites have a potential value, aside from their actual worth, their owners stand to profit as a result of the destruction. This is predicated on full tornado insurance, which was not carried in all instances, and in others omitted entirely. And in comparatively few instances did the amount of insurance carried anticipate increased cost of construction.

New buildings are as a rule contemplated where practicable, from a financial standpoint. While deplored, the results of the storm have especially strengthened the local real estate situation with the rental and investment demand incident thereto embracing the entire path of the tornado and the adjacent territory.

The insurance companies are cooperating with real estate agents in the work of adjusting losses, which is being speeded in order that the money will be available with a minimum of delay for rehabilitation, according to Altheimer.

Vacancies Reduced.

Vacancies have been reduced not only in the storm sections, but in other parts of the city by the demand for living quarters from those who lost their homes in the storm. So far as is known, there has been no increase in rentals. On the contrary there have been liberal concessions to storm victims on the part of owners. This includes dwellings or residences, the vacancies in which were not so numerous as in apartments.

A hundred rentable houses east of Jefferson avenue have been made available for Negroes by the

A hundred rentable houses east of Jefferson avenue have been made available for Negroes by the tornado. In addition to the 100 homes east of Jefferson avenue, a few scattered houses were found west of Jefferson avenue for Negroes. Building cost promises to form an obstacle to reconstruction in the Negro sections. The higher living standard of the Negroes will demand improved housing conditions.

ST. LOUISAN CHOSEN HEAD OF BUILDING OWNERS' UNIT

Will F. Shannon to Direct Important Exhibit at National Convention in St. Louis in June.

Will F. Shannon, operating manager of Isaac T. Cook & Co., has been appointed chairman of the new operating methods and devices committee of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. The committee is regarded as one of the most important committees in the association, as it has under its scrutiny the development of new methods which may be introduced to enhance the efficiency with which the great skyscrapers of the nation are operated.

DROZDA COMPANY COMPLETES 24-FAMILY STRUCTURE

Completion of a three-story, 24-family structure at the southeast corner of Prairie and Palm avenues, a block south of Fairground Park, is announced by the William S. Drozda Realty Co., the builder and owner.

The plans were prepared by F. G. Avis. The apartments are of 2, 3 and 4 rooms, with dining alcove, tile baths, built-in ironing boards, bed and kitchen cabinet. Heat, hot water and ice are furnished from a central plant.

The Drozda company also announces sales of nine modern 4 and 5 room brick bungalows, last of 12 the company built in the 3600 block of Lawn avenue, Northampton, to George W. Kriegshauser, Lester P. Mosberger, Eugene A. Boehm, Oscar G. Kiefer, Alvin G. Sudhoff, Fred L. Lang, E. J. Thomure, Henry Nicolay and M. Rielly. Sale of the northwest corner of Virginia and Loughborough avenue, a three-story brick store and flat building, for George Schroeter to John A. Gettinger, is also reported.

3 LEASES TAKEN IN NEW CASTLEMAN AVENUE BUILDING

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co. reports an unusual demand by prospective tenants for the new building being erected at the southwest corner of Thirty-ninth street and Castleman avenue by the Gloria Lee Realty Co., for whom Mullin-Walters act as agents.

This building will be completed about Nov. 1, and will consist of six stores, two apartments and two offices. The corner store has been leased for a term of 10 years to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. Another store has been leased to Mrs. Bertie Vornbrock-Lonsdale as a floral and gift shop. The entire second floor, which consists of two apartments and two offices, has been leased for a long term of years by the Physicians-Surgeons Exchange.

All parties in these leases were represented by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co., which reports that it expects to have all stores leased before the building is completed.

CONTRACT LET FOR JEFFERSON ADDITION

The contract for the new 13-story addition to Hotel Jefferson has been let to the Boaz-Kiel Construction Co. The hotel with addition will contain approximately 756 rooms, besides grill room, coffee shop, dining room, banquet hall and a number of retail stores.

Plans also provide for the remodeling of the present building to conform with the new structure, which will be on an elaborate scale throughout.

The First National Co., the investment branch of the First National Bank in St. Louis, and the Continental Commercial Co. of Chicago and New York, have underwritten a first mortgage loan of $3,200,000 covering the present building and addition for $3,200,000. The building, with the completion of the addition, will represent an investment of $5,442,750, including furnishing and equipment valued at $393,175.

In announcing the loan, the companies state that they will maintain adequate fire and windstorm insurance payable to the trustees.

Another lease recently acquired by the company was that of the building at 5105 Delmar boulevard, owned by Gaetano Viviano, 1022 North Seventh street.

KLINE'S STORE TAKES ADDITIONAL QUARTERS

Additional store space on Sixth street has been added to Kline's store, increasing by almost 50 per cent the selling space on the first floor.

The new Sixth street entrance, opened yesterday, has been doubled in size, with attractive arcade windows. Floors of tessellated marble are in tones of mauve and pale green. Panels and borders in decorative relief are toned a deep brown, and finely carved gates complete the background.

The enlarged shop leading into the main store is devoted entirely to lingerie and negligees. The store is celebrating its 22nd anniversary.

Y. M. C. A. SCHOOL EXTENDS REAL ESTATE COURSES

The Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce has expanded its real estate courses which this year will extend over a period of 30 weeks, each course meeting one night a week. The courses now given are the results of the efforts of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, United Y. M. C. A Schools, and the Institution for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities, and the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

The course on real estate fundamentals will be given by M. H. Rodemyer, president of the M. H. Rodemyer Real Estate Co. The real estate law and conveyancing course will be taught by McCune Gill, attorney and vice president of the Title Guaranty Trust Co. and Judge Henry S. Caufield, counselor for the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

SLIGHT SETBACK IN BUILDING FIGURES OVER U. S. SHOWN FOR MONTH OF SEPTEMBER

Construction Contracts Are 7 Per Cent Less Than Total for Same Period in 1926, Dodge Corporation Says.

September construction contracts in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains amounted to $521,611,000, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This amount was 6 per cent less than August, and 7 per cent below the total for September of last year. Construction in the 37 states includes about 91 per cent of the total in the United States.

The most important items in the September contract record were: $202,877,200, or 39 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $126,229,500, or 24 per cent, for public works and utilities; $59,617,400, or 11 per cent for commercial buildings; $48,545,800, or 9 per cent, for industrial construction; $29,243,700 or 6 per cent for educational buildings, and $21,970,200, or 4 per cent, for social and recreational projects.

New construction started in the 37 eastern states in the first nine months of this year has amounted to $4,796,482,100. Compared with the total for the same period of last year ($4,840,779,800), this figure shows a decline of less than 1 per cent.

Contemplated new work to the amount of $627,291,700 was reported in September, representing an increase of 1 per cent over the same month of last year, and a decrease of 9 per cent from the August figure.

Central West Shows Gain.

Building and engineering contracts to the amount of $154,766,300 were awarded in September in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska). This figure shows a slight increase over August of this year, and a decrease of 3 per cent from September, 1926.

Analysis of the September construction record showed the following important items: $69,620,400, or 45 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $39,341,500, or 25 per cent, for public works and utilities; $15,565,700, or 10 per cent, for commercial projects; $8,815,200, or 6 per cent, for industrial construction, and $7,770,100, or 5 per cent, for educational buildings.

The Central West had $1,332,359,200 in contracts for new construction work in the first nine months of 1927, an increase of almost 10 per cent over the amount for the corresponding period of 1926.

Contemplated construction projects were reported for the district in September to the amount of $197,151,300. This was 7 per cent below August of this year, but 14 per cent above September, 1926.

Texas Has 12 Per Cent Loss.

Texas had $15,780,800 in contracts for new building and engineering work in September. This total represents a decrease of 12 per cent both from August of this year and September, 1926. The construction record included the following important classes of work: $6,375,900, or 40 per cent of all construction, for residential purposes; $2,975,300, or 19 per cent for public works and utilities; $2,680,000, or 17 per cent, for commercial buildings, $1,308,600, or 8 per cent, for social and recreational projects; $900,300, or 6 per cent, for educational buildings, and $494,100, or 3 per cent, for industrial plants.

Construction started in Texas during the first nine months of this year reached a total of $169,357,300, which was 9 per cent below the amount for the similar period of last year.

Contemplated construction projects reported from Texas in September amounted to $24,825,400, an increase of 20 per cent over September, 1926, and a decline of 32 per cent from August of this year.

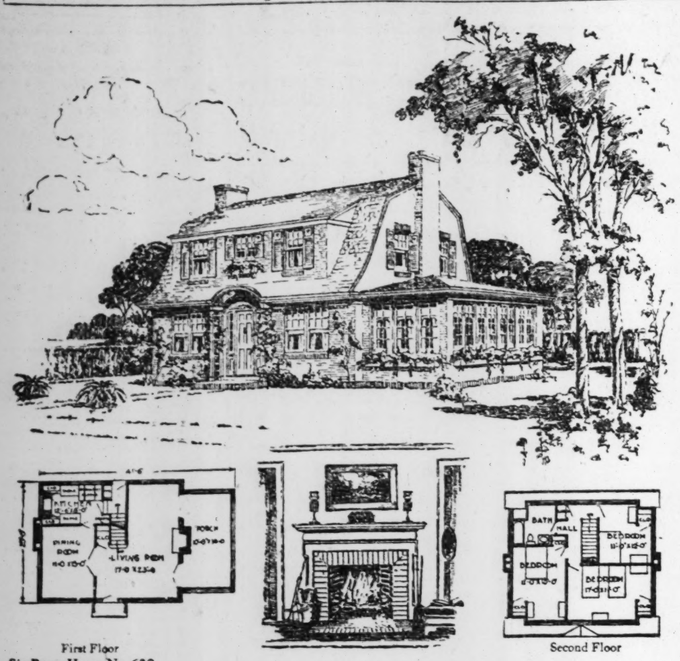
A Fine Example of Dutch Colonial Type



First Floor

Second Floor

Six-Room House No. 628

IN the general revival of interest in Colonial architecture, the Dutch Colonial type has come in for its share of popularity. The gambrel roof, the hospitable doorway and the broad low lines of this style impart an air of hominess and comfort that are difficult to excel. The essentials of the Dutch Colonial style are accentuated by the texture of the face brick walls, which also give play to an endless varity of color effects.

As shown above, broad side to the street, this house would require a frontage of fifty feet, in order to give ample room on the sides. If, however, it is desired to turn the house endwise, with the living room and porch toward the street, it may be placed upon a forty-foot lot, leaving sufficient room for a driveway. In this case, the fireplace and chimney should be moved in so that the chimney does not project on the outside of the house.

It should be built close to the ground, as shown, in order to preserve its proportions. The grade in the rear, however, should be lower as all the basement windows are there.

The customary central hall has been omitted in the floor plan and the space thrown into the living room, making it L-shaped. It is an easy matter to restore the partition, if a hall is desired.

On the broad side of the living room is the fireplace, flanked by double doors which open to the porch, here shown as a sun parlor. As the living room extends from front to rear, the house may be faced north and still obtain a southern exposure in the room.

The dining room is of good size and proportion. The kitchen is compact and convenient and has a fine breakfast alcove. The refrigerator is placed in the rear entry.

There are three good rooms on the second floor all with exposure on two sides and well supplied with closets. The bathroom is larger than is usually found in houses of this size and will amply accommodate a dresser if desired.

The basement has the usual arrangement for heating plant, fuel bins, vegetable storage, laundry, etc. The ceiling heights are 8 feet 6 inches on both floors. The content of the house is 24,850 cubic feet.

YOUR FRIENDS DO NOT HAVE TO SIGN FOR YOU. NO COMMISSION OR FEES. NO DEDUCTIONS. YOU GET FULL AMOUNT APPLIED FOR.

You do not have to have a finely furnished home to borrow money from us, as your ability to pay a small monthly payment is all we ask.

Your employer is never notified, neither do we make inquiries of friends or relatives, therefore all transactions are between you and us.

When dealing with an old-established firm which does not use "high-power" methods you risk neither your security nor your good name.

YOU MAY PAY
$ 1 per month on a $ 20 loan
$ 5 per month on a $100 loan
$10 per month on a $200 loan
$15 per month on a $300 loan

On our Twenty-Payment Plan with LEGAL RATE of interest payable monthly. It costs nothing to investigate.

DAILY READER.— Armistice day is a legal holiday in the States of Illinois and Missouri.

SUBSCRIBER.—Your question as to distance and auto route to San Antonio has been referred to the Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. Kindly telephone, write or call on that department.

A GUESSER.—Ask the society which promoted the amusement about the results. It has telephone address. The question relates to an alleged lottery about which we may not publish information because of U. S. postal regulations.

MAPLEWOOD.—Dealers as a rule buy coins in good condition. If the date on your coin is worn until not readable the coin may not be of value, however rare. Without date we cannot give its value. Show it to such dealers as you may find listed in classified telephone directory under "Coins."

WONDERING.—Ask the society which promoted the amusement about the results. It has telephone address. The question concerns an alleged lottery about which newspapers may not publish news because of postal regulations.

ANTI.—Books on the Fascisti and Communists may be obtained at the public library.

CHARLES M.—If your violin is a genuine Stradivarius it is valuable. As it bears this maker's name we think it worth while writing dealers who advertise in musical magazines. Any music store can tell you the leading musical magazines. A local author-

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

JIM.—The law was changed a few years ago. A divorced person can now remarry without waiting a year in Illinois.

MAUD.—You can sue the tenant you mention in a Justice of the Peace Court for one month's rent, and after getting judgment, can garnish his wages.

H. B. M. D.—If you have grounds for divorce and have not been at fault yourself you could obtain a divorce and alimony for yourself, also reasonable support for the child. You cannot compel him to make the payment on the home. You should consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

WONDER.—All graduate and registered dentists are allowed to use the letters D. D. S. after their names.

AGAIN.—The earthy salts referred to are the basic salts such as lime, potash, and soda. The deposits of these salts are due to some local irritation or infection of the tonsils.

MEDICINE.—The sulphate of ephedrine is a derivative of a Japanese plant and is sometimes used internally in the dose of one-third to one-half grain in the treatment of specific disease, also acute, etc. It is also a mydriatic, causing dilation of the pupils of the eye.

CHERRY MERCER.— Kindly send stamped, self-addressed envelope for your prescription, which is too long for publication. The lines at head of the column also the line heading the column are good, but the reason for the name is not explained to explain the motive of the column, also its limitations.

WORRIED MAN.—Such a loss as mentioned is frequently associated with advancing years and also may be due to a general debility caused by disease, overwork, worry, etc. It follows that any such cases if present should be removed and everything possible be done to build up the standard of health by proper living and general good habits. As a medicine contributing to correcting the trouble benefit should be had by taking two or three of the five-grain tablets of orchotine three times daily after meals.

MARIE.—The enlarged veins are due to some obstruction or defect in the circulation of the blood caused by/abnormal action of the heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc. Before a proper treatment could be advised a correct diagnosis must be made, and this can only be done by making the necessary tests, by a reliable physician. Taking two or three of the five-grain tablets of caroid and bile salts three times daily after meals may do some good, but only speedy relief and cure a physician should be consulted for diagnosis and treatment. If you wish us to recommend some we kindly send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"THE RETURN OF COLUMBUS"

Frank Brangwyn's Version in Oils of the Great Discoverer's Homecoming. The Original of This Painting—Reproduced Herewith in Commemoration of Columbus Day—Hangs in the City Art Museum.

By JULIUS KLEIMANN
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

IT will be 435 years next Wednesday since Christopher Columbus, harassed by threatened mutinies and possibly a vague suspicion that the world wasn't quite as round as he'd have it, first sighted signs of the western continent—those islands not far from that particular part of it that now rejoices in the sometimes persuasive title of Florida.

It was a great day for Christopher Columbus, the twelfth day of October, 1492, and an important one for the world. It made Columbus one of the immortals and, like all immortals, around him began to grow countless tales, some true, others half-true, and a goodly number the fruit of pure speculation and downright fiction. That day and that discovery caused the name of Columbus to echo from the lips of courtiers of his period and school boys of ours, to be written down by the history-telling gentry of the Fifteenth Century and to be sung by the collegians of the Twentieth; his was the fate of all famous men—he became a subject of serious study and a character for ballads of a not altogether chaste but somewhat humorous pattern.

And after close to half a thousand years, research into the history of the man persists. That the Norsemen may have sighted the western lands long before Columbus is a theory the presentation of which may be seen recurring with persistent regularity in the public prints, and whether they did or not doesn't seem to have been of much importance as far as the development of the new land was concerned. But the very details of the man's birthplace and ancestry are still vague enough to offer fertile ground for the spades of dubious historians and biographers; in this year 1927 two new theories flap confidently in the breeze, eager for followers who will gather 'round and swear allegiance to their profundity and integrity; one, that Columbus was not an Italian from Genoa, but a Spaniard from Barcelona; the other, that he was neither a Corsican like Napoleon nor a Spanish Jew of Galicia, but that he hailed from the then proud Kingdom of Portugal.

The last to announce that he had finally discovered the definte facts of the explorer's personal life is one Major Santos Ferreira, well known as a student of the archives of Portugal. Major Ferreira contends that the name Columbus was not at all the real name of the navigator, rather, says the Major, it was Salvasor Goncalve Zarco. This Zarco, continues Major Ferreira, was a grandson of a famous Portuguese navigator of the same name, a gentleman who discovered nothing less than the Madeira Islands. The student of Portugal's archives then goes on to explain that he establishes his claim by documents of an old Lisbon convent, a convent contemporary with Columbus, or Zarco, as he has it.

The Major set forth his theory in August and so comes by the honor of being the last to date to invest the skipper of the small Spanish fleet which sailed away to the west with a new genealogy. But only the month before saw the learned Senor Luis Ulloa closing the history books with a loud and final bang and declaring that Christopher Columbus was neither an Italian nor anything else they had named him up to July, 1927; Columbus, said he, was a Spaniard from Barcelona and nothing else.

That Senor Ulloa is a gentleman of parts is not to be denied. Long ago the city of Lima in Peru commissioned him to gather together and put in proper order the vast collection of documents of that time when Peru was a colony belonging to the Spanish crown. This the learned Ulloa set out to do, and so doing, came by such evidence as caused him to believe to his apparent satisfaction that Columbus was a Spaniard of Catalonia, his particular city being the seaport city of Barcelona. So convinced, he published a book, "Christopher Columbus Was a Catalan: The Veritable Genesis of His Discovery."

The Peruvian student began his Columbus research on the theory that Columbus was a Jew and that his family hailed from Galicia of Northern Spain. "I hunted for a Galician—I found a Catalan," Senor Ulloa forthrightly admits. And his thesis "from certain facts of Columbus' life before 1487"—five years before Columbus sailed for the west—is:

> He signed his name "Colon," which is Catalan, and had it on his coat of arms, which also was Catalan.
> He had been a corsair under the leader of the Catalan revolution in 1470 and kept on corsairing with the French admiral of that party, whose relation he always said he was.
> Besides the documents of the Catalan revolution, Danish documents show that King Christopher of Denmark sent the fugitive corsair "Scolom" to Greenland and Iceland, where Columbus always said he had been and Columbus took his name—and Ferdinand and Isabella knew it, and, for reasons of their own, covered his treason of the revolution.

So it is with the dubious ancestry of Columbus, who whether he was Portuguese or Spanish or Italian was undoubtedly a brave and stalwart fellow. And what Mr. Frank Brangwyn thinks he was, if he has ever troubled himself to meditate upon the business, I do not know, but neither has it in any wise affected Mr. Brangwyn's ability to do the excellent job of painting as depicted above. The artist calls his work "The Return of Columbus," and it is easy to see, from the heavy chests that are being carried from the returned ship, that the venture must have been considered a highly profitable affair even in those days.

"The Return of Columbus" is the fortunate property of the St. Louis City Art Museum, the institution having acquired it in 1923 from the artist's London agent. The picture is painted on old Norwegian wood panel; it is one of Brangwyn's latest works, and the museum is fortunate to have it, for the paintings of this celebrated artist are extremely difficult to find on the open market. In Europe they find purchasers before their brilliant colors have hardly had time to dry.

For Brangwyn, despite the fact that he suffers from the artistic infirmity of youth inasmuch as he is still alive and therefore contemporary, is already a classic. And he is tremendously prolific and unusually versatile. It is to murals that lately he has turned most of his attention.

The State of Missouri prospered by this same affection of the artist's for mural decoration; the new Capitol at Jefferson City is the recipient of Brangwyn's attention. For the four pendentives and the eight other spaces in its dome have been touched by Brangwyn's hand, the expected magic resulted therefrom and the statehouse takes on the air of an art museum entirely regardless of what party may be in power in the commonwealth.

Brangwyn was born in Bruges, Belgium, in 1867. His mother was an Englishwoman, his father from Wales Brangwyn, then, happened to be born on the continent due to his father's managership of a carpet-weaving factory in the Belgium town.

When the boy was 10 years old, the family packed up and sailed across the channel to London. Two things there were that caught the lad's fancy: painting and the sea. He attended the South Kensington Museum; he moved in the atmosphere dear to him, but it was not enough. He had not yet had his taste of the sea. So off he went for to be a sailor, and not content with being a sailor, he needs must ship to the tropics.

He visited in his sea journeys the ports of Southern Europe, of Asia and Northern Africa. There is much of warmth and color in those parts, and it is not difficult to conjure up romance and things of its ilk. He kept at being a sailorman for several years; at one time, the story goes, he very nearly decided to let the artist in him pass by for the mariner within and which at the moment held sway.

But he didn't and so the name of Brangwyn has come to mean great worth in art and his paintings to have great material worth as well in the world's marts.

Ordered Her Tenth Husband by Mail

Remarkable Matrimonial Career of Mrs. Caroline Willis Who Has Been Getting Married Ever Since She Was Fourteen.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

URANIA, Louisiana.

WHEN B. Hatfield, the ninth husband of Mrs. Caroline Hatfield, died recently at Alexandria, Louisiana, following an operation, her friends and acquaintances in these parts wondered if Mrs. Hatfield would let her record speak for itself and become resigned to being without a husband. They were not left in doubt very long.

Mr. Hatfield died August 6. The next day, after the news had begun to percolate through the countryside and into foreign parts, letters for the bereft lady began to arrive in sheaves. It seems that aspiring gentlemen of all sort and ages had heard of Mrs. Hatfield and the $100,000 she was known to possess.

The widow, who was 59 years old on the first of January, went through those mounting letters carefully. Friends helped her, for she never has had time to learn how to read or write. But each of the hopeful missives must undergo a certain definite test. If the veteran of nine marriages had acquired one prejudice in the matter of husbands, it was that he must be a "working" husband.

Caroline, herself, has worked hard all her life. That is why she happens to be so prosperous, if "happens" is the right word in connection with cheerful toil, economy, shrewd investment. At first she kept boarders and did washing for families of the town. Most of her savings went into building and loan associations. Still, she was willing to work out by the day. A few years ago she invested successfully in oil wells.

Why wouldn't a woman who had won independence with her own two hands, her courage and self-denial, want a mate of the same kind?

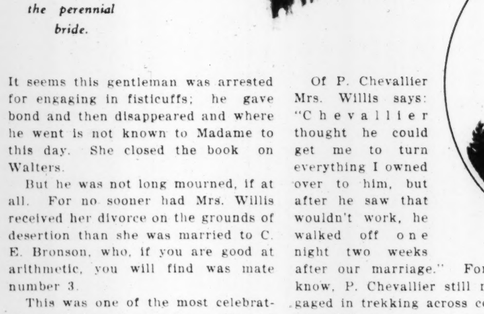
MRS. HATFIELD and her friends, after much deliberation, finally agreed that John W. Willis, a grocer of Ennis, Texas, and also 59 years old, was to be the lucky man. Notified of the widow's decision, Willis came to Urania and, on September 12, Mrs. Hatfield became Mrs. Willis as for the tenth time she went through the familiar ceremony. Such, in brief, is the story of her latest romance.

The present Mrs. Willis was born in Jackson Parish, Louisiana. Her parents were poor and life did not seem to offer much in the way of a rosy vista for the infant. But dormant qualities there were to grapple with heavy odds.

Miss Frost had reached the tender age of 14 when she made her first marital venture, he who accompanied her being a Mr. Duff McDonald. Mrs. McDonald and her husband lived together until she was about 30, says the lady; she is unable to say with perfect exactitude, because she doesn't remember the date of Mr. McDonald's death.

To this union nine children were born, four of whom survive. Of this marriage to McDonald, her first union in her string of many marriages, Mrs. Willis—as we will now call her—has very little to say. All she says about it is that the family had a lot of hard luck, what with rearing as many children as they had on the scanty wages of a farmer and laborer.

Then, when Mrs. Willis was about 30, at least as well as she remembers, McDonald died. And soon after came the second wedding, with Lee Walters. The Walters match lasted two years. One child was born. Of Walters he has but little to say in praise.



Mrs. Caroline Willis (her latest name), the perennial bride.

It seems this gentleman was arrested for engaging in fisticuffs; he gave bond and then disappeared and where he went is not known to Madame to this day. She closed the book on Walters.

But he was not long mourned, if at all. For no sooner had Mrs. Willis received her divorce on the grounds of desertion than she was married to C. E. Bronson, who, if you are good at arithmetic, you will find was mate number 3.

This was one of the most celebrated of Madame's romances. For 10 years these twain lived together as husband and wife; five children came to grace this union; it was a most successful business. But at the end of about 10 years, Bronson was killed by a log train while working for a logging company, Bronson being employed as section foreman on the tramroad.

"I lived with Charlie Bronson 10 years," says Madame, "and there was never a cross word between us."

Bronson died in 1908.

But Mrs. Willis had to have a husband.

The next to fall in line was Mr. Jack Burgess.

THIS was a troublesome adventure in the field of romance. For Jack became paralyzed and it cost his wife $800 for medical attention. At last, after conferring with physicians, Burgess was sent to his people, who lived in Canada. And not long after he was divorced.

Enter, then, P. Chevallier, a man, not a title.

And, almost in the same breath, exit P. Chevallier, who, while not a title, was hardly a man, either, in Madame's estimation.

Of P. Chevallier Mrs. Willis says: "Chevallier thought he could get me to turn everything I owned over to him, but after he saw that wouldn't work, he walked off one night two weeks after our marriage." For all we know, P. Chevallier still may be engaged in trekking across country, but what difference does it make if he is? None to Mrs. Willis.

Chevallier and his claims to Madame Willis went the way of the divorce court.

AND so enters Jack Gardner, who, if you haven't an adding machine handy, is husband number six.

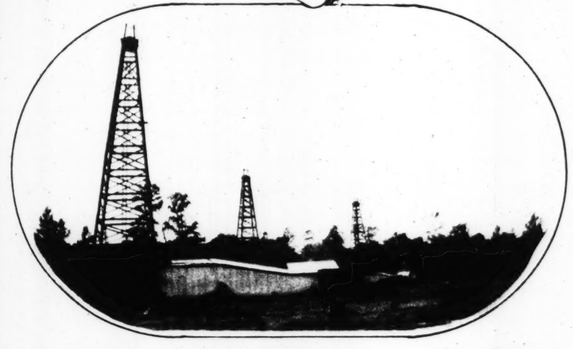
Neither could M. Gardner be called a success. He was very much of the type of P. Chevallier, though his name didn't sound so a la carte; he, too, made every effort—according to Madame—to get her little all, and he, too, succeeded just as P. Chevallier succeeded, and you have only to go back a few paragraphs to see how badly P. Chevallier made out as a possible Ponzi.

And Mr. Jack Gardner, what with his lack of success, did just what Mr. P. Chevallier had done, and silently stole away, much to his lady's delight.

Gardner went the way of the divorce court, quite as his predecessor had.

It seemed as though Madame was due, by the law of averages, if for no other reason, to pick a winner this time. But luck wasn't on her side. She didn't pick a winner in the next romance, she didn't even pick one to show. For Charlie White, who drew the seventh assignment, was the worst of all, according to Madame.

The bride, with her tenth husband, John W. Willis



Three of Mrs. Willis' Louisiana oil wells.

He lasted just three months, and then he got the "air," not to mention a divorce.

And Madame, taking a seventh-inning stretch, took Lugi, first name George, to her experienced bosom. George the Eighth got a good trial. For five years he lasted, while "she tried to make something out of him." But it wouldn't work, and it seems George wouldn't, either, and though money was spent on him in various and sundry ways in an effort to make some little something out of him, George continued to appear on the yearly books as a liability.

So he got the ax, Madame going into the divorce court and praying the Judge to erase Mr. Lugi from her family tree.

It was thought within the precincts of Urania by the good townsfolk that Madame would cease to equip herself with husbands after this extremely disappointing affair. But Madame was a stalwart woman, who would not give up. She cast about and before long she acquired another. A certified public accountant, after due research, swears that, though the notary public's term expires in such - and - such-a-year, this new husband was number nine (9) — count 'em.

This particular fellow was B. Hatfield, who was taken to Madame's home three months after Mr. Lugi had been legally disposed of. At last the sun was shining for our heroine, for Hatfield made a good spouse. Tears come to Mrs. Willis' eyes when she speaks of Hatfield. And when he became ill she sent him to a hospital in Alexandria and informed the officials of the institution that no expense should be spared to effect his recovery. She likewise said she was perfectly able to take care of such expenses as would be engendered. And she was. But Hatfield succumbed.

"I know that Mr. Hatfield had only been dead a little over a month when I married Mr. Willis," says Madame, "but what was I to do?

"I had my home, my stock, my property, and no one here to take care of it but myself. I did everything a person could do to save Mr. Hatfield, but mourning won't bring him back to me. Yes, I married Mr. Willis because I wanted a husband, and I shall continue to do likewise as long as I live."

It must be admitted that no one will doubt the lady's word. You can't go against incontrovertible truth.

So Mr. Willis is now Prince Consort. And he took his place 37 days after Mr. Hatfield had passed away. Mr. Willis is a dignified-looking man, who for 16 years operated a grocery in Ennis, Texas, but on the demise of his second wife he sold his business and made his home with the children born to him and his first wife. It was in a Dallas newspaper that Mr. Willis, glancing idly through it, with no idea that here would be his fate, saw an article, reported by telegraph, which stated: "Mrs. B. Hatfield, wealthy Urania (Louisiana) woman, has become a widow for the ninth time. Her last husband, B. Hatfield, died from an operation for gallstones."

MR. WILLIS says he was just about to write to another "lady friend" and he thought that inasmuch as he was going to write one letter, he might just as well write two while he was about it, so he sent a note to the Louisiana "girl," also.

Mr. Willis penned that note without optimism. He had not the slightest idea he'd be the winner, he didn't even expect an answer. But luck or something was on his side. And, much to his surprise, one day the mails brought him a summons to appear at Madame's home, and not long after he became the husband of Mrs. Willis.

And he was pretty fortunate at that. For Madame, speaking of how she made her choice, says:

"It was just like a game of cards to me. I studied all the letters with the aid of friends and came to the conclusion that Mr. Willis would make the best husband. I wrote him a time or two and he arrived here in Urania on a Friday morning. We went to Monroe and were married Monday."

Then she added that Mr. Willis so far had made a pretty good husband. And she continued: "I've had three husbands leave me of their own accord, and two that I have run off. So long as I live I will have a husband, but he will be a working husband."

And Willis seems to be quite in line with that ultimatum. He believes in work. He planted a good garden of turnips for his wife just two days after their marriage. And some husbands wouldn't do that 200 years after their marriage.

Now, as we have said, Mrs. Willis doesn't need a husband so she may have food to eat and a bed wherein she may sleep. Not at all. For one thing, she has four oil wells, oil wells that are producing, and her income from them has been around $300 a month since the wells got down to business.

But she doesn't want to be known as a woman who made her money in oil. Her money, or at least most of it, was made by exceedingly hard work and safe investments.

URANIA is one of the largest saw-mill towns in Louisiana. Years ago Madame began taking in boarders and taking in washing. She continued to do that up to three or four years ago. Many are the families here who say Mrs. Willis washed for them upwards of 15 years. And 'tis said that never was she known to fail to turn her hand if honest labor could make an honest penny.

And the result is that the building and loan associations in Monroe pay her about $150 a month as interest on her labors. For years it's been her fond custom to place every cent she could gather with these companies.

The home she now lives in she built in 1905. It's just about complete in every respect. It has 10 rooms and it's surrounded by 40 acres of the parish's most productive land. For years the family's vegetables have come from Madame's truck patch. The house has gas and electric light and Madame has her automobile and just about everything else she wants.

"My views on marriage?" says Madame. "Why, of course, I believe in people marrying just as often as they want to." And, looking straight at husband the tenth, she added: "And I'm just as strong a believer in divorce. When a woman marries a no-account man and he refuses to turn around and help her make a living, it's high time he received his walking papers. I believe a woman should do her part in making home life happy, but she can't do it with a husband who won't work enough to earn his salt."

There is no doubt the lady has her philosophy about this marriage business, and none can say it was gained in the academic manner.

Let us give Mr. Willis a chance to be heard. Mr. Willis takes the floor and says Mr. Willis: "When I look at all of these pictures and letters my wife has received, I guess I should feel a little jealous. But then, I guess I was pretty lucky, when you consider I didn't even send a picture of myself. She selected me sight unseen and I am determined that she will not regret it."

Now about those letters Madame received from admirers about the nation. She can't read and she can't write. She signs her business papers by making an "X" on them. But Madame can figure. She doesn't need any help in that direction. And she doesn't think she ever will turn her money over to any man. For, she says, "I'm a little too old to start that now."

And thus it is with Madame Willis, who at the count of 10 is neither down nor out.

1—Archduke Charles of Austria, Alfonso's great-grandfather.

OUT OF the dark and troubled past, phantoms have arisen to thwart the ambitions of Europe's gayest monarch, Alfonso XIII of Spain. The bad blood of two royal houses of Europe, the Bourbons and the Hapsburgs, that Alfonso has passed on to his sons, threatens to prevent the perpetuation of the present King's line on the throne.

Although the facts are closely guarded, all four of Alfonso's sons are believed ineligible to mount the throne because of physical or mental disabilities.

The eldest son, Alfonso, Prince of Asturias, has, it is reported, the mysterious Hesse disease, an affliction of many members of the royal families of Europe who lost their thrones as a result of the war. It was this disease which made the little Czarevitch of Russia a chronic invalid.

This royal malady has taken the form with the Prince of Asturias, as it did with the Czarevitch, of hemophilia, or profuse bleeding from the skin at the slightest bruise or abrasion.

Shortly after his birth it was reported that the Prince would not live long and in recent years he has been repeatedly reported ill. Most serious hemorrhages have followed the slightest injuries. His condition now is reported so serious that it is necessary for him to wear rubber garments. With the slightly protruding Hapsburg jaw and the prominent lower lip of the Hapsburg line and his large, melancholy eyes, he is a tragic and a wistful figure. He spends most of his time at the royal farm not far from Madrid.

The second son, Prince Don Jaime, has been deaf and dumb since birth. Specialists from England and America as well as Spain have done everything scientifically possible to enable him to hear and speak, but to no avail. The efforts of a nun, who had had remarkable results in giving the power of hearing and speech to deaf mutes, likewise failed. He is dark, while his brother is fair, but he, too, has the Hapsburg jaw and lip.

And now the report has spread, despite official denials, that the two younger sons, Prince Don Juan, 14, and Prince Don Gonzalo, 13, have not developed mentally as rapidly as they should. The two sisters, Princess Beatrice and Princess Marie Christina, are more nearly normal, it is said, than any of their brothers, but, under Spanish law, they could never inherit the throne.

AS a result of these fatal weaknesses in the royal heirs the National Consultative Assembly which has been called at Madrid by Alfonso's own decree is expected to adopt a provision making it clear that the Spanish National Council has the right to pick their heir to the throne from among the various members of the royal family, setting aside the King's sons.

While some hold to the view that the weakness in the Spanish royal family derives from Queen Victoria of England, great-grandmother of Alfonso's four sons, the best known student of royal heredity, Dr. Frederick A. Woods goes so far as to say that if the members of these royal houses had set out, through intermarriage, to perpetuate the worst possible stock they could not have succeeded any more thoroughly.

on a Friday morning. We went to Monroe and were married Monday."

Then she added that Mr. Willis so far had made a pretty good husband. And she continued: "I've had three husbands leave me of their own accord, and two that I have run off. So long as I live I will have a husband, but he will be a working husband."

And Willis seems to be quite in line with that ultimatum. He believes in work. He planted a good garden of turnips for his wife just two days after their marriage. And some husbands wouldn't do that 200 years after their marriage.

Now, as we have said, Mrs. Willis doesn't need a husband so she may have food to eat and a bed wherein she may sleep. Not at all. For one thing, she has four oil wells, oil wells that are producing, and her income from them has been around $300 a month since the wells got down to business.

But she doesn't want to be known as a woman who made her money in oil. Her money, or at least most of it, was made by exceedingly hard work and safe investments.

OUT OF the dark and troubled past, phantoms have arisen to thwart the ambitions of Europe's gayest monarch, Alfonso XIII of Spain. Specialists from England and America as well as Spain have done everything scientifically possible to enable him to hear and speak, but to no avail. The efforts of a nun, who had had remarkable results in giving the power of hearing and speech to deaf mutes, likewise failed. He is dark, while his brother is fair, but he, too, has the Hapsburg jaw and lip.

AS a result of these fatal weaknesses in the royal heirs the National Consultative Assembly which has been called at Madrid by Alfonso's own decree is expected to adopt a provision making it clear that the Spanish National Council has the right to pick their heir to the throne from among the various members of the royal family, setting aside the King's sons.

While some hold to the view that the weakness in the Spanish royal family derives from Queen Victoria of England, great-grandmother of Alfonso's four sons, the best known student of royal heredity, Dr. Frederick A. Woods, traces the bad blood back through the Bourbon and Hapsburg lines. Woods goes so far as to say that if the members of these royal houses had set out, through intermarriage, to perpetuate the worst possible stock they could not have succeeded any more thoroughly.

The father of the present King, Alfonso XII, although he was a consumptive and physically weak, was a comparatively normal man. His wife, the Dowager Queen, Marie Christina of Austria, who is still living, is generally recognized as having led a well-ordered and a noble life. She managed to save $20,000,000 out of the royal income while she was regent during the infancy of her son. The present King was born six months after the death of his father.

Penetrating beyond this generation, Woods sees little that is hopeful in the heredity of the Spanish royal line. The paternal grandfather of the present King was Francis d'Assis, an extremely weak man. He was, in fact, a degenerate and very nearly a fool, according to Woods.

This weak and degenerate King married his cousin, Isabella II, branded in Woods' genealogical table as "quarrelsome and dissolute." So weak was Francis d'Assis that it was generally believed he was incapable of carrying on the royal line.

Prince Alfonso, the King's nephew, who may inherit the throne.

Nevertheless, Isabella had 14 children, all allowed by law as legitimate. Students of heredity, however, doubtful of the paternity of these children, generally disregard them in tracing the Spanish descent.

"The pictures of Alfonso XII show an entirely different type of face from the Hapsburg-Bourbon," Woods says, "and lend force to the suspicion that outside blood is there. He died so young that we cannot be sure of his mental traits; still, he bade fair not to resemble his mother."

HOW THE HAPSBURG LIP AND JAW HAVE BEEN PERPETUATED

With the marriage of Alfonso XII to Marie Christina of Austria the Hapsburg line was reintroduced. Of this royal strain Woods says:

"In tracing the facial peculiarities of the three families of Spain, France and Austria, the great swollen underlip of the Hapsburgs offers such a distinct feature that other traits of physiognomy may well be neglected. This swollen, protruding lip was, in the sixteenth century, in its original type, usually combined with a long, heavy under jaw, as one sees in Emperor Charles V. Later the jaw became more nearly normal, though the lip still persisted and can be traced, with its varying degrees of intensification, through no less than 18 generations, coming out in at least 70 of the various descendants.

"ITS first appearance, according to history, was in Cymburga, who was born in the last part of the fourteenth century, and became the wife of Ernest, the second patriarch of the house of Hapsburg. In its latest manifestation it appears at the present day with diminished strength and modified form in the present King of Spain. This is a remarkable instance of the force of heredity in perpetuating a physical trait, and has been thought to be an example of prepotency, the male line being able to transmit a deeply rooted peculiarity, the features from the maternal side having no influence in counteracting it.

"As an example of prepotency, the Hapsburg lip was cited by Darwin. To quote his words:

"'It would appear that in certain families some one ancestor, and after him others in the same family, must have had great power in transmitting their likeness through the male line; for we cannot otherwise understand how the same features should so often be transmitted after marriage with various females, as has been the case with the Austrian Emperors.'

"AS A MATTER of fact, this feature, the big lip, was maintained and transmitted in no more remarkable way than the insanity was, and for the same reason, namely, intermarriages in their own family, and time and time again the selection of those who exhibited the feature rather than those who did not.

"In almost every generation there were some who showed the peculiar lip, and there were always some who did not inherit it in any degree at all, and this is also paralleled by the mental abnormality. * * * A study of the charts of descent shows that those inheriting the 'lip' were the persons who were repeatedly chosen as the progenitors of the following generations. At the same time there were at least as many more whose lips were in no way peculiar, but these were almost never the ones selected to become direct ancestors of the ruling houses of Austria, Spain and France."

On the side of the present King's mother—the Hapsburg line—the ancestry is both good and bad. Alfonso's grandfather, the Archduke Charles Ferdinand, was a weak and eccentric man, but his grandmother, Elizabeth of Austria, was an excellent woman. In the third and fourth generations there is a pedigree full of vices and depravities, with the one exception of Charles of Austria, the present King's great-grandfather, who was a brilliant General in the Napoleonic wars and is said to have been one of the noblest Princes that ever lived.

Going farther back in the paternal line, even darker and more sinister facts are revealed in the ancestry of the Spanish royal family. The great-grandfather of the present King, Ferdinand VII, was indolent, incompetent and dissolute.

Nieces married uncles and cousins married cousins. A study of the genealogical chart reveals insanity and imbecility, weakness and degeneracy of various forms. The Bourbon and Hapsburg lines cross and recross. The Spanish royal family, in its modern phase, was founded in insanity. When the Hapsburg line expired late in the seventeenth century with Charles II, the Bourbons, following the Wars of Succession, usurped the Spanish throne and Louis XIV made his grandson, Philip V, King. Philip, who was weak and indolent, became insane.

Those who support the theory that the present younger generation of Spanish royalty derive their weaknesses from Queen Victoria of England have some evidence for this belief, despite the overwhelming testimony offered in the Hapsburg-Bourbon genealogy. Although Victoria's ancestry was not preponderantly bad, there have been some comparatively recent evidences of weakness in the Hanoverian line, such as the withered arm of the Kaiser and the invalidism of the Czarevitch of Russia, to indicate that Queen Victoria of Spain, a granddaughter of Victoria of England, might have passed on some hereditary flaw to her children.

ALFONSO XIII has not proved himself a particularly able King. There are many things to which his enemies point as indicating a tendency toward the weakness of his ancestors. His name was mentioned in connection with various escapades. It is claimed that he has gone $6,000,000 into debt as a result of his extravagances. The war in Morocco with the Riff was an attempt to gain military glory for himself and ended in disgrace for Spain, his enemies claim. At one time his adventures were said to have so distressed the Queen that she turned to religion as a solace.

In any event, the National Council is expected to meet to name as heir Prince Alfonso, a nephew of the present King. This Prince is the son of the King's eldest sister, Infanta Maria, now dead, whose husband was Prince Charles of Bourbon. He is a cavalry officer, born Nov. 30, 1901.

The State Council was rumored at one time to have decided upon the third son as heir, but since has concluded it would be better to avoid altogether the royal line by direct descent. Prince Alfonso's ancestry is much freer from unfortunate heritages, it is pointed out, for those who were not in the direct line of descent were permitted to choose their wives from other families than the Hapsburgs and Bourbons.

She Begged for Electric Chair But Is Now Believed Innocent

Why the Case of Mrs. Mona Wilson, Convicted of Murdering Her Mother, May Be Reopened.

Mrs. Wilson was declared to be on affectionate terms with her mother.

Mrs. Mona Wilson.

Under pressure Mrs. Wilson signed the confession stating she had given her mother strychnine.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

RUSHVILLE, Nebraska.

IT WAS easy to send Mrs. Mona Wilson to the penitentiary. She put up virtually no defense at all when charged with the murder of her mother. She had no money for an elaborate defense and apparently no desire for acquittal. In a sort of frenzied bewilderment, she signed a confession when set upon by the authorities and was placed in jail. She admitted everything they suggested she might be guilty of and, when sentenced without a trial a few days later to 30 years in prison, she begged for the electric chair. Denied this, she was taken hurriedly to Lincoln and locked in her cell, where she huddles now, a frightened and still bewildered young woman with a stony stare in her eyes.

But with this stroke accomplished, there is growing hereabouts a feeling that justice for once has been too swift. Justice itself appears to feel a little guilty. From various quarters there is heard the suggestion that Mrs. Wilson's confession and plea of guilty were too easily gained; that she was "railroaded" for a crime for which not even a plausible motive was found, and that no effort was made to determine whether or not she was responsible for her deed even if guilty as charged. As a result of this wave of misgiving, the District Court of Sheridan County is being asked to reopen the case so that doubts may be cleared up. It is believed this will be done and that Mrs. Wilson will be put on trial again at an early date, not as to her guilt or innocence but as to her sanity and responsibility.

IT WAS perhaps not unusual that few witnesses or interested persons took a hand in the case at the start. Neighbors are scarce and distances are great in this sandhill country of Northwestern Nebraska. Sheridan County, 60 miles long and 30 miles wide, has a population of but little more than 10,000, and these residents are concentrated mostly in the villages along the Chicago & Northwestern Railway in the north and along the Burlington on the southern rim. In the great expanse of country between the two railroads the only habitations to be found are scattering ranchhouses here and there among the prairie hummocks which roll away for miles on each side of the Niobrara River.

Mrs. Wilson lived on one of these lonely ranches. She was born there, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Loomis, and had lived there all her life of 31 years, 22 miles from the nearest settlement of dimensions great enough to be called a town. The childhood of Mona Loomis was solitary. She was the only child. Her youthful life, too, was lonely. She was never farther than 50 miles from home, she attended no parties, had no amusements, never went to theaters, Sunday school or church and had few acquaintances. She was past 25 before she ever had a beau or a "date." Two years ago she married H. W. Wilson, who had worked for a time on her father's ranch, the couple taking up residence in the tenant house in the same yard with the Loomis homestead. Until a few months ago this arrangement worked very well so far as anybody outside the family knew.

Then, about the first of July, Wilson and his father-in-law had a disagreement and Wilson left the ranch. His wife remained there with her parents and he came back to visit her over the week ends. Meanwhile, he leased a farm in an adjoining township and they were planning to move to it in a short time. Wilson was at work on the place, getting it ready for occupancy, when the murder of Mrs. Loomis occurred at the Loomis home on the night of July 7.

The first news of the tragedy came with a hurry call for doctors in Hay Springs. Mrs. Wilson herself telephoned for them and two physicians went in haste to the Loomis ranch. There they found the mother dying in great agony and the father writhing, desperately ill, upon a bed.

MRS. WILSON, frightened and apparently almost distracted, was ministering to them and trying to relieve their suffering. Nothing could be done for the mother. She died shortly after the doctors arrived. The father, however, recovered. A day or two later, when he was better, he said the sudden illness had come upon them after they had each taken a capsule given to them by their daughter—capsules which she told them had been prescribed for them by a doctor.

When a post mortem examination of the mother's body was made, the findings were such as to cast suspicion on the daughter. Death, it was disclosed, had been caused by strychnine. Mrs. Wilson, thereupon, was arrested and so was her husband. She was taken to a hospital in Hay Springs and he was put in jail here in Rushville, the county seat. He protested that he knew nothing about the poison or the crime, but Mrs. Wilson, under pressure from the officers, confessed she had given her parents the strychnine and signed a confession which the officers wrote for her.

It was all over quickly after that. Mrs. Wilson was rushed to jail here and taken before Judge Meyer of the District Court. Upon hearing her confession and plea of guilty, he sentenced her at once to 30 years in prison, denying her request that she be given the electric chair right away. Sheriff Bruce and his wife took her to Lincoln. Wilson was released from jail here and followed her there.

Hardly had Mrs. Wilson been "dressed in" when Warden Fenton observed that something was wrong. He called the prison physician to examine her and then conferred with the woman's husband.

"That stare in the eyes," he told Wilson, "is typical of a person mentally deranged, and the doctor thinks so, too. You had better get a lawyer and have her put somewhere else. She doesn't belong in a prison."

WILSON took his advice and called upon Charles E. Matson, for years County Attorney in Lincoln and who had recently appeared for the State in Sheridan County prosecutions. Matson listened to his story and afterwards had this to say:

"I have never heard a stranger tale than that which Wilson told me. After this conversation it immediately became apparent to me that the horror and indignation of the people in Mrs. Wilson's community had communicated itself to the authorities and that they, without understanding the case, simply railroaded the woman to prison in the belief they were administering justice. She had no opportunity to consult any of her people or friends. Her confession was possibly sufficient justification for the haste shown, but the entire absence of motive should, I think, have called for an inquiry into her mental state. The Sheriff tells me she acted queerly when he brought her to Lincoln, and he thinks something is wrong with her. Therefore, in view of all these things, I have filed with the District Court a motion for a new trial, based on a showing I am prepared to make that she belongs in an asylum for mental patients and not in a penitentiary. We are not asking that she be set at liberty, and we are not pleading for acquittal on grounds of insanity. We merely are asking the court to investigate and place her where she belongs."

The woman's father and husband have joined forces now in their efforts to get her out of the penitentiary. Both tell of a strange and solitary childhood, of her reticence and shyness, of her indifference to amusements and activities which ordinarily appeal to youth, and they tell also of her restlessness, her tendency to fainting spells, her occasional aberrations and lapses of memory.

"DURING the life of my wife," says the father in an affidavit supporting the motion for a new trial, "there seemed to be the closest bond of affection between her and her daughter and at all times Mona manifested the deepest interest in her mother. The mother was Mona's confidante to whom the girl went with every intimate detail of her life and I never heard a harsh word pass between them. Mona was always an obedient child and Mrs. Loomis was a loving and doting mother to her. It was not for a long time that I learned Mona had been having fainting spells like those her mother had suffered from. Both of them kept it from me so as not to worry me.

"Late in May I sent Mona to a doctor in Alliance for treatment for severe headaches, from which she suffered. She got some medicine there, but never went back again. She worked in the hayfield with me the day before the tragedy and looked so strange that I told her to go home and rest, but she wouldn't do it. She said she had severe pains in her head for three weeks and I noticed at the funeral that she had a vacant stare in her eyes, unusual to her."

Loomis was too ill to be present and Wilson was still in custody when Mrs. Wilson was arraigned and sentenced so there was no one to look out for her interests. She did not even have an attorney. Matson is now stressing this point in his attempt to get a rehearing of the case.

Wilson's story is similar to that told by the girl's father. He relates that he worked for Loomis for five years before he and Mona were married and that she was not only isolated from picnics and all other gatherings but that she worked often in the fields like a man. He says the parents were ill much of the time and that the girl lived in an atmosphere of complaining and doctoring, and that whenever she visited a town she was always in a hurry and returned home in the shortest time possible. Eventually, he says, she began to suffer from fainting spells herself and doctors pronounced these to be epileptic attacks. Twice he was present when these attacks occurred, Wilson says, and he observed they left her mentally deranged. Once, he said, he had to take a shotgun from her to keep her from firing at imaginary thieves and coyotes she thought were after her rabbits and chickens. She always said, he related, that she could not remember anything of what she had said or done during these seizures, her last recollection being that of a pain in the back of her head as if she had been struck a blow with a club.

As to the tragedy, Wilson related that he arrived at the Loomis home after the mother had died. His wife was lying on a couch, he said, looking tired and worn as she always did when these spells were upon her. Later, he said, she collapsed as she started out of the room and had to be carried to bed unconscious. Wilson relates further that an aunt of the girl is in a hospital for the insane and an uncle is in prison for a crime normal men do not commit. He also exhibits the following letter written by his wife in prison:

"IS IT really true that mother is dead? I don't realize that she is. Sometimes it seems just the way I told you, but at other times all seems like a crazy dream and that mother is alive and all right. The worst of it is that the more I try to think it out the less I know. I think the best thing you can do for me is to get my sentence changed to a death sentence. I would rather die a hundred times than to keep thinking all the time and never know what happened."

In prison, the woman's statements follow the trend of that letter. "They tell me I killed my mother," she sobs, "but I can't believe them. They tell me I pleaded guilty of murdering her, but if I had any part in it I cannot now recall it. Mother and I always were in each other's confidence. I don't believe she loved anyone more than she did me and I am sure I loved nobody better than her."

In her affidavit supporting the motion for a new trial, Mrs. Wilson states that she suffered from fainting spells from the time she was 13 years old and that these had increased in the last year. After the attack had passed, she says, she could recall nothing of what had happened during the seizure. She states she remembers being ill the day before the poisoning and also the next day, but the next she remembers was the investigation three days later when officers were asking her questions.

THE officers kept telling her she had killed her mother, she says, and she finally, at the insistence of those about her, signed a paper she is now told is a confession that she killed her mother. She also states her plea of guilty was made at the insistence of the officers and that it was not until afterwards she saw any of her relatives. She remembers she did plead for the electric chair and says she still prefers death to the discovery she has actually killed her mother.

Mrs. Wilson's signed confession of the crime is a straightaway story which goes into considerable detail. It relates that on Sunday, July 17, she drove from her farm home 22 miles to Hay Springs and there consulted a doctor for her parents; that he telephoned two prescriptions to a druggist, one for milk of magnesia and the other for calomel tablets; that while she was getting the prescriptions she also purchased a dozen two-grain empty capsules and drove home.

"I got back home at 10:30 in the morning," her confession continues, "and drove into the garage. While in there I filled two of the capsules with strychnine I had taken earlier from a combination bookcase and writing desk. The poison had been bought two years before for killing gophers. The two strychnine capsules I put into a candy sack and I handed this with the other medicine to my father and mother. Later I told them the doctor had said they should each take a capsule when they went to bed that night. They did so and both became violently ill, my mother dying at 10:30 o'clock that night."

The confession also exonerated her husband from complicity and stated she was making the statement of her own free will, with full knowledge that it would be used against her. The remainder of the strychnine and the capsules were found by the officers in a dresser drawer in the woman's home, where she said she had put them.

ALONG with other evidence which is expected to add weight to the motion for a reopening of the case is the conspicuous lack of motive for such a crime by a sane person. Only the weakest of motives was even suggested by the State. It was not as if the daughter had sought to get rid of her parents in order to inherit their estate. The ranch property already belonged to the daughter. Her mother's father, who had settled on it, did not like Loomis, so when he died he left the entire estate to his granddaughter with the provision that his daughter, the girl's mother, have lifetime use of the property.

The theory entertained by the State was that the young woman, in committing murder, was actuated by a desire to get her husband back on the farm with her, after his quarrel with Loomis had led him to leave. Wilson declares there is no basis for such a theory, as he had full freedom to return to the farm when he wished, that he had already been back several times for week-end visits and that all arrangements had been made for his wife to go with him to another farm in the neighborhood.

Attorney Matson is confident the court will reopen the case for an investigation of the young woman's mental condition. He has procured a statement from Dr. B. F. Williams, the leading alienist in Lincoln, supporting his contention that she is of unsound mind. Dr. Williams examined Mrs. Wilson and declared she had all the characteristics of a sufferer from epilepsy. He said women so afflicted have periods of mental derangement following an attack, periods during which they have no control over their acts or subsequent recollection of them. And Mrs. Wilson's conduct throughout this case, he points out, was precisely such as might be expected from a person thus afflicted.

Tracing

SCIENCE now believes that man's descent can be traced through the human foot rather than the brain. Recent important anthropological studies have revealed the fact that the man of a hundred thousand or more years ago—the Neanderthal man—and the modern man have nearly the same type of foot. Also, scientists have disclosed remarkable similarities between the feet of higher apes and the feet of man, indicating unmistakably, they maintain, that once man's ancestors moved about in the tree tops by grasping branches with both hands and feet.

The work of a number of scientists over a considerable period of years, all contributing to this newest hypothesis that the foot is the clew to the "missing link" between man and the higher apes, has been summed up by Dr. Dudley J. Morton of the Yale University School of Medicine, in the American Journal of Physical Anthropology.

Each time that new fossil remains have been found a thrill of hope has come to anthropologists that some of the dark secrets in man's family tree might be revealed. Hitherto they have largely centered their studies on the fossilized bones of the skull, hoping to trace man backward in time by computing the brain capacity. In the light of this new theory, however, it is probable that the foot bones of any new fossil skeletons that may be unearthed will determine whether or not they are to have a place in man's genealogy.

Dr. Morton and the other scientists who hold to this new theory have reached their conclusions by a study of the feet of various animals and man and of the foot bones of fossil remains. In man and the higher apes—the gibbon, chimpanzee and gorilla—the weight is balanced on or near the inner border of the foot, they point out. The lines which may be drawn through the foot, indicating the points on which the weight rests, they call the "functional axis."

"AS A MEANS of tracing man's evolutionary history, the sequence of changes by which the human foot was produced has been credited with more than ordinary value by various authors," Dr. Morton says. "It was the alterations in the pattern of the body frame and in posture that ultimately resulted in the distinctive stature of mankind and which, associated with certain remodelings of the head and face, created the type which we now recognize as 'man.'

"The greater development of the inner border of the human foot signifies that, at some time in prehuman history, the functional axis became transferred from the middle to the inner border," he states. All other animals, except man and the higher apes, have retained the functional axis in the middle of the foot where the weight rests.

Nature affords only one explanation, so far as known, of how the change in the feet of man and the higher apes could have been brought about, in Dr. Morton's view. And this is the tree-grasping function which man once possessed. This ability to swing along through the higher branches from tree to tree was accompanied, Dr. Morton maintains, by a shifting of the functional axis from the central line to between the first and second toes. Structural proof of this is seen in the fact that in man's foot the second toe is longer than the third, which has the greatest length in the feet of apes and in fossil foot bones.

"It is also pertinent to note the fact that in some of the South American monkeys a similar structural change is to be observed, but it is restricted to only the larger forms, and in them is not a constant character as it is among the anthropoids," Dr. Morton writes.

"Comparative anatomy and paleontology have failed to present any adequate explanation of how the human foot could have acquired its inwardly placed functional axis, except that it had passed through an ancient grasping stage, such as has been preserved in existing anthropoids. The occasional presence of this character in only the larger New World monkeys gives reason to believe that this transposition of the axis did not develop in the ancient anthropoid stock until its representatives had gained considerably in size; also that the prehuman representatives were not of small stature when this change occurred in their feet."

In the species "Gorilla beringei," who spends most of his time on the ground, the feet show an increased development along the inner border, such as is not found in the types that spend more time in the trees, nor in the tree-

The two strychnine capsules I put into a candy sack and I handed this with the other medicine to my father and mother. Later I told them the doctor had said they should each take a capsule when they went to bed that night. They did so and both became violently ill, my mother dying at 10:30 o'clock that night."

The confession also exonerated her husband from complicity and stated she was making the statement of her own free will, with full knowledge that it would be used against her. The remainder of the strychnine and the capsules were found by the officers in a dresser drawer in the woman's home, where she said she had put them.

ALONG with other evidence which is expected to add weight to the motion for a reopening of the case is the conspicuous lack of motive for such a crime by a sane person. Only the weakest of motives was even suggested by the State. It was not as if the daughter had sought to get rid of her parents in order to inherit their estate. The ranch property already belonged to the daughter. Her mother's father, who had settled on it, did not like Loomis, so when he died he left the entire estate to his granddaughter with the provision that his daughter, the girl's mother, have lifetime use of the property.

The theory entertained by the State was that the young woman, in committing murder, was actuated by a desire to get her husband back on the farm with her, after his quarrel with Loomis had led him to leave. Wilson declares there is no basis for such a theory, as he had full freedom to return to the farm when he wished, that he had already been back several times for week-end visits and that all arrangements had been made for his wife to go with him to another farm in the neighborhood.

Attorney Matson is confident the court will reopen the case for an investigation of the young woman's mental condition. He has procured a statement from Dr. B. F. Williams, the leading alienist in Lincoln, supporting his contention that she is of unsound mind. Dr. Williams examined Mrs. Wilson and declared she had all the characteristics of a sufferer from epilepsy. He said women so afflicted have periods of mental derangement following an attack, periods during which they have no control over their acts or subsequent recollection of them. And Mrs. Wilson's conduct throughout this case, he points out, was precisely such as might be expected from a person thus afflicted.

Tracing the Descent of Man Through His Foot

It Still Retains Muscles Which Could Only Have Been Developed by Grasping Branches of Trees, Anthropologists Now Declare.

By M. W. CHILDS

SCIENCE now believes that man's descent can be traced through the human foot rather than the brain. Recent important anthropological studies have revealed the fact that the man of a hundred thousand or more years ago—the Neanderthal man—and the modern man have nearly the same type of foot. Also, scientists have disclosed remarkable similarities between the feet of higher apes and the feet of man, indicating unmistakably, they maintain, that once man's ancestors moved about in the tree tops by grasping branches with both hands and feet.

The work of a number of scientists over a considerable period of years, all contributing to this newest hypothesis that the foot is the clew to the "missing link" between man and the higher apes, has been summed up by Dr. Dudley J. Morton of the Yale University School of Medicine, in the American Journal of Physical Anthropology.

Each time that new fossil remains have been found a thrill of hope has come to anthropologists that some of the dark secrets in man's family tree might be revealed. Hitherto they have largely centered their studies on the fossilized bones of the skull, hoping to trace man backward in time by computing the brain capacity. In the light of this new theory, however, it is probable that the foot bones of any new fossil skeletons that may be unearthed will determine whether or not they are to have a place in man's genealogy.

Dr. Morton and the other scientists who hold to this new theory have reached their conclusions by a study of the feet of various animals and man and of the foot bones of fossil remains. In man and the higher apes—the gibbon, chimpanzee and gorilla—the weight is balanced on or near the inner border of the foot, they point out. The lines which may be drawn through the foot, indicating the points on which the weight rests, they call the "functional axis."

"AS A MEANS of tracing man's evolutionary history, the sequence of changes by which the human foot was produced has been credited with more than ordinary value by various authors," Dr. Morton says. "It was the alterations in the pattern of the body frame and in posture that ultimately resulted in the distinctive stature of mankind and which, associated with certain remodelings of the head and face, created the type which we now recognize as 'man.'

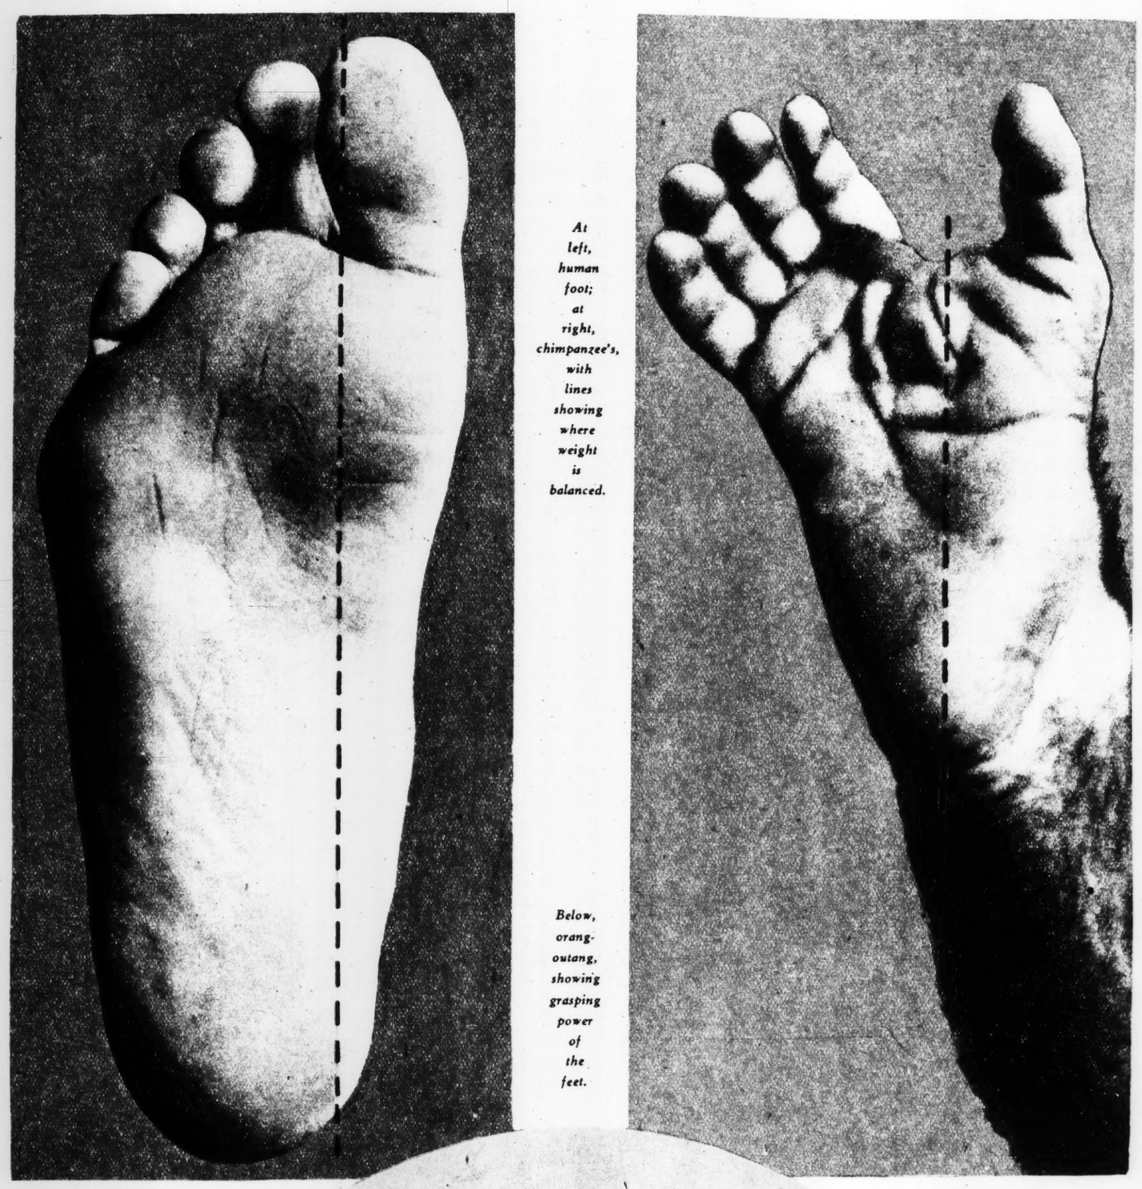
"The greater development of the inner border of the human foot signifies that, at some time in prehuman history, the functional axis became transferred from the middle to the inner border," he states. All other animals, except man and the higher apes, have retained the functional axis in the middle of the foot where the weight rests.

Nature affords only one explanation, so far as known, of how the change in the feet of man and the higher apes could have been brought about, in Dr. Morton's view. And this is the tree-grasping function which man once possessed. This ability to swing along through the higher branches from tree to tree was accompanied, Dr. Morton maintains, by a shifting of the functional axis from the central line to between the first and second toes. Structural proof of this is seen in the fact that in man's foot the second toe is longer than the third, which has the greatest length in the feet of apes and in fossil foot bones.

"It is also pertinent to note the fact that in some of the South American monkeys a similar structural change is to be observed, but it is restricted to only the larger forms, and in them is not a constant character as it is among the anthropoids," Dr. Morton writes.

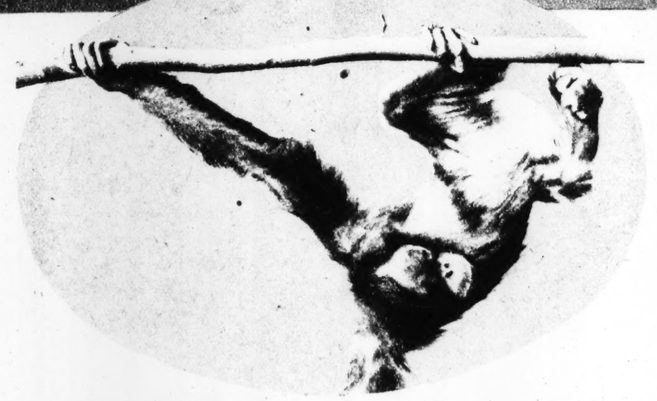
"Comparative anatomy and paleontology have failed to present any adequate explanation of how the human foot could have acquired its inwardly placed functional axis, except that it had passed through an ancient grasping stage, such as has been preserved in existing anthropoids. The occasional presence of this character in only the larger New World monkeys gives reason to believe that this transposition of the axis did not develop in the ancient anthropoid stock until its representatives had gained considerably in size; also that the prehuman representatives were not of small stature when this change occurred in their feet."

In the species "Gorilla beringei," who spends most of his time on the ground, the feet show an increased development along the inner border, such as is not found in the types that spend more time in the trees, nor in the tree-living chimpanzee, Dr. Morton points out.



At left, human foot; at right, chimpanzee's, with lines showing where weight is balanced.

Below, orang-outang, showing grasping power of the feet.



Observations indicate, Dr. Morton says, that there was a sequence of two stages in the development of the human foot:

1. An early stage when the leverage axis was moved toward the inner side of the foot with the development of the tree-grasping function.

2. A subsequent stage when the inner border became enlarged in connection with the ground-living habits. It was also during this latter period that the toes became shortened and the earlier grasping function of the foot was gradually lost.

Study of the fossil bones of the Neanderthal man, one of the earliest human ancestors yet to be discovered, convinces Dr. Morton that the Neanderthal foot was "in all major respects essentially human in its model," despite certain characteristics of the foot of the anthropoid ape.

Summing up other points of evidence concerning man's existence in the trees, Dr. Morton cites the ratio of arm to body, which "gives unmistakable testimony of a long interval of arboreal existence during the course of pre-human ancestry."

Analysis of man's body posture "definitely proves that the human method of vertical support by the legs is a modification of earlier habits of suspension by the arms such as we observe in apes," Dr. Morton adds.

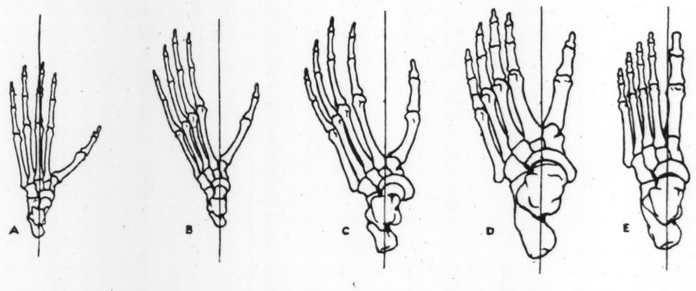
"It is also pertinent to observe that Ateles, the American spider monkey, commonly uses a grotesque erect manner of locomotion when on the ground, somewhat like that of the gibbon (the anthropoid ape most closely related to man). This correlation of a high arm-body ratio with arboreal habits and with terrestrial bipedism (walking erect on two feet) is extremely significant."

Dr. Morton makes three main points in his contention that man derived his foot from the higher apes:

1. The human foot has preserved the muscles designed for the purpose of grasping to a degree far beyond what has ever been attained by a foot with a nongrasping hallux (big toe).

2. The modern human foot has retained a recognizable degree of the bony structure which distinguishes the type of grasp used in the foot from the hand-grasp.

3. The primitive characteristics of the Neanderthal foot point toward a grasping anthropoid type.



Skeletons of feet of (A) monkey, (B) gibbon, (C) chimpanzee, (D) gorilla and (E) man, showing similarities of human type to those of tree-living anthropoids.

It is well nigh impossible to trace man's ancestry by means of the size of the skulls of fossils, Dr. Morton points out, because the skull increased in size very rapidly over a comparatively short period of time. Thus, as far back as the Pliocene era, many hundreds of thousands of years ago, there would be nothing to distinguish the skull size of a possible human ancestor from that of an ape. The foot will be the revealing clew when future fossils are discovered, Dr. Morton says.

"In so far as my own studies would enable me to judge, I indorse Wood Jones' statement," he writes, "to the effect that, 'If missing links are to be traced with complete success, the foot, far more than the skull or the teeth or the shins, will mark them as monkey or as man.'"

He quotes another authority, Sir Arthur Keith, the noted English anthropologist, as follows:

"The foot was evolved before the brain, for in Pithecanthropus—belonging to a very late Pliocene or very early Pleistocene date — the brain is little more than half the size of the human brain."

It is the theory of leading anthropologists that the development of the foot enabled the brain to develop. When those earliest ancestors of man moved about in the trees it was constantly necessary to think to prevent falling. But when they came down out of the trees and the foot developed, walking soon became an automatic function. It was no longer necessary to think about it, and consequently man could use all his mental energy in the co-ordination of hand and brain.

"The combination of these circumstances," Dr. Morton says, "created a new psychic era, furnishing opportunity for the development of a new and more advanced phase of animal cerebration (mental activity) under entirely unprecedented and most favorable conditions. Upon this basis I would regard the enlargement of the brain in the ancestors of mankind as a manifestation of this new psychological development and as secondary to terrestrial bipedism (walking erect on the ground), by which these auspicious conditions became actually established."

Drawing further comparisons between ape and man, Dr. Morton says:

"Man's arm-body ratio indicates a similar arboreal development, but one which was carried only about half as far as in the case of the apes." The powerful development of man's legs when compared with his arms indicates that the date at which he first began to walk erect is very, very ancient. But the underlying and more or less hidden characteristics, indicating a previous life in the trees, together with other evidence, tend to establish a mutual ancestry for man and ape at a very dim and distant time in the past.

Dr. Morton sums up his final conclusion as follows:

"ACCORDING to the present interpretation, the grosser anatomical characteristics of mankind were acquired long before human psychological qualifications had been attained. The entire expanse of the Pliocene period was apparently necessary in order to bridge the gap between animal behavior and the gradual dawning of human intelligence.

"If mental development is to be the criterion for the zoological classification of 'Homo' (man), then it is doubtful if we shall bestow that title upon any individual or group who existed before the close of the Pliocene, and all of man's earlier forbears must be regarded as erect ground apes or, at best, terrestrial man-apes. In that case, human origin may literally * * * be said to have occurred with the opening of the Pleistocene period.

"From a zoological point of view 'human origin' required an exceedingly long and protracted era of time; which is not to be confused with the hypothetical point of derivation. The course of human evolution was evidently characterized by progressive adaptations for terrestrial bipedism, showing first in the feet and gradually extending upward to involve the entire body frame.

"The associated freeing of the arms from the function of locomotion created a new phase in mental cerebration; in its subsequent development, animal behavior became gradually amplified by reason and intelligence. The development of the major characteristics of the human body form and stature, however, preceded the humanoid expansion of the cranium and brain and the ultimate refinement of facial characteristics."

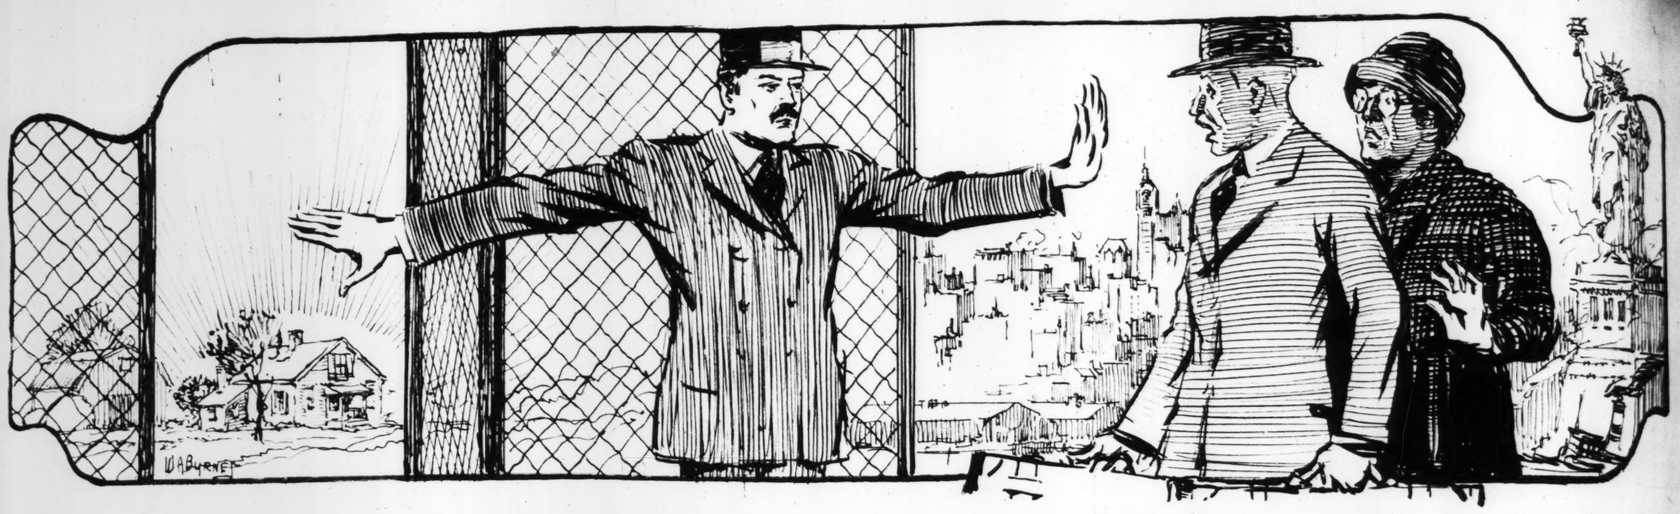
DR. MORTON'S summary of the newest discoveries is seen by scientists as only one more piece of evidence in proof of Darwin's theory of evolution, advanced 55 years ago in his "Descent of Man," that started a dispute that has raged ever since.

In his presidential address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Sir Arthur Keith expressed the view of scientists the world over.

"All the evidence now at our disposal," he said, "supports the conclusion that man has arisen from an anthropoid ape not higher in the zoological scale than the chimpanzee, and that the date at which human and anthropoid lines of descent began to diverge lies near the beginning of the Miocene period. On our modest scale of reckoning that gives man the respectable antiquity of about 1,000,000 years.

"Was Darwin right," Sir Arthur asked, "when he said that man, under biological forces which can be observed and measured, has been raised from a place among the anthropoid apes to that which he now occupies? The answer is Yes, and in returning the verdict I speak but as the foreman of the jury—a jury which has been impaneled from men who have devoted a lifetime to weighing the evidence.

"The evidence of man's evolution from an ape-like being, obtained from a study of fossil remains, is definite and irrefutable, but the process has been infinitely more complex than was suspected in Darwin's time."



Resident of America Fifty Years—

Called "ALIEN" by Government

Tragedy of Arnold Chard, the Nebraska Farmer Who Killed Himself Under Threat of Deportation.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BROCK, Nebraska.

FOR MORE than 50 years Arnold Chard thought he was a full-fledged American citizen. He had no reason to doubt it. He didn't know about the quirk in naturalization laws which requires that an immigrant, in order to give his children citizenship, must take out his papers before these children become of age. Having come to this country as a small child with his parents from Switzerland; having grown up as an American boy, and having known no land but that of his adoption, he believed all requirements had been fulfilled. The fact that his father did not take out naturalization papers until after Arnold had passed the age of 21 seemed too trivial to have a bearing on such an important thing as citizenship of a man who had grown up a loyal and patriotic American.

But that trivial circumstance was to have a bearing and a most vital one. In later years, after Arnold Chard had become an old man, it was to bring tragedy upon a happy family. Until he was 62, the idea that he was not really an American at all never dawned upon this Nebraskan farmer. He married, reared a family of four children, sent two sons to war to fight for the United States, voted regularly and conscientiously and in all respects was a good citizen. Everybody who knew him said so. Of course those things didn't count with the Government. The letter of the law hadn't been complied with. So when Chard and his wife tried to come home after a visit to Europe last year they found the way barred. They found they were aliens. Then, after they had finally gained permission to enter their home land as "guests," they found themselves threatened with deportation.

The grief and bitterness were more than Chard could bear. Arnold Chard an alien! He who had lived his life in America and given two sons to the American army! Shut out from his own farm and his own people! A man without a country!

It worried him so much that he killed himself the other day. Stealing out behind the barn, he saturated his clothing with gasoline and applied a lighted match. Fatally burned before his wife could extinguish the flames, he died a few hours later. He was buried in a little hillside cemetery overlooking his farm.

SPURRED to action by this tragedy, the immigration inspector in the Omaha office quickly lifted the deportation threat still hanging over Mrs. Chard and paroled her to one of her sons. For she was an alien, too. Born in France, she had come to the United States in childhood as her husband had. When she married him she supposed she automatically became an American citizen just as he supposed he had automatically become a citizen along with his father. Blocked at Ellis Island on her recent return from Europe, she, too, had been admitted only as a "visitor" to the country in which she had lived for half a century.

Even now, with the threat of deportation lifted, she must get a permit every so often to continue her "visit" in her own home. As long as she remains in this country and does not seek official citizenship, the immigration office points out, she will not be molested. However, if she files application for naturalization now she will be sent back to her native France, there to await her turn in the quota admitted from France.

Arnold Chard and his wife worked hard and became well-to-do in their years here together. They acquired one of the finest farms in Nemaha County, which is in the heart of the corn belt in the southeastern part of the state. They had three sons and a daughter and gave them all college educations. When the war came on and two sons enlisted, Chard did his bit at home. He gave generously to the various fund campaigns and, with his wife and remaining two children, devoted much time to Red Cross and other war activities. He came to be a leader of his community in these activities.

EVENTUALLY the two soldier sons came home. They told such interesting tales of their experiences in Europe and of the sights to be seen there that the father and mother finally remembered with a little pride that they themselves were born in Europe. They at length decided to take six months off after their many years of hard work on the farm and visit their birthplaces in France and Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Chard applied for passage and got their credentials without question. Indeed, nobody had ever questioned their citizenship during all the years they had been living in Nebraska and voting. They never had entertained a doubt about it themselves.

They had a great time in Europe. They toured over all the western part of the continent, visiting Chard's birthplace in Switzerland and then Mrs. Chard's childhood home in France. When their six months' vacation was over they had had enough of Europe and were eager to get back home. They started on their way, happy in the prospect of sighting soon the Statue of Liberty and, a little later, the green forests and corn fields of the Missouri Valley.

All went well on their return trip until they reached Ellis Island. Then came a bolt from the blue. The immigration officials looked over their passports and advised them they could not enter.

And why couldn't they enter, they asked?

Because, they were told, their credentials showed they were not citizens of the United States. It was a shock to them. It was hard for them to understand, but at last they were convinced. It all meant they had to go back to their native lands, France and Switzerland, and wait until new quotas should be admitted from those countries, the quotas from both being filled at present.

Here, for the first time in their lives, they were alone among strangers. They would be alone among strangers in their native lands. Only in America, the country now denying them admittance, could they hope to find friends.

The question of what to do was a poser. Their children at home were expecting them in a short time, but how were they to get there? They had never traveled much and did not know how to argue with the officials or state their case. They stood back, a little timid and bewildered, and figured that if the immigration authorities were going to send them back to Europe nothing could be done about it, unjust though it seemed. They faced the outlook of simply going back to France and waiting indefinitely until they could come in at the proper time with the immigration quota.

Arnold Chard.

Mrs. Chard.

Probably they would have gone back without another word had it not been for the circumstance that Mrs. Chard suffered a slight injury in an accident and went to the infirmary for treatment. There she chanced to meet a social worker and a friendship developed during her morning visit. To this worker Mrs. Chard at length told her story, and the social worker got in touch with relatives in Brock.

Word of the Chards' plight at once stirred interest and no little indignation in this Nebraska town. Influential politicians, patriotic organizations and many personal friends of the couple appealed to official Washington. The State Department was requested to investigate the case and see if some loophole could be found so the stranded travelers might be allowed to return home.

At first the immigration authorities said nothing could be done. They were sorry, but the law was the law and the Chards must return to Europe and await their turn to enter with the other "aliens."

It was that word, "alien," which pained Arnold Chard most. He could not see the justice in his being classed as an alien by officials of a land in which he had lived for 50 years and called his own. Friends of the couple interested United States Senators Howell and Norris in the case and at last the State Department heads began to listen to arguments.

After much wrangling, a compromise finally was agreed upon and the Chards were permitted to enter the United States as "guests" in order to wind up their business affairs. After that, however, they were to go back to Europe and enter through the regular legal channels.

Oppressed by the thought that he was only a "guest" in his own home and really a man without a country, Chard began to worry and brood. A look of pain and disappointment appeared upon his face. His old-time jolly humor was gone. He began to fail both mentally and physically. He would talk of nothing but how he would hate to go back to Europe. Then he would grieve over the injustice he felt had been done to him. He rapidly became a changed man. All his acquaintances commented among themselves on how he had aged.

As his depression continued, the family began to fear that he would end his life and he was watched closely. During the summer, attempts were made to have Chard and his wife take out naturalization papers without going back to Europe. This move failed. State officials advised them the only way they could become naturalized was to return to Europe and enter in the regular way. However, the officials hinted they would not force the couple to return providing they did not try to become naturalized.

This seemed to relieve Chard's mind considerably and for awhile he showed evidence of returning to his former cheerful mien. His crops were unusually good this year and he talked of a long vacation in California. Possibly he and Mrs. Chard would retire out there as soon as this naturalization trouble was over.

ONE night early in August the family was awakened by Chard walking about the house. He was found with a gun in his hand but refused to explain why he was up or why he had the gun. Fears for his safety were revived.

Then a short time later, Mrs. Chard happened to be looking out of a window when she saw her husband come in from the field, go to a tool box, take out a hammer and go to the barn. There was nothing suspicious about this movement except the fact that it was an unusual time of day for him to come in from the fields. Being watchful anyway, she followed him to the barn to investigate. She found him on the ground, unconscious from an ugly wound on the head. He had attempted to kill himself by striking his head with the hammer but had only knocked himself out and was not seriously injured, although he remained unconscious for a few minutes.

From then on the vigilance of the family was increased. They watched every movement he made. Officials of State and patriotic organizations visited Chard and assured him the State Department eventually would rescind its order of deportation, and that he soon would be allowed to take out his papers without returning to Switzerland.

But Chard refused to place faith in these promises. He told friends he could not understand why he, a man who had lived here nearly all his life and given two sons to the army, should be under fire as an alien; why he must go back to a land he neither loved nor liked in order to become a citizen of the United States.

ON THE morning of his death Chard appeared more jolly than usual. He joked with the family at breakfast and went to work apparently in better spirits than he had enjoyed for months. The family relaxed its vigil a bit. That evening he told his son, Louis, that he would do the milking, a chore he ordinarily left to the others. The father took the milk pail and went to the barnyard, but instead of going to the dairy barn he went to a tank and filled the pail with gasoline. He then went behind the barn, soaked his clothing in the gasoline and ignited it with a match.

As the flames enveloped him, he shrieked with pain and his wife and son hurried to his aid. They wrapped a blanket around him and extinguished the blaze, but he was already fatally burned. He died shortly afterward.

Then, after it was too late, there came, as another stroke of irony, a report from the immigration inspector's office that the authorities had no intention of deporting the Chards after all. It was made by Frank Hays Jr., chief inspector at Omaha.

"We did all we could for the Chards," Hays said, "but we had to threaten to deport them because it was the only way by which they could become naturalized legally. However, there is a clause in the orders which permits us to renew a parole as often as we wish and in the case of the Chards we already intended to renew it as long as the couple lived. But we could not tell them we were going to do this. This policy seems unusually severe, especially when consideration is taken of Mr. Chard's long residence here and his standing in his community, but we could only class them as visitors and no other arrangement could possibly be made."

In spite of this explanation, the immigration office and the State Department came in for severe criticism by friends of the Chards who thought that, if the immigration authorities had no intention of carrying out the deportation threat, the Chards should have been apprised of it and not driven to suicide through worry over it.

Chard's death and the circumstances surrounding it attracted wide attention throughout the state and his funeral was the largest ever seen in this region. They buried him on a little hill a short distance from his door. Standing at his grave, one can view his entire farm on which he lived and worked for most of his 62 years. He lies buried almost in his own soil, but still a man without a country.

THE MORE

A NEW ENGLAND professor—who ought to know; and what don't they know?—said the other day that letter-writing is on the decline. Two generations ago the ability to write a courteous and elegant letter was held to be one of the aims of education. Now nobody cares. Everybody writes in a slap-dash hurried style that is copied from the scenario of the moving picture and the diction of the night lettergram.

As a consequence, we no longer see the little old manuals that used to teach people how to write letters and that had such titles as The Complete Letter-Writer or The Perfect Guide to Correspondence. They don't seem to cover the ground. In our modern life the kind of situations that arise are no longer met by the Perfect Letter Writer, and we need some new models to copy instead. I have therefore worked out and reproduced here a few samples from The More Than Complete Letter-Writer, which I hope to publish later in its entirety.

...rnold Chard, the ...rmer Who Killed ...Under Threat ...eportation.

that he soon would be allowed to take out his papers without returning to Switzerland.

But Chard refused to place faith in these promises. He told friends he could not understand why he, a man who had lived here nearly all his life and given two sons to the army, should be under fire as an alien; why he must go back to a land he neither loved nor liked in order to become a citizen of the United States.

ON THE morning of his death Chard appeared more jolly than usual. He joked with the family at breakfast and went to work apparently in better spirits than he had enjoyed for months. The family relaxed its vigil a bit. That evening he told his son, Louis, that he would do the milking, a chore he ordinarily left to the others. The father took the milk pail and went to the barnyard, but instead of going to the dairy barn he went to a tank and filled the pail with gasoline. He then went behind the barn, soaked his clothing in the gasoline and ignited it with a match.

As the flames enveloped him, he shrieked with pain and his wife and son hurried to his aid. They wrapped a blanket around him and extinguished the blaze, but he was already fatally burned. He died shortly afterward.

Then, after it was too late, there came, as another stroke of irony, a report from the immigration inspector's office that the authorities had no intention of deporting the Chards after all. It was made by Frank Hays Jr., chief inspector at Omaha.

"We did all we could for the Chards," Hays said, "but we had to threaten to deport them because it was the only way by which they could become naturalized legally. However, there is a clause in the orders which permits us to renew a parole as often as we wish and in the case of the Chards we already intended to renew it as long as the couple lived. But we could not tell them we were going to do this. This policy seems unusually severe, especially when consideration is taken of Mr. Chard's long residence here and his standing in his community, but we could only class them as visitors and no other arrangement could possibly be made."

In spite of this explanation, the immigration office and the State Department came in for severe criticism by friends of the Chards who thought that, if the immigration authorities had no intention of carrying out the deportation threat, the Chards should have been apprised of it and not driven to suicide through worry over it.

Chard's death and the circumstances surrounding it attracted wide attention throughout the state and his funeral was the largest ever seen in this region. They buried him on a little hill a short distance from his door. Standing at his grave, one can view his entire farm on which he lived and worked for most of his 62 years. He lies buried almost in his own soil, but still a man without a country.

THE MORE THAN COMPLETE LETTER-WRITER

A New Manual for Up-to-Date Occasions

A NEW ENGLAND professor—who ought to know; and what don't they know?—said the other day that letter-writing is on the decline. Two generations ago the ability to write a courteous and elegant letter was held to be one of the aims of education. Now nobody cares. Everybody writes in a slap-dash hurried style that is copied from the scenario of the moving picture and the diction of the night lettergram.

As a consequence, we no longer see the little old manuals that used to teach people how to write letters and that had such titles as The Complete Letter-Writer or The Perfect Guide to Correspondence. They don't seem to cover the ground. In our modern life the kind of situations that arise are no longer met by the Perfect Letter Writer, and we need some new models to copy instead. I have therefore worked out and reproduced here a few samples from The More Than Complete Letter-Writer, which I hope to publish later in its entirety.

I.

INTIMATE FAMILY CORRESPONDENCE.

THE QUESTION OF A RE-MARRIAGE.

(Note: In these days of divorce and of changing relationships, a very special kind of correspondence is needed to announce to one's friends alterations of this sort. The following letter is from a young lady to an intimate acquaintance.)

My dear Lil:

I must write to tell you the good news that there is at our house. I don't think you'd ever guess! Father is going to marry mother, and Sis and I are just delighted! Of course, we always knew that the divorce was the greatest mistake and we both felt that if father and mother could really get to know one another they'd make a real hit with one another.

Well, about a week ago father came up to the house, and he looked so cute in his little Derby hat and speckled tie that I am sure mother fell for him at once. And since then Anne and I have asked father up twice to dinner so that he could meet mother, and last night we had a little bridge for father and mother. Father looked so nice in his little black suit, and at the end of the evening when mother asked him to marry her he just looked as happy as anything.

Mother thinks she'll marry him in July.

Yours ever,

II.

A DECLARATION OF LOVE.

(Note: People who get used to sending night lettergrams through the telegraph companies fall into the lettergram style of correspondence and cannot easily come out of it. In this case, the only thing to do is to adapt the Guide to Letter-Writing to meet the case. This is done in the following declaration of love. The young man in question is too modest to speak out in his sweetheart's presence. In the old days, therefore, he would fall back on the formal or rather stilted language of the Letter-Writer. But now it has to be revised so as to meet his needs.)

III.

ANSWER TO A THREATENING LETTER.

(This form is based on the diplomatic correspondence that apparently passes between the Ambassadors of the Great Powers. See any book of disclosures, or memoirs, or revelations about the Great War.)

Sir:

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 14th ulto. in which you state that if you meet me on the street you intend to roll me in the mud. In reply I feel obliged to say that, if you roll me in the mud, it will create a situation that I could only view as intimately concerning my interests, and in regard to which I should feel compelled to take whatever action seemed best to consort with the occasion. I observe that your communication makes a further definite expression of your intention "to bash me in the face." To this I am compelled to answer that if you do so, I shall be obliged to regard the action as unfriendly. It is proper also to refer to your third assertion of intention or purpose in regard to "kicking me in the pants." To this, after due deliberation, I find it impossible to give my consent, and I am reluctantly compelled to say that if you proceed to kick me in the pants as per your communication (Folio 047, D. 6 1-2), I shall be compelled to take, either in my pants or out of them, whatever steps may seem good steps to take.

With the highest consideration,

etc. etc. etc.

IV.

FORM LETTER.

TO SUMMON A PLUMBER IN AN EMERGENCY.

Dear Old Chap:

I wonder if you could possibly find time to slip over to my house and stop a leak that has started in one of the furnace pipes? You are so terribly good at that sort of thing that I am sure you would set it right in a minute. If you can come, please don't bother to dress. Come just as you are, as there is only the mater and myself at the house. Do come like a dear old chap if you possibly can.

Yours, etc.

And to these letters might be appended a few of the very useful forms of words to use in answering invitations, etc., etc. Thus:

V

Mr. and Mrs. Climber request the favor of a wedding present on behalf of their daughter, Grace Climber, who will, most likely, and unless he breaks away, be married to the Hon. Edward Quarternut, son of the second Earl Quarternut of The Bogs, Ireland, on July 1st next, or as near as they can hold him to it.

VI.

A COMING-OUT PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Underhand request the pleasure of your company at The Crookery, June 10th, at a coming-out party in honor of their son, Mr. Edmond Underhand Jr., who is coming out of the penitentiary on that date.

VII.

SUCCESSFUL APPLICATION FOR A HOTEL ROOM.

Dear Sirs:

I beg herewith to apply for a room for one-half days at a time when it suits you in the year 1928.

Yours, etc.

VIII.

APPLICATION TO A FIRM OF COAL DEALERS FOR A TON OF COAL.

Mr. John Smith begs to apply for one ton of coal, and encloses herewith testimonials as to character.

MILT GROSS.

EVERY OTHER THURSDAY

By Edna Ferber

FROM the moment she choked the 7 o'clock alarm, Helmi was suffused with the thought that it was Thursday. Not merely Thursday, but every other Thursday. And every other Thursday was Helmi's day out.

From 2, on and on, the day lay before her, golden, to spend as she liked. She had it planned, down to the ultimate second.

A pioneer fly buzzed at her closed window. In America people slept with their windows open, but Helmi knew better than that. That night air is poisonous, as anyone can tell you. Helmi never opened her windows until June—sometimes not even then. Habit is strong; and there had been no steam heat in the Finland farmhouse of her girlhood, and Finnish nights are cold.

Next Sunday was Easter. At Easter time, one year ago, she had had no new hat, no new dress, no new coat, no new slippers. Last Easter she had been thankful just to be here. This Easter would be different. This very afternoon would find her in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street East, New York's uptown Finland. There she would buy a blue dress and a bright blue silk hat, such as Lempi Parta had worn at the Finnish Progressive Society hall last week; and silk stockings, and strapped slippers.

For more than a year a great slice of her wages had gone to pay back her brother, Abel Seppala, and her brother's wife, Anni, for the money they had sent her to buy her passage over—her two passages over. Those terrible passages, the first unsuccessful, the second dramatically successful. She could laugh when she thought of that second landing. It had cost $125 the first time and $150 to bribe the steward the second time. Helmi had been almost a year and a half paying back that money to Abel and Anni.

THIS afternoon she would go to Anni's, in Brooklyn, as usual. From there she would take the subway to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. She had so many things to do. She ought to start before 2, or how could she do all the things that must be done? That must be done today, because it would be two weeks before Every Other Thursday came again. Perhaps she would let her off at 1:30, or even 1, if the work was finished.

The sound of water in the tub in the bathroom off Their Bedroom. Mr. Mawson! He had to have his breakfast at 20 minutes to 8 sharp. It was a quarter past 7! Helmi leaped out of bed, flung off her cotton nightgown, dived into her clothes. Into the stuffy little bathroom off her bedroom. A dab at her face, a splash with her hands, a hasty running of the comb through her bobbed, pale yellow hair (that bob had been the first step in her Americanization).

Out to the kitchen. Bang! The coffee pot. Rattle! The spoon. Slam! The icebox door. Clash! The silver. Clatter! The china. Whiff-whoof! The swinging door. Three breakfasts to get at three different times, and the front room to be tidied up.

Mr. Mawson had his breakfast at 20 minutes to 8. He was a silent man, behind glasses with special lenses. His breakfast never varied. Half a grapefruit or a glass of orange juice. Two four-minute eggs. Two pieces of toast. A cup of coffee. Two lumps of sugar. Plenty of cream. Out of the house at five minutes to 8.

These husbands! Treated like little boys by their wives and daughters. In Finland it was different. The women were independent, yes, like the men. But the men were not bossed by the women. These women, they ran him. He hardly ever rebelled. Sometimes, but not often. Between Helmi and Mr. James G. Mawson there existed an unspoken sympathy.

Miss Zhoolie always dashed into the dining room just before 9 and gulped her orange juice. Mrs. Mawson would be heard from her bedroom. "Zhoolie, you eat something hot before you go out."

"I can't. I've got a 9 o'clock. I'm late now."

"I don't care how late you are . . . Then get up 10 minutes earlier. . . . Then don't stay out until 1. . . . If it's only a cup of hot coffee." But Miss Zhoolie had gone to her class at Barnard.

Mrs. Mawson's tray you brought to her bed at 9, after the others had gone. It was quite a hearty breakfast, considering that Mrs. Mawson wasn't strong. She could not rise for breakfast. This brought on one of her headaches. She always spoke of these afflictions in the possessive. One of my headaches. It was as though she cherished them.

It was not hard, once you had got the hang of it. A year ago she could never have done it, but Helmi learned quickly. Often, after they had told her to do a thing one way and she had learned it that way, they told her to do it another. But Helmi went ahead and did it in the original way, disregarding them. Mrs. Mawson said she didn't understand her.

"I must say I don't understand that girl. She's a closed book to me. You can't be friendly with her. I think she could find us all murdered and she wouldn't turn a hair—especially if it happened to be her Thursday."

The conversation was between Mrs. Mawson and Zhoolie. Zhoolie had been christened Julia, after a grandmamma. This, in her fourteenth year, she had Latinized to Julie, which she insisted on pronouncing as though it were spelled with a Zh and a double-o.

James G. Mawson spoke up unexpectedly, as he sometimes did when they thought he had not been listening. "Mighty good girl, just the same," he said.

HELMI would never make a modish-looking maid. Hers was a trim enough figure, in a broad-hipped, wide-shouldered sort of way. But you always felt that her uniform of black and white confined her against her will. This irked Mrs. Mawson and Zhoolie.

Still, if you have only one maid, what can you do? "Of course"—hastily—"the woman comes in to clean one day a week, and the washwoman. And her room!" Mrs. Mawson would then gather the subject into a neat bundle and tie it with the sinister generality that they were all alike.

Helmi's room was not the most exquisite of bowers. Perhaps, after scouring, dusting, mopping and wiping the Mawson apartment, there was a certain wholesome defiance shown in the slightly musty disorder of her own chamber. After all, your chef develops a personal indifference toward food; and walking is no treat for a mailcarrier.

Mrs. Mawson had a way of investigating this room on Helmi's Thursday out. This she excused on the ground of housewifeliness. Stuck in the sides of the mirror were colored picture post cards that caused Mrs. Mawson and Zhoolie merriment. These were, they thought, pictures a 6-year-old child would cherish. They depicted an old man, white-bearded, got up like a Santa Claus in a forest; a white-robed princess-looking female floating on a wave, with stars and sunbursts shooting all about her; a bearded man hammering at a forge. At the top of these pictures was printed the word "Kalevala."

"Some Finn fairy tale, don't you think?" Zhoolie said. "Poor thing. I'd like to take her up to school for a mental test. Outside her cooking and housework, I'll bet she'd make an average of a child of 8."

Certainly Mrs. Mawson and Zhoolie never knew that "The Kalevala" is the national epic of Finland; the "Paradise Lost," the Shakspeare of that northern country; and that its rhythms, well known to Helmi and studied by her in her girlhood, had been copied by many a versifier included in Zhoolie's English course.

"My goodness, why doesn't she open her windows! And see this bathroom. I am simply going to tell her that she must bathe oftener than—Oh, they're all alike!"

ALWAYS capable and energetic in a lunging kind of way, Helmi, on this particular Thursday in April, was a tornado. The kitchen linoleum must be made spotless. There was some American superstition about the faucets being left shining on Thursdays out. On the other hand, it was understood that lunch—if any—was to be most sketchy on Every Other Thursday; that Mrs. Mawson would go out for this meal, if possible. Zhoolie never lunched at home on weekdays. Helmi was free when her work was finished.

These things had come to be taken for granted. There was little conversation between the mistress and maid. Helmi practiced the verbal economy of her race. She spoke rarely, and then in monosyllables.

The iceman, the grocer, the janitor, in person or at the telephone, got short shrift from Helmi in any case. On Thursdays she was curt to the point of insult. Strangely enough—or perhaps not so strangely—this indifference to their advances gave Helmi a certain desirability in their eyes. When occasion presented itself they attempted to woo her in the patois of their kind.

"Say, you're a sketch. I bet the guy gets you'll have the right to wear a umpire's mask all right. Listen, baby, don't you never go nowheres? Don't you dance or nothing?"

Did she dance? For what else did she live! And to what other purpose was Every Other Thursday planned! Ask the girls and boys at the Finnish Progressive Society hall in One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street. Especially (alas!) the girls; the girls who swarmed there on a Thursday night with their half-dollars clutched tight in their palms. You went to these dances alone. If you were popular, you danced with the boys. Otherwise you danced with the girls. By 8:30 the big hall was comfortably filled. By 9:30 it was crowded. By 10:30 it was packed. The band boomed and pounded. Did she dance? Did she dance! These American boys were fools.

This Thursday night she would dance in her new blue dress to be purchased on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. Perhaps Vaino Djerf would dance with her. Helmi danced well. She had been the best dancer in her district in the old country. She had noted how Vaino watched her as she danced at the hall on Thursday nights.

But her clothes! It was not for such as Vaino to dance with her. Vaino, of all the Finnish chauffeurs, drove the finest car. It was big, like a locomotive. It had great lamps like barrels and glittering with silver. Often you saw this gorgeous vehicle outside Progressive Hall, where Vaino took his pleasures. But, when Helmi had her new clothes, it would be different. He would dance with her then. She would talk to him (not much—but just enough to let him know that her people in Finland were not common farmers; that she had gone to school; could figure; was a superb cook; owed nothing more on her passage money and could save, from now on).

There! Mr. Mawson had almost finished his breakfast. Miss Zhoolie's orange juice on ice. She attacked the living room with fury.

USUALLY she accomplished this work almost noiselessly. It was understood that Mrs. Mawson must not be disturbed. But this morning she need not be so careful, for Miss Zhoolie's voice, energetic in argument, and Mrs. Mawson's plaintive tones could be heard.

"Well, you can ask her. . . . Well, Pete's sake, we do enough for her. . . . But I didn't know until last night. Jane asked me if I'd have them tonight, instead of Saturday. They're going to Atlantic City on Friday, all of a sudden. And she's been wonderful to me, and you know what it means on account of Len. Let her go out tomorrow. It isn't as if she really did anything! Goes to her sister's in Brooklyn and drinks coffee"—

"Sh-sh-sh-sh!" Then Mrs. Mawson's voice. "Helmi, will you come here just a minute?"

Helmi pretended not to hear. Zhoolie called sharply, but with the edge of the sharpness illy concealed in a false sheath of velvet.

"Helmi, mother wants to speak to you."

Helmi came. Mrs. Mawson was in bed. Miss Zhoolie stood in the background. Mrs. Mawson pursed her mouth into the semblance of a smile.

"Helmi, Miss Zhoolie learned last night that the guests she was expecting for dinner on Saturday night—three, you know—Mr. Mawson and I were going out—there were to be four, with Miss Zhoolie"——

"Oh, mother, do come to the point."

"Miss Zhoolie wants to know—they can't come on Saturday—they're leaving town unexpectedly on Friday"—a sound from Zhoolie—"wants to know if you can't stay in today, so that they can come to dinner tonight—she's to let them know this morning—and take Friday out, instead. Will you do that?"

"No," said Helmi.

The monosyllable was so final that it had the effect of stunning her hearers slightly; they appeared not quite to understand. Mrs. Mawson actually repeated, painstakingly, as though Helmi had not grasped her meaning: "You could have tomorrow, Friday, instead of today. You probably have no plans. And it looks a little like rain today, don't you think?"

"No," said Helmi.

"You mean you won't? Or"—— Then, at the look on Zhoolie's face: "I'll tell you what, Helmi! You could take this Sunday, instead. Easter Sunday. It isn't your Sunday, but you could have it"——

"No," said Helmi.

Zhoolie remained in the background no longer. She stamped her foot. Color suffused her pretty face. "Well, I think you're a mean thing, Helmi! What have you got to do but go and sit at your sister's"——

"Zhoolie!"

"It's true. She hasn't."

Mrs. Mawson fixed her smile again, but not very successfully. "To tell you the truth, Helmi, one of the young men coming is someone Miss Zhoolie is very—she likes especially, do you see? And that's why she wanted them particularly tonight. This young man"——

The pool again. Helmi felt blissful, alive, newborn.

HELMI turned and looked at Zhoolie in her soft beige jersey frock, and her silk stockings and her slippers. Her young man? Well, let her get him, then. Helmi had the getting of a young man to see to. So they stood, staring at each other, these two girls; Zhoolie, 19, lovely, tearful, spoiled, furious. Helmi's thoughts, translated, would have read: "Get your young man if you want him. I have seen your young men, and a poor lot they are. I would not exchange my Vaino for all of them." Zhoolie's flashing eyes and trembling lips meant: "Great Hunky! To think that you can actually spoil my day for me."

Aloud she said again: "But, Helmi, it isn't as if you really had anything special to do. What do you do on your Thursday out that you couldn't do on Friday?"

What did she do on her Thursday out that she couldn't do on Friday! The Finnish girls uptown. Lempi Parta. Blue dress. The Finnish steam bath. Swim. Supper. The play at Finnish Hall. The dance. What did she do on Thursday that she couldn't do on Friday! She looked at Zhoolie, unmoved. She looked at Mrs. Mawson, her mistress, stubbornly.

"No," said Helmi. Turned and went back to her work.

"I don't care," cried Zhoolie. "She's a mean thing. What does she do? Nothing! She hasn't the intelligence to plan a holiday. She hasn't a thing to do."

Up the hall came Mr. James G. Mawson. He glanced in at the bedroom door. "What's the row?"

"Oh, nothing," said Mrs. Mawson wearily. "I can feel one of my headaches coming on."

Zhoolie turned a tear-stained face to her father. "I want Helmi to take tomorrow out, instead of today, and she won't."

"Don't blame her," said James G. Mawson.

"Oh, you're always like that! Abe Lincoln stuff. It's one of your poses. What difference does it make what day she takes out, anyway!"

"Not any difference to you, Julia; might make a lot to her. Well"——

The front door slammed behind him.

Helmi consumed little food as a rule, aside from unlimited cups of coffee and hunks of rye bread. In citing Helmi's virtues Mrs. Mawson was wont to include this. "She really doesn't eat a thing, I'll say that for her. I don't know what she lives on. Eating and bathing seem to be two habits that have never got much of a hold on Helmi."

Today Helmi ate even less than usual. By noon she had done the work of three women; had done all the work there was to be done. By 12:30 the smell of burning hair pervaded the flat. Mrs. Mawson sniffed the air with an expression of extreme distaste. She walked to the kitchen. Helmi, fully dressed, except for her coat and hat, was heating her curling iron at the gas stove.

"Not finished with your work already, are you, Helmi?"

"Yeh."

"The icebox?"

"Thursday iss no icebox. Saturday iss icebox."

"Oh—well." Mrs. Mawson drifted vaguely away.

Helmi made her final trip to her bedroom mirror. It was not yet 1 o'clock as she sat in a subway train marked Brooklyn. Seeing her, you would have known her for a foreign-born servant on her Thursday out. You never would have guessed that golden hours lay ahead of her; and that an exciting year lay behind her.

HELMI Seppala was being slowly digested in the maw of New York. Her passage money had been sent her by her brother, Abel Seppala. She had sailed from Abo. New York reached, she had been turned back at Ellis Island. Her country's quota was filled. Months passed. Again Abel sent money, against the protests of his wife, Anni. This time Helmi bribed the steward and sailed as one of the stewardesses. One hundred and fifty dollars that had cost. How sick she had been! The boat reached New York. But the stewardesses were not allowed to land. Frantic, she managed to get word to Abel.

The boat remained five days in New York. On the day it was due to return, Abel and Anni came on board, ostensibly to bid farewell to a friend. Concealed, they carried with them American-made clothes—a dress, a coat, shoes, a hat, powder, rouge, eyeglasses. These had been smuggled to Helmi. Feverishly she had shed her uniform, had put on the American clothes, the rouge, the powder, the eyeglasses. When the call had come for visitors to go ashore, Helmi, with Abel and Anni, had passed down the gangplank under the very eyes of the chief steward. Spurned as an alien by her stepmotherland, she had disguised herself as a native daughter and achieved a home that way.

At once she had gone to work. At once she had gone to school. Anni had not been very cordial to her. But she had helped the girl, nevertheless. She had got her a "place." The wage was small, for Helmi knew no English and was ignorant of American ways. But, from the first, part of the infinitesimal wage went to pay back the money loaned her by Abel and Anni. She had gone to school, three nights a week.

MOST of the women were servant girls, like herself—Swedish, Finnish, Czech, Latvian, Polish, Hungarian. She had had the look of the old country. A big-boned girl, with broad shoulders and capable hands. She had worn her hair pulled away from her forehead and temples, held with sidecombs, and wound at the back in a bun of neat, slippery braids. In her ears she wore gold hoops. Her hair was straw-colored, with no glint of gold in it; her eyes blue, but not a deep blue. She was not pretty, but there had been about her a certain freshness of coloring and expression. She listened earnestly. They read out of a child's reader. The lesson was, perhaps, a nature study.

"What is a frog, Miss Seppala?"

Miss Seppala would look startled, terrified, uncomprehending, all at once.

Much gabbling from those about her. Suddenly a great light envelops Miss Seppala.

"A frock iss an animal wiss legs iss jumping all the time and iss gréen." Triumph.

The lesson went on to say: "Dragon flies are called darning needles." Miss Speiser, the teacher, spoke upper West Side New York English. "Aw dawning needles hawmful?" she inquired. The result was that Helmi's English accent turned out to be a mixture of early Finnish and late Bronx—most mystifying to the hearer. Still it served.

And now her hair was bobbed, and her clothes were American, and she said, "I'll tell the vorld," and got $30 each week at the Mawsons'. She had paid back her passage money. She had learned to prepare American dishes, being a natural cook. She knew how to serve from the left, to keep the glasses filled, to mix a pretty good Bronx cocktail. She was, in short, an excellent middle-class American servant—spunky, independent, capable, unfriendly.

IT WAS a long trip to Finntown, in Brooklyn, where Abel and Anni lived. Helmi begrudged the time this afternoon, but she went out of a sense of duty.

Anni was busy at her housework. Anni was always busy at her housework. Anni was 27 and looked 35. Between the two no love was lost, but today their manner toward each other was indefinably changed. Helmi was no longer a debtor. Helmi was an independent and free woman, earning her twenty a week. Anni was a married woman, bound, tied, harried by a hundred household tasks. The two talked in their native tongue.

"Well, how goes it?"

"Always the same. You are lucky. You can run out and have a good time."

"She wanted me to stay home today and go tomorrow. I showed her and that daughter of hers."

They went into that in detail. Their pale blue eyes were triumphant.

"You are early today. Did you eat?"

"No. Coffee only."

"I'll fix you some kaalikaarelta."

Helmi ate with a good appetite. She had had no Finnish food for almost two weeks. It was good.

Well, she must be going. Going? Already? Where was she running? Oh, she had much to do!

A long ride back to New York. Grand Central. Change. The East Side subway. She was spewed up at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street; plunged into its cheerful hurly-burly. She made for the shop where Lempi Parta had bought her dress. The place was full of girls like herself, with bobbed hair and pale blue eyes. A woman came forward. "And what can I do for you, Miss?" Helmi made known her wants.

"Miss S! Oh, Miss S! The young lady wants you should show her something in a blue crepe."

You did not pay all at once, of course. You paid in part, and they took your name and address and the name of the people you worked for. But they let you take the whole outfit: blue dress, blue coat, lined with sand

THIS is the story of the young Nicaraguan millionaire, Romero Rosales, who thought that he could free himself of a wife in the United States as easily as he could in his native country. This illusion became apparent when he tired of his Nicaraguan bride while he was honeymooning with her in Washington, and shipped her back to the battle-scarred country of Central America, while he indulged in pleasant philanderings with the latest object of his fancy—a pretty 17-year-old American girl.

The elopement was just an elopement. They met by prearranged appointment, took a train for the West and went in quest of love and new adventures.

And included in those adventures was a jail—that was Romero's awakening to the realization that the American marital code is not that of Nicaragua. He heard, for the first time, of such things as white-slavery charges, and Mann act violations. And now he sits, dejectedly, in the jail of Denver, Colorado.

Romero Rosales is young and good-looking. He was born and raised in the little town of Managua, where much of the fighting during the recent revolutionary disturbances has been centered.

AND THEN THE ROMANTIC NICARAGUAN LANDED IN JAIL

What Happened to Romero Rosales After He Shipped His Bride Back Home and Eloped With a 17-Year-Old American.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

THIS is the story of the young Nicaraguan millionaire, Romero Rosales, who thought that he could free himself of a wife in the United States as easily as he could in his native country. This illusion became apparent when he tired of his Nicaraguan bride while he was honeymooning with her in Washington, and shipped her back to the battle-scarred country of Central America, while he indulged in pleasant philanderings with the latest object of his fancy—a pretty 17-year-old American girl.

The elopement was just an elopement. They met by prearranged appointment, took a train for the West and went in quest of love and new adventures.

And included in those adventures was a jail—that was Romero's awakening to the realization that the American marital code is not that of Nicaragua. He heard, for the first time, of such things as white-slavery charges, and Mann act violations. And now he sits, dejectedly, in the jail of Denver, Colorado.

Romero Rosales is young and good-looking. He was born and raised in the little town of Managua, where much of the fighting during the recent revolutionary disturbances has been centered.

HE IS wealthy, thanks to the diligence of an intelligent father of Spanish blood, who wrested from the hills of his adopted country an untold fortune in minerals. He—Romero—lived in luxury on the magnificent estate left him by his forbear, and life was a pleasant path, until the inroads of political intrigue threw the little nation into an uproar.

Romero determined to leave Nicaragua, which was none too pleasant, anyway, and find out something about America.

Romero, although still very young, had already been married once, and divorced, for in Nicaragua, when one tires of one's wife, there are no questions asked. A simple petition for freedom is filed with the courts, and in a short time the petition is answered in the affirmative. The procedure is merely a formality.

Therefore, according to the story he told afterwards, when he decided to come to America, he realized that honeymoon travel would be far pleasanter than that of bachelorhood.

The bride, too, was an heiress in her own name, and the wedding was a magnificent affair. The adventurous honeymoon led them to Washington, where they stayed at the Wardman Park Hotel, one of the favorite hostelries for diplomats and visitors from foreign countries.

Yet the honeymoon was not to be long-lived. Romero found his Nicaraguan bride an inconvenience, not to say an encumbrance. She seemed less beautiful in comparison with the fair-complexioned debutantes of the national capital. She could not speak English and she, therefore, was unmercifully bored at the dinner parties, cabarets and night club whirls which delighted his very soul.

THE bride's side of the story, too, is not to be disregarded. Finding herself in a strange country, cooped up all day in a hotel, while her husband went playing all over the countryside, she found the honeymoon far different from what she had expected. She complained, but without success. Finally, they agreed that she should return to Nicaragua, and that he would follow in the near future, to obtain the divorce—if he did not obtain it first in America.

So back to Nicaragua went the blighted bride, while Romero remained in Washington to extend his philanderings to more interesting fields.

It was at a night club that he met Miss Elizabeth Morton Hales, and it was on this night of first meeting that romance number three was launched. A moon, ly, and appealed to his mind as lighting the table of the roof garden, a soft orchestra that played insidious waltzes and a copious supply of fine old Embassy liquor proved too much for the resistance of either of them.

Romero, quite admittedly, fell in love on the one hand, and Miss Hales, with equal frankness, did the same on the other. From that day on the romance grew.

Miss Elizabeth Hales, Romero's American sweetheart.

MISS HALES was, in fact, all that Romero had dreamed of in his pictures of the American woman. She was uncommonly beautiful, in her delicate, slender way, with dark hair and eyes, and skin as white as a pond lily.

She was graceful and clever and capable. She had read extensively, and appealed to his mind as well as to his sense of romance, and as the days passed they saw each other with increasing frequency.

For Miss Hales, too, found in the young Nicaraguan a new fascination and attraction.

Finally Romero asked her to elope with him. He told her, quite honestly, that he had been married before—twice before—but explained that a divorce in Nicaragua is a simple matter. This statement, unfortunately, was mistaken by Miss Hales to be an explanation of how he obtained his two divorces, rather than an assurance that a divorce would be an easy thing to procure, and believing that he was free, she accepted his proposal.

They met one evening just after midnight, suitcases packed and tickets bought. Thus started the great adventure.

Next morning, when Mrs. William M. Pratt, the girl's mother, found her missing from her room and all of her belongings gone, she was prostrated. Police were notified, and when detectives questioned her she told them of the friendship between her daughter and the young Nicaraguan.

Investigation was immediately made at the Wardman Park Hotel, and when it was found that Romero was also missing, the searchers put two and two together and got the right answer.

Every city in the country was notified to be on the lookout for the two elopers, but the day passed without word. The second day, however, Mrs. Pratt received the following telegram:

"Dear Mother: We left New York last night and arrived here today. Was very surprised. Love.

YOUR DAUGHTER."

There was no explanation of the surprise which she mentioned. The wire, however, gave police a definite clew upon which to work, and they guessed rightly that the two were bound for some Western point, and notified all cities beyond Chicago.

MEANWHILE, the runaways were encountering difficulties. On the night of their elopement they had gone to New York and, after a few hours of sightseeing, had taken the train for Chicago, where they had sent the telegram home. It was their intention to visit the Yellowstone on their honeymoon elopement, but Romero first wanted to spend a few days in Denver, so, on their way, they had stopped there.

But in the meantime cash was running low. Funds in hand had reached the vanishing point, Romero had no more cash in the United States, and, with the unsettled conditions in Nicaragua, banks and hotels were not willing to extend him credit on a personal check.

It became necessary for them to take a single room in a cheap boarding house, and then, to make matters worse, Romero was suddenly taken ill.

FATE seemed to be frowning, unquestionably, on Miss Hales' romance, but she was not one to be deterred by adversities. Having once made up her mind that she loved the black-haired young man from the tropics, she stuck to him through thick and thin.

Never having had to work for a living, Miss Hales found it difficult to get a job without any previous experience. Finally, however, she found a position, with a small salary, as waitress in a small restaurant, and when police finally located the pair she was still supporting the man of her heart, while he lay in the stuffy little room in the boarding house.

Romero they arrested and charged with violation of the Mann act. He seemed quite unconscious of having committed any wrong, explained that he intended to divorce his Nicaraguan bride immediately and marry the American girl with whom he had run away, and he was unable entirely to understand it, when he was told that such an arrangement would not satisfy the American laws. Miss Hales was held as a material witness, although she declared she would not testify against him. The complaints were made by Mrs. Pratt, from Washington.

And so, in the musty jail of Denver, halts the romance of the young man from Nicaragua, who tried to mix his romance with statutes.

Every Other Thursday

crepe and trimmed with embroidery and edged with a collar of fur; blue silk hat; biege silk stockings, very sheer; strapped slippers.

It was now midafternoon. She walked up One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, enjoying the sights and sounds.

WHEN she approached the Finnish Progressive Society building on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, there was the usual line of surprisingly important-looking cars outside. That portion of New York's Finnish chauffeurdom that had Thursday afternoon to itself was inside.

Helmi passed through the groups in the hallway. A flood of Finnish rose to her ears. In the restaurant the tables were half-filled. She ordered a cup of coffee and a plate of Finnish bread—nakki leipa—with its pungent caraway seed. This she ate and drank quickly. The real joy of the day lay still ahead of her.

All her life Helmi had had her steam bath two or three times a week. On the farm in Finland the bathhouse had been built before the farmhouse itself. You used the bathhouse not only for purposes of cleanliness, but for healing. In its shelves and on its platforms you lay for hours.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays the Finnish Society's steam baths were used only by women. Helmi opened her boxes and hung her finery away, carefully, lovingly. The locker room was full of girls. They crowded round her—Lempi Parta, Hilja Karbin, Saara Johnson, Matti Eskolin, Aili Juhola.

"Oh, Helmi! How beautiful! How much did you pay? The boys will dance with you tonight, all right!"

She disrobed swiftly. Now she went into the steam room. The hot breath of the place met her. She lifted her face to it, enchanted.

She reclined upon the bunk, gratefully. Every nerve, every fiber, every muscle relaxed in this moist heat. The mist enveloped her. Her eyes closed. So she lay for 15 minutes, 20, a half-hour. Out, then, with Lempi and the others, and into the big pool, stopping first under a shower.

Back into the steam room. Another half-hour. The shower again. The pool again. Helmi felt blissful, alive, new-born. The Mawson kitchen did not exist. Zhoolie Mawson was a bad dream. Mrs. Mawson did not matter—never had mattered. Vaino. Vaino only.

SHE was so long in donning the beautiful finery that Lempi and the rest became impatient. But at last it was finished.

Helmi could never be pretty, but she approached it as nearly now as she ever would. She would not curl her hair now. That she would do after supper. She was ravenously hungry.

They would not eat at the building restaurant. They would go to Mokki's. A real Finnish meal. And they ate! Mrs. Mawson would have opened her eyes. They ate first marja soppa, which is an incredible soup of cranberries and cornstarch and sugar. They had mammal and cream. They had salt herrings with potatoes. They drank great cups of coffee.

It was nearly 7. Helmi must still curl her hair. This you did in the women's room at the Finnish Society's building. She scanned the line of motors at the curb for the great car—no, it was not there. That was as it should be. The hair-curling business took a half-hour.

Helmi and Lempi were going to the play that was given in the theater two flights up. It was presented by members of the Finnish Society's theatrical group. Helmi and Lempi found it fascinating.

Ten o'clock. They deserted Thalia for Terpsichore. The dance hall was crowded. Rows of young men, stolid of face, slim, appraising, stood near the door and at the end of the room, watching the dancers. Helmi's eyes found him. How beautiful he was in his blue suit and shiny tan shoes. His hair shone like his shoes. His cold blue eyes met hers. Her expression did not change. His expression did not change.

Helmi and Lempi sought chairs against the wall. They conversed in low tones. Helmi did not look up. Five minutes. The waltz was over. What would he do? The band struck up again. Vaino stood there a moment. All about were stolid young men in search of their equally stolid partners. Helmi's heart sank. She looked away. He came toward her. She looked away. He stood before her. He looked at her. She rose. His hand clasped her waist. They danced. One, two, three, and a one, two, three, and turn and turn and turn, and turn. She danced very well. His expression did not change. Her expression did not change. She was perfectly, blissfully happy.

At 12 it was over. At 12:15 she was seated in the great car beside Vaino. She was driven home. She was properly kissed. She would see him Thursday. Not Thursday, but THURSDAY. He understood. Every Other Thursday.

THE day was over. She let herself into the Mawson apartment almost (but not quite) noiselessly. Mrs. Mawson heard her. Zhoolie, not so unhappy as she had been 16 hours earlier, but still resentful, heard her. Helmi entered her own room, quickly shut the window Mrs. Mawson had opened, took off the blue dress, kicked off the tight slippers, peeled the silk stockings (a hole in each toe), flung her underwear to the winds, dived into the cotton nightgown and tumbled into her lumpy bed with a weary, satisfied, rapturous grunt.

Zhoolie thought bitterly: "Stupid lump! Sat at her sister's all day, swigging coffee. It isn't as if she had had anything to do, really. She didn't do a thing. Not a thing! And I've given her I don't know how many pairs of my old silk stockings."

Mrs. Mawson thought: "They're all alike."

Mr. James G. Mawson slept.

MOROCCAN WOMEN GAINING FREEDOM AFTER CENTURIES OF VIRTUAL SLAVERY

Formerly Regarded as Her Husband's Abject Inferior, New French Restrictions Are Improving Her Status in Life. The Immense Dowries and Prolonged Wedding Ceremonies of Former Years Are Now No Longer Countenanced by Law.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

HOW would you like it, you American women, if husband came home one night with another wife without so much as telling you in advance a single word about the grand occasion?

How would you like it if the law provided that he could divorce you simply by saying "I disown you" three times?

How would you like it if you were kept secluded in a harem, apart from the gaze of everyone, for days unending?

How would you like it if you were sick and he denied you the services of a doctor because the only doctor within fifty miles was a man and he resented the intrusion of another male into his household?

You wouldn't like it, would you?

Neither do the women of Morocco and they have suffered long centuries under just such conditions.

Fortunately, the end is soon in sight. Though the spell of the harem still hangs heavy over them, the prevailing state of affairs, according to present indications, is not likely to last much longer. Already complaints have been registered by the less docile of Morocco's fair sex and increasing contacts with the French are breaking down the reserve that formerly bound the Moroccan woman to her husband in practical servitude.

A smiling wife.
—Gilliams Service

Though they were perhaps not themselves aware of it, the victory of the French native troops headed by Abd-el-Krim in the recent rebellion which, though now subdued, appeared at one time to present the aspects of a religious war, marked the beginning of the end of the unchallenged rule of husbands in the thousands of Moroccan households in which century-old ideas regarding women still prevail in an age that prides itself on the progress of its civilization.

ALREADY the French have undertaken a revision of age-old marriage customs of the Moroccans, with some view toward making the bride less of a martyr to the choice of her future husband's mother and sisters, who, according to the old regime, inevitably chose his bride for him. They have not, as yet, done away with this arbitrary system of choosing a mate for the Moroccan male, but they have, in legislation passed to counteract some of the antiquated notions still prevailing as the time for the marriage ceremony approaches, taken a few steps which indicate that other legislation may be forthcoming.

Strange as it may seem to the American man and woman who choose each other on a totally different basis and not infrequently desiring to avoid as much ceremony as possible, until recently the custom of giving as many "silk mattresses as the bride's father could afford was respected as ardently as it was in the days of the Prophet Allah himself.

STRANGE tales are told about this custom. There are anecdotes which tell how merchants ostensibly rich on one occasion appeared as paupers on the morrow because the silk mattress dowry demanded by the family of the bride's intended took pretty nearly all their worldly possessions. Formerly there was much competition among families to obtain these strange presents. The bride most to be desired, naturally, was the bride who could bring so many silk mattresses that, when piled on top of each other, they would reach to the second balcony of the husband's house.

All this is now changed. The French law forbids the presentation of mattresses when they are given in such numbers that, when piled on top of each other, they measure more than a meter in height. No longer is the husband as much the victim of his mother's and sisters' desire for new couches. The mercenary motive is, to a certain degree at least, eliminated in the new law enforced by the French magistrates. The native engaaf, or professional bridesmaid is, in fact, adjured by French law to see that this provision is not violated. In itself it is a small thing.

But the law also provides for legislation by the protectorate for the bride's comfort during the wedding ceremonies. Formerly these were prolonged over a period of ten days, three days in her own house and seven in the home of her husband, not including the long and frequently exhausting procession in which she was obliged to participate before entering the ceremonies themselves. Realizing this was too great a strain to place upon the feminine newly-wed, the French law is designed to combine sanity with moderation.

As yet no attempt has been made to interfere with the long-established custom of polygamy. The Moorish male still has several advantages over and above his espoused wife. If, in the first place, the choice of his mother and sisters fails to please him, he may, nevertheless, marry her and divorce her by a simple process later.

THERE is practically no limit to the number of wives he may have except the one necessity which levels us all, the lack of money. Only the very rich, naturally, can support a multitude of wives.

Four hundred wives! That indeed is said to be the number kept by the present Sultan, Mulai Youssef. In one sense this vast number is undoubtedly a handicap. Most of them were given to him by subjects seeking his favor. The handicap lies in the fact that, unlike presents, he cannot throw them aside. Mere human pity requires that he keep them on, though his bank roll may decline in the attempt. This question of practical necessity, observers say, makes itself felt even in the grounds of his estate. Instead of the stately peacocks that one expects to see in an Eastern potentate's garden, he has little but fruit and vegetable patches.

A whole new attitude is, in fact, developing against the practice of polygamy as respects the woman's point of view. Frequently the retort was, when the subject was mentioned, that Moroccan women were used to the practices of the multiple wife system. Now it is pointed out, quite in a contrary fashion, that each wife, after all, has to face the situation individually.

Beauties in a Moroccan harem.
—Gilliams Service

Divorce, too, favors the masculine portion of the population. If the husband desires to rid himself of any one particular wife, all he need say in the presence of a recognized official is, "I divorce you," thrice. With the pronouncement of the clause thrice, he rids himself of an entangling alliance which may have grown wearisome to him. The wife, on the other hand, has no such power of initiating a divorce suit. According to the Moslem law she is married to her spouse indefinitely.

Changes, however, are making themselves felt in the promulgation of divorce as well as marriage. If the Moorish husband can divorce his wife thus easily, he cannot do so, now that the new French laws are in effect, without providing for her an allowance on which she can support herself for the three months and three days which must elapse before she is again eligible for marriage.

An anecdote is sometimes told among the French regarding the Moslem who learned, during the repetition of the three clauses which would have divorced him, that he would have to maintain his wife for three months and three days afterward. On learning that such was the case, he promptly halted while he was pronouncing the third "I divor—!" The expense, it is said, seemed to produce a sudden compatibility of temperament that may indeed characterize the life of Moorish women in the future.

In divorce today, a Moroccan must provide for his children.

—not Blonde?... not Brunette?

—then you are just the type to use

NUDE

By Madame Jeannette de Cordet, Beauty Specialist

YOU may have dark hair with light eyes, or light hair with dark eyes—but your skin has the warm lure of ivory and rose. You are, perhaps, more typically American than any other type—an interesting combination of all types—a delightful blending of all blondes and all brunettes.

the New Pompeian Shade of Powder

For you, then, we have created this new shade of powder. It, too, is a delightful blend of the more extreme shades, each one softened, each one yielding more beauty by its subtle mixture with the other. It has the same alluring attribute as your chiffon-light hose in the "nude" shade, you know. It delicately enhances the natural smooth beauty of your skin. Indeed, it may well be a gossamer-thin bit of chiffon laid smoothly over brow and cheek to glorify the beauty of one's own complexion and natural coloring.

The new Nude shade of Pompeian Beauty Powder is made expressly for the typical American girl. Unless you have the dazzlingly white skin that is so rare, or the dark olive skin of the true Spanish type, you will surely claim this perfect shade for your most effective use—to make the utmost of your natural charms.

With it can be worn the Medium or Oriental tone of Pompeian Bloom. Some women can successfully use the Orange tint as well. The Nude shade of powder goes well with any shade of rouge, for it is the same delightfully natural color as the skin.

Pompeian Beauty Powder and Pompeian Bloom, a rouge of exceptional quality, come in perfect shades and tones for the various types of skin. Both are absolutely pure, and have the virtue of adhering well to the skin. Pompeian Bloom—so smooth and easy-to-spread, so clear and true of coloring—is now presented in the daintiest of new containers. Ask for the "purse-size." Powder and Bloom each 60c.

FRANKLY RED-HAIRED

Her hair is definitely, undeniably red, and her skin is most unusually delicate and fine. Her eyes are green or blue, and if she hasn't dark lashes and brows naturally, she should make them so. For her—Naturelle shade of Pompeian Powder and Oriental tone of Pompeian Bloom.

THE CREOLE BEAUTY

Her smooth skin is firm like creamy velvet. Her hair is dark with just a hint of copper. Her eyes, like dark pools with a star reflected in their depths. Her lips, the color of ripe strawberries. For her—the Nude shade of Pompeian Beauty Powder and Medium tone of Bloom.

THE WATER LILY BLONDE

Her hair is like spun gold, and very silky. Her eyes are soft grey blue. Her skin is white—with a pale pink tint. Her lips are often richly colored. She should mix two-thirds White and one-third Flesh-Pink Pompeian Beauty Powder, and use the Light tone of Pompeian Bloom.

THE SOPHISTICATION OF MIXING SHADES OF POWDER

THE five shades of Pompeian Beauty Powder were designed to match the five typical skin-tones of American women. But there are many women in this country who find they are quite "individual" in skin-coloring.

One can always arrive at the exact shade of powder for one's skin by mixing two or more shades of Pompeian Beauty Powder. The five primary shades are—Nude, Naturelle, Rachel, Flesh-Pink, and White.

To complement one's powder, and to blend with one's coloring there are five tones of Pompeian Bloom to choose from—Orange, Oriental, Light, Medium and Dark.

Easier Ways To Lose Fat

Some can reduce by starvation or abnormal exercise, but the way is long and hard. Not one in ten of the over-fat has the patience to continue. And even then the best efforts may fail unless the inner cause is corrected.

Over twenty years ago scientific men discovered a great cause of excess fat. They found a substance which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. They proved that an extra supply of that substance could check the formation of fat.

That substance was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Now you can see in almost every circle how much they have done for beauty, health and vitality. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you. Slenderness prevails today, fat is the exception.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. They combat the cause.

Try the help which has done so much for so many. You owe that to yourself. You cannot afford to stay over-fat when reduction is so easy and so pleasant. Watch the results, then tell your friends as people have for 20 years been doing. All your life you will be glad that you know Marmola. Go order now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

putting value

into boys' and girls' shoes for you!

WHAT governs the value of a pair of shoes? Not the price. But the amount of comfort, satisfaction and wear you get out of them for the money you put into them.

It depends on the manufacturer principally. There is so much in shoemaking that can save you money—or waste it. Extravagant overhead, inefficient manufacturing methods, uneconomical practices in buying raw materials . . . all these can add to the cost of shoes without creating value.

Buy shoes that give you the highest intrinsic (dollar-for-dollar) value . . . especially in children's shoes—for that's where the family dollars must stretch the farthest.

Endicott-Johnson have a nation-wide reputation for making shoes under one of the soundest, most unusual and most efficient manufacturing policies in the world. An "Industrial Democracy of Tanners and Shoemakers," is Endicott-Johnson. Every worker shares in the rewards of the business. Consequently each shares in the responsibility of making good shoes at lowest possible cost. . . . Shoes that will win your confidence and hold it—just as they have won and held the confidence of millions of other parents who have footwear to buy for healthy boys and girls.

Try a pair of Endicott-Johnson shoes. Measure their value. Leading stores in most every community sell them. If you can't find one nearby, write to Endicott-Johnson, St. Louis, Mo.—Largest manufacturers of boys' and girls' shoes in the world.

"My Dear, I Know I Shouldn't Eat This, But . . "

YOU know there will later be a fuzzy feeling in your head and a very uncomfortable sensation in your stomach. You don't want the pimple that will be encouraged to make its appearance. But you can't resist creamed oyster patties—or Russian dressing on your salad—or chocolate marshmallow sundae with whipped cream.

You don't need to.

Doctors say a full varied diet is better for you. That it's actually important for you to eat things you enjoy.

"But," they add, "you must keep yourself regularized." It's easy enough to get nourishment out of modern food. The hard thing to do today is to get rid of the waste before it can hurt you.

Cathartics hurt you and increase the trouble. People are learning this. Physicians are prescribing, and hundreds of thousands of men and women are eating a simple food which keeps the whole system clean and active—Fleischmann's Yeast.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food as fresh as green garden vegetables. In your intestines this simple fresh food decreases the harmful bacteria that are formed by modern rich diet. The contents of the intestines are softened, the intestinal muscles strengthened. Elimination gradually becomes easier, regular, more complete—as nature intended.

Order 2 or 3 day's supply of Fleischmann's Yeast at a time from your grocer. Eat one cake before each meal or between meals. Eat it plain. Drink it in cold or hot water (not scalding). Or take it in any other way you may prefer. Send for our latest booklet on Yeast in the diet. Dept. N-944, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the waters from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want to

Fayro reduces weight generally but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The regular price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. With the coupon you get 3 full sized packages and an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores," for $2.50 plus the necessary postage. Send no money. Pay the postman. Your money refunded instantly if you want it.

If each healthful bath of Fayro does not reduce your weight from 2 to 4 pounds, we will refund your money without a question. You risk nothing. Clip the coupon and mail it today.

You will want to be among the first to wear this lovely fabric!

'Discontent was in the mind of the fabric maker. A lovelier material than had yet been created was his ideal. A fabric that would not cling or curl, sag or pull at the seams. Colors that would not lose their brilliance after a tubbing or two. "Body" that would adapt itself to the slim modes of the moment, a textile that would drape flatteringly over itthe figures. A texture agreeable to the touch. He knew that lovely stuffs could be bought if women cared little what they spent, but the smartest people no longer wish to invest great sums in any one frock or ensemble! He well knew that variety, freshness, beauty, are eagerly sought. It became his dream to make them possible of attainment. And—with the production of Light o' day—he has achieved his ideal!

It's come! The Perfect Fabric! New in spinning, new in weaving, new in luster, new in the variety of its uses!

Its name is Light o' day—because it seems spun from sunbeams. In reality—a super-thread was evolved—a thread which endows Light o' day with a marvelous, permanent shimmer.

These fine, strong, even threads have been loomed in the most costly manner. Nothing has been skimped! Result—Light o' day—a fabric that you'll love to touch, to see, to sew upon, to wear!

It does not get stringy or "work up". It is non-clinging, non-curling. Its peculiar luster gives colors a rich "bloom"—and these colors, both plain and printed, are tubfast!

You have only to see Light o' day to be entranced with its possibilities. Its beauty will make you think in terms of dollars-per-yard, but—happily! you need only spend cents-per-yard! Tell your favorite store that Light o' day is made by Fred Butterfield & Co., Inc., 361 Broadway, N.Y.C., makers of Lingette and Normandy Voile.

Camel

The cigarette that earned first place by its goodness

The greatest endorsement ever given to a cigarette is revealed by the fact that Government figures show that more Camels are being smoked today than ever before. An endorsement by the many—not the few.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

LADY LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN

Loveliest member of English Aristocracy and one of the wealthiest heiresses of England sets the feminine world an exquisite example

BRIGHT CHESTNUT HAIR that warms to red-gold in the light; eyes as blue as the delphinium, her favorite flower; a complexion smooth and delicate as an English hedge rose unfolding in the coolness of dawn! This is Lady Louis Mountbatten, loveliest woman in London Society.

The thrilling year that followed her brilliant debut reached its climax in her marriage to a cousin of the King of England and great-grandson of Queen Victoria—the second son of the first Marquess of Milford Haven.

The world remembers still her brilliant wedding at St. Margaret's, Westminster, where the altar was massed with delphinium, blue as the bride's own eyes. With four princesses as bridesmaids, attended by royalty from every country of Europe, it rivalled in splendor that of the Royal Princess, celebrated but a few months before.

Lady Louis Mountbatten occupies with consummate grace the high position she holds as a member of the British Royal family. She knows that the eyes of the world are upon her, shining with pride as long as she is perfection itself, but quick to criticize should any flaw appear in the elegance of her attire, in the graciousness of her bearing, in her fair beauty.

Lady Louis never fails to set the feminine world an exquisite example. Beautiful to an unusual degree, she also possesses the wisdom that teaches her how to guard her loveliness. She chooses Two Creams, Pond's, which she uses daily; one to cleanse her skin thoroughly, to keep it firm, supple, velvety; the other to add a delicate bloom, a soft even finish like the petals of a lovely flower. Both stand always on her dressing table—ready for her daily use! This is how you should use them:

Before retiring, and several times each day, particularly after you've been out-of-doors, cleanse your skin deeply with Pond's Cold Cream. Pat it on generously, letting it stay several moments. Now with soft tissues remove all the cream—and the dirt and dust brought to the surface from the depths of your pores. Repeat the process. If your skin is dry, pat more cream on and leave it overnight.

After the daytime cleansings, smooth over your refreshed skin ever so little of Pond's Vanishing Cream. Its soft protection against wind and dust and chapping cold makes it delightful to use just before going out. But what pleases you most of all is the even, exquisite tone it lends your skin. Flick on your powder and see how evenly it lies, how natural is the glow it gives your skin.

Use these Two Creams daily and, like Lady Louis Mountbatten, keep your skin firm, supple, velvety. Read the offer below.

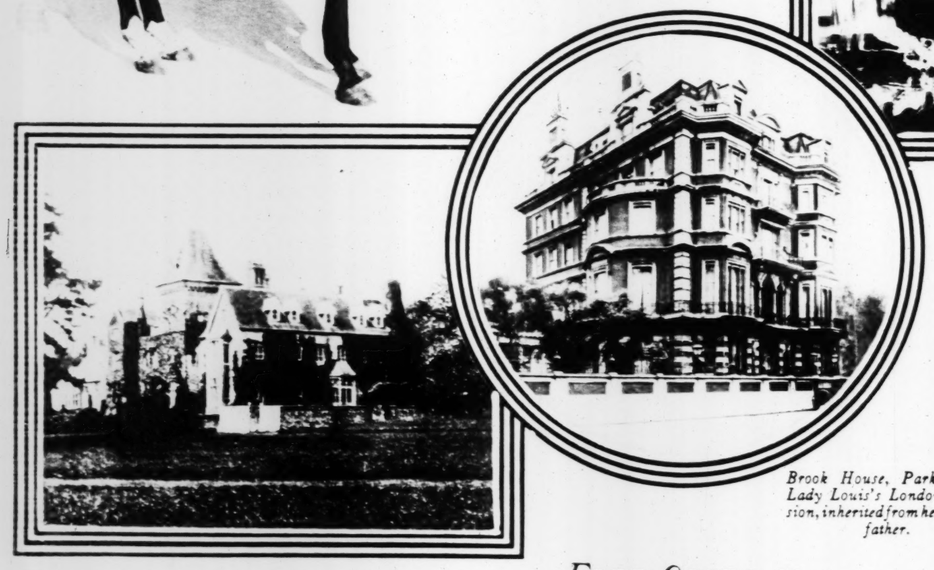
On her spirited Arabian Mount, Messaoud, the ease and skill of Lady Louis's horsemanship are revealed. Her preference for the informal riding costume has increased its popularity in the smart world.

LADY LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN

Her husband is cousin to His Majesty, the King of England. Before her marriage she was Miss Edwina Ashley, granddaughter of the late Right Honorable Sir Ernest Cassel, the well-known British financier, from whom came the vast fortune which made her one of the wealthiest heiresses in England.

Her marriage to a great-grandson of Queen Victoria—the second son of the first Marquess of Milford Haven—gave her a position in English life second only to that of the immediate members of the Royal family.

LEFT For her boudoir, Lady Louis Mountbatten has chosen an exquisite dressing table of Sheraton design—fitted with a mirror in black leather frame. To the sparkle of crystal-and-gold perfume bottles, and the warm tones of cloudy amber in hand mirror and brushes, she adds a gay note with a pair of jade green glass jars. These jars filled with her Two chosen Creams—both made by Pond's—stand always on her dressing table, ready for frequent use. For Lady Louis knows the wisdom of daily care with thoughtfully chosen creams, to guard her loveliness, to keep her skin fresh and firm as a dew-drenched rose.



Brook House, Park Lane, Lady Louis's London Mansion, inherited from her grandfather.

ADSDEAN, LADY LOUIS'S COUNTRY ESTATE

At Chichester, Sussex, it lies at the foot of the South Downs, the pleasant rolling country of southern England that has been so frequently used as background by the modern English novelists. The gray stone, ivy-covered manor house with its high ceilinged rooms and rambling wings, is the center of the gay life of the great country estates about Chichester.

During the London season, Lady Louis occupies Brook House, the imposing town house on Park Lane that came to her from her grandfather. The high ceilings and huge rooms afford a dignified and formal background against which the vivacity and charm of Lady Louis's personality stand out strongly.
